INTRODUCTION

Практикум з англійської мови призначений для студентів немовних спеціальностей, вчителів англійської мови загальноосвітніх шкіл і для всіх, хто цікавиться англійською мовою. Практикум покликаний допомогти школярам та студентам у розвитку та закріпленні навичок, набутих у процесі навчання іншомовному спілкуванню, засвоєння мовного матеріалу (граматичного, лексичного, фонетичного, орфографічного).

Основною метою видання є активізація вивчення англійської мови за допомогою цікавого текстового матеріалу, автентичних та різноманітних завдань, що спонукають студентів і учнів використовувати мову як інструмент для вирішення тих чи тих проблем комунікативного характеру, а також граматичного матеріалу, психологічних тестів. Багатий лексико-граматичний матеріал допоможе вчителю підвищити мотивацію учнів під час вивчення іноземної мови.

Матеріали складаються з тематичних блоків, кожен з яких має чітку, методично виправдану структуру. Основна частина відкривається ввідним текстом, спрямованим на актуалізацію попередньо отриманих знань. Наступні частини охоплюють усі розділи мовленнєвої діяльності й дозволяють учителю побудувати урок таким чином, щоб розвивати усі чотири аспекти іншомовної мовленнєвої комунікації – читання, аудіювання, письмо і говоріння. Застосовуючи запропонований багаторівневий підхід в оцінці діяльності учня, учитель має змогу оцінити його роботу відповідно до набутого рівня знань.

Цінною є також наявність тестових робіт після кожного тематичного блоку, в яких вдало поєднуються завдання на перевірку як лексичних і граматичних, так і комунікативних (усних і письмових) умінь учнів. Неординарні ситуації спілкування, цікавий матеріал та ігрове наповнення роблять надані матеріали ефективними мотиваційними чинниками під час вивчення іноземної мови.

Зважаючи на те, що кожен розділ теми є самостійним і самодостатнім, не пов'язаним з іншими, учитель може використовувати їх у будь-якому порядку.

Сподіваємось, що книга стане добрим помічником викладачеві, стимулюватиме розвиток пізнавальних інтересів учнів і студентів та сприятиме підвищенню мотивації до вивчення англійської мови.

CHAPTER I

PRACTICALS

Practice 1

Grammar: The Noun

Number of Nouns. Possessive Case of Nouns

Іменник – частина мови, яка означає предмет. Відповідає на питання „хто? що?”. Наприклад:

Who is this? Хто це?	a man
Who is this?	a girl
Who is this?	a sportsman
What is this? Що це?	a telephone
What is this?	rain
What is this?	a strawberry
What is this?	music
What is this??	a wedding

1. Morphological Characteristic of Nouns

Англійські іменники можуть бути Простими (які не мають у своєму складі ні префіксів, ні суфіксів, ні закінчень), Складними (які мають у своєму складі префікси, суфікси та закінчення) і Складеними (які складені за допомогою декількох основ):

Simple Nouns	Derivative Nouns	Compound Nouns an arm	a writer	school+girl= a schoolgirl
a pencil	a sailor	pen+knife= a penknife
snow	happiness	rain+bow=rainbow
a ball	a building	rail+way+man= a railwayman
a girl	strength	merry+go+round=a merry-go-round a knife	childhood	forget+me+not= a forget-me-not sun	kingdom	fountain+pen= a fountain-pen
a fountain	friendship	black+board= a blackboard life	a pianist	air+plain= an airplane
a school	a driver	post+man= a postman

2. Countable and Uncountable Nouns

Злічувані іменники вживаються в однині (the Singular) та множині (the Plural): a chair стілець – chairs стілці; a girl дівчинка – girls дівчата etc.

Незлічувані іменники форми множини не мають.

Коли незлічуваний іменник в реченні виступає підметом, то дієслово-присудок має бути в однині:

Gold costs a lot. Золото дорого коштує.

Her hair is beautiful. В неї чудове волосся.

Речовинні незлічувані іменники вживаються з займенниками some (у стверджувальних реченнях) і any (у питальних та заперечних реченнях), коли мова йде про незначну кількість речовини:

I have bought some butter. Я купив масло.

Bring me some water. Принесіть мені води.

We have not any sugar. У нас немає цукру.

Have you bought any cheese. Ви купили сир?

Іменники поділяються на злічувані та незлічувані:

Countable Nouns означають предмети, які можна порахувати	Uncountable Nouns це назви речовин і багатьох абстрактних понять, які не можна перерахувати a chair a girl a question an engineer a table a man a textbook a doctor an apple etc.	water tea love music information news advice knowledge education etc.

Речовинні незлічувані іменники, які означають різні сорти та види речовин, стають злічуваними:

It is a good wine. Це хороше (добре) вино.

He prefers Italian wines. Йому подобаються італійські вина.

Незлічувані іменники можуть бути злічуваними у словосполученнях:

Uncountable Nouns	Countable Nouns
абстрактні поняття
newsновина; informationповідомлення; gossipплітка; adviceпорада;	a piece of newsновина; two items of informationдва повідомлення; a bit of gossipплітка; a few pieces of adviceкілька порад;
речовинні іменники
breadхліб; milkмолоко; waterвода	a loaf of breadбуханка хліба; a bottle of milkпляшка молока; some bottles of waterдекілька пляшок води

Прикметник much вживається з незлічуваними іменниками: much money багато грошей, much food багато їжі, much time багато часу, much coffee багато кофе, а прикметник many - зі злічуваними: many books багато книжок, many shops багато крамниць, many people багато людей, many questions багато питань.

Словосполучення a lot of вживається з незлічуваними іменниками: a lot of food багато їжі, a lot of water багато води або іменниками у множині: a lot of girls багато дівчат, a lot of pencils багато олівців, a lot of pictures багато малюнків.

Незлічувані іменники в деяких випадках можуть бути і злічуваними:

Uncountable Nouns	Countable Nouns
ice лід	an ice морозиво
cooper (Cu) мідь	a copper копійка
glass скло	a glass склянка; окуляри
iron (Fe) залізо	an iron праска tin (Sn) олово	a tin консервна банка paper папір	a paper контрольна робота
wood дерево; деревина	a wood ліс; гай the woods дерев'яні музичні інструменти cloth тканина	a cloth скатертина

В англійській мові, як і в українській, є іменники, що вживаються тільки в однині або тільки в множині.

Так, назви речовин, а також багато іменників, що виражають абстрактні поняття, вживаються тільки в однині:

chalk крейда, silver срібло, peace мир, courage відвага.

Деякі іменники в англійській мові вживаються тільки в однині, а відповідні їм іменники в українській мові мають форми однини й множини або навіть тільки множини: advice порада, поради; knowledge знання; information інформація, відомості; news новина, новини; progress успіх, успіхи; money гроші; luggage, baggage (амер.) багаж.

The news is good. Це добра новина.

This is my luggage. Це мій багаж.

До іменників, які в англійській мові вживаються лише у множині, належать, як і в українській мові, назви предметів, що складаються з двох рівних або подібних частин: spectacles (glasses) окуляри, trousers штани; scissors ножиці, stairs сходи, jeans джинси.

Порівняємо також іменники, що вживаються у множині в англійській мові, але в однині в українській:

the Plural	the Singular clothes	одяг
contents	зміст
blinds	жалюзі
wages	зарплата
(the) police	поліція
cattle	худоба
politics	політика
gymnastics	гімнастика
athletics	атлетика

Зверніть увагу на такі іменники: blinds жалюзі; goods товар, товари; news новина, новини;

Blinds (іменник) жалюзі – якщо забрати закінчення -s – blind (прикметник) сліпий. Pull down the blinds. (іменник) Опустіть жалюзі. He was blind. (прикметник) Він був сліпий.

Goods (іменник) товар, товари good (прикметник) добрий, хороший.

They concluded an agreement on the delivery of new goods. (іменник) Вони уклали угоду на поставку нових товарів.

This is the very good (прикметник) book. Це дуже хороша книжка.

News (іменник) новина, новини; new (прикметник) новий. No news (іменник) is good news. (іменник) Немає новин – хороша новина. Helen bought the new (прикметник) dress. Олена купила нову сукню.

3. Number of the Noun

Утворення множини

Більшість іменників утворюють множину додаванням до форми однини закінчення -(e)s. Це закінчення вимовляється:

[s] - після глухих приголосних, крім [s], [ʃ], [tʃ]:

a l amp	lamps [læmps]
a p resent	presents ['prez(ə)nts]
a l ake	lakes [leiks]
a c up	cups [kʌps]

[z] - після голосних і дзвінких приголосних, крім [z], [ʒ], [dʒ]:

a p encil	pencils ['penslz]
an e gg	eggs [egz]
a n ame	names [neimz]
a g lass b all	glass balls [bɔ:lz]
a f lower	flowers ['flauəs]
a s ea	seas [si:z]
a c andle	candles ['kændlz]
a t rain	trains [treinz]

[ɪz] - після звуків [s], [z], [ʃ], [tʃ], [ʒ], [dʒ]:

a p lace	places ['pleisɪz]
a r ose	poses ['rouzɪz]
a w ish	wishes ['wiʃɪz]
a b ench	benches ['bentʃɪz]
a g arage	garages ['gærə:ʒɪz]
a p age	pages ['peɪdʒɪz]

Більшість іменників має у множині закінчення -s. Закінчення -es додається, якщо:

1. іменник в однині закінчується на -s, -ss, -sh, -ch, -tch, -x:

a b us	buses
a c lass	classes
a b ush	bushes
a l unch	lunches
a w atch	watches
a b ox	boxes

2. іменник в однині закінчується на -уз попередньою приголосною; при цьому змінюється на i; наприклад:

a story	stories
a company	companies
a fly	flies
а л е, якщо попередня голосна буква – е, змін у слові нема:
a monkey	monkeys
a donkey	donkeys

3. іменник в однині закінчується на -оз попередньою приголосною:

a hero	heroes
a tomato	tomatoes а л е
a piano	pianos

Окремі випадки утворення множини іменників

У деяких іменниках, що в однині закінчуються на -f або -fe, у множині f змінюється на v з додаванням закінчення -(e)s; буквосполучення -ves вимовляється [vz]:

a wife	wives
a shelf	shelves
a wolf	wolves
a half	halves
a leaf	leaves
a calf	calves
a knife	knives
a life	lives

Усі інші іменники на -f, -fe за загальним правилом:

a roof	roofs
a safe	safes
a cliff	cliffs
a kerchief	kerchiefs
a chief	chiefs

Іменник a wharf причал має дві форми множини: wharfs, wharves.

Якщо іменник в однині закінчується на -th [θ] після голосного або дифтонга, то у множині кінцевий звук [θ] змінюється на [ð], після якого закінчення множини -s вимовляється як [z]:

a path [pɑ:θ]	paths [pɑ:ðz]
a mouth [mauθ]	mouths [mauðz]

Але якщо перед кінцевим -th стоїть приголосний або короткий голосний, то множина утворюється за загальним правилом:

a month [mʌnθ]	months [mʌnθs]
a smith [smiθ] коваль	smiths [smiθs]

PRACTICUM IN ENGLISH

У слові house будинок кінцевий звук [s] перед закінченням множини змінюється на [z]:

a house [haus]	houses [hauzɪz]
----------------	-----------------

Множина деяких іменників утворюється зміною кореневого голосного (без додавання закінчення):

a man [mæn] чоловік	men [men]
a woman [wʊmən] жінка	women [wɪmɪn]
a foot [fʊt] нога, фут	feet [fi:t]
a tooth [tu:θ] зуб	teeth [ti:θ]
a louse [laus] воша	lice [lais]
a mouse [maʊs] миша	mice [maɪs]
a goose [gu:s] гуска	geese [gi:s]
a child [tʃaɪld] дитина	children [ˈtʃɪldrən]
an ox ['ɒks] бик	oxen ['ɒks(ə)n]
a sheep [ʃi:p] вівця	sheep [ʃi:p]
a deer [diə] олень	deer [diə]
a buffalo ['bʌfə, ləʊ] буйвол	buffalo ['bʌfə, ləʊ]
a swine [swain] свиня	swine [swain]
a fish [fɪʃ] риба	fish [fɪʃ]
an aircraft ['eə, kra:ft] літак	aircraft ['eə, kra:ft]
a spacecraft ['speɪs, kra:ft] космічний корабель	spacecraft ['speɪs, kra:ft]
a chassis ['ʃæsi] шасі	chassis ['ʃæsi]

He saw some deer in the forest. Він побачив в лісі кілька оленів.

They caught a lot of fish. Вони зловили багато риби.

I caught two fish. Я зловив дві риби.

Але, форма fishes може вживатися, коли йдеться про різні види риб.

In this lake there are fishes of many varieties. У цьому озері є риба різних видів.

Іменник people має два значення people	- люди (множина) - a lot of people багато людей

	- народ (однина) - all peoples of the world всі народи світу

Щодо утворення множини у Compound Nouns складених іменників

1) У складених іменниках форму множини приймає головне слово:

a custom-house митниця	custom- houses
a man of-war військовий корабель	men of-war a passer-by перехожий	passers -by a hotel-keeper власник готелю	hotel- keepers
a daughter-in-law невістка	daughters -in-law
a school-mate шкільний товариш	school- mates
a schoolboy школяр	school boys
a housewife домогосподарка	house wives

PRACTICUM IN ENGLISH

Деякі іменники латинського та грецького походження зберігають форми множини, які вони мали в цих мовах:

an addendum [ə'dendəm] додаток, доповнення	addenda [ə'dendə]
an analysis [ə'nælisɪs] аналіз	analyses [ə'nælisɪ:z]
an antenna [æn'tenə] антена	antennae [æn'teni:]
abacterium [bæk'ti(ə)rɪəm] бактерія, мікроб	bacteria [bæk'ti(ə)rɪə]
abasis ['beɪsɪs] основа, підстава, базис	bases ['beɪsɪ:z]
a bacillus [bə'sɪləs] бацила, паличка	bacilli [bə'sɪləɪ]
a cactus ['kæktəs] кактус	cacti ['kæktəɪ]
a crisis ['kraɪsɪs] криза	crises ['kraɪsɪ:z]
acurriculum [kə'rɪkjʊləm] навчальний план (у школі, університеті)	a curricula [kə'rɪkjʊlə]
adatum [ˈdeɪtəm] дана величина	data [ˈdeɪtə]
anerratum [ɪ'ra:təm] друкарська помилка	errata [ɪ'ra:tə]
a formula ['fɔ:mjʊlə] формула	formulae ['fɔ:mjʊli:]
afungus ['fʌŋɡəs] гриб, грибок, пліснява	fungi ['fʌŋɡaɪ, 'fʌndʒaɪ, 'fʌndʒɪ]
a genius ['dʒɪ:niəs] геній, дух	genii ['dʒɪ:nɪaɪ]
a medium ['mi:diəm] засіб	media ['mi:diə]
a memorandum [memə'rændəm] замітка	memoranda [memə'rændə]
a nucleus ['nju:kliəs] ядро	nuclei ['nju:kliəɪ]
a phenomenon [fi'nɒmɪnən] явище, феномен	phenomena [fi'nɒmɪnə]
a radius ['reɪdiəs] радіус	radii ['reɪdiəɪ]
a stimulus ['stɪmjʊləs] стимул	stimuli ['stɪmjʊləɪ]
a spectrum ['spektrəm] спектр	spectra ['spektrə]
a terminus ['tɜ:mi:nəs] кінцева зупинка	termini ['tɜ:mi:nəɪ]
a thesis ['θɪ:sɪs] теза; дисертація	theses ['θɪ:sɪ:z]

2) Якщо першим словом складеного іменника є слово man або woman, то обидва слова приймають форму множини:

a man-servant слуга	men-servants
a woman-doctor жінка-лікар	women-doctors

3) Якщо складений іменник утворений з різних частин мови, то закінчення множини додається в кінці слова:

a forget-me-not незабудка	forget-me-nots
a merry-go-round карусель	merry-go-rounds

4. Cases of Nouns

Що стосується відмінків, то англійська система набагато простіша. На відміну від української мови, де є шість відмінків іменника, в англійській мові їх лише два: Загальний the Common Case і присвійний the Possessive Case.

Загальний відмінок the Common Case не має спеціальних відмінкових закінчень. Зв'язок іменника в загальному відмінку з іншими словами виражається прийменниками, а також місцем, яке іменник займає в реченні.

Присвійний відмінок the Possessive Case відповідає на запитання whose? "чий? чия? чие? чий?".

Присвійний відмінок однини утворюється додаванням до іменника апострофа та закінчення -s:

друзі Джека	Jack's friends
іграшка Катрусі	Kate's toy

PRACTICUM IN ENGLISH

Якщо іменник у множині закінчується на -s, то у присвійному відмінку множини до нього додається лише апостроф, а у вимові ніяких змін не відбувається:

the meeting of pupils учнівські збори	the pupils' meeting
the rooms of managers кімнати менеджерів	the managers' rooms

У присвійному відмінку вживаються в основному іменники, що означають назви істот:

my friend's mother	мати мого друга
the hawk's nest	гніздо яструба

Крім назв істот, у присвійному відмінку вживаються:

а) іменники, що означають час та відстань:

last week's salary	зарплата за минулий тиждень
two year's absence	дворічна відсутність
at a mile's distance	на відстані в одну милю

б) назви країн, міст, а також слова country країна; town, city місто; world світ; ocean океан; river річка:

Kyiv's parks	парки Києва
England's foreign trade	зовнішня торгівля Англії
the river's banks	береги річки

в) назви небесних тіл: the sun сонце; the moon місяць; the earth земля:

the sun's rays	промені сонця
the Moon's surface	поверхня Місяця

г) збірні іменники типу government уряд; party партія; army армія; crew команда, екіпаж; family сім'я; society суспільство, товариство:

the government's proposals	пропозиції уряду
the society's members	члени товариства

У присвійному відмінку вживаються також стійкі словосполучення: a stone's throw незначна відстань, to one's heart's content досхочу.

Також присвійний відмінок утворюється за допомогою прийменника of:

my friend's father	або	the father of my friend	батько мого друга;
the teacher's book		the book of the teacher	книга вчителя.

5. Grammar Exercises

1. Make the words Plural

a boy; a roof; a monkey; a glass; a school-mate; a company; a lunch; a mother-in-law; a path; a payment; a forget-me-not; a man-servant; an arm; a chief; a branch; a piano; a photo; a fountainpen; a hero; a daughter-in-law; a dish; a fly; a drinking-song; a month; a child; a shelf; a tomato; news; a human; a housewife; a fish.

2. Translate the following Nouns and denote them by the type of morphological structure (the Simple Noun, the Derived Noun, the Compound Noun) a fountainpen; friendship; an arm; a book-lover; rain; ice; school; a drinking-song; water; a way; childhood; a merry-go-round, a house; a pianist; a building; a dictation; a writer; happiness; a schoolgirl; a railroad.

3. Translate the word-combinations into Ukrainian

into English

a piece of information; a piece of good news; a sheet of paper; a tablespoonful of sugar; a teaspoonful of salt; exotic fruits; French perfumes; two pieces of good advice	пляшка мінеральної води; пакет цукру; буханка білого хліба; італійські вина; три корисні поради; погана новина
---	---

4. Make the words of Latin origin Plural

Curriculum, medium, memorandum, datum, alumnus, genus, symposium, corpus, synopsis, diagnosis, criterion, appendix, portmanteau, matrix.

5. Choose the correct Plural form

1. child (childs, children) 2. delay (delais, delayes, delays) 3. watch (watch, watches, watchs) 4. gas (gases, gas) 5. eagle (eagls, eagle, eagles) 6. holiday (holidays, holidayes, holidayis) 7. wife (wifs, wives, wifes) 8. currency (currencys, currency, currencies) 9. chief (chieves, chiefs, chiefes) 10. kiss (kisses, kiss) 11. secretary-elect (secretarys-elect, secretaries-elect, secretaries-elects) 12. studio (studios, studioes) 13. basis (basis, bases, basises) 14. vice-president (vice-presidents, vices-presidents, vice-presidentes) 15. son-in-law (sons-in-low, son-in-laws, sons-in-laws) 16. toothbrush (teethbrushes, teethbrush, toothbrushes) 17. radio (radios, radio, radioes) 18. mainframe (mainsframe, mainframs, mainframes)

Text: “Makaton”

Read the text “Makaton”

Did you use Makaton when you were a child? Many people did. Today over 100,000 people, children and adults use it in more than forty countries! So, what is Makaton? And which country speaks it?

In fact, it isn't a normal language. There isn't a country where people speak Makaton because it's an invented language. But it is very useful to a lot of people. In 1970 three researchers at the Royal College for Deaf People invented the language for people who had problems communicating. It was for people who could not hear, people who had learning problems, people who had problem communicating, and especially, for young children who were slow learning to speak.

Makaton uses movements of the hand and body, and expression on the face together with the spoken words to communicate. It's possible to communicate more than 7.000 ideas! When the speaker starts to use spoken language (like a young child) he uses Makaton and words and stops using Makaton completely. For other people with bigger problems, Makaton helps them “talk” to other people. For example, it can help them take part in games, read and tell stories, and show how they are feeling.

Margaret Walker, Katherine Johnstone and Tony Comforth created the language and their wonderful idea helps a lot of people today. The name of the language is the first letters of their names.

Practice 3 Grammar: The Article

Артикль це особливе службове слово, яке вживається тільки з іменником. В українській мові такої частини мови немає.

Сучасна англійська мова має три артиклі: неозначений Indefinite Article a (an), означений Definite Article the і нульовий, або значуща відсутність артикля.

Неозначений артикль бере початок від староанглійського числівника ān (one один). Ось чому він вживається лише перед злічуваними іменниками в однині. Вживання неозначеного артикля показує, що об'єкт є представником якогось класу.

Означений артикль розвинувся з староанглійського вказівного займенника se (той) і вживається в однині і в множині. Вживання означеного артикля показує, що мається на увазі якийсь конкретний об'єкт.

a book - an interesting English book – цікава англійська книга (невідомо яка);

the book - the interesting English book – цікава англійська книга (саме ця книга).

Indefinite Article Неозначений Артикль a (або an)	Definite Article Означений Артикль the	нульовий артикль або значуща відсутність артикля
a book - якась одна книга, про яку йде мова вперше; an apple - якесь яблуко, з багатьох інших;	the book - визначена, певна книга, про яку щось відомо	Термін “нульовий” артикль підкреслює, що будь-який артикль у цьому випадку буде помилкою

Називаючи предмет вперше, перед ним вживається незначений артикль a (an), називаючи цей самий предмет вдруге, ставиться означений артикль the:

This is a book. The book is interesting. Це книга. Вона цікава.

both the boys / both boys

Слово most вживається без артикля: most people

але, Most of the apples were rotten.

Артикль the обов'язково ставиться перед назвами кінотеатрів: the Odeon, the Ukraina;

готелів: the Hilton, the Myr;

театрів: the Rex;

музеїв: the Prado, the Hermitage;

газет: the Times;

кораблів: the Queen Mary;

приморських курортів та ін. (countryside, seaside):

We go to the beach every Sunday.

Артикль the обов'язково ставиться перед назвами груп островів: the Bahamas, назвами пустель: the Gobi desert

та у назвах, що містять of: the Tower of London

Артикль the обов'язково ставиться перед словами Queen, President якщо після цих слів немає імені:

the Queen, the President

але, якщо після цих слів іде ім'я:

Queen Elizabeth, President Kennedy

Слова home, father, mother and etc. вживаються без артикля:

Father isn't at home.

Можна подати безліч правил щодо того, який саме артикль слід вживати у тому чи іншому випадку, стільки ж буде і винятків.

Наприклад,

Перед незлічуваними та абстрактними поняттями, як weather погода, music музика; food їжа і т.д. артикля нема, але

I like niceweather .		The weather is very nice today. Сьогодні хороша погода . (мається на увазі – „погода сьогодні”)
I like music .	але	I like the music of this film. Мені подобається музика з цього кінофільма. (мається на увазі – „саме ця музика”)

Перед назвами шкільних дисциплін також не ставиться артикль, але:

I don't like History because it's boring subject.	але	He is interested in the History of his country. Він цікавиться історією своєї країни („історія його країни”).

Отже, узагальнимо основні характеристики артиклів, які допоможуть у нескладних ситуаціях.

A (AN) неозначений: - ставить в ряд із йому подібними; - якийсь один, деякий, будь-який; - вперше згаданий; - один із групи подібних.	THE означений: - конкретизує; - відомий, ось цей; - не вперше згаданий; - єдиний у своєму роді.

Хотілося б мати чіткі правила, де і який артикль ставити, але їх, на жаль, немає.

Можна ще раз підкреслити, що артикль ставиться перед іменником для того, щоб конкретизувати його значення. Якщо цю функцію виконують інші показники іменника, то артикль стає непотрібним.

NOTA BENE

Last week I was in Paris.

That was a Paris I had never seen before.

Not the Paris that I used to know when I was young.

Text: “British National Flowers”

Read the text “Britain's National Flowers”

The national flower of England is the rose. The flower has been adopted as England's emblem since the time of the Wars of the Roses - civil wars (1455 - 1485) between the royal house of Lancaster (whose emblem was a red rose) and the royal house of York (whose emblem was a white rose). The Yorkist regime ended with the defeat of King Richard III by the future Henry VII at Bosworth on 22 August 1485, and the two roses were united into the Tudor rose (a red rose with a white centre) by Henry VII when he married Elizabeth of York.

The national flower of Northern Ireland is the shamrock, a three-leaved plant similar to clover which is said to have been used by St Patrick to illustrate the doctrine of the Holy Trinity.

The Scottish national flower is the thistle, a prickly-leaved purple flower which was first used in the 15th century as a symbol of defense.

The three flowers - rose, thistle and shamrock - are often displayed beneath the shield on the Royal Coat of Arms.

The national flower of Wales is usually considered to be the daffodil, which is traditionally worn on St David's Day. However, the humble leek is also considered to be a traditional emblem of Wales, possibly because its colours, white over green, echo the ancient Welsh standard.

Grammar: The Numeral

Англійська частина мови – числівник the Numeral особливо не відрізняється від українського числівника.

Вони також поділяються на кількісні Cardinal Numerals та порядкові Ordinal Numerals.

1. Cardinal Numerals

Кількісні числівники означають кількість предметів та відповідають на питання how many скільки? Наприклад: one один, two два, ten десять, eleven одинадцять.

Кількісні числівники - Cardinal Numerals 1 – 20
1 – one	11 – eleven
2 – two	12 – twelve
3 – three	13 – thirteen
4 – four	14 – fourteen
5 – five	15 – fifteen
6 - six	16 - sixteen
7 – seven	17 – seventeen
8 – eight	18 – eighteen
9 – nine	19 – nineteen
10 - ten	20 - twenty

Кількісні числівники - Cardinal Numerals 21 - ...
21 – twenty-one	101 – one hundred and one
22 – twenty-two	121 – one hundred and twenty-one
30 – thirty	200 – two hundred
40 – forty	1000 – one thousand
50 – fifty	1021 – one thousand and twenty-one
60 – sixty	3624 – three thousand six hundred and twenty-four
70 - seventy	1225375 – one million two hundred and twenty-five thousand three hundred and seventy-five 80 – eighty 90 – ninety
100 – one hundred

Як бачимо з таблиць, числівники з 11 до 19 утворюються за допомогою суфікса -teen, крім одинадцять eleven, дванадцять twelve, а від 20 до 90 – за допомогою суфікса -ty. Зверніть увагу на написання числівника 40 – forty, але 14 - fourteen.

Кількісні числівники, на відміну від української мови, вживаються для позначення номерів розділів, сторінок, частин книг, параграфів:

перша частина part one;

десятий параграф paragraph ten;

Зверніть увагу, що іменники у таких випадках вживаються без артикля.

Також кількісними числівниками позначають номери будинків, кімнат, автобусів, тролейбусів, трамваїв, розмірів одягу та взуття:

The meeting will take place in classroom 15. Збори відбудуться у п'ятнадцятій аудиторії (аудиторії №15).

I live in apartment 10 (ten). Я живу у квартирі №10.

You need bus 11. Вам потрібен автобус №11.

My brother wears size forty-one shoes. Мій брат носить 41 розмір взуття.

Числівники в арифметичних діях:

$2 + 2 = 4$	two plus two is four або two and two is four
$5 - 2 = 3$	five minus two is three або two from five is three або five less two is three
$2 \times 2 = 4$	two times two is four
$10 : 2 = 5$	ten divided by two is five

У спортивних іграх також використовують кількісні числівники:

- у тенісі	20 – 30 40 – 0 44 - 44	twenty thirty або twenty games to thirty forty love deuce [dju:s] (нічия)
- у футболі, хокеї	5 – 0 4 – 6 4 – 4	five-nil [nil] four (goals to) six four all (нічия) або a draw [drɔ:]
- у баскетболі	46 – 98 44 - 44	forty-six, ninety-eight a tie (нічия) або forty-four – forty-four

Звернемо увагу, що спортивна термінологія різними термінами визначає однакові поняття:

нічия – all (adraw) - футбол, хокей; deuce - теніс; atie – баскетбол;

0 (нуль) – nil - футбол, хокей; love – теніс.

2. Ordinal Numerals

Порядкові числівники Ordinal Numerals означають порядок предметів та відповідають на питання which який? Наприклад: first перший, second другий, tenth десятий, twentieth двадцятий.

Порядкові числівники – Ordinal Numerals
1 st – first	11 th – eleventh	21 st – twenty-first
2 nd – second	12 th – twelfth	22 nd – twenty-second
3 rd – third	13 th – thirteenth	30 th – thirtieth
4 th – fourth	14 th – fourteenth	40 th – fortieth
5 th – fifth	15 th – fifteenth	50 th – fiftieth
6 th – sixth	16 th – sixteenth	100 – one hundredth
7 th – seventh	17 th – seventeenth	101 st – one hundred and first
8 th – eighth	18 th – eighteenth	121 st – one hundred and twenty-first
9 th – ninth	19 th – nineteenth	1000 th – one thousandth
10 th – tenth	20 th – twentieth	1024 th – one thousand and twenty-fourth

Іменник, що визначається порядковим числівником, вживається з означеним артиклем the.

the first book перша книга;

the second place друге місце;

the one hundred and twenty-fourth student сто двадцять четвертий студент.

It is the fifth part of the textbook. Це п'ята глава цього підручника.

Артикль зберігається навіть у випадку відсутності іменника:

Your second mark was better than the first. Твоя друга оцінка краща за першу.

Числівники hundred сто, thousand тисяча, million мільйон не приймають закінчення –s якщо перед ними стоїть числівник:

two hundred pupils 2 сотні учнів;

three thousand years 3 тисячі років;

two million two hundred forty-three thousand five hundred and sixty-seven 2.243.567.

Однак, іноді слова hundred, million, thousand приймають закінчення -s (у такому випадку ще додається прийменник of):

1) коли вони виражають неозначену кількість сотень, тисяч, мільйонів:

hundreds of people сотні людей;

thousands of years тисячі років;

millions of birds мільйони птахів

millions of books мільйони книжок

2) коли вони вживаються зі словом some декілька:

some hundreds of stamps декілька сотень поштових марок

some thousands of letters декілька тисяч листів

Зверніть увагу на такі слова:

a dozen дюжина;

a gross 12 дюжин (грос);

a score 2 десятка;

a team упряжка коней.

Слова gross та team потребують прийменника of, наприклад:

5 gross of pencils 720 штук олівців;

a few gross of pens багато ручок;

several team of horses декілька упряжок коней.

А слова dozen та score не потребують of:

5 score years 100 років;

6 dozen eggs б дюжиняць,

a few score years декілька двадцятиліть;

several dozen eggs декілька дюжин яєць.

Що ж стосується порядкових числівників, то і там все дуже просто. Порядкові числівники, крім перших трьох (1-й, 2-й, 3-й), які утворюються не за правилами (first перший, second другий, third третій), утворюються від відповідних кількісних числівників за допомогою суфікса -th:

four – the fourth четвертий

fifteen – the fifteenth п'ятнадцятий

При цьому в числівниках five і twelve-ve змінюється на f:

five – the fifth п'ятий

twelve – the twelfth дванадцятий

До числівника eight вісім додається тільки буква h:

eight – the eighth ['eitθ] восьмий

У числівнику nine перед суфіксом -th буква e опускається:

nine – the ninth дев'ятий

У складених порядкових числівниках, як і в українській мові, форму порядкового числівника має лише останнє слово:

the one hundred and twenty-first 121-й - сто двадцять перший;

the two thousand one hundred and forty-seventh 2147-й - дві тисячі сто сорок сьомий.

3. Fractional Numerals

У простих дробових числівників чисельник виражається кількісним числівником the Numerator, а знаменник – порядковим числівником the Denominator:

1/3 – a (one) third;

1/5 - a (one) fifth;

Дробові числівники $\frac{1}{2}$ і $\frac{1}{4}$ читаються:

$\frac{1}{2}$ - a (або one) half половина;

$\frac{1}{4}$ - a (one) quarter чверть.

Якщо чисельник більше одиниці, знаменник приймає закінчення -s:

$\frac{2}{3}$ - two thirds;

3/5 – three fifths.

При читанні змішаних чисел між цілою і дробовою частиною вживається сполучник and:

1 $\frac{1}{2}$ one and a half (або one and one half);

3 $\frac{7}{8}$ three and seven eighths;

2 $\frac{5}{8}$ two and five eighths;

1 $\frac{1}{8}$ one and one eighth.

В англійських текстах десяткові дроби відділяються від цілих чисел не комою, а крапкою, яка читається point [point]. Кожна цифра цілої і дробової частини десяткового дроби читається окремо. Нуль читається nought [nɔ:t] (а в Америці – zero ['zi(ə)rəu]):

0.5 nought (zero) point five;

1.25 one point twenty-five;

2.38 two point thirty-eight;

3.14 three point fourteen.

4. Time Expressions

Українському слову час відповідають англійське слово time. Ось розповсюджений вираз, до якого нелегко дібрати відповідний в українській мові:

on the hour рівно о певній годині (тобто в 12.00, 11.00 і т.д.);

on the half hour 12.30, 16.30:

The bus departs every hour on the hour. Автобус відбуває щогодини.

Слово доба не має відповідного в англійській мові. Можна сказати day and night або 24 hours:

I didn't eat all day and all night. Я не їв цілу добу.

The trip takes fourty-eight hours. Подорож триває дві доби.

Однак ідіома ціла доба перекладається як round the clock:

5. What Time is it?

Якщо ми хочемо дізнатися, котра година, ми питаємо: What is the time? або What time is it now? Інколи питання може виглядати так:

Do you have time? – Чи є у Вас годинник? або Чи маєте Ви час?

Do you have time to talk? - Чи Ви маєте час для розмови?

Складові частини годинника представлені іншими значеннями відомих слів: циферблат clock-face; hour-plate;

годинникова стрілка hand (hour hand, minute hand).

Напрямок руху по колу:

clockwise за годинниковою стрілкою;

counterclockwise – проти годинникової стрілки:

To open the door turn the key clockwise. Щоб відчинити двері, поверніть ключ за годинниковою стрілкою.

Як правило, американці та англійці вживають тільки 12-годинне позначення часу та скорочення:

- a.m. (am; AM; A.M. – походить від латинської – ante meridiem - перед полуднем, тобто від 00.00 – до 12.00 дня);

- p.m. (pm; PM; P.M. - походить від латинської – post meridiem - після полудня, тобто з 12.00 – до 24.00).

He is going to catch the 6 p.m. train to Albany. Він збирається встигнути на поїзд до Олбані, який відправляється о 18.00.

Зверніть увагу, що в цьому випадку слово o'clock не потрібне.

Англійська відповідь на питання What time is it? Котра година? зовсім не відрізняється від української.

Розглянемо малюнок:

Циферблат годинника поділяється на дві частини: перша частина – з часу ночі до дванадцятої години дня (a.m.), друга частина – з часу дня до дванадцятої години ночі (p.m.).

Стосовно відповіді на питання What time is it? Котра година?

Показ хвилиної стрілки з 12.00 до 6.00 вимагає прийменника past після:

12.10 – ten minutes past twelve AM 10 хвилин після 12;

11.15 – fifteen minutes (a quarter) past eleven AM 15 хвилин (чверть) після 11;

10.23 – twenty three minutes past ten AM 23 хвилини після 10;

6.25 – twenty five minutes past six AM 25 хвилин після 6;

10.09 – nineminutes past ten AM 9 хвилин після 10;

Показ хвилиної стрілки з 6.00 до 12.00 - прийменника to до:

12.38 – twenty two minutes to one AM 22 хвилини до часу або thirty eight minutes past twelve AM 38 хвилин після 12;

19.40 – twenty minutes to eight PM 20 хвилин до 8;

23.45 – fifteen minutes (a quarter) to twelve PM 15 хвилин (чверть) до 12;

20.50 – ten minutes to nine PM 10 хвилин до 9;

22.58 – two minutes to eleven PM 2 хвилини до 11;

What time is it? Котра година? It's ten minutes to five. За десять хвилин п'ята.

It's ten minutes past five. Десять хвилин на шосту.

30 хвилин (половина) позначається таким чином:

1.30 – it is half past one pm;

8.30 – it is half past eight am;

4.30 - it is half past four am;

7.30 - it is half past seven pm.

Якщо на годиннику 12.00 – зазвичай кажуть:

It's twelve o'clock. або It's twelve o'clock sharp.

6. Dates in English

General dates:

Ми пишемо: 17 June 2019 or 17th June 1987

BC – before Christ

AC – Anno Domini (рік від різдва Христового)

ON / IN / AT

Необхідно звернути увагу, що при позначенні різних інтервалів часу вживаються різні прийменники.

ON – days and dates

Ми пишемо: He was born on 2nd March 1961.

Ми говоримо: He was born on the 2nd of March nineteen sixty.

on Sunday у неділю

IN – months, seasons, years, decades, centuries

My birthday is in January not in September.

His birthday is in winter and her is in summer.

She was born in 1985 and grew up in the nineteenth.

in winter взимку;

in 1989 у 1989 році;

in the 70's у 70-ті роки;

in the 19th century у 19 столітті.

AT – hours, minutes, seconds at 3 o'clocksharp – 15.00

at half past nine pm – 20.30

at a quarter past two pm – 14.15

at twenty minutes past sixam – 06.20

Кількісними числівниками позначаються телефонні номери: кожна цифра номеру називається окремо:

12-35-21 one two three five two one

24-72-12 two four seven two one two

Цифра 0 читається [ou]:

70-30-40 seven oh three oh four oh

Якщо дві цифри номеру однакові, вживається слово double подвійний: 77-31-448 double seven three one double four eight; 884-788-88 double eight four seven double eight double eight.

Але якщо середні дві цифри однакові, слово double не вживається: 74-41-212 seven four four six.

Номери 1000 або 5000 читаються: one thousand; five thousand.

Text: “Chinese Horoscope”

Read the text “Chinese Horoscope”

Traditional Chinese astrology is different. It is based on your year of birth. There are twelve signs, too, but they are named after animals. The Chinese New Year falls on a different date each year, but it begins somewhere between mid-January and mid-February.

The twelve-year cycle begins with the year of the Rat, which this century first fell in 1900, so it is easy to calculate Chinese years. The legend is that the order was decided thousands of years ago by Buddha, who called all the animals to a New Year meeting.

Only twelve came, and the years were named after the twelve animals in the order in which they arrived. First was the aggressive Rat, second was the hard-working Ox. Then came the smiling Tiger, followed by the cautious Rabbit. The showy Dragon came next, then the wise Snake. The gifted Horse was next, followed by the gentle Goat, then the merry Monkey and the proud Rooster. Last were the faithful Dog and the honest Pig.

People born in specific years are supposed to have characteristics of the year's animal. This should not be taken too seriously. The animals are symbols, and the Chinese idea of each animal's character is often different from a traditional Western view. The interesting thing about the cycle of Chinese years is that they relate to the cycles of change in the Sun, which is known to affect the Earth's weather, and may also relate to earthquakes and electrical changes in the atmosphere.

Can you tell what animal you are?

Grammar: The Adjective. Degrees of Comparison

1. Morphological Characteristic of Adjectives

Adjective прикметник – частина мови, яка відповідає на питання "який? яка? яке? які?".

Наприклад: red червоний, good хороший, interesting цікавий, Ukrainian український.

Англійські прикметники не змінюються ні за родами, ні за числами, ні за відмінками:

a clever student розумний студент, clever students розумні студенти,
a young girl молода дівчина, young girls молоді дівчата,
young people молоді люди,
with a young man з молодим чоловіком.

Прикметники в англійській мові змінюються тільки за ступенями порівняння: long довгий, longer довший, the longest найдовший.

За морфологічною структурою розрізняють три види прикметників:

Simple Adjectives (прості прикметники, які у своєму складі не мають префіксів, суфіксів, закінчень)	Derivative Adjectives (прикметники, утворені за допомогою префіксів, суфіксів, закінчень)	Compound Adjectives (прикметники, утворені за допомогою декількох основ)
nice красивий tall високий small маленький	wonderful чудовий lucky удачливий unhappy нещасливий dangerous небезпечний careless безтурботний troublesome що завдає клопоту wooden дерев'яний foolish дурний comfortable зручний	well-known добре-відомий long-legged довгоногий good-looking гарний five-seat (car) п'ятимісна (машина) three-wheel (bicycle) трьохколісний (велосипед) five-year-old (girl) п'ятирічна (дівчинка) 100-page (book) книжка на 100 сторінок absent-minded неуважний

2. Degrees of Comparison

Прикметники утворюють два ступені порівняння: вищий the Comparative Degree та найвищий the Superlative Degree.

Щоправда, існують і такі прикметники, які не мають ступенів порівняння (empty порожній, dead мертвий), однак їх не так вже і багато.

Прості або односкладові прикметники утворюють вищий ступінь порівняння the Comparative Degree за допомогою додавання суфікса -er:
tall + er = taller; small + er = smaller; cold + er = colder.

Найвищий ступінь порівняння the Superlative Degree утворюється за допомогою суфікса -est:

tall + est = the tallest; small + est = the smallest; cold + est = the coldest.

SIMPLE ADJECTIVES
Основний ступінь the Positive Degree	Вищий ступінь the Comparative Degree	Найвищий ступінь the Superlative Degree
sharp гострий	sharper гостріший	the sharpest найгостріший
cold холодний	colder холодніший	the coldest найхолодніший
short короткий	shorter коротіший	the shortest найкоротіший

A man lives longer than a dog. Людина живе довше, ніж собака.

David is taller than his father was at this age. Девід вищий, ніж був його батько у цьому віці.

This is the shortest way to London. Це найкоротіший шлях до Лондону.

Так само утворюються ступені порівняння двоскладових прикметників, які закінчуються на -y, -er, -ow, ly, -le та ряд інших двоскладових прикметників:

the Positive Degree	the Comparative Degree	the Superlative Degree
clever розумний	cleverer розумніший	the cleverest найрозумніший able здатний	abler більш здатний	the ablest найбільш здатний simple простий	simpler простіший	the simplest найпростіший

Розглянемо двоскладові прикметники, які закінчуються на -ful; -ous; -re, та двоскладові прикметники, у яких наголос падає на перший склад. Такі прикметники утворюють ступені порівняння за допомогою слів more та most:

DERIVATIVE ADECTIVES
the Positive Degree	the Comparative Degree	the Superlative Degree
stupid [ˈstju:pid] дурний	more stupid дурніший	the most stupid найдурніший decent [ˈdi:snt] порядний, стриманий	more decent порядніший, стриманіший	the most decent найбільш порядний, найбільш стриманий careful обережний	more careful обережніший	the most careful найбільш обережний famous відомий	more famous більш відомий	the most famous найбільш відомий

Багато двоскладових прикметників: polite ввічливий, handsome гарний, common загальний, cruel жорстокий, friendly дружній, happy щасливий, narrow вузький, pleasant приємний, quiet спокійний, sincere щирий, true вірний та інші утворюють ступені порівняння двома способами.

the Positive Degree	the Comparative Degree	the Superlative Degree
polite ввічливий	politer / more polite більш ввічливий	the politest / the most polite найбільш ввічливий
handsome гарний	handsomer / more handsome гарніший	the handsomest / the most handsome найгарніший

Зверніть увагу на орфографію:

1. Якщо прикметник закінчується на голосний німий -e, при додаванні суфіксів -er та -est буква e не пишеться:

large великий	larg-er більший	the larg-est найбільший
brave хоробрий	brav-er хоробріший	the brav-est найхоробріший

2. Якщо прикметник закінчується на приголосний, який стоїть після голосного, то у вищому та найвищому ступені кінцевий приголосний звук подвоюється:

big великий	bigger більший	the biggest найбільший
hot гарячий	hotter гарячіший	the hottest найбільш гарячий thin тонкий	thinner тонкіший	the thinnest найбільш тонкий
wet мокрий	wetter мокріший	the wettest найбільш мокрий

3. Якщо прикметник закінчується на y з попереднім приголосним, то у вищому та найвищому ступені буква y завжди змінюється на i:

busy зайнятий	busier більш зайнятий	the busiest найбільш зайнятий
easy легкий	easier легіший	the easiest найлегіший
dirty брудний	dirtier брудніший	the dirtiest найбільш брудніший

Але якщо перед буквою y стоїть голосний, то буква y лишається без змін:

gay веселий	gay-er веселіший	the gay-est найвеселіший
--------------------	-------------------------	---------------------------------

Більшість двоскладових прикметників, а також прикметники, що складаються з трьох або більш складів, утворюють вищий ступінь за допомогою слова more, а найвищий ступінь - за допомогою слова most. Ці слова ставляться перед прикметником у формі основного ступеня:

the Positive Degree	the Comparative Degree	the Superlative Degree
active активний	more active активніший	the most active найбільш активний famous відомий	more famous відоміший	the most famous найбільш відомий
difficult складний	more difficult складніший	the most difficult найскладніший

This newspaper is more interesting. Ця газета – цікавіша.

Зверніть увагу, що іменник, який визначається прикметником найвищому ступені, завжди вживається з означеним артиклем the:

This is the shortest way to the station. Це - найкоротший шлях на станцію.

This is the most interesting story in the book. Це - найцікавіше оповідання в цій книзі.

She is the most beautiful girl in our class. Вона – найгарніша дівчина в нашому класі.

Слово most має додаткове значення: перед іменниками воно означає більшість, більша частина. Зверніть увагу на два варіанти його вживання:

most children – most of the children - у першому випадку маються на увазі – діти взагалі; а в другому - конкретні діти, які є поблизу вас.

Most drivers break the speed limit. Більшість водіїв перевищують швидкість.

Most of the drivers in our group are over 50. Більшість водіїв у нашій групі старше 50 років.

It rained for most of the day. Більшу частину дня падав дощ.

She sits and eats most of the time. Більшу частину часу вона сидить і їсть.

Most of us know him. Більшість з нас його знає.

Наведемо ще два сталих вирази: at (the) most найбільше:

I can pay $200 at the most. Я можу заплатити найбільше 200 доларів.

For the most part в більшості, в основному;

I agree with your plan for the most part. В основному я погоджуюсь з вашим планом.

Ще одне зауваження - два прикметники в порівняльному ступені з означеним артиклем показують пропорційну зміну чим ... тим ...:

The sooner the better. Чим швидше, тим краще.

The more you have, the more you want. Чим більше маєш, тим більше хочеш.

The better I get to know him, the less I like him. Чим більше я його пізнаю, тим менш він мені подобається.

Особлива конструкція описує схожість за будь-якою ознакою: as ... as ... - такий самий, як ... :

The car is as big as its owner. Машина така ж велика, як її господар.

It's not as cold as yesterday. Зараз не так холодно як вчора.

His hand was as cold as ice. Його рука була холодна як лід.

I ate as much as I could. Я з'їв стільки, скільки зміг.

Деякі прикметники утворюють ступені порівняння від іншого кореня:

the Positive Degree	the Comparative Degree	the Superlative Degree
good хороший	better кращий	the best найкращий bad поганий	worse гірший	the worst найгірший little маленький	less менший	the least найменший
old старий, старший	older старіший, старший elder старіший, старший	the oldest найстаріший, найстарший the eldest найстаріший, найстарший Прикметник far має дві форми вищого та найвищого ступеню:
far далекий	farther, further більш далекий	the farthest, the furthest найбільш далекий

Слова farther, farthest та further, furthest вживаються паралельно для визначення відстані:

I found him in the farthest (furthest) corner of the garden. Я знайшов його у самому далекому куточку саду.

Слово further також вживається у значенні подальший, додатковий:

I have got further information on this problem. Я отримав подальшу (додаткову) інформацію з цього питання.

Після прикметника у вищому ступені порівняння вживається сполучник than, який відповідає українському ніж:

Better an egg today than a hen tomorrow. Дослівний переклад: Краще яйце сьогодні, ніж курка завтра. Близько до українського прислів'я: Краще синиця у руці, ніж журавель в небі.

Two heads are better than one. Одна голова – добре, а дві - краще.

Прикметник у вищому ступені може бути посилений вживанням перед ним словами much або far із значенням набагато, значно:

She looks much better now. Вона зараз виглядає набагато краще.

He understands much more than you think. Він розуміє набагато більше, ніж ви думаєте.

This book is far better than that one. Ця книга значно краща, ніж та.

3. Substantivized Adjectives

Субстантивованими прикметниками називають прикметники, що набувають характеристики іменника. Вони поділяються на групи:

1) вказують на певний клас:

The old receive pensions. Люди похилого віку отримують пенсію.

The young like modern music. Молодим подобається сучасна музика.

2) вказують на абстрактні поняття (зверніть увагу на присудок – вживається у однині):

The past was better than the present. Минуле було кращим ніж сучасне.

3) вказують на національність (зверніть увагу на присудок – вживається у множині) the English англійці, the British британці, the Spanish іспанці:
The Germans are great lovers of beer. Німці дуже люблять пиво.

3. Auxiliary Verbs

Деякі дієслова в англійській мові, крім свого змістового навантаження, мають ще й функції допоміжних дієслів *Auxiliary Verbs, тобто вживаються для утворення часових форм та пасивного стану.

Ці дієслова to be, to have, to do, shall (should), will (would).

Дієслово to be

1) у теперішньому часі, на відміну від інших дієслів, має окремі форми для 1-ї, 2-ї, 3-ї особи однини та множини:

Дієслово to be
am	is	are
I	he, she, it	you, we, they

2) у минулому часі має також різні форми для однини та множини:

Дієслово to be
was	were
I, he, she, it	you, we, they

Дієслово to be допомагає утворювати часові форми Continuous:

The Present Continuous Tense

I am waiting for you. Я чекаю на тебе.

He is writing the letter now. Він пише листа зараз.

They are sitting at the meeting. Вони сидять на зборах.

The Past Continuous Tense

She was reading the text at 5 o'clock. Вона читала текст о 5 години.

We were swimming in the river at 11 o'clock. Ми плавали у річці об 11 години.

The Future Continuous Tense

I shall be writing it at 3 o'clock. Я писатиму це о 3 години.

Часові форми групи Perfect Continuous:

The Past Perfect Continuous Tense

We had been writing it since 5 yesterday. Ми писали це вчора з 5 години.

The Present Perfect Continuous Tense

We have been writing it for 2 hours. Ми пишемо це вже 2 години.

The Future Perfect Continuous Tense

By the end of this month he shall have been writing it for 5 weeks. До кінця цього місяця він писатиме це вже 5 тижнів.

Дієслово to have

Допомагає утворювати часові форми групи Perfect. Також у теперішньому часі має окремі форми для 1-ї, 2-ї, та 3-ї особи однини та множини:

Дієслово to have
have	has

The Present Perfect Tense

I have seen a new film. Я подивився новий фільм.

We have finished our work. Ми закінчили нашу роботу.

He has bought a new house. Він купив новий будинок.

The Future Perfect Tense

I shall have translated it by 6 o'clock. Я перекладу це до 6-ї години.

У минулому часі - форму had для всіх осіб:

The Past Perfect Tense

I had seen this film by 5 o'clock. Я подивився цей фільм до 5-ї години.

We had finished his work. Ми закінчили його роботу.

Часові форми групи Perfect Continuous:

The Past Perfect Continuous Tense

We had been writing it since 5 yesterday. Ми писали це вчора з 5 години.

The Present Perfect Continuous Tense

We have been writing it for 2 hours. Ми пишемо це вже 2 години.

The Future Perfect Continuous Tense

By the end of this month he shall have been writing it for 5 weeks. До кінця цього місяця він писатиме це вже 5 тижнів.

Також дієслово to have мати вживається у конструкціях з деякими іменниками і тоді втрачає своє основне значення, наприклад:

to have breakfast снідати;	to have a swim плавати;
to have dinner обідати;	to have a walk гуляти;
to have supper вечеряти;	to have a good time розважатися;
to have a meal їсти;	to have a talk поговорити; to have a drink пити;	to have a quarrel сваритися;
to have a cup of tea пити чай;	to have a fight битися;
to have a wash вмиватися;	to have a look подивитись;
to have a sleep спати;	to have a try спробувати;
to have a rest відпочивати;	to have a go спробувати.

Дієслово to do

Утворює заперечну та питальну форми Present Indefinite та Past Indefinite.

1) Present Indefinite:

Дієслово to do у Present Indefinite
do	does

The Present Indefinite Tense

I don't know about it. Я не знаю про це.

Do you speak English? Чи розмовляєш ти англійською?

He doesn't work there. Він тут не працює.

Does she go to the theatre? Чи ходить вона у театр?

2) в Past Indefinite – форму did для всіх осіб:

I did not go to the theatre. Я не ходив у театр.

She did not write a letter. Вона не писала листа.

Did you see him yesterday? Чи бачив ти його вчора?

They didn't speak to me about it. Вони не розмовляли зі мною про це.

Дієслова shall (should), will (would)

Ці дієслова називаються недостатніми, тому що вживаються тільки у двох формах: у теперішньому часі – shall, will та минулому – should, would:

The Future Indefinite Tense

I shall be busy on Monday. Я буду зайнятий у понеділок.

He will do it tomorrow. Він зробить це завтра.

The Future Indefinite-in-the-Past Tense

I said that I should be busy on Monday. Я сказав, що буду зайнятий у понеділок.

He said that he would do it. Він сказав, що зробить це.

4. Usage of the Verbs DO, MAKE

Дієслово DO - робити, здійснювати дію; робитися, здійснюватися, відбуватися, діятися; чинити, робити, поводитися; займатися (чим-небудь); працювати; обслуговувати вживається в широкому сенсі для визначення будь-якої діяльності:

do a crossword – розгадувати кросворд;

do the ironing – прасувати щось;

do the laundry – прати;

do the washing – мити щось;

do the washing up – вмиватися.

Do часто використовується, коли говорять про будь-яку роботу:

do your work – виконувати роботу;

do homework – робити домашнє завдання;

do housework – робити хатню роботу;

do your job – виконувати свої обов'язки.

Також дієслово Do використовується, необхідно описати будь-яку дію, але не називаючи самої дії. Це дієслово часто використовується із словами something, nothing, anything, everything.

Наприклад:

I'm not doing anything today. – Сьогодні я нічого не роблю.

He does every thing for his mother. – Він все робить для своєї матері.

She's doing nothing. – Вона нічим не займається.

Дієслово MAKE - робити; виготовляти, виробляти; виконувати; складати, створювати, творити; здійснювати вживається для позначення будь-якої конкретної дії, коли що-небудь створюється, будується та ін.:

make a dress – шити сукню;

make food – приготувати їжу;

make a cup of tea / coffee – зробити (приготувати) чашку чаю / кави

Make часто використовується, коли мова йде про приготування їжі:

make a meal (breakfast / lunch / dinner) – приготувати їжу (сніданок / обід / вечерю)

1) made of + material

Text: “A Funny Story”

Read the text “A Funny Story”

Some gentlemen were sitting in a little restaurant in the country. They had their dogs with them which were lying quietly under the table. The gentlemen talked about their dogs, what was good and what was bad about them.

After some time the door opened, and an old lady came in with a dog. She sat down at the next table, ordered something to eat and listened to the gentlemen’s conversation. When the gentlemen noticed this, they started to tell each other in loud voices how clever their dogs were.

One of them said, “You won’t believe how intelligent my dog is. When I want some eggs, I can send him to the supermarket, and he'll get them. And he will only take fresh eggs. Isn't that clever?"

"That's nothing", said another one, "When I want cigarettes and send my dog to the supermarket, he'll only take the cigarettes I like best."

"Have you ever seen dogs as clever as ours?" one of the men asked the old lady.

"Oh yes, I have", she answered. "Just have a look at my dog here. He is the manager of the supermarket where your dogs go shopping."

Practice 14 Grammar: Word Order

З точки зору порядку слів українська мова дуже гнучка. Немає значення, що буде стояти напершому місці - підмет чи присудок, або зовсім нічого: “Зима”, “Це зима”, “Ранок”, “Світає”.

В англійській мові ПОРЯДОК СЛІВ чітко встановлений, і змінювати його не можна. На першому місці завжди стоїть підмет, на другому – допоміжне дієслово або присудок, на третьому – додаток, і в кінці речення - обставина часу.

He reads a newspaper every evening. Він читає газету щовечора. He (хто? - він – підмет) reads (що робить? - читає – присудок) a newspaper (що? - газету – додаток) every evening (коли? - щовечора – обставина часу). І ніколи не може бути: He reads every evening a newspaper. – НЕПРАВИЛЬНО.

They go to school every day. Вони ходять до школи щодня. They (хто? - вони – підмет) go (що роблять? - ходять – присудок) to school (куди? - до школи – додаток) everyday (коли? як часто? щодня – обставина часу). Додаток повинен стояти перед обставиною часу, а не після: They go every day to school. – НЕПРАВИЛЬНО.

1. The Principal Parts of the Sentence

Головними членами речення є підмет the Subject і присудок the Predicate. Підмет найчастіше виражається іменником або особовим займенником. Присудок виражається особовою формою дієслова у будь-якому часі, стані, способі; модальним дієсловом у сполученні з інфінітивом і т.п.

They tried to do it. Вони намагалися це зробити. They (хто? - вони – підмет) tried to do (що роблять? – намагалися зробити – присудок).

She is writing the letter. Вона пише листа. She (хто? - вона – підмет) is writing (що робить? – пише – присудок).

I shall read this book. Я прочитаю цю книжку. I (хто? - я – підмет) shall read (що зроблю? – прочитаю – присудок).

Для кращого запам'ятовування складемо просту схему:

Стверджувальна форма:

1	2	3	4
Підмет	Допоміжне дієслово (деякі часові форми обходяться без нього)	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
The Present Indefinite Tense
The boy	-	swims	in the river every day
The Present Continuous Tense
The boy	is	swimming	in the river now
The Present Perfect Tense
The boy	has	swum	in the river.

Заперечна форма:

1	2	3	4
Підмет	Допоміжне дієслово	Заперечна частка	Присудок
The Present Indefinite Tense
The boy	does	not	swim
The Present Continuous Tense
The boy	is	not	swimming
The Present Perfect Tense
The boy	has	not	swum

2. Types of Interrogative Sentences

Загальне питання:

Загальне питання передбачає відповідь „так” або „ні”.

У питальних реченнях порядок слів змінюється. На першому місці – допоміжне дієслово, на другому – підмет, на третьому – присудок:

1	2	3	4
Допоміжне дієслово	Підмет	Присудок	Другорядні члени
The Present Indefinite Tense
Does	the boy	swim	in the river?
The Present Continuous Tense
Is	the boy	swimming	in the river?
The Present Perfect Tense
Has	the boy	swum	in the river?

Спеціальне питання:

Спеціальні питання починаються з питальних слів:

Who?	Хто?	Where?	Де? Куди?
Whom?	Кому?
Whose?	Чий?	Which?	Який? Котрий?
What for?	Навіщо? Для чого?	What?	Що? Хто?
What kind?	Який?	How?	Як? Яким чином?
When?	Коли?	How old?	Скільки років?
What time?	О котрій годині?	How tall?	Якого зросту?
Why?	Чому? Навіщо?	How much?	Скільки? (незліч.)
How far?	Де? (про відстань)	How many?	Скільки? (зліч.)
How long?	Скільки? (про час)	Where from?	Звідки?

У спеціальних питаннях на першому місці стоїть питальне слово, на другому - допоміжне дієслово, на третьому – підмет, на четвертому – присудок:

1	2	3	4
Питальне слово	Допоміжне дієслово	Підмет	Присудок
The Present Indefinite Tense
What	does	the boy	do?
The Present Continuous Tense
Where	are	they	swimming?
The Present Perfect Tense
When	has	the boy	swum?

Питання до підмета:

У такому реченні на першому місці стоїть питальне слово Who? Хто? What? Що?, яке є підметом, на другому - допоміжне дієслово, на третьому – присудок:

Питальне слово	Допоміжне дієслово	Присудок
Who	has	swum?

Розділове питання:

Розділові питання перекладаються українською мовою: Чи не так? Чи правда? Зверніть увагу на порядок слів у такому реченні:

1	2	3	4	5	6
Підмет	Допоміжне дієслово	Присудок	Другорядні члени	Допоміжне дієслово у заперечній формі	Підмет (займенник)
Helen		knows	languages,	doesn't	she?
John	has	travelled	a lot,	hasn't	he?

Your friend speaks Spanish, doesn't he? Твій друг розмовляє іспанською, чи не так?

Caroline bought a house, doesn't she? Кароліна купила будинок, чи правда?

4. The Secondary Parts of the Sentence

Другорядні члени речення також мають своє місце в реченні:

а. додаток (відповідає на питання „що?“, „кому?“, „кого?“ і т.п.; виражений іменником або займенником);

б. обставина місця (відповідає на питання „де?“, „куди?“, „звідки?“ і т.п.; виражена іменником або займенником);

с. обставина часу (відповідає на питання „коли?“; виражена іменником, прислівником або словосполученням);

д. обставина способу дії (відповідає на питання „як?“; виражена прислівником або словосполученням);

PRACTICUM IN ENGLISH

Підмет	Присудок	Додаток	Обставина місця	Обставина часу	Обставина способу дії
We	are meeting	him	at the airport	at 7 o'clock.
I	have bought	a house	in the country	recently.
John	drives	his car	-	-	very fast.

Слова в ролі обставини часу: always завжди, usually звичайно, often часто, багато разів, sometimes коли-небудь, seldom рідко, rarely рідко, не часто, never ніколи, ever коли-небудь, будь-коли, also теж, також, just саме, якраз, still усе ж таки, дотепер, все ще, як і раніше, already вже, both обидва, обидві, і той і інший, all весь, уся, усі, усе завжди стоять разом з присудком у середині речення:

Text: “Animals”

Read the text “Red list animals: The Orca”

The animals in this photo are orcas or “killer whales”. In fact, an orca is not a whale, but a type of dolphin. They are swimming in a group near the shore. May be they are hunting seals.

Orcas live in all of the world’s oceans. They hunt and play in groups. They are aggressive. Orcas usually eat fish, squid, seals and turtles. Females have one baby (it is called a calf), every two or three years.

Orcas are in the “red list” because they are in danger of becoming extinct. Some of orcas are in danger because there is pollution in the sea. They also die in fishing nets. I think that is important to protect these animals.

Vocabulary

orca ['ɔ:kə] касатка

whale [weɪl] кит

shore [ʃɔ:] берег; узбережжя

may be можливо, ймовірно

hunt seal полювати на тюленів

squid [skwɪd] кальмар

turtle ['tɜ:tl] черепаха

female ['fi:meɪl] самка

calf [kɑf] дитинча (оленя, слона, кита, тюленя та ін.)

cub [kʌb] дитинча (звіра)

are in danger знаходяться у небезпеці becoming extinct вимирати

pollution [pə'lu:ʃ(ə)n] забруднення; забруднення навколишнього середовища

protect [prə'tekt] захищати, охороняти, запобігати

1. Answer the questions

1. What are the animals in this photo?
2. Do the orcas hunt in groups?
3. Where do orcas live?
4. How often do females have calves?
5. Why orcas are in danger?
6. Why they are becoming extinct?

7. What do orcas eat?
8. What character have orcas?
9. Why are these animals in the “red list”?

2. Find the second part of the following sentences

1. Females have one baby, _____ .

6. They are swimming _____ .
7. Orcas are in the “red list” _____ .
8. Orcas usually eat _____ .
9. Some of orcas are in danger _____ .
10. May be they are _____ .

- a) because they are in danger of becoming extinct.
- b) but a type of dolphin.
- c) hunting seals.
- d) because there is pollution in the sea.
- e) to protect these animals.
- f) fish, squid, seals and turtles.
- g) every two or three years.
- h) in a group near the shore.
- i) all of the world’s oceans.
- j) in groups.

3. Read the text again and determine what statements are true and false

Grammar: The Present Indefinite Tense

Неозначені часи Indefinite (Simple) Tenses вживаються для вираження дії, що відбувається в теперішньому, минулому чи майбутньому часі, але не вказують на її характер, тривалість, завершеність чи передування іншій дії або певному моменту в минулому чи майбутньому. Дієслова в неозначеному часі можуть перекладатися на українську мову дієсловами доконаного чи недоконаного виду.

The Present Indefinite Tense теперішній неозначений час - одна з часових форм дієслова, що вживається для вираження дії, яка відбувається у теперішньому часі.

1. The Present Indefinite Tense вживається для вираження постійної дії або дії, яка повторюється стосовно теперішнього часу:

I wash the stairs every second day. Я мию сходи через день.

She goes to school every day. Вони ходять в школу щодня.

2. The Present Indefinite Tense вживається для вираження дії, яка характеризує підмет постійно або протягом теперішнього періоду часу:

He speaks both French and English fluently. Він вільно розмовляє як французькою, так і англійською мовами.

She dances very badly. Вона танцює дуже погано.

3. The Present Indefinite Tense вживається для вираження дії або стану, які не обмежені часовими рамками і відбуваються незалежно від волі людини:

Sugar dissolves in the water. Цукор розчиняється у воді.

4. The Present Indefinite Tense вживається для вираження дії, яка відбувається в момент мовлення:

а) з дієсловами, що не вживаються у формі Continuous: to see бачити, to know знати, to hear чути, to feel відчувати, to like подобатись, to hate ненавидіти, to love любити, to understand розуміти:

I see anything. Я бачу.

All cats like milk. Всі коти люблять молоко.

I do not (don't) know. Я не знаю.

б) якщо той, хто говорить, лише констатує факт, а не передає дію, як процес, що триває:

He wants you to be manager. Він хоче, щоб ви стали менеджером.

Present Indefinite Tense часто вживається з такими обставинами часу: everyday щодня, every week щотижня, every month щомісяця, every year щороку; on Sundays по неділях, on Mondays по понеділках; in the evening ввечері, in the morning зранку, in the afternoon по обіді, in spring навесні; always завжди, never ніколи, seldom рідко, rarely рідко, не часто, винятково; frequently, often часто, неодноразово, usually звичайно, sometimes інколи. Ці прислівники мають своє місце в реченні: завжди стоять перед присудком, але після допоміжного дієслова.

We go to school every day. Ми ходимо в школу щодня.

They often play golf. Вони часто грають в гольф.

He is never late. Він ніколи не запізнюється.

Розглянемо Present Indefinite Tense детальніше. Для початку складемо таблицю порядку слів.

1. Word Order of Simple Tences

Стверджувальна форма:

Я (ти, ми, вони) плаваю в річці щодня.

Він (вона, воно) плаває в річці щодня.

1	2	3	4
Підмет	Допоміжне дієслово (деякі часові форми обходяться без нього)	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
I, you, we, they	-	swim	in the river every day.
He, she, it	-	swims	in the river every day.

До дієслова у III особі однини (he він, she вона, it воно) додається закінчення -s:

to swim плавати + -s = swims;

to work працювати + -s = works;

to do робити + -s = does;

to go ходити + -s = goes;

to read читати + -s = reads;

to play грати + -s = plays etc.

I, II особа однини та множини: I я, you ти, ви, we ми, you ви, та III особа множини: they вони не потребують дієслова з закінченням -s: swim, work, do, go, read, play etc.

2. Auxiliary Verb of Simple Tences

Заперечна та питальна форми вимагають допоміжних дієслів. Існує група дієслів (todo, tobeetc.), які є допоміжними, тобто, тільки допомагають утворювати часові форми, але не перекладаються. У теперішньому неозначеному часі the Present Indefinite Tense допоміжним дієсловом є to do, яке має дві форми:

to do
do	do + -(e)s=does
I, you, we, they	he, she, it

Допоміжне дієслово does у питальній та заперечній формах „бере на себе обов’язок” основного дієслова (присудка) III особи однини (he він, she вона, it воно) закінчення -s:

He does not go to the theatre. Він не ходить у театр.
Does she go to the theatre? Чи ходить вона у театр?

Знов потрібно скласти таблицьку, так як кожне слово в англійському реченні має своє місце в реченні.

Заперечна форма:

Я (ти, ми, вони) не плаваю в річці щодня.

Він (вона, воно) не плаває в річці щодня.

1	2	3	4	5
Підмет	Допоміж не дієслово	Заперечн а частка NOT	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
I, you, we, they	do	not	swim	in the river every day.
He, she, it	does	not	swim (якщо є допоміжне дієслово does - у цьому випадку закінчення -s немає)	in the river every day.

Питальна форма:

Чи ти плаваєш щодня?

Чи плаває цей хлопець щодня?

1	2	3	4
Допоміжне дієслово	Підмет	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
Do	you	swim	in the river every day?
Does	the boy	swim	in the river every day?

Де ти плаваєш щодня?

Де плаває цей хлопець щодня?

1	2	3	4	5
Питальне слово	Допоміжне дієслово	Підмет	Присудо к	Другорядні члени речення
Where	do	you	swim	every day?
Where	does	the boy	swim	every day?

Питальне слово – WHO? – ХТО (III особа однини – відповідно дієслово – присудок із закінченням -s (speaks, goes, swims, reads, sits etc.)).

Хто плаває щодня?

Питальне слово ХТО? WHO?	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
Who	swims	in the river every day?

Present Simple

1. Констатація факту: The cat likes sausages.
2. Дії та звички, що повторюються: The cat eats sausages every day.
3. Закони природи, загальновідомі факти: Water freezes 0°C.
4. Розклад (про події в майбутньому): It is 5 pm now and the train arrives at 7 pm.
5. Аналіз, спортивний коментар: Brad Pitt acts brilliantly in this movie.

Text: "The Broken Vase"

Read the text: "The Broken Vase"

There was once a young man who was in love with a beautiful girl. The girl's parents were rich, but the young man was very poor. When the girl's birthday was coming the young man wanted to make her a present. He wanted to buy something beautiful for her, but he had no idea what to buy. Beautiful things cost a lot of money and he had very little. He went into a shop where there were many beautiful things, but they were all too dear. Then he saw a beautiful vase. The vase was so beautiful that he could not take his eyes off it. "That would be a good present for the girl I love", he thought.

The owner of the shop saw this.

"Why are you so interested in that vase?" he asked. "Do you want to buy it?"

“No, I can’t”, said the young man and told him everything.

The owner of the shop thought a moment and then said: “I can help you. Do you see the broken vase in the corner there? I shall order my servant to pack the pieces and take it to the girl you love. When he enters the room he will drop it.”

On the girl’s birthday everything happened as had been planned. The servant brought the vase and as he entered the room he dropped it. But when the vase was unpacked, the guests saw that each piece had been packed separately.

Grammar: The Past Indefinite Tense

The Past Indefinite Tense минулий неозначений час – часова форма дієслова, яка виражає дію, що відбувалася в минулому. Past Indefinite Tense вживається для вираження одноразової або постійної дії в минулому. Час, у якому відбувалася дія, вже пройшов і з теперішнім не пов'язаний.

Past Indefinite правильних дієслів утворюється додаванням до інфінітива без частки to закінчення -ed:

to play грати + -ed = played;

to work працювати + -ed = worked;

to stop припиняти + -ed = stopped.

Past Indefinite (II форма) неправильних дієслів утворюється за таблицею неправильних дієслів:

to write писати – wrote; to bring приносити – brought;

to go ходити – went.

The Past Indefinite Tense часто уточнюється обставинами часу: yesterday учора, last week минулого тижня, last year торік, last summer минулого літа, half an hour ago півгодини тому, etc.

They saw him yesterday. Вони бачили його вчора.

We did it last year. Ми зробили це торік.

1. Word Order of Past Simple

Тепер розглянемо будову минулого неозначеного часу the Past Indefinite Tense. Знов складемо таблицю:

Стверджувальна форма:

Я (ти, ви, ми, вони, він, вона, воно) грали у дворі торік.

Я (ти, ви, ми, вони, він, вона, воно) плавали в річці торік.

I, you, we, they, he, she, it	-	played	in the yard last summer.
I, you, we, they, he, she, it	-	swam	in the river last year.

2. Auxiliary Verb of Past Simple

Заперечна та питальна форми також вимагають допоміжних дієслів. У минулому неозначеному часі the Past Indefinite Tense допоміжним дієсловом також є to do – в цій часовій формі – did для всіх осіб без виключення. У заперечній та питальній формах завдяки допоміжному дієслову did у минулому неозначеному часі Past Indefinite Tense основне дієслово – присудок лишається у формі інфінітива без частки to:

I did not write a letter yesterday. Я не написав листа вчора.

Did they sign the agreement last Monday? Чи підписали вони угоду минулого понеділка?

Text: “Jim and Della”

Read the text “Jim & Della”

Jim and Della were young people, husband and wife. They lived in a small room in an old house in one of the dirty streets of New York.

They worked from early morning till late at night, but they got very little money for their work. And still they had two things, which were very dear to them – Jim’s gold watch and Della’s beautiful hair.

Christmas was coming and Della wanted to give Jim a nice present but she had no money. She really did not know what to do. She sat on the sofa and began to cry. Suddenly an idea came to her. She got up and stood in front of the mirror and look at her beautiful long hair. Then she left the house and in a few minutes she was already at the hairdresser’s shop.

“Will you buy my hair?” she asked. The hairdresser looked at her hair and said, “Yes, I will, it is fine hair. I can give you twenty dollars for it.” Della was very happy. She took the money and went to buy a present for her husband. In one of the shops she saw a very beautiful watch chain. “I’ll buy it. Jim will be very glad”, she said to herself. “He needs a chain for his watch”.

So Della bought a gold watch-chain as a Christmas present for Jim. When she got home, Jim was already waiting for her. He looked at her smiling little wife and understood everything.

“Why did you do it?” he asked.

“Dear Jim, my hair will grow and I wanted to give you a present. “Here it is”, and she put the watch-chain into his hand.

The beautiful chain, Della’s present, was of no use to him. He had sold his gold watch to buy a Christmas present for his wife. He took a packet out of his pocket and gave it to Della. She opened it and saw two beautiful combs that she had seen in a shop window and had wanted for so long.

Grammar: The Future Indefinite Tense

The Future Indefinite Tense майбутній неозначений час – часова форма дієслова, що виражає дію, яка відбудеться або відбудуватиметься у майбутньому.

1. Word Order of Future Simple

The Future Indefinite Tense утворюється за допомогою допоміжних дієслів shall і will та інфінітива основного дієслова без частки to.

We shall write the letter. Ми напишемо листа.

They will read this book. Вони прочитають цю книгу.

The Future Indefinite Tense також вимагає певних обставин часу: tomorrow завтра, next week наступного тижня, next year наступного року, next summer наступного літа.

They will see him tomorrow. Вони побачать його завтра.

We will go there next year. Ми поїдемо туди на наступного року.

Допоміжне дієслово shall вживається в I особі однини та множини (Я, вони), will – у II та III особах однини та множини (youти, ви, heвін, sheвона, itвоно, theyвони):

I	shall sign it.	Я підпишу це.
We	shall read it.	Ми прочитаємо це.
You	will work.	Ви попрацюєте.
You	will go.	Ти підеш.
He	will write it.	Він напише це.
She	will tell.	Вона розкаже.
It	will work.	Воно попрацює.
They	will sit.	Вони посидять.

Нагадаємо, що допоміжні дієслова не перекладаються, а тільки виконують свою пряму функцію: допомагають утворити часову форму. Сучасна англійська мова не застосовує допоміжне дієслово shall, його функцію виконує допоміжне дієслово will. Тож і ми не будемо ускладнювати:

I will go to the theatre tonight. Я піду у театр сьогодні ввечері.

We will sign the agreement tomorrow. Ми підпишемо цю угоду завтра.

He will read the book. Він прочитає книгу.

Розглянемо майбутній неозначений час the Future Indefinite Tense. Для кращого розуміння знову складаємо таблицю:

Стверджувальна форма:

Я (ти, ви, ми, вони, він, вона, воно) гратимусь у дворі наступного літа.

Я (ти, ви, ми, вони, він, вона, воно) плаватиму в річці наступного року.

Grammar: The Present Continuous Tense

На відміну від часів групи Indefinite, які вживаються для вираження дії стосовно теперішнього, минулого або майбутнього часу, часи групи Continuous виражають дію як процес, тобто дію, що відбувається (триває) в момент мовлення або в теперішній період часу Present Continuous, тривала в якійсь момент чи період часу в минулому Past Continuous, триватиме в певний момент чи період часу в майбутньому Future Continuous.

Часи групи Continuous утворюються з відповідних часів групи Indefinite допоміжного дієслова to be та дієприкметника теперішнього часу Present Participle основного дієслова.

1. Word Order of Continuous Tenses

The Present Continuous Tense теперішній тривалий час утворюється за допомогою допоміжного дієслова to be та основного дієслова у якості присудка Present Participle тобто до інфінітива без частки to додається закінчення -ing:

to read читати + -ing = reading;

to work працювати + -ing = working.

Занотуємо, що допоміжне дієслово to be змінюється за особами:

ОСОБА	to be
I	am
you, we, they	are
he, she, it	is

А дієслово із закінченням -ing ні за яких обставин вже не змінюється.

Стверджувальна форма:

Я плаваю в річці зараз.

Ти (ми, вони) плаваєш в річці зараз.

Хлопчик плаває в річці зараз.

1	2	3	4
Підмет	Допоміжне дієслово	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
I	am	sw im ming	in the river now
You, we, they	are	sw im ming	in the river now
The boy	is	sw im ming	in the river at the moment

Зверніть увагу, що додавання закінчення -ing призводить до змін в основі дієслів. Дивись таблицю Spelling. – викинути

Заперечна форма:

Я не плаваю в річці зараз.

Ти (ми, вони) не плаваєш в річці зараз.

Хлопчик не плаває в річці зараз.

1	2	3	4	5
Підмет	Допоміжне дієслово	Заперечна частка NOT	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
I	am	not	swimming	in the river now
You, we, they	are	not	swimming	in the river now
The boy	is	not	swimming	in the river now

Питальна форма:

Чи ти плаваєш в річці зараз?

Чи плаває в річці цей хлопчик зараз?

1	2	3	4
Допоміжне дієслово	Підмет	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
Are	you	swimming	in the river now?
Is	the boy	swimming	in the river now?

Де ти плаваєш зараз?

Де зараз плаває цей хлопчик?

1	2	3	4	5
Питальне слово	Допоміжне дієслово	Підмет	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
Where	are	you	swimming	now?
Where	is	the boy	swimming	now?

Питальне слово – WHO? – ХТО (III особа однини – відповідно допоміжне дієслово - is). Питання перекладається: Хто зараз плаває в річці?

1	2	3	4
Питальне слово ХТО? WHO?	Допоміжне дієслово	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
Who	is	swimming	in the river now?

Text: “American Government”

Read the text “American Government”

The United States, unlike most other countries of Europe and Asia has no “government” but only an “administration” or to be more precise, a “president’s administration”.

The latter in its turn has no ministries and consequently no “ministers” but departments and secretaries performing the functions of ministries and ministers.

Traditionally established in the USA are the following thirteen departments: Agricultural Department, Commerce Department, Defence Department, Educational Department, Energy Department, Health and Human Services Department, Housing and Urban Development Department, Interior Department, Justice Department, Treasury Department, and Veterans Affairs Department. Each of these government institutions is headed by an appointed leader, as announced by the presidential secretary. The only exception is the Justice Department which is headed not by a secretary but by the Attorney General.

Almost all Secretaries have their Assistant Secretaries performing the functions of deputy ministers in other European governments. Exceptions from the list include only four departments which have Deputy Secretaries instead. These are Commerce Department, Housing and Urban Development Department, Educational Department and Treasury Department.

Still other departments in the US administration government have Under Secretaries performing the duties of assistant secretaries which correspond to the government positions occupied by deputy ministers in other countries. To these departments belong the Commerce Department and Veterans Affairs Department.

Secretary of the Interior Department, contrary to all others, has an Inspector General for the first assistant. But certainly the most peculiar are the duties of the Interior Department which include building roads, and overseeing the national park system, and not keeping law and order and fighting criminals, which the ministries of the interior are responsible for in other countries. These functions are performed in the USA by the FBI (Federal Bureau of Investigation).

Grammar: The Past Continuous Tense

1. Word Order of Past Continuous

The Past Continuous Tense утворюється за допомогою допоміжного дієслова to be в Past Indefinite минулий неозначений час та дієприкметника теперішнього часу Present Participle основного дієслова (до інфінітива без частки to додається закінчення -ing):

- to tell розповідати + -ing = telling;
to visit відвідувати + -ing = visiting.

Особа	Допоміжне дієслово to be	Основне дієслово Present Participle
I, he, she, it	was	looking
You, we, they	were	working

Стверджувальна форма:

Я (він, вона, воно) плавав в річці об 11 годині.

Ти (ми, вони) плавав в річці об 11 годині.

1	2	3	4
Підмет	Допоміжне дієслово	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
I, he, she, it	was	swimming	in the river at 11 o'clock.
You, we, they	were	swimming	in the river at 11 o'clock.

Заперечна форма:

Я (він, вона, воно) не плавав в річці об 11 годині.

Ти (ми, вони) не плавав в річці об 11 годині.

- And where were you in the evening? А де ти був ввечері?
- When you called on me I was reading the magazine in the library. Коли ти заходив до мене, я читав журнал у бібліотеці.

2. Usage of Past Continuous

1. The Past Continuous Tense вживається для вираження дії, що відбувалась, тривала в певний момент у минулому. На час дії звичайно вказують такі обставинні слова типу at 2 o'clock в 2 години, at midnight о півночі, at that moment на даний час (момент), at 5 o'clock в 5 годин або підрядні речення з дієсловом присудком у Past Indefinite:

At 9 o'clock PM we were sitting in the room listening to the radio. В 9 годин вечора ми сиділи у кімнаті та слухали радіо.

2. The Past Continuous Tense вживається для вираження дії, що тривала протягом якогось періоду часу в минулому:

In the spring of the year 1999 they were visiting their relatives. Навесні 1999 року вони гостювали у своїх родичів.

3. Дієслова, що не вживаються в формі Continuous

Дієслово у формі Continuous виражає дію, як процес, що триває в момент мовлення або в певний період теперішнього часу. Дієслова, які не виражають дію як процес, як правило, в формі Continuous не вживаються.

До них належать:

а) дієслова, що виражають відношення між предметами: to be бути; to have мати; to possess, to own володіти; to consist складатися; to contain, to hold вмішувати; to belong належати; to depend залежати; to resemble бути схожим та ін.;

б) дієслова, що виражають відчуття: to see бачити; to hear чути; to smell відчувати запах, нюхати;

в) дієслова, що виражають бажання, почуття, волевиявлення: to want хотіти; to wish, to desire бажати; to love любити; to like подобатися; to hate ненавидіти; to refuse відмовлятися; to agree погоджуватись; to prefer віддавати перевагу;

г) дієслова, що виражають розумову діяльність: to know знати; to believe вірити; to suppose припускати; to recognize впізнавати; to remember пам'ятати, пригадувати; to understand розуміти.

Сучасна англійська мова, особливо усна, допускає вживання цих дієслів у формі Continuous:

I am waiting to see you. Я хочу бачити вас.

He is just being sentimental. Він зараз занадто сентиментальний.

What are you thinking about? Про що ви думаєте?

Past Continuous

1. Дія тривала впродовж вказаного моменту минулого: Jack was watching TV at 3 pm yesterday.

2. Дія відбувалася в минулому і була перервана іншою дією: While Emma was watching TV her brother called.

3. Дві та більше дії в минулому, що відбувалися одночасно: Jane was listening to music and her dog was chewing her shoes.

Text: “English Food”

Read the text “English Food”

English cooking is heavy, substantial and plain. The ideal English breakfast consists of cereals, either porridge, or cornflakes, with milk and sugar, followed by bacon and eggs, or sausages and tomatoes, toasts and marmalade, and finally of course a cup of tea or coffee. For a change they can have a boiled egg, cold ham or fish.

Tea is part of the prose of British life, as necessary as potatoes or bread. It must be made “just like mother makes it”, one teaspoonful of tea for each person and one “for the pot”. Boiling water is added and the tea is allowed to stand, brew or draw. It is drunk with or without sugar but almost always with milk.

The midday meal is called lunch. This meal consists on weekdays, for example, of stew, fried fish, chops, liver or sausages, and some kind of vegetables, usually carrots, cabbage, peas, and potatoes.

Meat is rather expensive in Britain and the working class tends to buy the cheaper cuts and imported rather than home-produced meat. Rice and macaroni are seldom served.

Vegetables such as carrots, peas, and then cabbage are cooked for long periods in lots of water, then strained and served. The sweet, sometimes called dessert may consist of fruit and the famous steamed or boiled pudding. Another favourite sweet is rice pudding.

There are many varieties of pie. Fruit baked in a covering of pastry with a “lid” is called a pie, without a lid it is called a tart. These pies or tarts are eaten hot or cold, often with custard.

Sunday dinner is a special occasion, a weekend joint of beef or lamb being bought and eaten hot with vegetables. After this there will probably follow a large, heavy pudding with custard, a cup of tea or coffee completes the meal.

Five o'clock tea is a peculiar meal. It is a snack of thin bread and butter and cups of tea with small cakes.

Dinner for them follows at seven o'clock and supper some time after nine. For the working class household, however, tea is a fairly substantial meal, often consisting of boiled ham and salad or a boiled egg, bread and butter and jam, and tea. On weekdays some families eat a hot meal in the evening that is at teatime. Supper is usually a snack of bread and cheese and cocoa.

Grammar: The Future Continuous Tense

The Future Continuous Tense утворюється за допомогою допоміжного дієслова to be у Future Indefinite майбутній неозначений час та дієприкметника теперішнього часу Present Participle основного дієслова (до інфінітива без частки to додається закінчення -ing):

Особа	Допоміжне дієслово to be	Основне дієслово Present Participle
I, we	shall be	looking
he, she, it, you, they	will be	working

1. Usage of Future Continuous

The Future Continuous Tense вживається для вираження тривалої дії, що відбуватиметься в якійсь момент або період часу у майбутньому:

We shall be playing all morning. Ми будемо гратися весь ранок.

У сучасній англійській мові the Future Continuous Tense часто вживається у тому ж самому значенні, що й Future Indefinite, тобто виражає майбутню дію:

I shall be asking thousands of questions. Я буду ставити тисячі запитань.

2. Word Order of Future Continuous

Стверджувальна форма:

Read the text “Meet the Family”

Donald Hewitt. Donald is a very rich man now though he was born into a poor family. Nobody knows how he got into big money but now he has got a computer factory in Cambridge and big accounts in Swiss banks. He is quiet, self-confident and doesn't like to talk much. He's been married to Rosemary for thirty years. They have got three children, two sons and a daughter. Donald has a house in Cambridge and a villa in Spain. He is fond of golf and spends all his free time on golf courses with his business partners. Donald is very strong-willed person and his only weak spot is his love to his grandchildren.

Vocabulary

accounts рахунки

quiet ['kwaɪət] спокійний

self-confident самовпевнений strong-willed рішучий, вольовий

weakspot слабке місце (у людини)

Rosemary Hewitt. Rosemary is Donald's second wife. His first wife died at childbirth 36 years ago. So Rosemary is a stepmother for Charles, Donald's eldest son. Rosemary is a writer of romantic novels, and she is very rich too, because practically all her books become bestsellers as soon as they are published. Most of her time Rosemary lives in Cambridge with her husband and their three dogs, but she also has a house in London where she stays when she discusses her books with her editor. Donald and Rosemary spend summers in their villa in Spain, far from rainy England. When she is not writing, Rosemary enjoys taking care of the beautiful flowers that grow in her garden.

Vocabulary

publish публікувати

editor ['editə] редактор

take care піклуватися

Charles and Amanda Hewitt. Charles is Donald's favourite son. For a long time Charles was an only child in the family and he was spoilt by his grandparents (both Donald's and his late wife's) and his nurse who took care of Charles till Donald married Rosemary. Charles grew up to be selfish, arrogant and extremely ambitious. He became a good businessman but not a nice person. He is married to Amanda who used to be a famous model. Amanda is very beautiful; she won the Beauty Contest "Miss Europe 2012". Charles was one of the sponsors of the contest. He met Amanda there and married her a month later. It isn't a love match. Charles needs a beautiful wife and hostess. Amanda needs a husband who can buy her the things she likes. They have two children: Lucy, who is seven and David who has just turned six. Neither Charles nor Amanda are affectionate people. Charles collects cars and spends more time with them than with his wife and children. Amanda is in love with her face and body and her hobby is shopping and visiting beautician salons and health clubs. She hardly ever thinks about her husband and children.

Andrea and Joseph Williams. Andrea is Donald's and Rosemary's daughter. She is her mother's favourite child. In her childhood Andrea was fond of animals. She used to bring home stray dogs and cats, birds with broken wings, collected bugs and butterflies. Her favourite subject at school was biology and after graduating from her college Andrea became a scientist. Her special field is microbiology and she works in her laboratory for long hours. She is married to Joseph who loves his wife more than anything else in the world. Donald and Rosemary's son-in-law is a children's doctor. Andrea and Joseph don't have children of their own yet, so they like to spend time with their niece and nephew. They often take them out into the country where Andrea teaches the kids to love and respect nature and Joseph teaches them to fish and to make a camp fire.

Vocabulary

used to bring зазвичай приносила

stray dogs and cats бродячі собаки і коти

graduate ['grædʒʊeɪt] закінчити вищий навчальний заклад

Robin Hewitt. Robin is Andrea's brother. He is 25 and he is a rock singer, though not famous. His parents are not happy about the lifestyle Robin has chosen. Robin didn't like his school and finishing it he got involved in a company of teenagers who took drugs and stole from shops. Though Robin had never known what lack of pocket money was, he liked what his friends called "adventurer" and ended up in a police station after his friends and he tried to rob a local bank. He didn't go to prison because he was not 14 at that time but he never learnt to work hard and his parents are very much upset that he doesn't want to study and get a good profession.

Practice 36 Grammar: The Pronoun

Англійська назва цієї частини мови the Pronoun немов би показує її призначення – замінити іменник.

За значеннями і граматичними особливостями займенники в англійській мові поділяються на кілька груп:

- особові – personal pronouns
- присвійні – possessive pronouns
- зворотні – reflexive pronouns
- взаємні – reciprocal pronouns
- вказівні – demonstrative pronouns
- питальні – interrogative pronouns
- неозначені – indefinite pronouns
- заперечні – negative pronouns
- кількісні – quantitative pronouns

1. Personal Pronouns

Найважливіша група займенників – особові займенники Personal Pronouns: I я; you ви, ти; we ми; they вони; he він; she вона; it воно (вона, він) мають два

ВІДМІНКИ: називний the Nominative Case і об'єктний the Object Case:

the Nominative Case	the Object Case
I я	me мене, мені
you ви, ти	you вас, вам, тебе, тобі
we ми	us нас, нам
they вони	them їх, їм
he він	him його, йому
she вона	her її, їй
it воно (вона, він)	it його, йому

Займенник it заміняє іменники – назви неістот, тварин, рослин, а також іменник baby немовля. Іноді назви тварин замінюються займенниками he або she (у казках, назви свійських тварин).

Українською мовою особовий займенник it перекладається словами він, вона, воно залежно від роду відповідного іменника в українській мові:

Take this book. It is good. Візьми цю книжку. Вона хороша.

2. Possessive Pronouns

В англійській мові присвійні займенники my, mine мій, моє, моя, мої; your, yours ваш, ваша, ваше, ваші, твій, твоя, твоє, твої; our, ours наш, наша, наше, наші; their, theirs їхній, їхня, їхнє, їхні; his його; her, hers її; its його, її мають дві форми: залежну Conjoint Form і незалежну Absolute Form:

Conjoint Form	Absolute Form	Українські відповідники
my	mine	мій, моє, моя, мої
your	yours	ваш, ваша, ваше, ваші твій, твоя, твоє, твої
our	ours	наш, наша, наше, наші their	theirs	їхній, їхня, їхнє, їхні
his	his	його (чоловічий рід)
her	hers	її
its	-	його, її

Присвійні займенники в залежній формі вживаються перед іменниками у ролі означення: my dog мій собака; his car його машина; its windows його вікна (наприклад, будинку); our bags наші сумки; your telephone твій (ваш) телефон; their picture їхня картина.

Присвійні займенники в незалежній формі не вживаються перед іменниками; вони заміняють їх і виконують функції підмета, іменної частини присудка або додатка:

PRACTICUM IN ENGLISH

Where are all our toys? – Mine are here.	Де всі наші іграшки? – Мої тут.
I have eaten all my sandwiches, can I have one of yours ?	Я вже з'їв всі мої бутерброди, чи можна мені з'їсти один з твоїх ?
Susan wants to know if you have seen a file of hers .	Сьюзан хоче знати, чи не бачив ти її файл.
This is my room and that is yours .	Це моя кімната а то – твоя .
Whose book is it? It's mine .	Чия це книга? Моя .
I don't think your car is better than mine .	Я не думаю, що ваша машина краща за мою .
Their house is big and ours is small.	Їхній будинок великий, а наш - маленький.
Your luggage is here and where is hers ?	Ваш багаж тут, а де її?
This pen is yours , and not mine .	Ця ручка ваша , а не моя .

В англійській мові нема такого присвійного займенника, що відповідав би українському свій і стосувався будь-якої особи. Український присвійний займенник свій англійською мовою перекладається різними присвійними займенниками залежно від особи, якої він стосується:

Я користуюсь своїм принтером. I use my printer.

Вони користуються своїм фотоапаратом. They use their camera.

Вона користується своїм комп'ютером. She use her computer.

May I borrow your pen? Чи можу я позичити вашу ручку? I've lost mine. Я загубив свою.

Mary sold her house. Мері продала свій будинок.

Слово свій в українській мові вживається, коли підмет описує того, кому належить об'єкт. Отже, в англійській мові є два однакові способи показати, кому належить об'єкт:

This is our car. Це наша машина.	This car is ours. Ця машина наша.
--	---

І тільки в одному випадку є зворот, який має перевагу: коли мова іде про дружбу:

a friend of mine мій друг звучить вагомніше, ніж my friend мій друг:

He is an old friend of mine. Він – мій старий друг.

3. Reflexive Pronouns

Зворотні займенники утворюються додаванням закінчення –self в однині і –selves у множині до присвійних займенників my, your, our, особових займенників у об'єктному відмінку him, her, it, them, та неозначеного займенника one: myself, yourself, himself, herself, itself, ourselves, yourselves, themselves, oneself:

She often speaks to herself. Вона часто розмовляє сама з собою.

This fact speaks for itself. Цей факт говорить сам про себе.

Наголос у зворотних займенниках падає на -self, -selves.

Деякі дієслова із зворотними займенниками перекладаються українською мовою дієсловами із зворотною часткою –ся (-сь):

I dressed myself. Я одяглася.

I cut myself. Я порізався.

He washes himself in cold water. Він вмивається холодною водою.

Зворотні займенники вживаються також, як підсилювальні слова і відповідають українським сам, особисто, власною персоною:

I saw it myself. - Я самце бачив.

We spoke to the President himself. Ми говорили із самим президентом.

The house itself is very old, but you don't feel that. Сам будинок дуже старий, але ви цього не відчуєте.

Деякі вирази потрібно запам'ятати:

We really enjoyed ourselves. Ми чудово провели час.

Please make yourself at home. Будь ласка, почувайтеся, як вдома.

I did it all by myself. Я все це зробив сам.

I'm all by myself in this house. Крім мене, у цьому домі нікого немає.

4. Reciprocal Pronouns

В англійській мові є два взаємних займенники: each other і one another, що мають однакове значення – один одного, один одному. Взаємні займенники мають два відмінки: загальний the Common Case – each other, one another і присвійний the Possessive Case – each other's, one another's.

We loved each other very much. Ми дуже любили один одного.

They greeted one another. Вони привітали один одного.

They looked at each other. Вони дивились один на одного.

We said "Good by" to each other. Ми сказали „До побачення” один одному.

5. Demonstrative Pronouns

До вказівних займенників належать: this цей, that той, such такий, the same той самий. Займенники this і that мають форму множини: these ці і those ті.

Give me that document. Дай мені той документ.

He knows these documents. Він знає ті документи.

This is the same document. Цей самий документ.

It was such a pleasant party! То була така приємна вечірка!

6. Interrogative Pronouns

Англійські питальні займенники: who хто, what що, which який, which який, whose чий.

Питальний займенник who має два відмінки: називний (the Nominative Case) – who хто і об'єктний (the Objective Case) – whom кого, кому.

Who is your friend? Хто твій товариш?

Whom did you see in the house? Кого ти бачив в будинку?

What are you doing? Що ти робиш?

What book do you read? Яку книжку ти читаєш?

Which month is the warmest? Який місяць найтепліший?

Окремо розглянемо групу питальних складених займенників, які передають емоції: здивування, дратування, сумління тощо:

Whatever	Whatever are you talking about?!	Про що ж ти говориш?!
Whoever	Whoever has told you so?!	Хто ж тобі таке сказав?!
Whichever	Whichever shall I choose?!	Що ж мені вибрати?!
Whenever	Whenever shall I look for?!	Де ж мені ще шукати?!

7. Indefinite Pronouns

До неозначених займенників належать: some дехто, який-небудь, якийсь, кілька, деякі; any який-небудь, які-небудь, скільки-небудь; one (дивись розділ Зворотні займенники); а також складні займенники somebody, someone хтось, хто-небудь; something щось; anybody, anyone хто-небудь; anything що-небудь.

У більшості випадків займенники some, somebody, someone, something вживаються у стверджувальних та, іноді, в питальних реченнях:

Somebody is knocking on the door. Хтось стукає в двері.

There are some books on the table. На столі кілька книжок.

Will you have some more tea? Вам ще налити чаю?

Give me some book to read. Дайте мені почитати яку-небудь книжку.

He will listen to someone. Він вислухає кого-небудь.

Займенники any, anybody, anyone, anything вживаються

а) у загальних питаннях і заперечних реченнях:

Are there anybody in the room? Хтось є в кімнаті?

He does not speak anything. Він нічого не сказав.

б) у стверджувальних реченнях, де неозначені займенники мають значення: anybody-який, anybody, anyone - будь-хто, anything будь-що:

You can buy stamps at any post-office. Марки можна придбати у будь-якому поштовому відділенні.

8. The Indefinite Pronoun ONE

Неозначений займенник one не стосується конкретної особи, він вживається щодо людей взагалі і має значення якийсь, хтось, будь-хто, кожний тощо:

One should learn to count. Кожному слід навчитися рахувати.

One must go in for sports. Спортом рекомендується займатися кожному.

Займенник one вживається в загальному і присвійному відмінках.

У загальному відмінку one виконує функцію підмета або додатка:

One never knows what he can do. Ніколи не знаєш, що він зробить.

One should be careful when crossing the street. Слід бути обережним, коли переходиш вулицю.

One often hears about such things. Про це часто можна почути.

One can buy cheese at the dairy counter. Сир можна купити в молочному відділі.

One can buy here apples, lemons and grapes. Тут можна купити яблук, лимонів та винограду.

У присвійному відмінку one's виконує роль означення:

One must always keep one's word. Треба завжди дотримувати свого слова.

to do one's duty виконувати свій обов'язок

One у сполученні з іменниками, що вказують на час, виражає невизначений час:

One day he will do it. Колись він зробить це.

Також займенник one вживається замість раніш вжитих в реченні злічуваних іменників:

I have not got a dictionary. I must buy one (a dictionary). В мене немає словника. Я маю його купити.

This is a black pencil and that is a red one (a pencil). Це чорний олівець, а то – червоний.

One (ones) у сталих словосполученнях:

it's all one to me для мене це не має значення;

one after the other один за одним; поступово; не всі разом;

one by one по одинці;

the little ones діти;

the pretty ones гарненькі дівчата.

9. Negative Pronouns

До заперечних займенників належать: no ні; nobody, no one ніхто; nothing ніщо, нічого; none ніхто, жоден, ніщо; neither жоден:

I saw nobody there. Я нікого там не бачив.

She knows nothing. Вона нічого не знає.

I have no brother. (або I have not a brother.) В мене немає брата. Зверніть увагу, що артикль не ставиться, якщо стоїть неозначений займенник no.

No dictionary could help you. Ніякий словник не зміг допомогти йому.

Neither of us mentioned him. Жоден з нас не згадував його.

Також характерно вживання парних займенників: either ... or або ... або, neither ... nor ні ... ні.

I know neither him, nor his friends. Я не знаю ні його, ні його друзів.

10. Quantative Pronouns

Кількісні займенники: many, much багато, few, little мало, a few, a little кілька, трохи:

There were many students in the classroom. В аудиторії було багато студентів.

She has few books. В неї мало книжок.

I have very little time. У мене дуже мало часу.

Слова many багато та few мало вживаються зі злічуваними іменниками:

many students багато студентів;

few people мало людей;

few apples мало яблук.

Слова much багато та little мало вживаються із незлічуваними іменниками:

much time багато часу;

much information багато інформації;

little money мало грошей.

Займенники many та much особливо у стверджувальних реченнях можна замінити на a lot of:

We have a lot of books. У нас багато книжок.

They spend a lot of time. Вони витрачають багато часу.

Наявність неозначеного артикля перед few і little змінює їх значення. Артикль підкреслює наявність певної, хоч і невеликої, кількості. Порівняємо речення:

We have little sugar. У нас мало цукру.	We have a little sugar. У нас є трохи цукру.
I have few books. У мене мало книжок.	I have a few books. У мене є кілька книжок.

Few і little, вжиті без артикля, означають мала, недостатня кількість, погано, недостатньо в негативному розумінні:

She had little rest during Sunday and looked tired. Вона погано (недостатньо) відпочила у неділю і виглядала втомленою.

Але, якщо до цих слів додається неозначений артикль, вони набувають позитивного змісту:

I have few pencils. В мене мало (недостатньо) олівців.

I have a few pencils. В мене є кілька олівців.

We have little time to do this exercise. У нас мало часу, щоб зробити цю вправу.

We have a little time to do this exercise. У нас є трохи часу, щоб зробити цю вправу.

Read the text “Choosing Your Way in Life”

Mary Glass is 39 years old and she is a doctor. She choose the medical profession because she wanted to help people and at the same time to make good money. When Mary was younger her wish was to become a teacher or a nurse but she soon realized that there was not much money in either of those professions. Mary’s parents were rather old-fashioned people and thought that a woman’s place is at home. So they wanted their daughter to become a secretary, marry a respectable young man, have several children and stay at home working about the house and bringing up the kids. When Mary applied to a medical college her parents refused to give her any financial support and she had to work as a waitress in a restaurant to earn money for her college fees. She specialized as an optician, made a good career in the hospital she works, got married, had two children and is very much satisfied both with her family life and her business career.

Billy Blackthorn left school when he was sixteen. He didn't study well and had no qualification. He just wanted to earn some money and got himself a job in a factory. He didn't mind being a blue-collar worker, all he wanted was enough money to take his girl friend out on a Saturday night. But soon he and his fellow-workers were replaced by robots who could do their job and Bill was sacked. He was out of work for eighteen months and understood how terrible it was to be unemployed. The days seemed so long and the dole that he got was enough only for the cheapest food and second-hand clothes. Bill finally got a job as an unskilled labourer, working for a builder. He is 25 now and thinks that it is not to start attending night classes and get some extra training so that he can't earn more money as a skilled worker.

John Rushton is a businessman. He is 50 years old and he has been working for the same company for twenty-seven years. He thinks that he has a very successful career. He started working for the company as a poorly paid clerk and was one of those nine-to-five white-collar office workers who spend all day with a pencil in one hand and a telephone in the other. He hated it and asked to be transferred to sales where he became one of the company's sales representatives. John traveled all over the country selling the company's products and eventually became the most successful salesperson on the staff. In ten years he was promoted to manager of the sales department. He has got a good salary and benefits. He might retire in another ten years and then his pension will allow him to live comfortably in his country house enjoying his hobbies that he has no time for now while he still works.

Joan Evans: This month I am leaving school to face the real world. My main ambition is to live and work abroad. I hope to go to college and do a tourism course. When I am in college, I will learn at least two foreign languages. I think that by the time I am 30 I'll be married and have a baby. I don't want to be rich and famous, but I do want to enjoy life.

Steve Taylor: My greatest wish is to be a manager for Rolls Royce. I will go to work Rolls Royce as an apprentice, and after 4 or 6 years I will be an engineer. I am not very ambitious but I'd like to become a manager in Rolls Royce. I'll get married in my mid-twentieth because I want to have children and my mother says that you need to be young to cope with them.

Grammar: The Preposition

1. Usage of Prepositions

Чітких правил, які визначають, де і які треба вживати прийменники, немає. Є тільки прийняті норми (usage).

Прийменники in, on, at використовуються для опису місцезнаходження.

IN - у тривимірному сприйманні (об'єм):

The pencil is in the box. Олівець у коробці.

My children are playing in the garden. Мої діти граються в саду.

The table is in the middle of the room. Стіл - посередині кімнати.

Mother cooks dinner in the kitchen. Мати готує обід в кухні.

ON - у двовимірному сприйманні (площина):

The books are on the table. Книжки на столі.

The number is on the door. Номер на дверях.

A dirt is on your shirt. Бруд на вашій сорочці.

He lives on the second floor. Він живе на другому поверсі.

ON - в одновимірному сприйманні (лінія):

A town on the Mississippi River. Місто на річці Міссісіпі.

His village is on the border. Його село на кордоні.

AT – місцезнаходження:

He is standing at the door. Він стоїть біля дверей.

He is sitting at my desk. Він сидить за моїм столом.

The car is at the crossroads. Машина стоїть на перехресті.

Зверніть увагу: дуже важливо, як сприймається це місце, “що всередині”:

We meet at the theatre. Зустрічаємось у театрі. (місце зустрічі)

There are 200 seats in the theatre. У театрі 200 місць.

Прийменники перед географічними назвами:

IN перед назвами континентів: in Europe; перед назвами країн: in Cuba;
перед назвами штатів: in Florida; перед назвами міст: in Paris.

ON - перед назвами вулиць: on Broadway, on Naberezhna Street, on Soborna Street.

Коли іде мова про час, український прийменник “через” перекладається як in:

In two hours you must be at home. Через 2 години ти маєш бути вдома.

Такі фрази, як “наступного року”, “наступного тижня” в англійській мові як і в українській (на відміну від російської) взагалі не потребують прийменника:

next year наступного року: I'll see him next year. Я побачу його наступного року.

last year торік: We did it last year. Ми зробили це торік.

this morning цього ранку;

every day кожного дня;

next week наступного тижня.

Не вживається прийменник і в такому звороті:

two times a day двічі на день;

three times a year тричі на рік: I go to school five times a week. Я ходжу до школи 5 разів на тиждень.

Запам'ятайте такі сталі словосполучення з прийменниками часу:

at present	зараз/в даний час;
at lunch time	під час обіду at the same time	в той самий час
at the weekend	на вихідних:
Are you going away at the weekend?	Чи поїдеш ти кудись на вихідні?
at night	вночі;
at Christmas (Easter)	на Різдво (Великдень):
In Germany children get presents at Easter.	В Німеччині діти отримують подарунки на Великдень.
at the end of ...	в кінці ...:
I am going on holiday at the end of October.	Я збираюсь у відпустку в кінці жовтня.
at the moment	зараз:

What is it for? Навіщо це?

What is all that noise about? Що цей шум означає?

Подібні приклади незвичні і тому заслуговують на особливу увагу. Деякі англійські прийменники є складеними:

wherefromзвідки; Whereareyougoingandwherefrom? Куди ви ідете і звідки?

what forнавіщо; I need this book. - What for? Мені потрібна ця книга. – Навіщо?

He is from Ukraine. Він – з України.

What country is he from? З якої він країни?

This is for him. Це - для нього.

Whom is it for? Для кого це?

She is looking at the wall. Вона дивиться на стіну.

What is she looking at? На що вона дивиться?

В українській мові прийменник з легкістю переходить на початок фрази, а в англійській він, навпаки, намагається залишитися на місці.

We are talking about music. Ми говоримо про музику.

What are we talking about? Про що ми говоримо?

He opened the bottle with a knife. Він відкрив пляшку ножем (за допомогою ножа).

What did he open the bottle with? Чим він відкрив пляшку?

Отже, одна з причин цього явища – “небажання” англійського прийменника міняти своє місце в реченні при переході від ствердження до запитання.

В англійській мові існує група прийменників, які вживаються з дієсловами. В деяких підручниках їх називають “prepositional verbs” „дієслова з прийменниками”. Дієслова завдяки закріпленям за ними прийменникам мають багато значень. Наприклад, в залежності від прийменника-„післяслівника” дієслово to give давати має значення:

to give away віддавати; зраджувати;

to give back повертати;

to give in поступатися;

to give under не витримувати;

to give out видавати; випускати;

to give up відмовитись.

1. Usage of Postpositions

Практична порада: якщо ви побачите в англійському тексті прийменник, який стоїть після дієслова, ніколи не перекладайте на українську мову навіть добре знайоме дієсловом його основним значенням. Прийменник-супутник неодмінно вплинув на значення дієслова: посилив, послабив або зовсім його змінив. Якщо ці словосполучення перекладати окремо, а не у комбінації, буде відсутній зміст. Запам’ятати всі такі ідіоми неможливо, але деякі з них вживаються досить часто і запам’ятовуються автоматично, мимовільно (якщо ж таке словосполучення зустрічається в тексті, shout to кричати (до когось, комусь)	He shouted to us that we should call the police. Він крикнув нам, що ми повинні викликати поліцію.

belong to належати (комусь)	This house belongs to my brother. Цей будинок належить моєму брату.
belong in перекладається зворотом “йому місце (в)”	This box belongs in the basement. Ця коробка має стояти в підвалі. This guy belongs in jail. Цьому чоловікові місце у в'язниці.
borrow from позичити	I'll have to borrow 5 dollars from you. Мені доведеться позичити у вас п'ять доларів. She borrowed the car from me. Вона позичила мою машину.
invite to запрошувати (на)	She invited us to the party. Вона запросила нас на вечірку.
complain about жалітися (на), нарікати (на)	She always complains about her health. Вона завжди скаржиться на своє здоров'я.
depend on залежати (від) Інколи це дієслово винятково вживається без прийменника	Now everything depends on you. Тепер все залежить від вас. Will you go with us? - It depends. Чи поїдете ви з нами? - Важко сказати. (або: Це залежить від обставин.).

В англійській мові прийменник може закінчувати не тільки питальне, але й стверджувальне речення:

This is the house that I told you about.	Це той будинок, про який я вам говорив .
I know what I'm talking about.	Я знаю, про що говорю .
I know the woman whom you were talking to.	Я знаю жінку з якою ви розмовляли .
I like the restaurant which we normally go to.	Мені подобається ресторан, куди ми зазвичай ходимо .
He found the letter that he was looking for.	Він знайшов лист, який шукав .

Дієслова talk (to; with), speak (to; with) вживаються з двома прийменниками, різниці практично немає. Американський варіант англійської мови надає перевагу прийменнику “to”, однак, не плутайте його з часткою, яка стоїть перед дієсловом (інфінітивом):

Whom do you want to talk to?	З ким ви хочете поговорити ?
It was nice talking to you.	Приємно було поговорити з вами.
Could I speak to the manager, please?	Чи можу я поговорити з менеджером?

Прийменник by тісно пов'язаний з групою іменників. Наприклад: їхати на чомусь:

to go by train їхати на поїзді;

to go by taxi їхати на таксі;

to go by bus їхати на автобусі.

У відповідних зворотах української та англійської мов вживаються різні прийменники. Наведемо кілька прикладів “яскравої” невідповідності:

in the East (South, etc.) *на*сході (півдні і т.д.);

in the rain *під*дощем;

to be in the money бути при грошах;

in the tree *на*дереві;

in the picture *на*картині;

in the fresh air *на*свіжому повітрі;

for this reason з цієї причини.

Ці звороти потрібно запам'ятати:

an excellent mark on the exam п'ятірка з екзамену;

exception to the rules виняток із правил;

to learn by heart вивчити напам'ять;

play on words грати слів;

a program on the radio передача по радіо;

on TV по телебаченню;

plans for the evening плани на вечір;

I did it on principle. Я зробив це з принципу.

I did it on purpose. Я зробив це навмисне.

Особливо важким є вживання прийменника at:

at any cost	будь-якою ціною: You must do it at any cost. Ти повинен це зробити - кров з носу.
at high speed	на великій швидкості; at my expense	за мій рахунок; at a right angle	під прямим кутом;
at your own risk	на твоїй ризик;
at his request	найого прохання.

Розглянемо еквівалентність значень деяких слів: чому перемогу можна тільки здобути, а поразку зазнати; чому роль можна грати, відігравати, значення мати, а висновки і компліменти робити? Чому англійське слово to pay, що означає платити, сполучається з такими несподіваними, з погляду нашої мови, словами як attention увага, visit візит, visit відвідування, compliments комплімент, поздоровлення? Чому такі сполучення як висока трава, міцний чай, сильний дощ по-англійськи звучать, як „довга трава "longgrass, сильний чайstrongtea, „важкий дощ" heavyrain?

Переклад слів за допомогою словника, що містить еквіваленти значень слів, інколи заплутує, провокуючи на вживання іноземних слів у звичних контекстах іноземної мови, а ці контексти рідко збігаються.

Наприклад, поширене слово книжка і його еквівалент. В англо-українських словниках це слово входить до складу багатьох сталих сполучень. Лише в одному з них воно перекладається словом книжка:

abookon/aboutbirdsкнижкапрожиттяптахів;

a reference bookдовідник;

a cheque bookчекова книжка;

a ration bookкартки;

to do bookвести рахунки;

our order books are fullми більше не приймаємо замовлень;

to be in smb's good (bad) bookбути на гарному (поганому) рахунку;

I can read her like a bookя бачу її наскрізь;

we must go by the bookтреба діяти за правилами.

Отже, кожне слово в кожній мові має своє, властиве тільки їй, коло сполучуваності. Іншими словами, воно сполучається з одними словами і не сполучається з іншими.

Деякі звороти дієслів з прийменниками, як наприклад: getalongжити; makeupзробити – навітьзмінюють значення дієслова, тому їх називають дієслівними ідіомами або „післяслівниками” (в англійській мові на відміну від української прийменник може стояти і в кінці речення). Ці дієслівні ідіоми ми розглянемо пізніше.

Деякі з таких дієслів вживаються з цілою групою однотипних об'єктів:

to play tennis (basketball,etc.) грати в теніс (баскетбол і т.д.);

to play cards грати в карти;

to play guitar (violin,etc.) грати на гітарі (скрипці і т.д.);

to hit in (some part of the body) бити по (якійсь частині тіла):

The goalie hit the forward in the leg. Воратар вдарив нападаючого по нозі.

to read cardsгадати на картах.

2. Stable Word-Combinations

Третя група слів – стійкі словосполучення, які не допускають заміни слів:

be interested in цікавитись	They are interested in the computer equipment. Їх цікавить комп'ютерне обладнання.
be different from відрізнятися	It is very different from the sample. Це дуже відрізняється від зразка.
be sorry about вибачатися	I am sorry about the mistakes. Вибачте мене за помилки.
be married to (to get married) бути одруженим	She was married to John. Вона одружилась з Джоном.

Text "City and Country Life"

Read the text "City and Country Life"

Chris Duncan is a 35-year-old doctor who lives in London, but spends most weekends in the summers at a cottage in the village of Ireton Wood. He says:

“For me the life in the country is wonderful – all this fresh air and singing of the birds! If I could afford it, I’d give up my practice in London and come to live here all the year round. I am tired of the city with its pollution and traffic and the people rushing about from place to place without the time to think and look around. Every time I wake up in the cottage and look out and see the flowers and the grass and the magnificent line of trees on the hill over there, I feel it’s good to be alive. Whereas in London it’s depressing. Standing in queues, waiting for the buses and then being stuck in the underground like sardines. There are so many people that you can’t breathe. And everyone is in such a rush!

What I like most about the country is that everyone knows everyone else, and they are friendly. In the city if you live in a block of flats, like me you can be there for years and never even get to know your neighbours. There are some in my block I have never seen. There is a lot more crime and violence in the city than in the country. Of course, the life in London is exciting but people don’t go out every night there, because they can’t afford it.”

Vocabulary

afford [ə'fɔ:d] мати можливість, могли (зробити що-небудь); дозволити собі

give up відмовитися (від роботи, пропозиції); кинути (звичку); залишити

pollution [pə'lu:ʃ(ə)n] забруднення; забруднення навколишнього середовища

traffic ['træfik] рух, повідомлення; транспорт

rush [rʌʃ] кидатися, прямувати, направлятися; нестися; мчати щодуху magnificent [mæg'nifis(ə)nt] чудовий; пишний; величний

queue [kju:] черга

block of flats багатоквартирний будинок

exciting [ik'saitɪŋ] збуджуючий, хвилюючий; захоплюючий

Alan Sumner, aged 22, is the son of Ireton Wood farmer. He has a different view on the city and country life.

“For my Dad and me, the country isn’t a matter of looking out of the window at the trees. It’s a bit different if you had to get up at five in the morning, with snow on the ground, to milk the cows. And all the time you have to watch the weather! And your neighbours! Some of them are not worth knowing at all. Take the Cartwrights, for instance. Old Jack Cartwright won’t even tell you the time without expecting you to pay him something, and as far for his wife, well, she sits there with her nose pressed to the window all day spying on everyone... You will tell me that there are gossips in the city too. Maybe, but not like Mrs. Cartwright. If you say “Hello” to a girl in this village it will get around to everyone in about to hours thanks to her, and the next thing you know someone will come up and ask you when you are going to get married! That’s the trouble with the country. Always the same faces and you can’t get away from them. I would like to live in the city and meet some interesting people. All right, I admit we have got less crime. It is a quite life. But there is nothing to do here. We have not cinemas, theatres, museums, exhibitions, cafés, restaurants, supermarkets, big shopping centres and etc. I am sure, you would soon get fed up with Ireton Wood if you had to live here all the year round.”

Vocabulary

worth [wɜ:θ] вартий, що заслуговує (чого-н.); що має значення

for instance наприклад

gossip ['gɒsɪp] балаканина, розмови; плітка; чутки; вигадки

maybe ['meɪbi] може бути; можливо trouble [trʌb(ə)l] неприємність, біда, горе; напасті

same той самий, цей же

admit [əd'mɪt] визнавати, допускати

exhibition [eksɪ'bjʃ(ə)n] виставка; експонат(и)

Samuel Oaks, is a 43-year-old farmer whose ancestors lived in the country all their lives.

“The thing I like most about living on the farm is the change of seasons. Spring, summer, autumn and winter – you can see them all come and go, and each one is completely different. In the city you can’t tell the difference – you can buy summer flowers in winter and eat the same vegetables all the year round. Here in the country you only eat things at certain times of the year – for example, strawberries in June and turnips in winter. You live with the season. Also we make most of our food. We make butter and cheese; we grow our own vegetables and bake our own bread. We never eat frozen or tinned food. Everything is fresh – so it must be better for you. City people may think we miss a lot of good things about modern life, but in my opinion they miss real life.”

Vocabulary

ancestor ['ænsəstə,'ænsɛstə] предок, прабатько completely [kəm'pli:tli] зовсім, повністю, цілком

strawberry ['strɔ:b(ə)ri] суниця, полуниця

turnip ['tɜ:nɪp] турнепс, ріпа

bake [beɪk] пекти, випікати; запікати

frozen food заморожені продукти

tinned food консервовані продукти

fresh [freʃ] свіжий, натуральний; неконсервований

miss [mɪs] пропустити; пройти мимо; не помітити

Samuel’s daughter Alex, is 15 and she doesn’t agree with his father.

“I hate living on the farm. I have to travel 15 miles to school every day in any weather. If a want to go out at weekends, I have to go 20 miles to the nearest town, but the last bus is really early. I would prefer to live in the city with good shops and places to go. I never do anything here but work helping my parents about the farm. I can’t wait to leave home and get a job in town. I will never be a farmer’s wife!”

John Williams is 28 and he lives in Hampstead, about 5 km from the centre of London.

“Life is fast here and there is always something to do – cinemas, theatres, restaurants. Shopping is fantastic – you can buy anything to want in London, shops are often open late in the evening and on Sundays. I like the pubs – many have music in the evening. The street markets are great and I like London’s parks too. Lost of people in London don’t have gardens so it’s good to get out for a walk. There are bad things about London, too, of course. There are too many people; you have to queue for everything - in the banks, supermarkets, post offices. And it’s true that London is dirty – people just throw things in the street and I hate that. It’s also very noisy and there is too much traffic. But I still prefer London to any other place I know.”

Vocabulary

queue [kju:] черга

traffic ['træfik] рух, транспорт

Sheila Brooks is 25, she is a young school teacher and lives in a small village called Henfield with a population about 500 people.

“I love it because it’s quite and life is slow and easy. You never have to queue in shops or banks. The village is clean – the people look after it and don’t throw their rubbish in the streets. The air is clean too because there is not much heavy traffic. It’s much more friendly here than in a city. Everyone knows everyone and if someone has a problem there are always people who can help. There are not many things that I don’t like about Henfield. One thing is that there isn’t much to do in the evenings – we have not got any cinemas or theatres. The other problem is that people gossip – you know, in small places people always talk about each other and everyone knows that everyone is doing. But I still prefer village life to life in a big city.”

Vocabulary

rubbish [rʌbɪʃ] сміття, мотлох

Trudie Pollock, a London psychiatrist speaks about one more city problem.

“I see many people with the same problem – they are lonely. They don’t usually say they are lonely – instead they say they have problems with their jobs, their home life, they say they can’t sleep or work well or that they are unhappy. But when I speak to them if find it is often because they don’t know enough people to spend time with or they find it difficult to meet people. There are thousands of people like this in London – students away from their families for the first time, young people who moved to London to work, mothers with young children, old people living alone. These people don’t need hospitals or drugs, they need other people. I help them to think how they can meet other people and make friends. Others can learn something new – a new language, yoga, cooking – go to evening classes and meet people there. Young mothers can join “mother and baby” clubs and there are social clubs for old people. There are lots of ways to meet people in London, and my job is often just giving them information and advice.”

Vocabulary

psychiatrist [sai'kaiətrɪst] психіатр

lonely ['ləʊnli] самотний

instead [ɪn'sted] замість

enough [ɪˈnʌf] достатня кількість

alone [əˈləʊn] один, самотній; на самоті

evening classes вечірні курси

advice [ədˈvaɪs] порада; консультація (юриста, лікаря)

Grammar: Modal Verbs

В англійській мові є група дієслів can, could, may, must, ought to, have to, be able to, should, will, would, need, dare, які називаються модальними. Ці дієслова не мають усіх основних форм, властивим іншим дієсловам, і тому вони ще називаються недостатніми (Defective Verbs):

1) модальні дієслова не мають форми інфінітиву, 3 особи однини, майбутнього часу, а деякі – форми минулого часу;

2) модальні дієслова не вживаються самостійно, а лише в сполученні з інфінітивом іншого дієслова. Після модальних дієслів не вживається частка to, за виключенням haveto та oughtto:

I can speak English. Я можу розмовляти англійською.

She must do it. Вона повинна зробити це.

3) питальні та заперечні речення модальні дієслова утворюють самостійно, без допомоги допоміжних дієслів:

May I come in? Чи можна мені увійти?

What can you see in the picture? Що ти бачиш на малюнку? (можеш бачити)

Модальні дієслова не виражають дію або стан, а лише можливість, необхідність, бажаність, імовірність, сумнів, дозвіл, заборону, здатність виконання дії, позначеної інфінітивом.

1. Modal Verb CAN

CAN
1) фізична або розумова здатність, вміння:	I can speak English.	Я розмовляю (вмію розмовляти) англійською.
	He can't swim.	Він не вміє плавати.
2) можливість:	I can't call him.	Я не можу йому зателефонувати. (не працює телефон)
3) можливість у майбутньому:	I can do it tomorrow.	Я зроблю (зможу зробити) це завтра.
4) прохання, пропозиція:	Can I help you?	Чим я можу Вам допомогти?
5) дозвіл, пропозиція:	You can take it.	Ви можете це взяти.
6) заборона:	You can't take it.	Це брати не можна .

Заперечна форма вказує на неймовірність дії:

He can't tell lies. Він нездатний говорити неправду.

He can't have told. Не може бути (неймовірно), щоб він це сказав.

2. Modal Verb COULD

COULD
1) здатність у минулому:	She could play the piano, when she was little.	Вона вміла грати на піаніно, коли була маленькою.
2) можливість у майбутньому:	We could take a taxi.	Ми могли би взяти таксі.
3) ввічливе прохання:	Could you help me?	Чи не могли би Ви мені допомогти?
4) імовірність у теперішньому або майбутньому:	He could be in the pool now.	Він, можливо , зараз у басейні.

Дієслова can/could у заперечній формі can't/couldn't вживаються у сталих словосполученнях:

can't/couldn't help (doing) не можу утриматись від; не можу не робити (чогось); can't/couldn't do smth нічого іншого не залишається, як зробити (щось);

She can't help crying. Вона не може не плакати.

He couldn't help laughing. Він не може утриматись від сміху.

I can't but ask him about it. Нічого іншого не залишається, як запитати його про це.

They couldn't but refuse him. Нічого іншого не залишається, як відмовити йому.

3. Modal Verb BE ABLE TO

2) ввічливе прохання, пропозиція:	May I help you?	Чи я можу Вам допомогти?
3) дозвіл:	You may take it.	Ми можете взяти це.

5. Modal Verb MIGHT

MIGHT
можливість, імовірність у теперішньому або майбутньому:	The bag might be hers.	Ця сумка, можливо її.
	It might snow tonight.	Сьогодні ввечері, можливо піде сніг.

6. Modal Verb MUST

MUST
1) необхідність, обов'язок:	I must apologize.	Я повинен вибачитися.
2) імовірність, впевненість:	You must have a lot of friends.	У вас, мабуть , (напевно) чимало друзів.

7. Modal Verb HAD TO

HAD TO
необхідність у минулому:	He had to return to home.	Він повинен був повернутися додому.

8. Modal Verb HAVE TO

HAVE TO
1) необхідність у теперішньому або майбутньому у силу обставин:	I have to work tomorrow. He has to be careful.	Я повинен працювати завтра. Він повинен бути обережним.
2) відсутність необхідності:	You don't have to hurry.	Вам не потрібно поспішати.

9. Modal Verbs SHOULD and OUGHT TO

SHOULD та OUGHT TO
необхідність порада:	як	You should see a doctor.	Вам слід звернутися до лікаря.
		You should take it.	Вам слід це взяти.
		You ought to call home.	Вам слід зателефонувати додому.
		She ought to be careful.	Їй слід бути обережною.

10. Modal Verb BE TO + Infinitive

BE TO + Infinitive
необхідність здійснити дію згідно попередньої домовленості плану:		He is to come here tomorrow.	Він повинен прийти завтра сюди.
	/	The goods are to be delivered next week.	Товари повинні бути доставлені наступного тижня.

WAS, WERE TO + Indefinite Infinitive

дія, яка повинна була здійснитися минулому:	в	I was to sent him a letter, but I forgot.	Я повинен був надіслати йому листа, але забув.
		The goods were to be delivered last week.	Товари повинні були бути доставлені минулого тижня.

WAS, WERE TO + Perfect Infinitive

дія, яка повинна була б здійснитися в минулому, але не здійснилася:		The contract was to have been signed last week.	Контракт повинен був підписаний минулого тижня. (але не підписаний)
			Товари повинні були бути доставлені минулого тижня.

BE TO + Infinitive in Passive Voice

виражає можливість:	також	Such books are to be found in all libraries.	Такі книги можна знайти в усіх бібліотеках.
------------------------	-------	---	--

11. Modal Verb DARE

DARE
вживається у якості модального дієслова із значенням боятися або мати сміливість щось зробити:		I hardly dare tell him what happened.	Навряд чи я зможу розказати йому, що сталося.

Розглянемо декілька найбільш уживаних у повсякденній мові модальних дієслів.

can	You can use the printer.	Ти вмієш користуватися принтером.	фізична здатність may	You may use the printer.	Тобі дозволено користуватися принтером.	ДОЗВІЛ

Обидва модальні дієслова can, may можна перекладати однаково – можеш. Але є невелика різниця:

PRACTICUM IN ENGLISH

Can фізична здатність людини	May дозвіл на щось
I can speak Spanish. Я вмію розмовляти іспанською мовою.	May I take your pen? Чи можна мені взяти твою ручку?
I can not speak German. Я не вмію розмовляти німецькою мовою.	May I go out? Чи можна мені вийти?
I can see. Я можу бачити.	May I come in? Чи можна мені увійти?

Наведемо простий приклад: уявіть собі ситуацію: Бабуся напекла велику миску пиріжків.

Онука питає у бабусі: “May I eat all these cakes? Чи можна мені з’їсти всі пиріжки (чи дозволено мені)?” Бабуся відповідає: “Yes, you may if you can. Так, ти можеш, якщо зможеш.” (іншими словами „Я тобі дозволю, якщо ти зможеш з’їсти все.”).

must	You must use the printer.	Ти повинен користуватися принтером.	наказ should	You should use the printer.	Тобі слід користуватися принтером.	порада

Модальні дієслова must та should також можна перекласти однаково – повинен. Але:

Must повинен як наказ	Should повинен як порада, слід
You must do it. Ти повинен зробити це.	You should do it. Тобі слід зробити це.
It must be Mr. Smith. Це має бути містер Сміт.	You should be more attentive. Вам слід бути уважнішим.

12. Constructions with Modal Verbs

USED TO + Infinitive колись, звичайно
I used to think that all people were good.	Колись я вважав, що всі люди хороші.
She used to return by the last train.	Вона завичай поверталася останнім потягом.
TO BE USED TO + дієслово з -ing -закінченням звикнути:
I am not used to returning so late.	Я не звик повертатися так пізно.
She is used to getting up early.	Вона звикла рано вставати.

Practice 47 Grammar: The Adverb

The Adverb прислівник є частиною мови, яка характеризує дію, стан, якість і відповідає на запитання „як? як часто? як довго? скільки часу? коли?”.

1. Morphological Characteristic of Adverbs

За своєю структурою прислівники діляться на прості Simple Adverbs, що складаються з одного кореня; похідні Derivative Adverbs, що мають у своєму складі суфікси або префікси; складні Compound Adverbs, що складаються з двох, трьох коренів; складені Composite Adverbs, що складаються з кількох слів:

Simple Adverbs	Derivative Adverbs	Compound Adverbs	Composite Adverbs
well добре, гаразд;	slowly повільно;	anyhow як-небудь, щоб не було, у всякому разі;	at once добре, гаразд; відразу, негайно hard сильно, наполегливо;	forward вперед, далі;	sometimes іноді, інколи;	at last нарешті;
much багато, значно;	headlong стрімголов, необачно, наосліп;	nowhere ніде, нікуди;

Похідні, складні та складені прислівники утворюються від інших частин мови (здебільшого від прикметників та іменників) за допомогою суфіксів -ly, -ward, -long:

1. Прислівники, що збігаються значенням з тими іменниками або прикметниками, від яких вони утворені:

the Noun	the Adverb
day день	daily щоденно, щодня
part частина	partly частково

the Adjective	the Adverb
quick швидкий	quickly швидко
slow повільний	slowly повільно
easy легкий	easily легко

2. Прислівники, що не збігаються значенням з прикметниками, від яких вони утворені:

the Adjective	the Adverb
short короткий	shortly нещодавно
deep глибокий	deeply дуже
bare 1) голий; 2) незначний; 3) неприкрашений	barely 1) ледве; 2) відверто hard твердий	hardly ледве, навряд чи, насилу fair 1) справедливий; 2) непоганий; 3) сприятливий; 4) ясний; 5) гарний	fairly 1) досить, певною мірою; 2) справедливо
just 1) справедливий; 2) заслужений; 3) вірний	justly законно near близький	nearly майже, приблизно scarce [skɛəs] недостатній	scarcely ледве-ледве, навряд
late пізній, колишній	lately нещодавно, за останній час

I live quite near. Я живу зовсім близько.

I have nearly forgotten about it. Я ледве не забула про це.

She works hard. Вона наполегливо працює.

She hardly works. Вона мало (ледве) працює.

They came late. Вони прийшли пізно.

The children have lately become restless. Останнім часом діти стали неспокійні.

3. Багато прислівників а англійській мові своєю формою цілком збігаються з іншими частинами мови і можуть бути визначені як прислівники лише залежно від їх ролі в реченні. Прислівники, що збігаються формою з прикметниками:

the Adverb	the Adjective	the Adverb
fast	швидкий	швидко
long	довгий	довго
loud	голосний	голосно
late	пізній	пізно
wide	широкий	широко
hard	твердий	уперто, тяжко
early	ранній	рано

the Adjective	the Adverb
They took a fast train. Вони сіли на швидкий потяг.(„який?“)	He rode fast. Він їхав швидко.(„як?“)
That was a long day. То був довгий день.(„який?“)	She waited long. Вона довго чекала.(„як довго? скільки часу?“)

Порівнюємо прикметник та прислівник:

the Adjective	the Adverb	the Note
Sue is very quiet. Сью дуже швидко.(„яка?“)	Sue speaks very quietly. Сью дуже швидко розмовляє.(„як?“)	не може бути: „ speaksveryquiet ”
Becareful! Будь обережним!(„яким?“)	Listen carefully! Слухай уважно!(„як?“)	не може бути: „ listencareful ”

4. Деякі слова мають різне значення в залежності від того, якою частиною мови вони є:

the Adjective	the Adverb
only єдиний	only тільки, виключно pretty гарненький	pretty досить, цілком
well здоровий	well добре, гаразд

Але потрібно зауважити, що в англійській мові є деякі прикметники, що закінчуються на суфікс -ly, які не слід вважати за прислівники, наприклад:

lovely милий, приємний;

manly мужній;

friendly дружній: He speaks in a friendly way. Він розмовляє дружнім тоном.

В англійській мові, особливо з дієсловами to taste пробувати на смак, мати смак (присмак); to feel почувати, відчувати, сприймати на дотик; to sound звучати; to look дивитися; to smell пахнути, відчувати запах іноді вживаються прикметники, які ми можемо перекласти як прислівники:

That sounds good.	Звучить непогано .
The flowers smell wonderful.	Квіти пахнуть чудово .

2. Groups of Adverbs

Значенням прислівників англійській мові поділяються на 5 основних груп:

1. Прислівники часу Adverbs of Time: today сьогодні, yesterday вчора, now тепер, soon незабаром, early рано, late пізно, then тоді, before до того як та ін.

2. Прислівники місця Adverbs of Place: here тут, there там, where де, near поблизу, above зверху та ін.

3. Прислівники повторюваності й частотності Adverbs of Repetition and Frequency: often часто, never ніколи, sometimes іноді, ever будь-коли, usually звичайно та ін.

4. Прислівники ступеня Adverbs of Degree: very дуже, quite зовсім, little мало, too занадто, much багато та ін.

5. Прислівники способу дії Adverbs of Manner: quickly швидко, well добре, badly погано, slowly повільно, easily легко та ін.

3. Degrees of Comparison of Adverbs

В сучасній англійській мові прислівники є морфологічно незмінними словами. Єдиною формальною зміною, що збереглася у невеликій групі прислівників, головним чином, у прислівників, які визначають характер дії Adverbs of Manner є зміна при порівнянні.

Односкладові прислівники, які часто збігаються формами з прикметниками, у вищому ступені мають суфікс -er, у найвищому ступені - суфікс -est:

late пізно	later	latest fast швидко	faster	fastest

We can't wait any longer. Ми не могли чекати довше.

Of all the singers I have heard she sang loudest. Серед всіх співаків, яких я чув, вона співала найголосніше.

Більшість прислівників, що закінчуються на -ly утворюють ступені порівняння за допомогою слів more у вищому ступені і most у найвищому ступені:

slowly повільно	more slowly	most slowly quietly спокійно, тихо	more quietly	most quietly carefully обережно	more carefully	most carefully

She did it more carefully. Вона зробила це ще обережніше.

Could you speak more loudly, please. Чи не могли би ви говорити голосніше.

You can find it most easily by turning right. Тобі набагато легше буде знайти це, якщо ти повернеш праворуч.

Порівняння робиться також за допомогою слів less та least:

slowly повільно – less slowly повільніше – least slowly дуже повільно

Зверніть увагу на зауваження - не плутайте словосполучення: at least – в усякому разі, принаймні; at last – нарешті:

It's hard but at least you can try. Це важко, але принаймні, ви можете спробувати.

At last you did it. Нарешті ви зробили це.

Least of all he worries about you. Менш за все він турбується про тебе.

Кілька прислівників, що збігаються в своєму значенні з відповідними прикметниками, утворюють ступені порівняння від різних основ:

good добре	better	best
bad погано	worse	worst little мало	less	least much багато	more	most far далеко	farther, further	farthest, furthest

Now you do it better than you did it last year. Зараз ти робиш це краще, ніж робиш це торік.

I love music more and more. Музика подобається мені більше і більше.

Text: "Niagara Falls"

Read the text "Niagara Falls"

Niagara Falls is the best known natural wonder in the USA. It is visited by the greater number of people from America and abroad than any other place on the continent.

Niagara Falls is situated between New York and Chicago. Niagara is an Indian word which means "roaring waters". Indeed the roar of the falling water can be heard at a distance of 25 kilometres.

A mass of water is falling over a cliff 90 feet high (27 meters) with a terrible noise. Niagara has very great power. It can move big rocks and throw them into the waters.

There were some people who wanted to become famous by swimming across the most dangerous part of the Niagara River.

Niagara Falls is beautiful and all the time is changing. Many great writers tried to describe it. Charles Dickens wrote of Niagara: "The first effect of Niagara Falls was peace. Nothing of gloom."

Abraham Lincoln, the great President of the United States, said of Niagara: "It calls up the past.

When Columbus first saw this continent Niagara was roaring here. Niagara is as strong today as ten thousands years ago."

The Niagara River gives electric power too. More than a million horse power is produced now at Niagara for local use and is sent to cities and towns in New York State and to Canada.

Grammar: The Present Perfect Tense

1. Часи групи Perfect

Перфектні (доконані) часи виражають дію, що відбулася до певного моменту чи періоду в теперішньому часі Present Perfect, минулому Past Perfect, майбутньому Future Perfect стосовно минулого Future-in-the-Past.

Перфектні часи звичайно виражають наявність якогось результату дії, пов'язаної з наступними подіями.

Перфектні часи утворюються з відповідних неозначених часів допоміжного дієслова to have та дієприкметника минулого часу Past Participle основного дієслова.

2. Word Order of Perfect Tenses

The Present Perfect Tense теперішній перфектний час утворюється за допомогою допоміжного дієслова to have у Present Indefinite та дієприкметника минулого часу Past Participle (III форма, дивись таблицю неправильних дієслів) основного дієслова.

Дієслова у Present Perfect зазвичай вказують на те, що дія здійснилася до моменту мовлення.

I have brought a book for you. Here it is. Я приніс тобі книгу. Ось вона.

They have broken the old house and built the new one. Вони зруйнували старий будинок та побудували новий.

We had finished our work before he came. Ми закінчили роботу, перш ніж він прийшов.

By 5 o'clock we had done all tasks. До 5 години ми зробили всі завдання.

Past Participle правильних дієслів утворюється додаванням до інфінітива закінчення -ed:

to stay залишатися + -ed = stayed;

to work працювати + -ed = worked;

to conclude укладати + -ed = concluded, тобто за формою Past Participle не відрізняється від Past Indefinite.

Past Participle неправильних дієслів треба запам'ятати:

to write писати written;

to do робити done;

to speak розмовляти spoken.

Допоміжне дієслово to have змінюється за особами:

ОСОБА	to have
I, you, we, they	have
he, she, it	has

I have locked the door. Я замкнув двері (двері зараз замкнені).

He has told me about him. Він розповів мені про нього.

Стверджувальна форма:

Я (ти, ви, ми, вони) прожив 40 років у цьому місті.

Хлопчик прожив 40 років у цьому місті.

1	2	3	4
Підмет	Допоміжне дієслово	Присудок III форма	Другорядні члени речення
I, you, we, they	have	lived	40 years in this town.
The boy	has	lived	40 years in this town.

Заперечна форма:

Я (ти, ви, ми, вони) не прожив 40 років у цьому місті.

Хлопчик не прожив 40 років у цьому місті.

1	2	3	4	5
Підмет	Допоміжне дієслово	Заперечна частка NOT	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
I you, we, they	have	not	lived	40 years in this town.
The boy	has	not	lived	40 years in this town.

Питальна форма:

Чи ти прожив 40 років у цьому місті?

Чи хлопчик прожив 40 років у цьому місті?

1	2	3	4
Допоміжне дієслово	Підмет	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
Have	you	lived	40 years in this town?
Has	the boy	lived	40 years in this town?

Де ти прожив 40 років?

Де хлопчик прожив 40 років?

1	2	3	4	5
Питальне слово	Допоміжне дієслово	Підмет	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
Where	have	you	lived	40 years?
Where	has	the boy	lived	40 years?

Питальне слово – WHO? – ХТО – III особа однини, відповідно допоміжне дієслово – has:

Хто прожив 40 років в цьому місті?

1	2	3	4
Питальне слово ХТО? WHO?	Допоміжне дієслово	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
Who	has	lived	40 years in this town?

3. Usage of Present Perfect Tense

Present Perfect вживається у реченнях з обставинами часу:

а) що означають період часу, який почався в минулому і триває до моменту мовлення: up to now, up to the present до цього часу; lately нещодавно, за останній час; recently останнім часом; so far до цього часу; since відтоді; not yet ще не:

You have not shown me your room yet. Ви ще не показали мені своєї кімнати.

She has known Jack ever since she was a child. Вона знає Джека з того часу, як була дитиною.

б) що означають період часу, який ще не закінчився: today сьогодні; this week цього тижня; this month цього місяця; this year цього року; this morning сьогодні вранці:

I have not see him this year. Я не бачив його цього року.

в) Present Perfect вживається у реченнях з прислівниками неозначеного часу і частотності: ever коли-небудь; never ніколи; often часто; seldom рідко; already вже; just щойно:

Have you ever thought about it? Ви коли-небудь думали про це?

Present Perfect

1. Дія нещодавно завершилася в минулому, є результат: Jane has bought a new scarf.

2. Дія відбулася в минулому, результат впливає на теперішній час: Tom has got a loan.

Text: "Big Ben"

Read the text "Big Ben"

Big Ben is one of London's best-known landmarks, and looks most spectacular at night when the clock faces are illuminated. You even know when parliament is in session, because a light shines above the clock face. The four dials of the clock are 23 feet square, the minute hand is 14 feet long and the figures are 2 feet high. Minutely regulated with a stack of coins placed on the huge pendulum, Big Ben is an excellent timekeeper, which has rarely stopped. The name Big Ben actually refers not to the clock-tower itself, but to the thirteen ton bell hung within.

The bell was named after the first commissioner of works, Sir Benjamin Hall. This bell came originally from the old Palace of Westminster, it was given to the Dean of St Paul's by William III.

Before returning to Westminster to hang in its present home, it was refashioned in Whitechapel in 1858. The BBC first broadcast the chimes on the 31st December 1923 - there is a microphone in the turret connected to Broadcasting House. During the Second World War in 1941, an incendiary bomb destroyed the Commons chamber of the Houses of Parliament, but the clock tower remained intact and Big Ben continued to keep time and strike away the hours, its unique sound was broadcast to the nation and around the world, a welcome reassurance of hope to all who heard it.

There are even cells within the clock tower where Members of Parliament can be imprisoned for a breach of parliamentary privilege, though this is rare; the last recorded case was in 1880. The tower is not open to the general public, but those with a "special interest" may arrange a visit to the top of the Clock Tower.

Grammar: The Past Perfect Tense

1. Word Order of Past Perfect Tense

The Past Perfect Tense минулий перфектний час утворюється за допомогою допоміжного дієслова to have у Past Indefinite та дієприкметника минулого часу Past Participle основного дієслова. Дієслова в Past Perfect не змінюються за особами й числами:

I (he, she, it, we, you, they) had locked the door. Я (він, вона, воно, ми, ти, ви, вони) замкнув двері (двері вже замкнені).

The Past Perfect Tense вживається для вираження дії, що відбулася раніше іншої минулої дії, позначеної дієсловом у Past Indefinite:

I told you I had met her. Я казав тобі, що зустрів її (зустрів її раніше, ніж говорив про це).

The sun had set. Сонце вже зайшло.

The Past Perfect Tense також вживається для вираження минулої дії, що вже закінчилася до певного моменту в минулому. Цей момент позначається такими словосполученнями: by two o'clock до другої години; by that time до того часу; by the 1st of September до першого вересня тощо:

I had read the book by that time. Я прочитав книгу до того часу.

Text: "Statue of Liberty"

Read the text "Statue of Liberty"

Located on a 12 acre island, the Statue of Liberty Enlightening the World was a gift of friendship from the people of France to the people of the United States and is a universal symbol of freedom and democracy. The Statue of Liberty was dedicated on October 28, 1886, designated as a National Monument in 1924 and restored for the centennial on July 4, 1986.

A "time pass" reservation system has been implemented by the National Park Service for visitors who plan on entering the monument. Secondary screening on Liberty Island is required for those entering the monument.

Time passes are available at no cost from the ferry company with the purchase of a ferry ticket. Advance tickets can be ordered (at least 48 hours) by calling the ferry company.

A limited number of time passes are available from the ferry company each day on a first-come, first-served basis. Time passes are not needed to visit the grounds of Liberty Island or the Ellis Island immigration museum.

Ellis Island is part of the Statue of Liberty National Monument. It was added to the National Park System in May of 1965 and through extensive restoration, its main building opened over a quarter century later on September 10, 1990 as a national museum of immigration. Ellis Island is federal property partly within the territorial jurisdiction of the both the States of New York and New Jersey.

American Family Immigration History Centre (AFIHC) at Ellis Island. Official site for Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island Foundation containing manifests of 25 million immigrants, passengers, and crew members who entered New York Harbour between 1892 and 1924.

The only way to get to Liberty Island is by using the Statue of Liberty - Ellis Island Ferry system. Private vessels are not allowed to dock at Liberty and Ellis Islands.

Text "The London Eye"

Read the text "The London Eye"

The London Eye - the Giant Observation Wheel, became operational in January 2000. Standing proud in London's Jubilee Gardens, on the South Bank of the River Thames the British Airways' London Eye, is a focal point of the Nation's celebration of the New Century.

The Wheel is the largest of its kind ever to be built, at a height of 135m (450 feet) and 1600 tonnes; it is a new landmark for London, to mark the new Millennium.

People of all ages from around the country are making special journeys to see this new and exciting giant Wheel and to participate in the excitement of being transported high above London. Visitors to London from abroad, are delighted by this new and novel way of seeing the city from a birds eye view.

As the Wheel is set in motion, you will feel a keen sense of anticipation. The higher it soars, the more celebratory the experience becomes, as you enjoy the breathtaking views from the heart of the city.

Well-known landmarks and buildings of central London are spread out in a great panorama before you; it is fun to see how many you can identify.

Some to look out for are; The Imperial War Museum; The Globe Theatre; The Oval Cricket Ground; The Tate Gallery; Westminster Abbey; The Houses of Parliament and Big Ben; The Tower of London; St Paul's Cathedral; The National Portrait Gallery; Buckingham Palace; The British Museum; The Telecommunications Tower.

The architects of the London Eye are husband and wife team, Julia Barfield and David Marks, winners of the competition for ideas to mark the Millennium; their design was considered to be the most imaginative project conceived.

David and Julia wanted to present not just a monument, but something celebratory, that people could participate in and enjoy. David researched and developed the idea for a giant observation wheel and Julia found the ideal site by drawing a circle round London and finding the dead centre, Jubilee Gardens on the South Bank.

An observation wheel was built for Chicago's Worlds Columbian Exposition in 1893, it became known as the Ferris wheel, after the designer whose name has been synonymous with these wheels ever since. Observation or Ferris wheels, have been included at many of the great expositions throughout the world, and are considered to be traditional structures at great occasions of celebration. David and Julia thought of the wheel as representing the turning of the century.

Three years of work went into the project, planning permission had to be granted, feasibility studies undertaken, financial consultations and all the groundwork needed to get the giant Wheel designed and built. David and Julia hoped to have two and a half years to construct the Wheel, but by the time the finances were in place they were left with only fourteen months. In recognition of their work, the imaginative design and the pleasure it will give to millions of people, the couple have the prize, awarded the MBE.

Culture of Professional Communication

Read the following texts

A Book of Etiquette - In the early 1900s, Emily Post wrote a book of etiquette. The book consisted of the "shoulds" and "should nots" of living in "high society". For example, young women were told to always wear white gloves when they went to a dance. This was so that they would never touch a man's hand. Men were told to always walk on the street side of the sidewalk when they walked with a woman. This was so that the woman would not get dirty from the carriages driving by on the street. The rules of etiquette has certainly changed since the early 1900s.

Formal Party - All formal parties are subdivided into day-time parties and evening parties with sitting at the table and without sitting.

Formal party with sitting at the table one can shortly defines by the term "banquet" and without sitting - "fourchette".

According to the purpose of the party and its solemnityreceptions are: day-time parties – a glass of champagne, a glass of wine, breakfast; evening parties – dinner, fourchette, supper, cocktail, banquet-tea or coffee.

Attributes of Such Parties

If the party is of high level in the invitation card one should indicate the form of clothes: a dinner-jacket or a tail-coat (a frock for a man, an evening dress (a frock) or as variant – a cocktail dress – for a woman. Englishmen sometimes write: “Undress” – you may come to the formal party in daily clothes.

To official parties it is better to come in a frock. Jewelry – in moderate amount. For the day-time parties it is better to put on bijouterie or silver adornment. To breakfast or cocktail you can come in a small little felt or silk hat and you may not to take it off during a party.

You should take off gloves right away on your coming. For day-time parties silk or kid-gloves are more suitable and for evening parties you can put on lacy or other gloves. Pay attention to this rule: the shorter are the sleeves of a dress so longer must be gloves.

Etiquette in Business - Social behaviour and manners are important factors in communication. The etiquette for communicating is more effective (sometimes) when conducting international business.

- Never give a gift of liquor in Arab countries.
- In Arab countries never turn down food or drink; it's an insult to refuse hospitality. But don't be too quick to accept either, a ritual refusal (“I don't want to put you to any trouble”.) is expected before you finally accept.
- In Pakistan remember the Moslems pray 5 times a day, so don't be surprised when, in the midst of negotiations, your partners excuse themselves and conduct prayers.
- In Africa and in India, people may distrust you and avoid doing business with you if you get strictly to business. Africans need plenty of time to get to know their future partners and are suspicious of those who are in a hurry.

You will see how important it is to know other cultures, use their experience in your own country.

Grammar: Passive Voice

1. Word Order of Active Voice

Ми розглядали англійські дієслова у активному стані the Active Voice.
Порядок слів у активному стані:

1	2	3
Підмет	Присудок	Додаток
I Я	wrote написав	the letter. листа.
She Вона	paints малює	the pictures. картини.

2. Word Order of Passive Voice

Пасивний стан the Passive Voice вживається для того, щоб описати дію, не називаючи діючу особу. У центрі уваги – особа або предмет, над яким відбувається дія:

She is always invited to parties. Її завжди запрошують на вечірки.

Якщо розглянути з граматичної точки зору тексти, наукові статті, анотації, резюме, то можна побачити, що більшість речень складена у пасивному стані. Спробуємо зрозуміти яким чином утворюється пасивний стан.

Усі часові форми пасивного стану в англійській мові утворюються з відповідних часів допоміжного дієслова та дієприкметника минулого часу основного дієслова.

Як завжди, для кращого розуміння складаємо таблицю:

Часові форми	Допоміжне дієслово	Присудок – дієприкметник минулого часу Past Participle основного дієслова
the Present Indefinite Tense	am, is, are	worked gone
the Past Indefinite Tense	was, were	played known
the Future Indefinite Tense	shall be will be	stopped written
the Present Continuous Tense	am being is being are being	finished spoken
the Past Continuous Tense	was being were being	started blown
the Present Perfect Tense	have been has been	visited chosen
the Past Perfect Tense	had been	celebrated drunk
the Future Perfect Tense	shall have been will have been	washed eaten

PRACTICUM IN ENGLISH

У пасивному стані існує тільки дві часових групи Continuous: PresentContinuous и Past Continuous; форма Future Continuous - відсутня. Також у пасивному стані відсутні часові групи PerfectContinuous.

А тепер розглянемо утворення пасивного стану дивлячись на таблицю.

ACTIVE VOICE	PASSIVE VOICE
the Present Indefinite Tense
You always inform me in time. Ти завжди інформуєш мене вчасно.	I am always informed by you in time. Я завжди проінформований тобою вчасно.
He concludes the agreements every day. Він укладає угоди кожен день.	The agreements are concluded by him every day. Угоди укладаються ним кожен день.
the Past Indefinite Tense
He informed me in time. Він проінформував мене вчасно.	I was informed by him in time. Я був проінформований ним вчасно.
They concluded the agreements yesterday. Вони уклали угоди вчора.	The agreements were concluded by them yesterday. Ці угоди були укладені ними вчора.
the Future Indefinite Tense
They will conclude the agreement tomorrow. Вони укладуть угоду завтра.	The agreement will be concluded by them tomorrow. Угода буде укладена ними завтра.
the Present Continuous Tense
They are concluding the agreement now. Вони зараз укладають угоду.	The agreement is being concluded by them now. Угода зараз укладається ними.
the Past Continuous Tense
They were concluding the agreement at 4 o'clock. Вони уклали угоду о 4 години.	The agreement was being concluded by them at 4 o'clock. Угода укладалася ними о 4 години.
the Present Perfect Tense
They have just concluded the agreement. Вони щойно уклали угоду.	The agreement has been just concluded by them. Угода щойно укладена ними.
the Past Perfect Tense
They had concluded the agreement by 3 o'clock. Вони уклали угоду до 3 години.	The agreement had been concluded by them by 3 o'clock. Угода укладена ними до 3 години.
the Future Perfect Tense
They will have concluded the agreement by that time. Вони укладуть угоду до того часу.	The agreement will have been concluded by them by that time. Угода буде укладена ними до того часу.

Зверніть увагу, що пасивний стан вимагає певних прийменників: by, with, in. Наприклад:

Country music is played with guitars. Музика в стилі „кантрі” грається (виконується) на гітарах.

Actor was met with a storm of applause. Актора зустріли аплодисментами.

The post-card was sent by mail. Листівка послана поштою.

These souvenirs were made by hand. Ці сувеніри були зроблені руками (власноруч).

Her picture was drawn in pencil. Її картина намальована олівцем.

We were woken up by the noise. Ми прокинулися від галасу.

Заперечна форма пасивного стану утворюється таким чином:

1	2	3	4	5
Підмет	Допоміжне дієслово	Заперечна частка not	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
I	am	not	invited	to the party.
The radio	was	not	invented	by Popov in 1895.

Якщо допоміжне дієслово складається з кількох слів (shall be, have been), на перше місце ставиться перше допоміжне дієслово:

1	2	3	4	5	6
Підмет	Перше допоміжне дієслово	Заперечна частка not	Друге допоміжне дієслово	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
I	shall	not	be	invited	to the party.
I	have	not	been	invited	to the party.

При утворенні питальної форми порядок слів змінюється:

1	2	3	4
Допоміжне дієслово	Підмет	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
Am	he	invited	to the party?
Was	the radio	invented	by Popov in 1895?

Якщо допоміжне дієслово складається з кількох слів (shall be, have been), на перше місце ставиться перше допоміжне дієслово:

1	2	3	4	5
Перше допоміжне дієслово	Підмет	Друге допоміжне дієслово	Присудок	Другорядні члени речення
Shall	he	be	invited	to the party?
Have	I	been	invited	to the party?

Зверніть увагу, що пасивний стан вимагає певних прийменників: by, with, in. Наприклад:

Country music is played with guitars. Музика в стилі „кантрі” грається (виконується) на гітарах.

Actor was met with a storm of applause. Актора зустріли аплодисментами.

The post-card was sent by mail. Листівка послана поштою.

These souvenirs were made by hand. Ці сувеніри були зроблені руками (власноруч).

Her picture was drawn in pencil. Її картина намальована олівцем.

We were woken up by the noise. Ми прокинулися від галасу.

Practice 60 Job Hunting

Read the text “Job Interview”

When you go for a job interview, make sure you arrive on time. An employer will form a poor first impression if you show up late. If you realise you may be delayed, call ahead and explain the problem.

During the interview the employer will try to find out what kind of person you are, what experience you have, and how you can fit into the job situation.

After you have got an appointment, review the information that you wrote on the application form and resume. Be prepared to explain your skills and abilities specifically. Bring a resume to the interview. The resume is a printed sheet that tells about your education and work experience. It serves as a written record for the employer.

Go to the interview alone; don't take your friends or children with you. Plan to arrive about ten minutes before the appointment time. Wear the proper clothes. Do not appear in outfits that are too fancy. You should have a neat, clean appearance to make a good impression.

During the interview be honest and modest about yourself.

Pay attention as the interviewer talks; answer all the questions clearly and intelligently. Try not to seem bored, even if you realise that the job doesn't interest.

Here are some of the questions that employers try to answer when they are interviewing future employees:

- What is this person really like?
- Does this person have the skills to do the job I have available?
- Will this person fit the team I have now?
- How quickly can this person learn?
- Will this person be willing to work hard?

Finally, be prepared to ask your own questions about the job, know the type of work and benefits you want from the position. Write down these questions before you go to the interview. An employer will be interested if you ask intelligent questions about the work you may be doing.

At the close of the interview, express your thanks and be sure that the interviewer knows how to contact you if he or she wants to hire you.

6. Sample of Letter of Recommendation

Dear Mrs. Woodson:

Peter Barns was a student in three of my travel courses since the 1996 semester. He was always an outstanding student.

Mr. Barns demonstrated his thorough grasp of the subject matter in his class performance as well as in written work. His assignments were always executed with punctuality. Moreover, he was an enthusiastic participant in class discussions and helped make the courses rewarding experiences for everyone.

Therefore, I can recommend Mr. Barns, without hesitation, for the position of assistant in your travel agency.

Yours truly,

Practice 62 On a Business Trip

Read the text “Going Abroad”

In order to go to a foreign country you will need a visa. An application form can be obtained at the embassy. Instructions for filling it in are given with each form. You will need a form for each person.

Once you have completed the form, you bring or send it to the country embassy together with your passport, a passport-sized photograph and an official invitation to visit the country.

Customs Formalities - Before boarding the plane, you are requested to present a valid passport together with a customs declaration ensuring that you are not violating any of your country's law. That's why it is important to know the existing regulations concerning the export of goods and currency. Upon arrival in a foreign country, you will have your passport inspected by the immigration service. Occasionally you may have your luggage checked by a custom officer. This is done to prevent importation of goods which for various reasons are undesirable to the country's authorities.

Bringing things illegally from one country to another is called smuggling. The smuggling or unlawful importation of the goods which are restricted as well as failure to declare such items is a violation of law and results in fines or other penalties.

The importation of some items is limited for different reasons. For example, to prevent the entry of dangerous agricultural pests, plants, soil, plant products, meats, alive animals or animal products are not allowed.

You also must declare the total value of all gifts and commercial items and if their value exceeds the determined sum, you will pay duty.

Practice 63 Text: “Hotels”

Read the text “Hotels”

Hotels are divided into some classes.

- 1. Luxe Hotels are the most expensive. They are for millionaires.
- 2. Less expensive hotels are the Hotels of Class Charming Town House, which combine good service with comparatively moderate price.
- 3. The 3rd class is inexpensive hotels situated mostly around of the large railway stations.

4. The 4th class includes Boarding Houses, Bed & Breakfast (B&B) and inns.

5. The fifth class – are the cheapest hotels: Youth Hotels, Youth Holiday Centres, and Country Guest Houses.

To price for accommodation adds VAT (Value Added Tax), it makes up 17.5% of the price. Cost of breakfast often includes into cost of accommodation.

There are two variants of breakfast:

1) frugal continental breakfast (tea or coffee and a bun with butter and jam);

2) good or substantive English breakfast (starter – maize, (corn) or oatmeal flakes with milk, juice, etc. plus the main course – fried eggs with fat and ham, tomatoes, white bread etc.).

A tip as a rule includes in to a bill in hotels and some restaurants. If a tip doesn't include into a bill, one should “give a tip” 10-15% from sum of account.

Have you ever heard about the original, strange and amusing hotels of the world, thought by well-known designers and artists?

Let's begin with the HotelLady'sFirstin Switzerland. One inconvenience – it is forbidden enter here for men (except for “12-year-old boys”). A hotel is intended exceptionally for ladies. There are also not representatives of stronger sex among managers, cooks, drivers. Petticoat government! Guessing the clients' desires the hotel creators equipped the rooms by the large bathrooms and huge wardrobes where one can easily place into clothes, bags, hats, and shoes.

Walls of the CrazyBear Hotel in Britain county Oksfordshir covered by plush, and we feel ourselves as we are in the Toy Teddy cottage. This hotel has both Chimney Sweep's (black and the blackest) room and Belosnezhka's "mint room" with a solarium.

In England one will find the AltonTowers Hotel, where apartments are designed, as a burrow of Peter Rabbit, bar of chocolate, Arabic large tent, theatre dressing-room and audio recording studio (for the karaoke admirers). The night in an eccentric township costs $550.

The American staff Idaho has the DogBarkParkInn, created by Sallivan. The artist built the hound-shaped building with the help of a saw. There is a sleeping room in its “stomach”, a mansard and library are in dog's “head”. The Denis Sallivan's workshop with his hand-made wood articles, animals' figures is situated near the hotel.

“Jules' UnderseaLodge” is situated on a depth 6,5 meter at the shore of Florida. You can enter in this hotel only with the help of aqualung. The hotel has own diving school. All rooms are equipped by the modern technique. The room windows look like as illuminators and one can observe the various kinds of fish outside. Thenightherecostsfrom $390 andhigher.

American publisher Peter Lewis built a hotel on the twenty hundred-year old cedar in the state Maine! He leases a house-nest after $300 for night. Spiral staircase has 84 stages fixed with the steel staples; the observatory with a suspension bridge with a view on Cordillers.

Every November the interesting hotel is opened in the Swedish village Yukkasyarvi. Guests' rooms, hall, theater — all is built from 30 thousand tons of snow and 10 thousand tons of ice. If you are a lover of pungent feelings you can spend the night in the icy palace of the Snow Queen.

Advertising and Advertisement

Read the text “The Cola Wars”

Americans consumers gulp nearly 40 million soft drinks per day. The Coca-Cola Company produces about 40% of those soft drinks, while Pepsi-Cola produces about 30 percent of the market supply. With nearly 70% of the market between them, Pepsi and Coke wage fierce battles for market share.

The major weapon in these “cola wars” is advertising. Coke spends over $100 million a year to convince consumers that its products are superior. Pepsi spends almost as much to win the hearts and tastes of American consumers. The advertisements also try to create a particular image for each cola.

The advertising apparently works. Half of all softdrink consumers profess loyalty to either Coke or Pepsi. In their view, there is only one “real” cola, and that's the one they will buy every time.

Ironically, few people can identify their favorite cola in blind taste test. 70% of people who swore loyalty to either Coke or Pepsi picked the wrong cola in a taste test.

Changing Tastes - In January 1975 Miller Brewing Company set out to change the tastes of U.S. beer drinkers. It introduced Miller Lite, a low-calorie beer. Many other companies had produced low-calorie beer and failed. But Miller was convinced it could succeed. Other companies had directed their sales pitches on diet-conscious people and had ignored the mass of beer drinkers. In introducing its new beer, Miller emphasized that Lite tasted as good as regular beer but simply contained fewer calories. In its advertising Miller used sports figures and other celebrities to emphasize that Lite was a real beer, not a diet drink. As one analyst noted, “The typical beer drinker is dietetically oriented, but when he sees a football player drinking this low-calorie beer, he figures he shouldn't be ashamed to drink it”. Miller spent nearly $ 10 million per year to get this message across.

The results of the advertising campaign were phenomenal. Sales of Miller Lite increased and Miller Brewing moved up from fifth place to second place in total U.S. beer sales.

Unchanged Taste - In April 1985 the Coca-Cola Company announced that it was changing the 99-year old world-famous formula. Coca-Cola spent million of advertising dollars trying to convince consumers that the new, sweeter Coke was better. But consumer tastes didn't change. The Coca-Cola Company was besieged with letters and phone calls from consumers demanding a return to the old formula. The company had to give in to consumer pressure, announcing that it would revive the original formula.

4. Read and translate some interesting facts about advertisement

It isn't easy to establish when the first advertisement appeared. A papyrus in the collection of the British Museum, in London, advertises the sale of a slave. Rock drawings and inscriptions along the roads were also an excellent way to advertise things.

Probably the oldest advertisement was found in the excavations of the ancient Egyptian town of Memphis. It says: "I, Rhinos from Cyprus, live here. Gods gave me the gift of the true telling of dreams". This advertisement is 2,500 years old. It is carved in stone and visitors to one of the Cairo museum can inspect it.

In the excavations of one of the towns of ancient Greece archaeologists found about 300 stone fragments with letters of the Greek alphabet. When they put the fragments together they found it was a tablet for a shop window with a list of goods and their prices.

The first newspaper in the world that put in an advertisement was a hand-written Roman newspaper "Daily Happenings". It contained announcement of meetings, births, and marriages in the noble families in Rome.

One of the houses built in Kyiv early in 20th century may also be considered as an advertisement. It is decorated by figures of sea monsters, shells and sea dragons. The story of the house is unusual. The owner of a cement plant couldn't sell his product as it was a new material and construction firms were quite conservative. So, when he learnt that a well-known architect was going to build a new house for himself he offered cement free of charge on the condition that the house would be decorated by sculptures made of cement. The unusual building attracted everybody's attention and served as an excellent advertisement of the new building material.

Cigarette advertising is dangerous to health. Much money is spent every year persuading people to buy a product, which is known to be extremely bad, even fatal for health. This is the most, widespread and dangerous case of deception in advertising today.

Young, healthy, handsome people still splash in pools with Salem cigarettes between their pearl-white teeth (something very few heavy smokers have).

It was typical for cigarette advertising of the 20s and 30s to use celebrities to prove that smoking was good for digestion, or some such nonsense. In one ad a handsome businessman smiles with his best businessman's smile and say: "Don't ask me why I smoke. Ask me why I smoke Winston." And one should certainly ask, because he is supposed to be so smart, since below is the warning: "Cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health."

Cigarette smoking has been proved to be a contributive factor in lung cancer, heart disease and a number of other serious and often fatal illnesses.

5. A problem with Language - Firms selling abroad face special difficulties, which do not apply to domestic sales. Documents, advertising and trade names may have to be translated into other languages. This sometimes causes problems with brand names, which may be offensive or silly in another language.

A Turkish company was surprised when their product Bum Biscuits never made breaking into the UK biscuit market. A Taiwan company was equally put out with their refreshing toothpaste Darkie. A brand of tinned fish from South America, with the brand name of Grated Fanny, never even made it to the shelves. Another South American company had very little success with their product which was sold under the Bimbo Bread label.

For example Nike is an extremely rude word in some Arabic dialects, and the Volkswagen Rabbit had to be called the Golf in Britain because British consumers would be put off by the original name.

You may have bought powder for killing cockroaches Machen'ka or eaten Ukrainian chocolates Finish.

What's the problem? Well, as you may realize, it all hangs on the choice of name. None of the above-mentioned brand names did anything to encourage customer interest for reasons of negative association. Do you think I'm So Sorry Please Forgive Me chocolate from Switzerland and Lucky Cow cheese from Germany were fortunate brand names or Cock, a perfumed deodorant, as well? Brave names indeed! But only one brand name seems to have paid off and that's the perfume Poison. Mind you, the manufacturers do not expect the customers to drink it.

CHAPTER II

THE TASKS FOR ENGLISH LESSONS

Task 1. Discussion about Books

Books, I believe, may be divided into three classes:

- books to read;
- books to re-read;
- books not to read at all.

The third class is the most important. To tell people what to read is, as rule, either useless or harmful. But to tell people what not to read is a very different matter.

It is indeed necessary in this age of ours, an age that reads too much, that it has no time to admire, and writes so much that it has no time to think. Whoever will select "The Worst Hundred Books" and publish a list of them will give the rising generation a real and lasting service.

Discussion

1. Do you agree that there are three classes of books: books you must read, books you must re-read and books you must not read at all?
2. Which are the largest and the smallest class? Why?
3. How do you choose a book to read?
4. What books do you re-read?
5. How do you know what books not to read at all?
6. Do you agree that the list of the "Worst Hundred Books" may be useful?
7. From the book review: "It is not a book to throw aside lightly, it is book to throw away with great force". Have you ever read such books? What are they?
8. Make your own list of best books to read and speak about your choice:
 - a) for children of;
 - b) for teenagers;
 - c) for men;
 - d) for women;
 - e) for old people.
9. Say whether you enjoy reading: fairy tales, adventure stories, detective stories, spy thrillers, classics, contemporary novels, poetry, non-fiction, biographies, memoirs, travel books, science fiction. Arrange them according to their importance to you.

Task 2. Choose the explanation from the left column for the words in the right

1) poetry	a) stories about something that will happen in future
2) a romance	b) poems
3) a legend	c) a story about love
4) a biography	d) a book about the spirit of a dead person

Task 8. There are nouns, pronouns, verbs, adjectives, and adverbs in the following text. Put the underlined words in the columns under the proper headings

Juan was a Spanish student. He wanted to go to Britain where he could speak English with real English people. Hissister’s husband was an Englishman, and theylived in England. When Juan wrote to his sister, she brightly invited him to stay with them. She met him at the airporthearly in the morning and, of course, spoke Spanish all the time. “Never mind”, he thought, “the husband speaks English ...”. But this Englishman spoke Spanish too. Juan's sister had only Spanish friends and Juan did not speak a word of English while he was staying with her. One morning, Juan saw the youngpostman and was very glad to see him. He quickly opened the door and said “Good morning”. The postman said “Good morning” and walked away. At last Juan’s bigday came. One of his sister’s friends was going to have a party and invited Juan to it. “I shall meet English people at last and really speak English with them”, he thought. When the party began, a beautiful girl came up to him and said, “How nice that you are Spanish. I am having a Spanish examination soon. I can practise on you”. And in Spanish she invited him to dance. From thatmoment Juan stopped trying to speak English. “I must go to another town if I want to speak English”, he sadly said to himself.

Friends and Relations

I come from a fairly close-knit family, although we don't always get on too well. I am very close to my grandmother, Emma, especially as we have a lot in common, but I've recently fallen out with my grandfather, John. Their son is my father, Bob. He's quite old-fashioned, and we don't always see eye to eye I know I should look up to him as a role model, but the fact is I don't respect him very much. On the other hand, I worship my mother, Maureen; she's kind, caring and very tolerant of others. I have one younger sister, Sally, who I'm quite fond of, and I admire my brother-in-law, Andrew, who is a very talented painter. I have a precocious nephew, Tony, who I'm a bit fed up with, and a lovely little niece, Claudia, whom I adore. My father has a sister - my aunt Sue. I respect her, as she's had to put up with a lot of hardship in life, especially being married to my uncle Stanley, who treats her terribly. I must confess I loathe him. I also despise his son, my cousin Stuart, who takes after his father. My older cousin Claire, on the other hand, I idolise.

The writer feels positive about these people	The writer feels negative about these people
Emma (his grandmother)

Task 63.

What a Can of Beans!	Official Opening Ceremony
Tracey Fenwick found a diamond ring in a can of baked beans. It was worth about £200. She broke one of her front teeth when she tried to eat it. Her husband was extremely angry and complained to the manufacturers. The ring belonged to a Miss Green, who works in the bean canning plant. She said she was afraid to tell her boyfriend, who plays in a rock group. The manufacturers sent Mrs Fenwick 24 cans of baked beans. They apologized for their mistake.	Yesterday morning the Queen opened a new hospital in Watermouth. It cost £52,000,000. One of her shoes fell off while she was planting a tree. Prince Philip picked it up for her and they laughed about it. She spoke to the town's Mayor, who is a wealthy local industrialist. She then shook hands with several of the doctors and nurses. The Mayor presented her with a beautiful gold clock. It was a present from the town.

1	a) 3; b) 1; c) 2;	5	a) 2; b) 1; c) 3;
2	a) 1; b) 2; c) 3;	6	a) 3; b) 2; c) 1;
3	a) 1; b) 3; c) 2;	7	a) 1; b) 3; c) 2;
4	a) 2; b) 3; c) 1;	8	a) 2; b) 1; c) 3;

Analysis:

8-11 points - You should try a bit harder to say what's on your mind and make people understand how you feel. You are obviously kind and don't like confrontation. However, you ought to show more of your personality when you speak. Some people might think you are shy or that you are bored when you speak to them. This may make some people nervous.

12-17 points - Yes, you are a good communicator. You can be assertive when you need to be. You choose the right times to talk to people about things, you are diplomatic and chatty. When people meet you they find you easy to get on with. This is because you take the time to speak to people and listen carefully to what they say.

18-21 points - You are a good communicating but ought to try listening to people a bit more. You a good at being the centre of attention and like trying to charm people but sometimes you can be too loud and pushy. Remember that not everyone is an extrovert like you.

22-24 points - You certainly make sure people to listen to you. The poor things can't get a word in edgeways. You are too busy forcing your views on them. You might think you are charming and persuasive but you pressurise people too much. You ought to try thinking before you speak.

Add your score:

1	a - 3; b - 2; c - 1;	4	a - 1; b - 2; c - 3;
2	a - 3; b - 1; c - 2;	5	a - 3; b - 1; c - 2;
3	a - 1; b - 3; c - 2;	6	a - 2; b - 3; c - 1;

Analysis:

6-9 - You are someone who is very trusting - perhaps too trusting at times. You are happy to devote a lot of time to your boyfriend/girlfriend. You are obviously a generous and patient person when you go out with someone. However, do not sacrifice too much. Sometimes you are too cool and distant because you don't want to be a nuisance. Your feelings are as important as your boyfriend/girlfriend's.

10-14 - You are a caring person who enjoys seeing you boyfriend/girlfriend but you are not too demanding. If there is a small problem in your relationship, you do not panic or go mad. You sort it out sensibly. You are neither too possessive nor too distant.

15-18 - You are very passionate and romantic. This is great but you are not too possessive. Your views of boy-girl relationships are very old-fashioned and traditional. Be careful, we think you might get hurt. Either this or your boyfriend/girlfriend will be made angry by your constant demand for attention. Stop feeling so insecure!

Test 3.11. How Romantic are You?

Do you think Valentine's Day is a chance for romance or just an excuse for buying pointless presents?

1. According to the tradition of Valentine's Day, the first person you see on Valentine's Day should be your Valentine. What would you do on Valentine's morning?

- a) Stay in your room with your door locked and curtains closed until your true love arrived?
- b) Nothing, just get up as usual.
- c) Get up early, go into the town centre and wait for rush-hour!

2. There are many presents which celebrate love and marriage. Which do you find most romantic?

- a) A huge box of chocolates in heart-shaped silk box.
- b) A dream pillow that is filled with herbs and flowers to stimulate and enhance dreams and make special memories.
- c) A photo of yourself.

3. Celebrity romance is always popular. Which wedding brought tears to your eyes?

- a) Michael Jackson to his nurse.
- b) Miss Piggy to Kermit the Frog in the Muppet Movie The Muppets Take Manhattan.
- c) The Sleeping Beauty to the Handsome Prince.

4. You're cooking a romantic Valentine's meal for your true love. Which recipe book do you buy?

- a) Fat Free and Healthy Meals (includes calorie count and nutritional analysis)
- b) Cheap, Cheerful & Quick Cookery Comer (all recipes cost less than £1 and can be prepared in under 10 minutes)
- c) Fantastic Food (special easy-to-cook recipes from Europe's top-class restaurants)

5. Make Valentine's Day extra special and choose one of the following tips for added romance

- a) Pay for your boyfriend or girlfriend to spend a day at a beauty salon being made to look good enough to go out in public with you.
- b) Plan three different days out, write the details down and put them in envelopes. Ask your boyfriend or girlfriend to pick one envelope.

c) Sing your favourite love song to your boyfriend or girlfriend in front of a large crowd of friends.

6. Flowers are always linked with romance. Which of the following flowers would you give to your Valentine or would you like to receive?

- a) A single red rose, displayed in a silk box.
- b) A bunch of delicate flowers that were grown by yourself of your Valentine.
- c) A huge bouquet of flowers that was found in the bins at the back of a hotel.
(Well, it's the thought that counts)

Add your score:

1	a = 3; b = 2; c = 1;	4	a = 2; b = 1; c = 3;
2	a = 2; b = 3; c = 1;	5	a = 1; b = 3; c = 2;
3	a = 1; b = 2; c = 3;	6	a = 2; b = 3; c = 1;

Analysis:

13 - 18: You are very romantic and you want to make sure that your loved one gets special treatment. You could be the world's most perfect Valentine! You are sensitive, although you are also a bit predictable and like to give traditional and expensive gifts that you hope will be remembered for ever.

7 - 12: You are certainly quite romantic, but you tend to be practical and a little bit different in your approach to romance, being more personal and less traditional. You are not always predictable, and like to celebrate your relationship in quite unusual ways. You'll certainly keep romance alive in your relationship!

1 - 6: Oh dear. Either you don't have any idea about romance or you don't have a single romantic bone in your body and are cooler than a competitor at the Winter X-Games! You are selfish with your emotions and your cash, and you prefer yourself to be the centre of attention. The only person you love is yourself!

Test 3.12. Are You Green?

Відповіді:	Always	Sometimes	Never
	2 points	1point	0points

How often do you take your own shopping bags to the store?

How often do you avoid using a bag if you are buying only one item?

How often do you buy loose fruits and vegetables instead of pre-packaged ones?

How often do you share your magazine subscriptions with another person?

Analysis:

3 - 4 - Congratulations, you're already green!

0 - 2 - You need to become more environmentally aware.

Test 3.13. Are You an Artistic Person?

Some people are fond of painting; others are keen on music and can listen to it all day long. Try this French test to learn if you belong here. Or maybe you are the one who prefers material values to spiritual ones.

1. Do you know the difference between "colour" and "shade"?
2. Can you feel comfortable in a dull and comfortless room?
3. Do you like drawing?

4. Do you follow the latest fashion or do you dress to your own taste when choosing new clothes?
5. Have you ever heard of Wagner, Gainsborough or Handel?
6. Would you agree that you are sullen and bad-tempered?
7. Do you have your personal colour or clothing?
8. Are you a museum goer?
9. Would you stop to admire the sunset on your way to some important meeting?
10. Do you like drawing geometric figures?
11. Do you often visit art galleries?
12. Are you the one to wander about the streets for a long time?
13. Do you like to be on your own?
14. Do you think a person who begins reciting poems is silly?
15. Do you listen to music only for relaxation and pleasure?
16. Do wonderful landscapes stay vividly in your memory for a long time?
17. Would you say that pebbles are beautiful?
18. Do you like meeting new people?
19. Are you fond of reciting poems?

5. a - 6; b - 4; c - 3; d - 5;	10. a - 4; b - 2; c - 3; d - 5; e - 6; f - 1;

Analysis:

Under 21 points: People think you are shy, nervous, and indecisive, someone who needs to be looked after, who always wants someone else to make the decisions and who doesn't want to get involved with anyone or anything. They see you as a worrier, who sees problems that don't exist. Some people think you are boring. Only line people who know you well know that you aren't. The trouble is that you don't let very many people get close to you.

From 21 to 30 points: Your friends see you as painstaking, perhaps a little too fussy at times. They see you as very, very cautious and extremely careful, a slow and steady plodder. It would really surprise them if you ever did something impulsively or on the spur of the moment. They expect you to examine everything carefully from every side and then usually decide against it. They think this reaction on your part is caused partly by your careful nature and partly by laziness.

From 31 to 40 points: Other people see you as sensible, cautious, careful, and practical. They see you as clever, gifted, or talented, but modest. Not a person who makes friends too quickly or too easily, but someone who is extremely loyal to the friends she/he does make and who expects the same loyalty in return. Those who really get to know you realize that it takes a lot to shake your trust in your friends, but equally, that it takes you a long time to get over it if that trust is shaken.

From 41 to 50 points: Others see you as fresh, lively, charming, amusing and always interesting; someone who is constantly the centre of attention, but sufficiently well-balanced, not to let it go to your head. They see you also as kind, considerate and understanding; someone who will cheer them up or help them out.

From 51 to 60 points: Your friends see you as an exciting, highly volatile, rather impulsive personality; a natural leader, quick to make decisions (though not always the right ones). They see you as bold and venturesome, someone who will try anything - well, almost anything - once; someone who takes a chance and enjoys an adventure. They enjoy being in your company because of the excitement you radiate.

Over 60 points: Others see you as someone they should "handle with care". You are seen as vain, self-centred, and extremely dominant. Others may admire you and wish they could be more like you but they don't always trust you and hesitate to become too deeply involved with you.

Test 3.15. School's out for Summer

1. Will you to be sad to miss your favourite TV programmes?

- a) No, it won't matter; I'll do video them.
- b) Maybe, but the holiday will be different, and it will be fun.
- c) No, I can always amuse without TV.

2. Will you go swimming while you're on holiday?

- a) Yes – if the water's warm
- b) You're joking! The sea is full of sharks.
- c) Of course. Why go on holiday if you don't swim?

3. What about foreign food?

- a) McDonald's hamburgers are the limit for me.
- b) OK, but not too hot and spicy.
- c) Pizza, paella, sauerkraut, spaghetti, roast beef, curry ... you name it and I'll eat it.

4. What will you enjoy best about your holiday?

- a) New friends, new things to see and do.
- b) A good rest after a hard year at school.
- c) The journey home again.

5. Will you try to speak another language if you visit a foreign country?

- a) Why? I'll speak loudly and slowly and everyone will understand.
- b) I can say "please" and "thank you" in many languages – that's enough.
- c) Of course. That's why I'm going.

6. Are you going to visit any ruins?

- a) Of course. I adore history.
- b) A pile of old stones? Why?
- c) Of course – but I hope there's a good café for a cold drink or an ice cream there too.

7. Will you buy any presents on this trip for your friends or family?

- a) Absolutely not. I haven't got enough money.
- b) Yes – small cheap presents; special things from that region.
- c) Of course! I'll "shop till I drop".

Add your score:

So, to which group of teachers do you belong?

21 - 30 – Outstanding - You are the crème de la crème, you are a teacher for the right reasons. You are doing a professional job. You work hard for your pupils, you are honest and you're a good colleague. But remember work/life balance is important.

11 - 20 – Good - You clearly have it in you to be an outstanding teacher, your intentions are good. Perhaps sometimes your inexperience lets you down. For example, if you walk calmly rather than run towards an incident then you are giving the pupils a chance to say “look out, teacher’s coming”, you’ve already started to deal with the matter before you arrive. Come on, let your inner teacher out.

1 - 9 – Satisfactory - Oh dear. Your heart's not really in it, is it? We all know the days of being content to be “satisfactory” are long gone. Teaching has never been more demanding. Are you sure you’re the one to help children to fulfill their hopes and dreams? Perhaps you would be happier as an estate agent? After all, houses don't have feelings.

0 – Inadequate - There are websites that carry your picture, so just give yourself up now.

CHAPTER V

ADDITIONAL READING

5.1. A Bit About Foreign Languages

5.1.1. American English

More than 265 million people live in the USA and speak English. There are more native speakers of English there than in any other country.

English is the main language of the United States and is spoken by the great majority of US residents. However nearly 32 million residents aged five or older speak a language other than English at home. Of this total, approximately 54 per cent speaks Spanish, making it the second most widely spoken language in the United States. Other languages spoken include Chinese, Polish, Korean, Vietnamese, Portuguese, Japanese, Greek, Arabic, Hindi, Russian, Ukrainian, Yiddish, Persian, French and many others.

When visitors first come to the USA, they become acquainted with the American way of life, American culture, and, of course, with American language. The development of American English is closely connected with the history of the country.

There was not much purity in the English language brought by the Pilgrim group to America. On the other hand, there is a historical fact that the “Mayflower” passengers, who are often chosen as the illustrative example, went from England not directly to America but to Holland. Thus, when the “Mayflower” went to the New World carrying 202 passengers, representing two thirds of the entire pilgrim population, it carried passengers who could hardly have represented the regional dialects of England.

The great majority of American immigrants came from the southeast of England, and, perhaps by sheer bulk of numbers, they dominated the speakers of any other dialects present. Although the emigrant groups from England came chiefly from relatively low social strata, they did not transplant the British class relationship.

The extensive maritime borrowing and multilingual situation in early America brought about many words, which can only be explained in terms of two or three languages. Let's trace the origin of the word: Yankee. In the maritime trade, which was so vitally important to early American English, a Dutch sailor was sometimes known as Janke (“Little John”). On the other hand, Yankee is an Indian pronunciation of the word English. Thus the word Yankee meaning “inhabitant of the USA” came out of a multiethnic, multilingual contact situation.

The first English speakers to arrive met Native Americans who spoke many different languages. To trade with them, the Europeans learned words from the local languages, and some of these words became part of American English. Native Americans also worked as guides, leading the European traders around the country. The Europeans learned the Native American names for the places they were passing through. Over half the states now have Native American names. American English is very flexible and has absorbed many words from the languages of immigrants.

Modern Americans must recognize their debt to American Indian languages for such words as moccasin, raccoon, skunk, moose, toboggan and many others, which entered American English because of the colonists' need to describe things that were unfamiliar to them.

From Native Americans through Spanish came new terms for exotic foods: tomatoes, avocado, barbecue, chilli. Other Indian terms soon became part of the vernacular: to go on the war path, to bury the hatchet, pipe of peace, snake dance, fire water. At least half of the states have Native American names, as do countless cities, counties, rivers, lakes, and other place names. Settlers from different countries lived there, and they didn't want to use the names brought by others. Native American words, to them, sounded more neutral. African borrowings include banjo, zombie etc.

The languages of other colonizing nations also contributed to the English of the New World. Thus from Dutch it received cherry-pit, boss, snoop, cookie, sugar bush and waffle. Even Santa Claus is attributable to the Dutch settlers of the New York region. Spanish did not have an extensive influence on the American English vocabulary until the nineteenth century. Such words as mosquito, Negro etc. were borrowed in early colonial days. The westward movement, the Gold Rush, the Spanish-American War, and the popularization of "the Western" in movies and on television have brought lasso, siesta, rancho, corral, mustang, canyon into American English.

The recent influences of French are largely from south-western Louisiana, where French is still spoken by half a million people. This area, settled originally by displaced French settlers from Nova Scotia in the eighteenth century; among them are banquette, pirogue and praline.

It was mid-nineteenth century before German borrowings were very extensive. It may seem strange, perhaps, that a Germanic language should later be influenced by German - but such is the fate of a borrowing tongue, lots of Americans know and use the words kindergarten, dunk, delicatessen etc.

American English has borrowed less actively from other languages. When a word is borrowed, it is usually a term for which there is no English equivalent. American English has borrowed many names for foreign foods and eating customs from the Italian spaghetti, pizza. Some of these terms became widely used, while others still show the nationality of their users.

5.1.2. How Americans Speak

Today, there are some differences in vocabulary, pronunciation, and spelling between American and British English. Sometimes, the difference in spelling is because Americans wanted to make things simpler, so that a word would be spelled the way it is pronounced.

Despite the great distances separating American English-speaking community from the British Isles, and the great social and cultural differences between them, the forms of English, which they use, remain mutually intelligible to a remarkable degree. The main differences are as follows:

1. Grammar

- Americans (US) use Past Simple in some cases where British (GB) people use Present Perfect, for example:

US:	GB:
He just went home.	He's just gone home. Він щойно прийшов додому.

- Americans use the verb to have мати a little differently in some cases, for example:

US:	GB:
Do you have a problem?	Have you got a problem? Чи є у вас які-небудь проблеми?

- the following verbs are different in US and GB. to burn палити, горіти, to dream бачити сон, мріяти, to lean нахилити(ся), to learn вчити, дізнаватися, to smell пахнути, to spoil псувати(ся), to grab взяти are all regular in American English, while in British English irregular forms are more common. to fit відчувати запах and to wet мочити, to quit припасовувати, залишити, кидати (справу, заняття) and to fit входити, припасовувати, залишити, кидати (справу, заняття) and to wet мочити, зволожувати are regular in GB, but irregular in US; e.g. to fit – fit – fit. The American past participle of to get діставати, досягати is usually gotten.

- the subjunctive is much more common in American than in British English, for example:

US:	GB:
It's essential that he be informed. Він обов'язково має знати.	... that he should be informed.

- there are many small differences in the use of prepositions, for example:

US:	GB:
do smth over	do smth again робити щось знов meet with smb	meet smb зустрічати когось protest smth	protest against smth виступати проти чогось stay home	stay at home залишитися вдома

2. Vocabulary

Most British people are familiar with many American equivalents for British terms, for example:

US:	GB:
cookie	biscuit печиво
elevator	lift ліфт
gas	petrol бензин
vest	waist coat жилет
vacation	holiday(s) канікули
pants	trousers штани, брюки
movie	film фільм
mail	post пошта
apartment	flat квартира
candy	sweets цукерки
drugstore	chemist's аптека
fall	autumn осінь
sick	ill хворий
subway	underground метро

3. Spelling

As far back as the 1780s, Noah Webster, founder of one of the most famous American English dictionaries, decided to eliminate from a word any letters that were not pronounced.

- in American English, final -l is not usually doubled in an unstressed syllable, for example:

US:	GB:
traveler	traveller мандрівник
canceling	cancelling скасування

- some words end in -ter in American English and in -tre in British,

for example:

US:	GB:
theater	theatre театр
center	centre центр

- some words end in -or in American English and in -our in British,

for example:

US:	GB:
labor	labour праця, робота
honor	honour честь
color	colour колір, фарба

- some words end in -og in American English and -ogue in British, for example:

US:	GB:
catalog	catalogue каталог
dialog	dialogue діалог
analog	analogue аналог

- some spelling differences in individual words, for example:

US:	GB:
analyze	analyse аналізувати check	cheque чек
defense	defence захист
jewelry	jewellery коштовності, ювелірні вироби offense	offence порушення, проступок plow	plough плуг
program	programme програма

4. Pronunciation

In New York City many people have a way of speaking English that is called New Yorkese. Speakers of New Yorkese often speak very fast. They tend not to pronounce the r in words that end in -er. A word like water вода sounds like wata.

Teenagers often like to use a lot of slang, along with expressions such as like and you know, which can make their way of talking, seem vague. The words they choose are strongly influenced by popular music and fashion.

Vocabulary

intelligible [in'telidʒəb(ə)l] зрозумілий, доступний (для розуміння); ясний, чіткий, виразний; розбірливий

subjunctive [səb'dʒegktiv] умовний спосіб

vague [veɪg] невизначений, туманний, нечіткий, неясний

5.1.3. What Do You Know About Esperanto?

In 1873 a fourteen-year-old boy in Warsaw began to invent a language. Ludwik Zamenhof was born in Bialystok, Poland. He was bilingual: his native languages were Russian and Yiddish. He spoke French and Hebrew fluently too. He had to learn two other foreign languages, Polish and German, to understand the different ethnic groups in his home town.

Esperanto: Mondo sen milito

Ludwik believed that there were conflicts in the world because people spoke different languages. He wanted a world without war. So he decided to invent a universal language. In 1887 he published the book Unia Libro under the pseudonym Doktoro Esperanto. He called his new language Lingvo Internacia, but people prefer the name Esperanto.

After Ludwik's death in 1917, Esperanto became more popular. In some countries children had to study it at school. In the 1920s and 1930s many people share Ludwik's dream of a peaceful world with a universal language. Unfortunately, the Second World War started. Ludwik's children died in the Holocaust, and so did Ludwik's dream of a world without war. Esperanto, however, didn't die. Perhaps it is not the world language, but it survived.

Fact file:

- Esperanto is an invented language with simple grammar and vocabulary.

- Esperanto is easy. You can learn it quickly. You don't have to study irregular words!
- Esperanto isn't the language of any country.
- There are only a few thousand native speakers of Esperanto but there are probably about two million Esperanto speakers in the world.
- On Facebook there are over 300,000 people have Esperanto as one of their languages and there is a Wikipedia site with about 230,000 articles.

Vocabulary

Yiddish ['jidiʃ] єврейська мова, ідиш

Hebrew ['hi:bru:] єврейський

milito = a world without war

5.1.4. The Most Inspiring and Famous Polyglots in the World

Polyglots, or Poliglots and poligotas they are called in other languages, are people who speak many languages. The word polyglot comes from the Greek word poluglōttos, which literally means more than one tongue. Technically speaking, anyone who speaks more than one language is a polyglot. But most bilingual people don't consider themselves polyglots. This is due to the fact that most people think that being part of the "polyglot club" means that you should be able to speak at least three languages. This is the definition we'll be relying on for this article about the most inspiring and famous polyglots.

I have created a separate section for hyperpolyglots, people who know 12 or more languages. I will start with the famous polyglots, then I will present my selection of hyperpolyglots and I will finish off the list with a bonus polyglot!

Hyperpolyglots and polyglots are both terms that refer to people who can speak more than one language. Although some people think that the two terms mean the same thing, there is a small difference.

We consider a polyglot to be fluent in more than three languages, whereas a hyperglot is a person who is proficient in at least twelve languages.

Olly Richards - is a language expert from United Kingdom who runs the blog Will Teach You a Language, a very interesting podcast and YouTube channel. He has eight languages (English (native), Japanese, Cantonese, Portuguese, Spanish, French, Italian and Arabic) under his belt and a lot of incredibly valuable tips to share on how to most effectively learn a language. He is a fan of the Spaced Repetition System and of flashcards. So much so, in fact, that he recently published a very positive review of the MosaLingua apps.

Our co-founder Luca had the chance to interview him recently, and picked up a lot of useful tips about how to immerse yourself in a language without moving abroad (check out the video below). How he learns language: listening to audio material, talking, using flashcards and SRS.

Benny Lewis - When you think about famous polyglots, one of the first names that comes to mind is without a doubt Benny Lewis, also known as the Irish Polyglot. He speaks English (native), Spanish, Esperanto, German, French, Italian, Portuguese, Mandarin Chinese, American Sign Language, Dutch and Irish. Benny Lewis likes to define himself as a "fun-loving Irish guy, full-time globetrotter and international bestselling author.” Yes, because in between all the traveling, public speaking, blogging and language learning Benny also somehow finds the time to write books.

Benny runs Fluent in 3 Months, one of the most popular language learning blogs in the world. The project started with his challenge to live in different countries and become conversational in the local language in just three months. Benny loves finding shortcuts to getting by in a language in a very short amount of time. He also encourages people to accept and embrace their mistakes, which are part of the learning process. Benny shares our passion for flashcards and the SRS method, so it’s no surprise that we like his work. How he learns language: talking, hacking the language, flashcards, SRS.

Lydia Machovais from Slovakia. She has learned seven languages (Slovak, Czech, English, German, Spanish, French, Polish, Esperanto, Russian, Swahili) without living abroad by using common polyglot methods. She uses her website as a way to help others do the same. Originally from Slovakia, Lydia is a language mentor and professional interpreter. She believes that the most important aspect of learning a language is being able to communicate in everyday situations. She emphasizes the importance of speaking. This means that even if you don’t have a great command of spelling and grammar, you can still communicate.

And finally, Lydia organized two Polyglot Gatherings in (Bratislava) which happened to be among the biggest polyglot events in the world. How she learns language: starting with a book, lots of input, Goldlist method, various combinations of methods.

Jimmy Mello, also known as “the Brazilian Polyglot,” has his own language school in Brazil and writes books on language, making full use of his two university degrees: Linguistics and Pedagogy.

Unlike your typical Brazilian person who loves soccer, Jimmy’s passion (and hobby) is learning languages. He knows Portuguese (native), English, Spanish, Italian, French, Catalan, Polish, Russian and Esperanto. Despite his extensive knowledge of language, he has surprisingly never lived abroad. He attributes his language-learning capacity to motivation, dedication, and commitment. Jimmy has an incredible energy and his real gift is being able to share his enthusiasm and passion for languages. He is the author of the Mello Method, which is entirely based on speaking the language you want to learn. Jimmy is also a fan of flashcards and apps. How he learns languages: speaking them from an early stage, using flashcards and apps.

Aaron Myers is from the USA. He is someone who wanted to be everything when he grew up, and that’s pretty much what happened. So far, he has been a whitewater rafting and adventure guide, bus driver, religious worker in Mexico, waiter, Boy Scout camp program director, ESL teacher and high school English teacher. After getting married, he went back to university to get ESL teaching credentials, and that’s where he started being interested in languages. He and his wife moved to Turkey as Christian missionaries, and he now teaches English and keeps a blog that includes tips for learning languages. His spoken languages are English (native), Turkish, and Spanish.

Donovan Nagel from Australia, like most people, started learning a foreign language at school. And, like most people, he didn't like it, nor was it truly enough to learn a language. It was when he started studying theology in college that he got a taste of what language learning should be like: enjoyable. He first started with Ancient Hebrew and Greek, and moved on to Arabic, Italian, Korean, Russian, and the list goes on. He combines his love for traveling, languages, and his wife by learning languages while traveling abroad with her. Donovan has two websites: one is for learning different Arabic dialects, and the other is about languages in general. They're both worth taking a look at! He speaks English (native), Egyptian Arabic, MSA, Korean, Russian, Irish, Ancient Hebrew and Greek.

Donovan hails from Australia and is a big believer that you don't need to know grammar to learn a language. He argues that the best way to learn a language is to copy the way we learned a language as a kid. Even before their first grammar lesson, children learn by listening to and imitating their parents. His theory is that as children, we learn sentences in fragments instead of individual words. For example, "look at that!" instead of "look," "at," and "that" as individual words.

Judith Meyeris from Germany. Judith is a polyglot who is also a computer programmer. Not being able to choose just one as her career, she killed two birds with one stone by making use of both skillsets to build programs for language learning. Which makes sense, for someone who was conversational in eight languages and could understand five computer languages by her 18th birthday! The way she learns a language is by finding an area of interest in the language, be it a TV series, music or a book, and concentrates on being able to understand that. She also highly recommends finding native speakers to practice with and reinforce what you've learned. Her spoken languages: German (native), English, French, Italian, Esperanto, Chinese, Swahili, Greek, Spanish, Indonesian and Dutch.

Conor Clyne (Ireland) is another perfect example that shows that you don't have to be born in a multilingual environment to learn a language. He first started studying a foreign language when he was 21... Fast-forward 10 years, and he now knows 11! After having lived in France for an Erasmus year, he saw that his French was improving. It was then that he realized that he wasn't bad with languages, but rather that most schools aren't good at teaching languages (a common realization for famous polyglots). Through his language-learning experience, he has learned the right and wrong ways to learn a language. Conor runs a very nice blog about traveling and learning languages (see links below). His spoken languages are English (native), French, German, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, Dutch, Russian, Romanian, Irish and Catalan.

Simon Ageris from Great Britain. Simon speaks 11 languages at a conversational level and has basic knowledge of another 13. He runs the Omniglot website, an encyclopedia of writing systems and languages, and also the Omniglot blog, where he writes about language and linguistics. In other words, Simon loves languages. However, he was not taught languages as a young child. In fact, he only knew one language until he was 11. He started studying languages at school, then studied more languages for his undergraduate degree, and that's how it all started. He has lived in 6 different countries so far: England, Wales, France, Jersey, Taiwan and Japan. Despite truly deserving his spot in this article on the most famous polyglots, he isn't just interested in languages. He also loves music; he sings, plays various instruments, and writes his own songs. His spoken languages are English (native), Mandarin Chinese, French, Welsh, Irish, German, Scottish Gaelic, Manx, Japanese, Spanish and Esperanto.

Kerstin Cable is a German. Kerstin has accumulated a vast pool of knowledge about language learning. She blogs about new concepts, motivational tips and excellent techniques. She uses her own experience in learning new languages to give her readers amazing insight. You'll love her savvy advice and engaging writing.

Kerstin believes that language learning is not just for those who are smart, rich, young and / or privileged, and she thinks it should be something that people enjoy doing. Additionally, she informs her readers that when you find the right resources and tools for you, language learning can even become easy. His spoken languages are German (native), French, Spanish and three others.

Martin Boehme is from Germany. He creates interesting and informative posts on his blog Polyglotto to share his insider knowledge on studying languages.

He writes simple but informative articles that are easy to read and include tons of tactics and tips. You'll find information on staying motivated, getting the most out of your language classes, and his own interesting anecdotes.

Boehme has experience teaching English to ESL students and has a declared love of linguistics in general. He also has a lot of experience in coding, which he has been doing for over ten years. Now, he combines his coding skills with his love of languages by coding in the different languages that he knows. His spoken languages are Spanish, French, English, German, Japanese.

Sam Gendrais is from the USA. He didn't care too much for languages until around six years ago, when he moved to Australia for two years. It was there that he began learning Korean with his partner. He soon moved onto another language, then another, and so on. He has since lived and traveled in Oceania, Southeast and East Asia, and across North America. His approach to language learning is similar to that of most famous polyglots: whether it is by listening to music, watching films, or reading books, make the process simple and enjoyable. His spoken languages are French (native), English, Korean, Spanish and Portuguese.

Olle Linge is a Swedish language enthusiast who has a degree in teaching English and Mandarin Chinese. He runs a website dedicated to learning Chinese and is a Chinese language coach. As all famous polyglots do, he believes in studying languages, but, because he loves games and sports, he makes sure that language learning is as fun as possible. Apart from his own blog, he writes a lot of articles on learning Chinese. His spoken languages are Swedish (native), Mandarin Chinese, English, French and German.

Maha Yakoub is a Palestinian polyglot living in Italy, who first started teaching Arabic through private lessons and later moved to YouTube. You can find Arabic, Italian, and Hebrew lessons aimed at beginner and intermediate learners on her channel. She also teaches about Arab culture and shares traditional recipes. There is even a section where she talks about her experience and progress in the German language. Additionally, she organizes 12-day intensive courses to Palestine for people who want to learn Arabic. Despite being the object of islamophobia and negative criticism, she has calmly carried on teaching language to this day. Maha truly deserves her spot on this list of the most inspiring and famous polyglots! Her spoken languages are Arabic (native), Italian, Hebrew, German, and English.

Brian Kwong is originally from Hong Kong, but moved to the U.S. when he was 12. There, he was bullied for his poor English skills, and because of this, he found it hard to learn English. Later in life, when he started Add1Challenge (encouraged by the support he received from other learners when he decided to learn German), he made sure it would be a pleasant, stress-free and encouraging environment. Something we love and completely agree with! His spoken languages are Mandarin, Cantonese, English, German, Romanian and Japanese.

Kris Broholm. Kris Broholm is from Denmark. Growing up, Kris was a top student. Not only that, but he loved foreign language lessons. That is, until the divorce of his parents, and, later, the death of his father. He fell into depression and felt as though he was moving through life without a true purpose. Higher education in Denmark is not only free, but paid, so this is what Kris did, and it is also where he was diagnosed with depression. What helped him out of this was watching famous polyglots on YouTube learn languages.

Learning languages while traveling is something he always wanted to do; it gave him a purpose and a reason to live. He now does exactly this, and his goal is to learn ten languages in ten years! On his website, he gives tips and talks about his language-learning journey to help others learn languages.

Kris Broholm doesn't claim that you'll become fluent in your target language overnight, or even over the course of a year. However, he does provide a massive range of resources to help inspire your language-learning journey. He also produces a podcast about resources, articles and inspirational people. His spoken languages are Danish (native), English, German, Esperanto, Russian, and Hungarian.

Susanna Zaraysky. Susanna is Russian. To say that Susanna loves traveling is an understatement, because she has traveled to 50 countries, and lived in nine of them! Needless to say, she is no stranger to languages. On her website, we learn that "she has given presentations at the Defense and State Departments of the United States to help diplomats and military personnel learn languages using music." She has also spoken in various countries, at countless universities and conferences, and her language learning techniques have been featured on TV channels such as CNN, BBC, NBC, CBS and The Guardian. In other words, Susanna is a pretty incredible woman, and she fits in quite well with the rest of our famous polyglots! Her spoken languages are Russian (native), English (native), French, Spanish, Italian, Portuguese, Serbo-Croatian.

Lindsay Williams. Lindsay is from Great Britain. Lindsay Williams first started learning French in primary school. She didn't care too much about the language back then. However, getting to have croissants at the end of the year made her stick with it. She later developed a love for one of Shakira's songs and decided to learn Spanish because of it. She took Spanish as an optional class, in addition to her French classes, and that's how her love of languages grew. Having taught everyone from individuals to corporate groups, she now teaches languages online via Skype. Apart from teaching both French and Spanish, she is one of the most active on this list of famous polyglots as she blogs and does podcasts about languages. Her spoken languages are English (native), Spanish, French, German, Italian, Portuguese, Dutch.

Gabriel Wyner. Gabriel is an American. Gabriel Wyner has a systematic approach for learning and teaching languages that he developed after learning German in 14 weeks. To prove that his method was effective, he became fluent in French in five months, and then learned Russian in nine months. He is a strong believer that learners, at first, shouldn't just translate, but should instead focus on the correct pronunciation. He also believes, like us and like many other famous polyglots, that they should use flashcards for memorizing vocabulary. He speaks English (native), German, French, Russian, Italian, Hungarian, Japanese.

Gabriel Gelman. Another Gabriel Gelman is from Germany. Gabriel is the creator of Sprachheld, one of the most popular language blogs in German-speaking countries.

Gabriel was raised bilingual (German and Russian), but did not stop there because he later decided to learn French and Spanish. During a talk at the polyglot gathering, he admitted that he is a lazy polyglot who is always looking for the best methods to learn a language without spending too much time and effort. Needless to say, we like this approach – get 80% of the results with only the 20% of the effort.

Luca interviewed Gabriel at the Polyglot Gathering 2017 in Bratislava (in French, but you can turn on English subtitles if needed). His spoken languages are German (native), Russian, French, Spanish, English and Hebrew.

Jan Van Der Aa. Jan is from the Netherlands. Jan Van Der Aa likes to define himself as a student and on his website he tells us that his English teacher suggested he “choose a career for which foreign languages were not needed”. We can definitely say that this teacher was wrong because today Jan is a successful polyglot who has learned not only English, but also another 9 languages!

He has also made languages part of his professional life because Jan is the co-founder of Language Boost, a company which creates courses to learn languages (the other co-founder is Lucas Bighetti, another impressive polyglot from Brazil). Born and raised in Holland, Jan is also a passionate traveller who managed to visit 100 countries when he was still in his twenties. He speaks Dutch (native), Mandarin, French, Brazilian, Portuguese, German, Spanish, Cantonese, and some Russian and Thai.

Emily Liedel. She is from the USA. Emily Liedel started out as a journalist and later turned to copywriting, photography, translating, coaching, web designing, blogging and tour guiding. Her goal is to learn all of the UN official languages and become fluent in them by 2019. This means she would be able to communicate with close to 35 percent of the world's population. Her blog gives tons of language-learning tutorials and tips that are great for those who are interested in learning the most common and useful languages. Her spoken languages are French, Russian, German, Chinese, Spanish and other languages.

Noel van Vliet. Noel van Vliet is from the USA too. Noel's goal is for his readers to learn a new language as efficiently as possible. He is fluent in three languages and has a lot of valuable information to share. He also knows a lot about the benefits of learning a language. You can tell that Noel is passionate and cares about his readers. We really enjoy his “Case Studies,” where Noel tests out different techniques, products, and language learning tactics. His spoken languages are Spanish, French, German, English, Italian and Japanese.

Ellen Jovin. Ellen Jovin is an American. She is a former freelance writer, and founder of Syntaxis, a communication skills training firm. In 2009, she decided to stop freelancing and start learning as many languages she could find in New York City (where about 800 languages are spoken) simply because of her love for New York and languages! The original plan was to only do this for a year, but she hasn't been able to stop. To date, she has studied more than 20 languages! Her aim is not to learn the languages to full fluency, but to achieve a conversational level. On her blog, you can find out more about her experience with learning languages. Her spoken languages are English, French and Spanish.

5.1.5. The List of Famous Hyperpolyglots

This is the list of polyglots who speak 12 or more languages!

Richard Simcott. Simcott is from United Kingdom. Richard Simcott is a hyperpolyglot who has studied over 40 languages. He has been described as one of the most multilingual persons in the United Kingdom by HarperCollins and was named Ambassador for Multilingualism by the Goethe-Institut. One of the reasons he and Alex Rawlings are two of the most famous polyglots in the world is because of the annual Polyglot Conference they co-organize, which takes place every October. Apart from organizing this amazing event, Richard is a language consultant, offering his expertise on multilingual and multinational projects. He speaks English (native), French, Spanish, Welsh, German, Macedonian, Swedish, Italian, Serbian, Bosnian, Croatian, Portuguese, Czech, Catalan, Russian, Dutch, Romanian and Albanian.

Steve Kaufmann. Steve is a Canadian. Luckily Steve Kaufmann realized that the reason he was not “good at learning languages” was because of the traditional methods he was trying to use. He was only seventeen years old when he joined the polyglot club. Fifty odd years later, and he is now a hyperpolyglot and co-founder of Linq. Since his mid-fifties, he has started putting more effort in language learning, thus proving that it's never too late to learn a language. Apart from being an avid language learner, he is also president of a company involved in the international wood products trade. His spoken languages are English (native), Ukrainian, Korean, Romanian, Swedish, Portuguese, French, Spanish, German, Chinese, Czech, Russian, Italian and Japanese.

Luca Lampariello. Luca Lampariello is a famous polyglot from Rome (Italy). He has a very peculiar approach to language learning. It is based on bidirectional translation. Basically, Luca learns vocab and grammar by reading bilingual texts and constantly comparing the original to the translation. Lampariello has also mastered the art of the accent. If you ever hear him speaking your native language, you will be surprised by how close he can imitate a native speaker's accent. His spoken languages are Italian (native), English, French, German, Spanish, Swedish, Russian, Dutch, Portuguese, Japanese, Mandarin Chinese, Polish and Hungarian.

Elisa Polese. Elisa Polese is a passionate and enthusiastic language lover and polyglot. She can speak and teach 13 languages! But if we include all the languages she has studied and speaks at a lower level, we can say that Elisa speaks more than 20 languages!

Originally from Naples, Elisa has lived in many countries (UK, Russia, Germany, Spain, France, Italy and Switzerland) where she has taught foreign languages to hundreds of students. She is also a well-known speaker at international conferences. In addition to dealing with language learning, she also focuses on multilingual teaching and intercultural communication. She always makes sure she spreads her contagious love for languages. Her spoken languages are Italian (native), English, German, Spanish, Russian, French, Dutch, Catalan, Portuguese, Greek, Hindi, Arabic, Esperanto, Hungarian, Sinhalese, Mandarin Chinese, Vietnamese, Serbian, Ukrainian, Hebrew, Turkish and Polish.

Alex Rawlings. Alex Rawlings is from United Kingdom. Alexis English and of Greek descent. In 2012, he competed against other famous polyglots to earn the title of Britain's most multilingual student. He and Richard Simcott are co-organizers of the Polyglot Conference Luca Sadurny writes about here, and they also run polyglot workshops together. Alex also teaches four languages (English, German, Russian and Greek) and offers consulting and coaching services to people who wish to learn multiple languages at the same time. His spoken languages are English (native), French, German, Spanish, Greek, Dutch, Afrikaans, Italian, Catalan, Hebrew, German, Russian, Yiddish, Hungarian and Serbian.

Vladimir Skultety. He is from Slovakia. Vladimir's language learning started early in life. He is originally from southeast Slovakia, which is not too far from Hungary. Although neither of his parents spoke the language, they decided to put him into a Hungarian immersion kindergarten class. Since he was living in what at the time was Czechoslovakia, he also learned Czech. At the age of eight, he went to live in the U.S., and moved to Austria when he was 12, thus learning both English and German. He went on to study in Italy and Russia, and later decided to learn French, Spanish and Portuguese. I think you know where this is going... Vladimir now speaks about 12 languages at a C1-C2 level. He is now a translator and interpreter of Slovak, Mandarin Chinese and English. His spoken languages are Slovak (native), English, Hungarian, Czech, Mandarin Chinese, Russian, German, Italian, French, Spanish, Serbian, Polish, Portuguese, Romanian, Dutch, Japanese and Cantonese.

Timothy Doner. Timothy is an American. Timothy is a Harvard student who has been referred to in the media as “The World’s Youngest Hyperpolyglot”. When he was thirteen, he started learning Hebrew through music, and, without actually realizing it, he memorized around 20 songs he liked. You can only imagine his disbelief when he looked up the lyrics and realized he had learned a few hundred words without even trying! And that’s how his language-learning journey to becoming one of the world’s most famous polyglots began. He started learning Arabic, moved to Persian, then Russian, then Mandarin, and so on. In 2014, he started The Teen Polyglot Challenge, where teens are challenged to begin learning a language in five weeks and send a video of themselves speaking the language in front of a camera. Apart from this, Timothy has given talks at Sapphire, TedxTeen and Apple. Not bad at all! His spoken languages are English (native), French, Hausa, Wolof, Russian, German, Yiddish, Hebrew, Arabic, Pashto, Persian, Mandarin, Italian, Turkish, Indonesian, Dutch, Xhosa, Kiswahili, Hindi, Ojibwe, Kinyarwanda, and Creole.

Emanuele Marini. Emanuele is from Italy. He is a real mystery in the language learning world, but he is definitely in the famous polyglots club. He has practically no online presence, and was only “discovered” at the Polyglot Conference a few years ago. He was spontaneously tested to see whether his claims were true, and, indeed, they were. His language-learning method is picking up books he finds interesting in any of the languages he wants to learn, and, using a dictionary (often of another language he’s learning), he goes on to decipher their meaning. Later in the process he does language exchanges, and, with the help of a native speaker, learns more of the language. After getting the basics down, he travels to a country where the language is spoken in order to meet natives and get a better grasp of the language. So, how many languages does Emanuele know? Oh, only 34! Some of his spoken languages are Italian (native), Albanian, Arabic, Armenian, Bosnian, Bulgarian, Croatian, Czech, Danish, Finnish, French, Greek, English, Lithuanian, Macedonian, Dutch, Norwegian, Persian, Polish, Portuguese, Romanian, Russian, Serbian, Slovak, Slovenian, Spanish, Swedish, German, Turkish, Hungarian, Ukrainian, Latin, classical Greek and Hebrew.

Cesco Reale. He is from Italy too. An Italian phonetics and pronunciation expert (IPA certified) and Esperanto lover, Cesco speaks a whopping 16 languages. He is the UN representative of the World Esperanto Association. He especially likes combining games, languages and math. He helps organize the Polyglot Gathering (first with Judith Meyer and now with Lydia Machova) and various other language-related events. His spoken languages are Italian (native), Esperanto, French, Spanish, Portuguese, English, German, Catalan, Romanian, Greek, Latin, Galician, Chinese, Russian, Sardinian and Dutch.

What! A Charlie? - 1625

Charles I (crowned in 1625) couldn't have been less like his dad if he'd tried. A right little runt (5ft 4ins) who was prudish, shy, shifty and st-stammering. If his father never really understood the English, Charlie never really understood anyone at all. He believed that if he set a good example, the world would follow. How wrong could he be. The first daft thing he did was marry Henrietta, the daughter of the King of France, which really got up the nose of all the non-Catholics. With the help of his chief adviser, the Duke of Buckingham, handsome ex-boyfriend of his ex-dad, Charles managed to intensify the war.

Vocabulary

runt [rɛnt] людина маленького зросту, коротун

prudish ['pru:diʃ] манірний

shifty [ʃɪfti] хитрий; нечесний; ненадійний

stammer ['stæmə] заїкатися

daft [daft] божевільний; дурний, ідіотський, безглуздий

1625 - War With Spain

He asked Parliament for money to fight with and they told him to get lost. Weedy Charles tried to do it on the cheap without them, but soon got into a right mess. He begged them again, and again they told him to go away - but probably not that politely. He then tried to borrow money off his friends. Cheekier still, he forced people to feed his troops for free, throwing them into jail if they refused. Parliament eventually gave in and told him that if he was a good boy and behaved himself, they'd give him the cash. He blew it all though, and was forced, finally, to crawl to the Spanish king and make peace (what a Charlie!).

Vocabulary

beg [beg] просити; благати, молити; злидарювати; просити милостиню

1629 - Trouble with Parliament

Charles was one of those kings who thought he was next in line to God, which meant nobody had the right to question him. This really peeved the patient Parliament. In the end things came to the crunch over - three guesses - religion again. Parliament passed a resolution against the Catholic faith which Charles, having Catholic sympathies, took rather badly. He sent: them all packing and ran the country alone for eleven years.

Vocabulary

reeved [pi:vd] роздратований, ображений crunch over - роздавлювати, роздушувати

1635 - Civil War Looms

Charles was still strapped for cash so he taxed the wealthy landowners heavily, and, for reasons best known to himself, anyone who lived by or near the sea (the Ship Tax). Then he stuck his nose into Scottish religion, which miffed them so much they invaded England (so far - so good, Charlie!) The whole country took sides and whoopee! we have a proper civil war (nice one, Charles!)

Vocabulary

strapped for cash бракувало грошей

miffed роздратований

whoopee! [wv'pi:] ого-го-го! (вигук захоплення)

1640 – Witches

It was also the time of the famous witch-hunts. Anything that went wrong in the countryside – bad crops, hens not laying, wives becoming ugly, etc, was blamed on witches. Any single old woman who had a broom and/or a cat was suspected of witchcraft. A nasty piece of work called Matthew Hopkins toured Merrie England for three years from 1644, killing old women willy-nilly. His best test involved throwing the poor old souls into any convenient pond. If they sank they were innocent and if they floated it meant Satan was helping them so they were guilty and promptly burned. Hopkins became so good at witch-spotting that, in the end, people wondered if Satan wasn't on his side and hanged him as well for good measure.

Vocabulary

witch-hunts 1) пошук та переслідування осіб, які начебто мають зв'язок з нечистою силою 2) політ. "полювання на відьом", переслідування прогресивних діячів suspect [sə'spekt] підозрювати witchcraft [wɪtʃkra:ft] чаклунство, чорна магія; чари nasty ['nɑ:sti] огидний, брудний, неприємний, зловбий; небезпечний willy-nilly [ˌwɪlɪ'nɪli] поневолі, волею-неволею, хочеш не хочеш sank [sæŋk] past від sink тоннути, топнути innocent ['ɪnəs(ə)nt] невинна, невинувата людина

Satan ['seɪtən] сатана, диявол guilty [gɪlti] винний, винуватий promptly ['prɒmptli] швидко, негайно, терміново; невідкладно

1642 - Oliver Cromwell

Cromwell started out drilling volunteers for the Parliamentary party, but soon emerged as one of their top men. In 1644 a combination of Roundheads, Scots and Cromwell's new cavalry beat the pants off the Cavaliers or Royalists at Marston Moor. Parliament was so chuffed that they asked Cromwell to build a flash new elite army of professional soldiers. It was called the New Model Army and the men were paid the unheard of sum of 10p a day.

Charles, seeing he was getting the worst of it, scarpered up to Scotland in 1646 thinking he'd get well looked after as his old man was once their king. No such luck. The Scots promptly flogged him to Parliament - For Sale, one King!

Cromwell, who was by then Parliament's blue-eyed boy, was given J2,500 a year commission for fixing the deal. Lots of the Royalist soldiers, stuck without a leader and no wages, sloped home to their wives.

Vocabulary

Roundheads пуританин

chuffed [tʃeft] (страшенно) задоволений

scarper тікати

flog [flɒg] бити батогом; підганяти

Roundheads

Things weren't too clever with the Roundheads either. Parliament: was continually harassing them, and worse, sacking their no-longer-needed army without paying them. Cromwell was well brassed off, so he seized poor Charles and offered him a generous deal.

As a result of Cromwell's actions civil war broke out between Cromwell's army, the Scots and the Royalists. In 1648 Cromwell's heavies beat them hollow at the Battle of Preston. Ollie then high-tailed it down to London and gave all the Presbyterians in Parliament the boot.

Vocabulary

harass ['hærəs] здійснювати напади

brassed off втомлений, роздратований

seize [si:z] схопити; піймати, заарештувати

1648 -The Rump

This left just sixty Independents rather deftly called 'the Rump'. Cromwell then did his naughtiest thing ever. He tried the king for high treason and then in 1649, at a huge public ceremony, neatly severed his head (a rather disloyal thing to do to your king).

Very noble I'm sure, but it looks as if poor old Charlie didn't have much choice. Not many folk know that when Charles's coffin was rediscovered in 1813, the Royal surgeon, Sir Henry Halford, did an autopsy on the body and nicked poor Charles's fourth vertebra. For years he used to horrify his mates by using it as a salt holder at dinner parties. Queen Victoria, never one to like a joke, ordered him to put it back in the coffin.

Vocabulary

deftly ['deflɪ] майстерно, спритно, моторно

treason ['tri:z(ə)n] зрада; державна зрада

coffin ['kɒfɪn] труна

autopsy [ɔ:tɒpsɪ] розтин трупа, аутопсія

nicked забудений; щербатий vertebra ['vɜ:tibrə] хребець

Look Out, Charles - 1650

Meanwhile the Scots were crowning Charles's son, Charles II, who'd been in Holland hiding in the Hague. Cromwell was solving his problems as only he knew how. He shot the mutineers, invaded and massacred the revolting Irish and only then turned his attention to Scotland and their brand new king. It took a few bloody battles to show the Royalist Scots who was boss. Charles, who'd apparently spent much of his time hiding up a tree (funny lot, kings!), rather wisely went on a prolonged holiday to France in 1651 and I bet he didn't send any postcards.

Vocabulary

mutineer [mju:t(ə)'niə] заколотник; учасник (військового) заколоту; бунтівник massacre ['mæsəkə] влаштувати різанину; різати, розгромити

1653 - King Oliver?

Oliver obviously wasn't someone who was easy to get on with, and before long he fell out with his Rump, which sounds rather painful. He fired the lot of them and so, for the first time, England was ruled by a military dictatorship.

Some slimy creeps kept begging him to become king. Instead of being King Oily I he called himself the 'Lord Protector of a United Commonwealth of England, Scotland, Ireland and the Colonies' (what a mouthful).

Vocabulary

slimy [slaimi] 1) мулистий, грузлий; липкий 2) слизуватий; покритий слизом; слизький 3) противний, огидний creep [kri:p] здригання; мурашки mouthful ['maʊtf(ə)l] ім'я, слово або фраза, що важко вимовляються

By the Way

Cromwell died of natural causes, believe it or not, aged sixty, just before he was buried, his brain was weighed and found to be an incredible 82.25 ounces (the average man's weighs 49 ounces).

Some time later, when definitely worm-bait, he was dug up (pooh!) with all his fellow king killers and strung up at Tyburn. As a special treat, Cromwell's head was displayed on a pole outside Westminster Abbey which jolly well served him right - not, I suspect, that he cared. It remained there for twenty-four years until 1685 when a strong wind blew it off. It was found by a captain of the guard who took it home and hid it up his chimney. Years later it turned up at a freak show and was valued at sixty guineas. An actor, Samuel Russell, had been paying his rent by charging the punters half a crown a look. After changing hands several more times it ended up on display in Bond Street. The syndicate which had bought it for £230 all died mysteriously and it fell into the hands of a Doctor Wilkinson. The Wilkinson family kept it in a wooden box, wrapped in red and black silk, for years and years until eventually giving it to Sydney Sussex College in 1960 where it was buried secretly.

5.2.2. The Glimpse of Great Britain and Its Parliament Life

Great Britain or the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland as the country is officially called among the oldest constitutional monarchies in Europe. The country's first constitution, the Magna Charta, was signed under the pressure of her Parliament by the despotic King John Lackland, son of King Richard the Lion Hearted, in 1215. The Magna Charta had a great influence on the country's parliamentary life and traditions which have remained unchanged for centuries. Thus, the Palace of Westminster where Parliament is held and which was built anew and rebuilt for several times is in the same place for more than 1,000 years.

Besides the Parliament consists of two Chambers or Houses - the Upper Chamber or the House of Lords and the Lower Chamber or the House of Commons. The Upper House consists of over 1,100 Members belonging to one of the three unequally represented groups of peers:

1. Hereditary Peers, Marquises, Earls, Viscounts, Barons (almost half of all peers), and Peeresses (ab 20);
2. Life Peers and Life Peeresses;
3. Archbishops (2) and Senior Bishops (20).

The House of Lords is headed by the Lord Chancellor who is also the minister of Justice and Head of the High Court.

The House of Commons consists of 659 elected MPs (1997 elections). The House is headed by the Speaker.

There are nine Royal British orders of Knighthood. The highest of them is the order of the Garter, which was founded by King Edward III in 1348. It consists of two parts - a collar gold chain worn around the neck with St. George killing the Dragon, and an eight-pointed star. The order is conferred to the members of the Royal family and 25 knights. The only commoner to have received the order was Sir Winston Churchill in 1957. This order gives the bearer the right to be buried in Westminster Abbey.

The next important order is the order of the Bath established during the reign of Henry IV (1399-1413). The name of the order comes from the ceremony of bathing (the symbol of purity) before being given it.

The highest military award in Great Britain is the Victoria Cross instituted by Queen Victoria in 1856 to mark the victory in the Crimean War. The cross is made from the metal of the Russian guns captured in Sevastopol during the Crimean War in 1855.

Several traditional ceremonies are held in the capital of Great Britain attracting the attention of many Londoners and their numerous domestic and foreign guests. One of them observed every day is the changing of the Household Guards quartered in the Chelsea and Wellington Barracks near the Buckingham Palace. The Brigade of Guards of the Queen (and the Royal family body-guards) consists of two regiments representing the nationalities of the United Kingdom.

The English Grenadiers wear the bearskin caps twenty inches high. The Scots Guards wear a wide black ribbon on the back of their uniform colour 15 cm wide and 25 cm long. All the Guards wear scarlet or red tunics and black trousers except the Scots Guards wearing their traditional regimental cloth. The Irish Guards wear a triple row of brass buttons and distinctive plumes.

The second ceremonial event which can be seen at 11 a.m. every weekday and at 10 a.m. on Sundays is Mounting the Guard. In this ceremony the Household Cavalry (the Royal and Life Guards) take part. They wear breast and back shiny plates made of steel armour.

The third ceremony is observed only once a year on the second Saturday in June at ab. 11.15 a.m. and is called Trooping the Colour. The ceremony marks the “official” birthday of the Queen and presents an inspection parade of the Queen’s own troops. This spectacular ceremony with the Queen riding side-saddle on a highly trained horse ahead of the Guards is watched by many hundreds of people.

Among other old traditions the most prominent are the ceremony of the Keys which is over 700 years old (since 1215 when King John was forced to sign the Magna Charta) and Lord Mayor's Show. The latter goes back to the mayoralty of Richard (Dick) Whittington, who was mayor four times (1396, 1397, 1406 and 1419). The Lord Mayor rides from the City in a splendid six horses-spanned coach through the streets of London and stops at Law Courts where he is presented to the Lord Chief of Justice, who hands him his sword of office after receiving a solemn promise to carry out his duties faithfully. The procession then continues to Westminster, and then returns to the Mansion House, the official residence of the Lord Mayor.

5.2.3. An Englishman's Day

An Englishman's day - and who better to describe it than an Englishman's wife?

It begins when, ignoring me, he sits down to breakfast with his morning paper. As he scans the headlines (or the racing results) there is nothing he likes better than his favourite breakfast of cornflakes with milk and sugar (porridge if he lives in the North) followed by fried bacon and eggs, marmalade and toast, the whole accompanied by tea or coffee. But whether he in fact gets such a meal depends on the state of my housekeeping budget!

After breakfast, except on Sundays and (in many cases) Saturdays which are holidays, he sets off to work by train, tube, car, motor scooter, motor bike or even on his own two feet. The time he sets out depends in large degree upon whether he is what might colloquially be termed a "striver" (one who works himself), a "driver" (one who sees that others work) or a "thrifer" (one who profits from others work).

If he is a "striver", he will jostle along with thousands like him on the 7.20, probably still reading his paper (or somebody else's) and studying the successes (or otherwise) of his favourite team. The "drivers" customarily depart about an hour later while the "thrifers" travel up to the City in great style about an hour later. But be he "striver", "driver" or "thrifer", he will enjoy his tea or coffee break around about 11. The tea or coffee is usually brought to the factory bench or office desk.

Then, at mid-day, everything stops for lunch. Most offices and small shops close for an hour, say from 1 to 2, and the city pavements are thronged with people on their way to cafes. Factory workers usually eat in their canteens. The usual mid-day meal usually consists of two courses - a meat course accompanied by plenty of vegetables, followed by a sweet dish, perhaps fruit pudding and custard with tea or coffee to finish. Most Englishmen like what they call "good plain food, not messed about with". They must be able to recognize what they are eating. Otherwise they are likely to refuse it. Usually they like beef steaks, chops, roast beef and Yorkshire pudding and fried fish and chipped potatoes. They are in the main not overfond of soup, remarking that it fills them without leaving sufficient room for the more important meat course. Then back to work again, with another break in the middle of the afternoon, once again for tea or coffee, sometimes with a cake or biscuit.

The working day finishes at time between 4 and 6, with the "thrifers" usually first home and the "strivers" last. On arrival home, many Englishmen seem to like to inspect their gardens before their evening meal.

This goes under various names - tea, high tea, dinner or supper depending upon its size and also the social standing of those eating it. Usually a savoury meat course is followed by stewed fruit or cake and tea. His evening meal over, the Englishman might do a bit of gardening and then have a walk to the "local" for a "quick one".

The "local" means the nearest beer house while a "quick one" means a drink (alcoholic, of course!) taking anything from half-an-hour to three hours to imbibe! There is plenty of lively, congenial company at the "local" and he can play darts, dominoes, billiards or discuss the weather or the current situation.

But if the Englishman stays at home, he might listen to the radio, watch television, talk, read or pursue his favourite hobby. Then at any time between 10 and 12 he will have his “nightcap” - a drink accompanied by a snack - and then off to bed ready for tomorrow.

5.3. Sightseeing

5.3.1. Taj Mahal

The most famous building in India is the Taj Mahal. It has a very romantic story. In 1631, the wife of Emperor Mumtaz Mahal died. The emperor loved his wife very much and he wanted a special building to bury her in. 20,000 men built the Taj Mahal and it took 20 years to finish. It is a beautiful building of white marble, decorated with jewels.

“A white marble tomb built in 1631 - 48 in Agra, seat of the Mugal Empire, by Shah Fehan for his wife, Arjuman Banu Begum, the monument sums up many of the formal themes that have played through Islamic architecture. Its refined elegance is a conspicuous contrast both to the Hindu architecture of pre-Islamic India, with its thick walls, corbeled arches, and heavy lintels, and to the Indo-Islamic styles, in which Hindu elements are combined with an eclectic assortment of motifs from Persian and Turkish sources.”

“The Mausoleum of the Taj Mahal at Agra stands in a formally laid-out walled garden entered through a pavilion on the main axis. The tomb, raised on a terrace and first seen reflected in the central canal, is entirely sheathed in marble, but the mosque and counter-mosque on the transverse axis are built in red sandstone.

The four minarets, set symmetrically about the tomb, are scaled down to heighten the effect of the dominant, slightly bulbous dome.

The mosques, built only to balance the composition are set sufficiently far away to do no more than frame the mausoleum. In essence, the whole riverside platform is a mosque courtyard with a tomb at its centre. The great entrance gate with its domed central chamber, set at the end of the long watercourse, would in any other setting be monumental in its own right.”

“The interior of the building is dimly lit through pierced marble lattices and contains a virtuoso display of carved marble. Externally the building gains an ethereal quality from its marble facings, which respond with extraordinary subtlety to changing light and weather.”

5.3.2. Eiffel Tower

In 1884 the French government announced that there would be an international exhibition in Paris, opening in 1889, to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the French Revolution. The main attraction would be a tower, 300 metres high. They held a competition to find the best design, and out of more than 100 entries they chose the plans of Alexandre Gustave Eiffel.

In 1884 the French government announced that there would be an international exhibition in Paris, opening in 1889, to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the French Revolution. The main attraction would be a tower, 300 metres high. They held a competition to find the best design, and out of more than 100 entries they chose the plans of Alexandre Gustave Eiffel.

Eiffel was the most famous and successful engineer in France. He had designed and built more than 40 large railway bridges, many buildings and the frame that supported the giant statue of liberty in New York. Not one of his bridges collapsed, which was an unusual record for an engineer at that time.

By the time the government had chosen his design, the opening of the exhibition was less than two years away. Eiffel and his team had to work fast. Eiffel planned the tower with absolute precision.

First every detail was drawn on a separate plan, in over 500 drawings. The complete order of assembly was carefully worked out, so that when work began the tower could be fitted together quickly.

The tower was made of iron girders, joined together by rivets. All the girders were made in Eiffel's factory, where they were joined into pieces not more than 5 metres long. These pieces were then assembled on the site. The foundations were laid, and on July 1887 the tower began to rise. Two hundred and fifty men worked from dawn to dusk, swinging the girders into place and driving in the red-hot rivets. The people of Paris watched their tower to grow with astonished speed.

An important feature of the tower was its lifts. A tall building is useless if people cannot get to the top quickly. The lifts were made by an American firm Otis. They took visitors from the ground to the second level.

By March 1889 the Eiffel Tower was complete. At 300.51 metres, it was the highest structure in the world, a record it held until the construction of the Chrysler Building in New York in 1930. It had cost $ 1.6 million, and only one life. On 15 May 1889 the tower was opened to the public. To date it has attracted over 185 million visitors. It remains the symbol of Paris, and a monument to the skill and bravery of Eiffel and his team.

Have ever heard about these facts?

- The sixteen huge columns of the tower were adjusted to a fraction of a millimetre by tiny hydraulic jacks built into their bases. Two men pumped to force water into the jack. A third man drove in an iron wedge to fix the column.
- The arches do not help in supporting the tower. Eiffel added them just for decoration.
- The third platform is 274 m high. On a clear day you can see for up to 72 km. Above it is a small flat used by Eiffel.
- The second platform is 115 m high. In 1889 there was a printing press and newspaper office there, as well as a bar and pastry shop.
- The first platform is 57 m high. In 1889 there were four restaurants there, each serving a different style of food.
- The four legs rest on massive concrete and stone blocks. Eiffel used caissons, like those used on the Brooklyn Bridge, to dig the foundations, as they were below the level of the River Seine.

5.3.3. London's Buses

There are two kinds of buses in London: the red double-decker and the red single-decker. Some double-deckers have automatic doors and you pay the driver when you go in. On the single-decker you buy your ticket from a machine in the bus. But most London buses have a conductor who collects fares.

You can get a bus map of London at most underground stations. The map shows the routes for all the buses. The main places the bus goes to are shown on the front of the bus. Double-deckers have seats for sixty-five people. Only five people can stand when the seats are full. So the conductor may stop you getting on the bus if there are five passengers already standing.

5.3.4. Seven Wonders of the World

Seven Wonders of the World is the most exquisite and interesting among numerals monuments of arts and architecture created by the mankind.

The Seven Wonders of the World (or the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World) is a widely-known list of seven remarkable constructions of classical antiquity. It was based on guide-books popular among Hellenic sight-seers and only includes works located around the Mediterranean rim. Later lists include those for the Medieval World and the Modern World.

The historian Herodotus and the scholar Callimachus of Cyrene at the Museum of Alexandria, made early lists of “seven wonders” but their writings have not survived, except as references.

A later list, under various titles like De septem orbis spectaculis and traditionally misattributed to the engineer Philo of Byzantium, may date as late as the fifth century AD, though the author writes as if the Colossus of Rhodes were still standing. These are given in the table below:

Great Pyramid of Giza

Hanging Gardens of Babylon

Temple of Artemis at Ephesus

Statue of Zeus at Olympia

Mausoleum of Maussollos at Halicarnassus

Colossus of Rhodes

Lighthouse of Alexandria

The Greek category was not “Wonders” but “theamata”, which translates closer to “must-sees”. The list that we know today was compiled in the Middle Ages - by which time many of the sites were no longer in existence. Since the list came mostly from ancient Greek writings, only sites that would have been known and visited by the ancient Greeks were included. Even as early as 1600 BC, tourist graffiti was scrawled on monuments in the Egyptian Valley of the Kings.

Great Pyramid of Giza

The Great Pyramid is the oldest and the largest of the three pyramids in the Giza Necropolis bordering what is now Cairo, Egypt in Africa. The oldest and only remaining member of the Seven Wonders of the World, it is believed to have been constructed over a 20 year period concluding around 2560 BC. The Great Pyramid was built as a tomb for Fourth dynasty Egyptian pharaoh Khufu (Cheops), and is sometimes called Khufu’s Pyramid or the Pyramid of Khufu.

The Great Pyramid is the main part of a complex setting of buildings that included two mortuary temples in honour of Khufu (one close to the pyramid and one near the Nile), three smaller pyramids for Khufu’s wives, an even smaller “satellite” pyramid, a raised causeway connecting the two temples, and small tombs surrounding the pyramid for nobles. One of the small pyramids contains the tomb of queen Hetepheres (discovered in 1925), sister and wife of Sneferu and the mother of Khufu.

There was a town for the workers of Giza, including a cemetery, bakeries, a beer factory and a copper smelting complex. More buildings and complexes are being discovered by The Giza Mapping Project.

Hanging Gardens of Babylon

The Hanging Gardens of Babylon (also known as Hanging Gardens of Semiramis) and the walls of Babylon (near present-day Baghdad in Iraq) were considered one of the Seven Wonders of the World. They were both supposedly built by Nebuchadnezzar II around 600 BC. He is reported to have ordered the construction of the gardens to please his wife, Amyitis of Media, who longed for the trees and beautiful plants of her homeland. The lush Hanging Gardens are extensively documented by Greek historians such as Strabo and Diodorus Siculus, but otherwise there is little evidence for their existence.

In fact, there are no Babylonian records of any such gardens having existed. Some circumstantial evidence gathered at the excavation of the palace at Babylon has accrued, but does not completely substantiate what look like fanciful descriptions. Through the ages, the location may have been confused with gardens that existed at Nineveh, since tablets from there clearly show gardens. Writings on these tablets describe the possible use of something similar to an Archimedes' screw as a process of raising the water to the required height.

Temple of Artemis at Ephesus

The Temple of Artemis (in Greek - Artemision, and in Latin - Artemisium), also known less precisely as Temple of Diana, was a temple dedicated to Artemis completed, in its most famous phase, around 550 BC at Ephesus (in present-day Turkey) under the Achaemenid dynasty of the Persian Empire. Nothing remains of the temple - not the first on its site - which was one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World.

Statue of Zeus at Olympia

The Statue of Zeus at Olympia is one of the classical Seven Wonders of the Ancient World. It was carved by the famed Classical sculptor Phidias (5th century BC) circa 435 BC in Olympia, Greece.

The seated statue occupied the whole width of the aisle of the temple that was built to house it, and was 12 meters tall. “It seems that if Zeus were to stand up”, the geographer Strabo noted early in the 1st century BC, “he would unroof the temple.”

Zeus was a chryselephantine sculpture, made of ivory and accented with gold plating. In the sculpture, he was seated on the magnificent throne of cedarwood, inlaid with ivory, gold, ebony, and precious stones. In Zeus’ right hand there was a small statue of Nike, the goddess of victory, and in his left hand, a shining sceptre on which an eagle perched. Plutarch, in his Life of the Roman general Aemilius Paulus, records that the victor over Macedon “was moved to his soul, as if he had beheld the god in person”, while the Greek orator Dio Chrysostom wrote that a single glimpse of the statue would make a man forget his earthly troubles.

Mausoleum of Maussollos at Halicarnassus

The Mausoleum of Maussollos, or Mausoleum of Halicarnassus, was a tomb built between 353 and 350 BC at Halicarnassus (present Bodrum, Turkey) for Mausolus, a satrap in the Persian Empire, and Artemisia II of Caria, his wife and sister. The structure was designed by the Greek architects Satyrus and Pythius. It stood approximately 45 meters in height, and each of the four sides was adorned with sculptural reliefs created by one of four Greek sculptors -Bryaxis, Leochares, Scopas and Timotheus.

The finished structure was considered to be such an aesthetic triumph that Antipater of Sidon identified it as one of his Seven Wonders of the Ancient World. The word mausoleum has since come to be used generically for any grand tomb, though “Mausol - eion” originally meant “dedicated to Mausol”.

Colossus of Rhodes

The Colossus of Rhodes was a giant statue of the Greek god Helios, erected on the Greek island of Rhodes by Chares of Lindos, a student of Lysippos, between 292 and 280 BC. It was one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World. Before its destruction, the Colossus of Rhodes stood 70 cubits tall, over 30 metres, making it the tallest statue of the ancient world. Alexander the Great died at an early age in 323 BC without having time to put into place any plans for his succession. Fighting broke out among his generals, the Diadochi, with three of them eventually dividing up much of his empire in the Mediterranean area.

During the fighting Rhodes had sided with Ptolemy, and when Ptolemy eventually took control of Egypt, Rhodes and Ptolemaic Egypt formed an alliance which controlled much of the trade in the eastern Mediterranean.

Another of Alexander's generals, Antigonus I Monophthalmus, was upset by this turn of events. In 305 BC he had his son Demetrius Poliorcetes, also a general, invade Rhodes with an army of 40,000; however, the city was well defended, and Demetrius - whose name "Poliorcetes" signifies the "besieger of cities" - had to start construction of a number of massive siege towers in order to gain access to the walls. The first was mounted on six ships, but these were capsized in a storm before they could be used. He tried again with a larger, land-based tower named Helepolis, but the Rhodian defenders stopped this by flooding the land in front of the walls so that the rolling tower could not move.

In 304 BC a relief force of ships sent by Ptolemy arrived, and Demetrius's army abandoned the siege, leaving most of their siege equipment. To celebrate their victory, the Rhodians sold the equipment left behind for 300 talents and decided use the money to build a colossal statue of their patron god, Helios. Construction was left to the direction of Chares, a native of Lindos in Rhodes, who had been involved with large-scale statues before. His teacher, the sculptor Lysippos, had constructed an 18-metre high bronze statue of Zeus at Tarentum.

Lighthouse of Alexandria

The Pharos of Alexandria was a tall tower built in the 3rd century BC (between 285 and 247 BC) on the island of Pharos in Alexandria, Egypt to serve as that port's landmark, and later, its lighthouse.

With a height variously estimated at between 115 and 135 metres it was among the tallest man-made structures on Earth for many centuries, and was identified as one of the Seven Wonders of the World by classical writers. It was the third tallest building after the two Great Pyramids (of Khufu and Khafra) for its entire life. Some scientists estimate a much taller height exceeding 152 metres that would make the tower the tallest building up to the 14th century.

Only the Pyramids of Egypt still survive as wonders.

Asia

The Valley of Flowers

The Valley of Flowers lies about 4,000 metres above sea level in the Himalayas. You have to walk seventeen kilometres to get there. The valley is famous for its mountain flowers. It changes colour almost every day, when different kinds of plants begin to flower. This lovely spot is home to many rare animals – bears, snow leopards and different kinds of butterflies.

Valley of Flowers in Uttarakhand is India's most mesmerizing flower valley, which is also a UNESCO world heritage site. The valley is flourishing in the middle of Bhyundar Valley, up in the western part of the Himalayas at an elevation of 3,658 mts above sea level. It is popular for its verdant valleys of endemic alpine flowers and the unbelievably mesmerizing scenic beauty.

When you trek to Valley of Flowers, you see rare flowers, including Brahma kamala, Yellow Cobra Lily, Jacquemont's Cobra Lily, Wallich's Cobra Lily, Elegant Slipper Orchid (орхідея), Himalayan Slipper Orchid, Himalayan Marsh Orchid etc. The trek has been done and praised by many mountaineers, botanists, and renowned trekkers in the past.

Africa

The Congo Rainforest

Not many places on Earth are as full of life as the Congo rainforest, the world's second largest tropical forest. It covers two million square kilometres in six countries (Central Africa through Cameroon, Equatorial Guinea, Gabon, the Central African Republic, the Democratic Republic of Congo and the Republic of Congo) along the river Congo. Two thirds of the rainforest is found in the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) where 57% of the country's land area is made up of forest. About 10,000 kinds of tropical plants grow here. Many of them are unique to the Congo area. Rare animals live in the jungle. The forest is home to a wealth of biodiversity with over 10,000 species of plant, 30% of which are found only in the region, 400 species of mammal, 700 species of fish and 1,000 species of bird, according to WWF. Some of the species found in the Congo rainforest include the pygmy chimpanzee, the forest elephant, gorillas, the Congo peacock, the white rhino, the okapi and the ground pangolin. Perhaps one of the most unique species is the oikaipi, a close relative of the giraffe with striped marking on their legs resembling the stripes of a zebra. There are an estimated 10,000-20,000 oikaipis remaining in the wild in the DRC. They live in mountainous regions with altitudes between 500-1000 metres and in swamp forests below 500 meters.

The Pasific

The Coral Triangle

The Coral Triangle is an area in the Pasific Ocean between Indonesia and the Solomon Islands. Its coral reefs are like underwater gardens. They are full of wonderfully rich life. There are 600 kinds of coral and 2,000 kinds of fish. Six of the world's seven types of sea turtles swim in the sea here. There are whales, sharks and strange sea snails which eat coral and look like bits of coral!

Three Things to Know About the Coral Triangle, the Ocean's Biodiversity Hot Spot

The Triangle is a billion-acre ocean region controlled by Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, Papua New Guinea, Solomon Islands and Timor-Leste. Unlike some other coral-rich areas like the Great Barrier Reef, the Coral Triangle isn't a household name. But it's importance to Southeast Asia and the world's oceans can't be downplayed. The region encompasses a full 30 percent of the world's coral and has the highest diversity of corals and fishes in the world. It's a place to know - especially if you're concerned about conservation and coastal communities, which many are.

1. It's been called "the Amazon of the ocean" - Like the Amazon rainforest in comparison to other forest regions, the Coral Triangle is home to diversity found nowhere else in the reef system. More than 75 percent of the world's coral species - over 600 species - live in the Triangle, and the area contains more than 30 percent of all the world's coral reefs.

But the coral is only the start of the diversity in this living system. "The Coral Triangle has more coral reef fish diversity than anywhere else in the world," writes the World Wildlife Federation. Of the 6,000 currently known species of reef fish, 37 percent of the world's coral reef fish live in parts of the Triangle. Two hundred and thirty-five of those species are found nowhere else.

Six out of the world's seven marine turtles live in regions of the Coral Triangle. So do aquatic mammals like blue whales, sperm whales and dolphins and endangered species like dugongs? The list is long. In fact, writes the WWF, the criteria used to define the Coral Triangle relied on high species diversity - higher than that of nearby reefs in Australia and Fiji. The green turtle, the leatherback, the hawksbill, the olive ridley, the loggerhead and the flatback species of turtle are all found in the Coral Triangle.

2. It may be where coral reefs began – “The theory is that this is where coral reefs started,” says naturalist Chris Cook in the National Geographic documentary below. Today, the Triangle is the center of diversity for ocean life, and research in reef sciences has suggested that it was the historic point of origin for many coral species as well as many of the species that live there.

Paleontologists are studying ocean in the Triangle to get a sense of what the underwater past looked like. “The ancient diversity of the Coral Triangle can tell us much about how life has adapted to changing conditions in the past, and how life may well adapt again in the future,” writes Britain’s National History Museum.

Among the abundant species Cook and his colleagues observed recently: the cuttlefish, a species which itself has been around for more than 500 million years. “It’s hard to explain. You have to see it,” Cook says. “It’s a mollusc. It’s related to a clam. And it just displays such intelligence.”

3. It’s in danger exactly because of its abundance

Like reefs everywhere else on the planet, the Triangle is in critical danger because of human-produced factors. It’s in danger from localized threats like cyanide fishing for rare aquarium fish that live in its waters. This practice damages fish communities and the surrounding environment. But it’s also in danger because of huge threats, like anthropogenic climate change, which is warming the seas as they become more acidic, resulting in conditions where many species of coral can’t live.

On top of that, coral bleaching and white syndrome are immediate threats to many species of coral that dominate the Triangle – the Acropora corals. “In the next century, maybe all coral reef researchers will be paleontologists”, one coral researcher said to the Natural History Museum.

But there’s hope that parts of the Coral Triangle may be refuges for marine life once again. “High levels of biodiversity, coupled with fast rates of growth and recovery, put many Coral Triangle ecosystems in a favorable position to survive climate change,” writes the World Wildlife Fund.

South America

Iguazu Falls

You can hear it from miles away. On the border between Brazil and Argentina lies Iguazu, one of the world’s largest waterfalls, surrounding by subtropical rainforest. The curtain of water is nearly three kilometres wide and eighty-two metres in the highest place. Rare plants which can only live in running water grow in the waterfall.

10 Things to Know Before You Visit Iguazu Falls, Brazil

In the case of the absolutely breathtaking Iguazu Falls, it doesn’t matter how many photos, or how much video you see of it, it always lives up to the hype. Here are some helpful facts and info to know before your legendary day at the Iguazu waterfalls.

1. Open Earth - one of the most unique waterfalls on the planet, and now one of the most famous, was created when an enormous volcanic eruption created a huge crack in the earth, which creates the incredible spectacle as the Paraná River runs off it.

2. Sheer enormity - to put in perspective the enormity of this volcanic crack, Iguazu Falls is not only 31 meters (102 feet) taller at the highest points, than the more famous Niagara Falls, but it is also twice as wide!

3. Who left the tap on? - those figures do not make Iguazu the biggest waterfall in the world, however, it certainly is one of the wettest, something you appreciate when you visit, as the sound of the water is deafening. A staggering flow rate average of 62,000 cubic feet of water flow over the edge, every single second.

4. Dry run – due to the size, surface area and incredible number of actual cliffs, edges and falls located within the crevasse of Iguazu, there is still a stretch of almost 3,000 feet of the 1.7 mile long falls that doesn't have any water running over it.

5. Triple frontier - rivers are often used as dividing lines and borders between territories and nations and the natural curve of the Parana River weaves and bends its way alongside Paraguay, Argentina and Brazil, at a point where you can view all three “frontiers.” The waterfall itself is shared between the nations of Brazil, and Argentina.

6. Remote location - good things come to those who wait, and great things come to those willing who go long distances. That is certainly the case when visiting the falls as they're located on the southwest corner of Brazil, 8 to 10 hours from the closest big city of Curitiba. From the Argentinian perspective, the closest notable city is the capital, Buenos Aires, which is between 15 and 18 hours drive away.

7. Brazilian side - from the green and gold side of the falls, you will pay just under 64 Brazilian Reals (2018) which correlates to roughly $18.50 USD. This includes your entrance to the park, from open to close, transportation to the beginning of the trail along the river's edge, and transportation back to the main gate of the park. Average duration of time to walk the 1.5 km trail, and river walk over the waters edge is usually 1.5 – 3 hours.

8. Argentinian side - from the blue and white side of the falls, where you will of course have to factor in the process of crossing an international border, the entrance cost to the park will set you back 500 Argentinian Pesos, roughly $25 USD (2018) but the cost is justified as the average time spent on the Argentinian side to see everything is between 3 and 6 hours.

9. When to go - the river is always gushing so there is no fear of witnessing a dry falls, however there is a good and bad time to visit the falls. The winters in this area of Brazil are never cold, but the water level can be considerably lower than other seasons, and summer can be unbearably humid, so it is recommended to visit in the tranquil seasons of fall, or spring.

10. Hollywood - Iguazu Falls, which in Guarani and Tupi translate to “big water” has been globally featured as the impressive backdrop in a number of big Hollywood productions including the movie, Indiana Jones and the Kingdom of the Crystal Skull.

5.3.6. London Underground

People in towns and cities take public transport every day. In London four million people take the Underground! London Underground – Londoners call it “the Tube” – is the oldest in the world. The first line opened in 1863. Now there are 11 lines, 270 stations and 400 kilometres of track.

In 1931 Harry Beck designed the famous Tube map. Before that the map was complicated and difficult to understand. Beck put all the stations in straight lines with the same spaces between them. Undergrounds in other countries now use the same idea. It's easy to find your way.

People say there are lots of ghosts at stations on the Underground:

1. Liverpool Street: a man in white overalls sometimes wait for a train at night. A station worker first saw him in 2000 and the ghost was also on CCTV.
2. Bethnal Green: people often hear women and children screaming at the station. 126 people died there during the Second World War.
3. King's Cross: here a well-dressed woman stands with her hands out and screams. Then she disappears!
4. Covent Garden: workers often leave this station because they see the ghost. It's a tall man in a hat and coat with gloves. People say it's an actor. Someone killed him a long time ago.
5. Aldgate: 100 years ago an electrician nearly died. He fell onto the track. But he lived. His friends saw an old woman beside him. She touched his head. Then she disappeared!

Vocabulary

5.3.7. The 10 Most Beautiful Lakes in Ukraine

Ukraine is a wonderful country. It has marvelous picturesque landscapes, where there are mountains, seas, rivers, and steppes. There are about 20 thousand lakes in Ukraine: they are in flood plains of rivers, sea bays and high in the mountains.

Lake Synevyr

Village Synevyrska Poliana, Mizhhirskiy district, Transcarpathian region

Just Synevyr is called the most beautiful lake in Ukraine. Picturesque Carpathian landscapes and romantic legends make it unique nature. The legend about the origin of the lake tells: "The waters of Synevyr are transparent, like girlish tears. People say that the young Syn had cried her eyes out for her beloved Vyr". The calm and deep Synevyr (22 m) is called the Sea Eye of the Carpathians.

Lake Koiaske

South of the Kerch Peninsula

This Lake is separated by a narrow sandy bank from the Black Sea. It is liman saline lake inhabited by dunaliella salina - a microscopic unicellular mobile algae, which contains the red pigment b-carotene in its composition. It gives the water pink-reddish colour. Koiaske lake is considered the most salted lake among all lakes of the Crimea.

Lake Nesamovyte

Rakhiv district of Transcarpathian region

The highland lake Nesamovyte, located in the mountain massif of Chornogora, has a mystical glory. There are many Carpathian legends about the ever cold water, in which you can not throw stones and swim in them. The lake is very shallow (1.5 m) and its length is 88 meters. One can be impressed with the wonderful lake and the picturesque nature of the mountain peaks and valleys, spreading around the enchanting landscapes.

Lake Bile

Volodymyrets district, Rivne region

Lake Bile is called the lake of youth. The people say the water is rich in glycerine, it is even soft to the touch. Inhabitants tell that in the middle of the past century, the Polish ladies were specifically delivered whitewater from Ukraine for taking baths. The lake is very beautiful. Here one can find a unique combination of marsh, lake and forest natural complexes of Western Polissia. Lake Bile is of karst origin. The water here is clean so that it allows you to see the sandy bottom through the depth of several meters.

Lake Svitiaz

Village Svityaz, Shatskyi district, Volyn region

Lake Svitiaz is one of the pearls of the Shatskyi National Natural Park collection, which has 24 unique lakes. The lakes are rich in fish, therapeutic mud. The lakes have clean, extremely transparent water and sandy shores. Svitiaz is the deepest lake in Ukraine (up to 58.4 m). So in the sunny weather the bottom can be seen a few meters deep. This lake was named one of the seven natural wonders of Ukraine. Around the Svitiaz is huge coniferous forests, and walks there are very healthy.

Lake Maricheika

Verkhovyna district, Ivano-Frankivsk region

The lake Maricheika is another lake of the Chornohora massif, surrounded by a thick fir forest everywhere. And its nearest shores are covered the sub-alpine meadows. The legend about the name of the lake reminds the beautiful girl Marichka, who sacrificed her life, to save the fellow-villagers from the enemies' attack. The lake was formed from the tears of the beloved of Marichka - the shepherd Ivanko. And the surrounding forest was called Divochyi. One can see this forest in the mirror of transparent clear water, through which, you can see the bottom if you come closer.

Lake Yalpukh

Near the city Bolhrad in Odessa region

Yalpukh is the largest in Ukraine and the second in Europe freshwater lake of natural origin, which has 25 kilometers. This is the liman lake, formed in the basin of the Danube. Yalpukh is adorned Bolhrad, which is situated in the green gardens and vineyards in summer. Interestingly, archaeologists have found the so-called Hunnish treasures - kilograms of gold, silver, and precious stones on the shore of Lake Yalpukh several years ago.

Lake Shelekhivske

Near the village Mezhyrich, Lebedynskiy district, Sumy region

The lake saves its primordial beauty from the times of the Ice Age, it has not lost its coldness of glaciers, because the water here is never warm. Lake Shelekhivske is as old as Ladoga or Baikal. Here is the calm and silence that is violated only by the songs of the birds. The lake is surrounded by high pine, alder and maple forests. From the bird's eye view, lake Shelekhivske looks like a huge unbended horseshoe with a tiny island in the middle of it.

Lake Molochnyi Liman (Milky Liman)

South of Zaporizka region

This lake, formed on the site of the Sea of Azov. It is separated from the sea with the sandbank. Today, this lake is mostly called Molochnyi Liman. Mud of the Molochnyi Lake have therapeutic properties, and the water is very similar to the "Azov" water in its composition.

Lake Brebeneskul

Rakhiv district, Transcarpathian region

The highest highland lake of Ukraine is at the bottom of the glacial cirque on the slope of the Mount Hutyn-Tomnatyk. The weakly mineralized water of Brebeneskul remains crystal clear and cool throughout the year (although it is considered the warmest lake among the all lakes of the Chornohora ridge). It is interesting, the river with the same name flows out from the lake Brebenskul. The cleanest mountain air and amazing Carpathian nature, where the azaleas and crocuses bloom on green tops are around the lake.

5.4. Education Abroad

5.4.1. Great Britain. System of Secondary Education

There are many different types of schools in Britain. There are, however, only three main systems: comprehensive, selective and private.

1. The Comprehensive System

More than 90 per cent of children who go to the state schools go to school in the comprehensive system. Children go to a primary (or first) school at the age of five. Depending on the policy of the Local Education Authority, they may go directly to the upper school - usually called the comprehensive school - at the age of 11. Alternatively, they may go to the middle school for three or four years before going to the upper school.

The comprehensive system is non-selective. This means that all children go from one school to another taking any exams and without being selected according to their abilities.

2. The Selective System

In some areas of Britain, you can still find a different, older system of education (introduced in 1944). This is a selective system - children are selected for certain schools according to their abilities.

All children go to a primary school until the age of 11. They then take an examination called the 11-plus. Those who are successful go to grammar schools, where they receive a more academic education. Those who fail the exam go to secondary modern schools, where they receive an education which is less academic, and more intended to train them for a job when they leave at the age of 16.

3. The Private (Independent) System

About 7 per cent of children go to private schools. There are three levels of private schools - primary schools (age 4 to 8) and preparatory (prep) schools (8 to 13). At the age of 13, children take an examination. If they pass, they go to the public school, where they usually remain until they are 18. Many prep and most public schools are boarding schools - the children live at school during the school terms.

Be careful - although these schools are called public, they are in fact, private, and it can be very expensive to send your child to such a school.

Within the three systems, there are several varieties of schools. For instance, you can find:

- schools for boys only;
- schools for girls only;
- mixed schools - for boys and girls;
- voluntary schools - often with a religious background - such as Roman Catholic schools.

You can see that the British education system is rather confusing.

5.4.2. Great Britain. Higher Education

There are 47 universities in Britain and 30 polytechnics, and 350 colleges and institutes of higher education (some of which train teachers).

Courses in arts and science are offered by most universities in Great Britain. At nearly all universities courses are available in one or more applied sciences. Imperial College, London, University of Manchester, Institute of Science and Technology and some of the newer universities concentrate on technology, although they may also offer a number of courses in social studies, modern languages and other non-technological subjects.

Undergraduate courses normally take three years of full-time study, although a number of subjects take longer, including medicine, architecture and foreign languages (where courses include a year abroad). They lead in most cases to a Bachelor's degree in Arts or Science.

There are various postgraduate degrees, including Master of Philosophy and Doctor of Philosophy, the last two being awarded for research in Arts or Sciences.

Degrees are awarded either by the institution itself, or by the Council for National Academic Awards, particularly in vocational areas. Students of law, architecture and some other professions can take qualifications awarded by their own professional bodies instead of degrees.

University teaching combines lectures, practical classes (in scientific subjects) and small group-teaching in either seminars or tutorials, the last being a traditional feature of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge.

The typical academic program for university students in Great Britain is composed of a variety of courses or subjects within a field of specialization.

Vocabulary

undergraduate [ˌʌndə'grædʒju:t] студент останнього курсу postgraduate degrees ступінь магістра

Master of Philosophy магістр філософії tutorials [tju:əto:riəl] консультація; практичні заняття з керівником; урок, семінар; період навчання в коледжі; навчальний посібник

5.4.3. College Life in Great Britain

Higher education in England has several branches:

- colleges of education;
- polytechnics;
- universities.

The most famous English universities are Oxford and Cambridge. Oxford is a collection of colleges which were founded long ago. The University is only an administrative centre that arranges lectures, hold exams and gives degrees. The tutorial system is one of the ways in which Oxford and Cambridge differ from all other English universities. Every student has a tutor who plans his work and acts as a parent to the student. Besides tutor there is a Dean who is in charge of the discipline among 300 students inside College. Discipline out of college is the responsibility of two Dons called Proctors. At Cambridge to each students room there is man-servant who with woman-servant keeps the room clean.

The academic year is divided into 3 parts (terms):

- 1st – October – December;
- 2nd – January – March;
- 3rd – April – June.

Vacations:

- a month at Christmas;
- a month at Easter;
- 3 – 4 months in summer.

Terminal exams are held at the end of each term. Final exams are taken at the end of the course of studies. Only two re-examinations are allowed. For a break of discipline can be fined a sum of money, for a serious offence he may be expelled from the university.

A person studying for a degree at a British university is called an undergraduate; one who has taken a degree is called a graduate. The first degree at a university is B.A. or B.Sc. – Bachelor of Arts or of Science. M.A. or M.Sc. – stands Master of Arts or of Science. One can become a Bachelor after 3 years of hard studying and a Master at the end of 5 years.

Vocabulary

tutorial system система прикріплення студентів до кураторів в університетах

Proctor ['prɒktə] проктор, наглядач, інспектор (в Оксфордському та Кембриджському університетах) terminal exams семестрові екзамени

re-examinations повторне складання іспиту / заліку fine штраф, пеня; штрафувати offence [ə'fens] порушення expel [ik'spel] виганяти; виключати graduate ['grædʒʊeɪt] закінчити вищий навчальний заклад, отримати ступінь бакалавра; закінчити будь-який навчальний заклад

5.4.4. Schools in the USA

The USA does not have a national system of education. There are many different kinds of school: public schools, Private schools, parochial schools, schools specializing in the arts, literature or science, etc.

Education in the United States comprises three basic levels: elementary, secondary and higher education. Vocational training, adult education, schools or classes for special types of children, and kindergartens also form part of the program in most states.

Parents may choose whether to send their children to their local free public schools, or to private schools which charge fees.

The vast majority of students at the primary and secondary levels go to public schools. Most of those who attend private school attend church-sponsored parochial schools.

The school year is usually nine months, from early September to mid-June.

Preschool education

A child's introduction to formal education is usually in kindergarten classes operated in most public school systems. Many systems also provide nursery schools. The age group is commonly four and five years. These preschool education programs maintain a close relationship with the home and parents, and aim to give children useful experiences which will prepare them for elementary school. The programs are flexible and are designed to help the child grow in self-reliance, learn to get along with others, and form good work and play habits.

Elementary school

The main purpose of the elementary school is the general intellectual and social development of the child from 6 to 12 or 15 years of age. Curricula vary with the organization and educational aims of individual schools and communities. The more or less traditional program consists of teaching prescribed subject matter. Promotion from one grade to the next is based on the pupil's achievement of specified skills in reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, history, geography, music, and art.

Secondary school

Most pupils follow a course that includes English, science, social studies, mathematics and physical education. Elective subject may be chosen in the fields of foreign languages, fine arts, and vocational training. Pupils usually elect about half their work in grades nine through twelve.

Vocabulary

public school 1) закритий приватний привілейований середній навчальний заклад, для хлопчиків (у Великій Британії; готує до вступу в університет)

2) (безкоштовна) середня школа (у США та Шотландії) parochialschool [pə'ɹəʊkiəl] парафіяльні школи, які підтримує церква (особливо Греко-Католицька) self-reliance упевненість у собі, у своїх силах curricula [kə'ɹɪkjʊlə] курс навчання; навчальний план (у школі, університеті); розклад (лекцій, уроків)

5.4.5. USA Higher Education

The first American college was Harvard, which was founded by the graduates of Cambridge University. Later the college of William and Mary was founded in Williamsburg, Virginia. There were nine colleges in the colonies, including Princeton (New Jersey), Pennsylvania, Columbia (New York), Brown (Rhode Island), Rutgers (New Jersey), and Dartmouth (New Hampshire). These universities are among the most respected in the country today.

41% of high school graduates go to college. Students pay tuition to study at public and private universities. Some of them have scholarships to help with the cost of tuition. Even with a scholarship, higher education is very expensive; many families take out loans to pay for their children's college education.

Colleges and universities of the USA offer such a great variety of requirements for admission and many different types of programs.

The terms “college” and “university” are often used interchangeably, although the former often is a part of the latter. An American college typically offers a blend of natural and social sciences and humanistic studies. Students, traditionally from 18 to 22 years old, attend classes for approximately four years to receive, if they successfully complete all requirements, a bachelor's degree in arts or sciences. A university, on the other hand, is usually composed of an undergraduate college of arts and sciences, plus graduate schools and professional schools and facilities.

Most American university degrees are awarded on completion of a special number of courses which earn students credits or points.

Some American universities are famous all over the world; they are very selective and very expensive. The most outstanding are Brown, Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth College, Princeton and Pennsylvania. These universities have similar academic and social prestige in the USA to Oxford and Cambridge in Britain.

Vocabulary

tuition [tju:'iə(ə)n] плата за навчання scholarship стипендія

admission [əd'mɪʃ(ə)n] доступ, вхід; прийом в навчальний заклад interchangeably [ɪntə'ʃeɪndʒəbli] заміняючи один одного; поперемінно, по черзі, змінюючи один одного blend [blend] суміш

5.4.6. Floating Schools

The United Nations say that every child has the right to education. But millions of children around the world don't go to school. The government in their country doesn't have the money to build state schools. In some places there is a primary school for children up to 11 years old but there is no secondary school so students have to leave school when they are still very young. In some countries, like Bangladesh in South Asia, a lot of children miss school between July and October because of all the rain.

But now a non-profit organization in Bangladesh is solving the problem. When schools on land close because of the floods, the organization runs free "floating schools". Twenty special boat schools up and down the rivers and pick children from all the villages. They are mixed schools for boys and girls. Each school has one classroom for thirty students and a teacher. Children go to their boat schools for four or three hours a day, six days a week.

The students are very proud of their floating schools. They never miss a class and they are always on time for lessons! They do their homework and try very hard to get good marks – they want to do well and pass the exams.

Boat schools mean that children in South Asia now have a chance to get education and even go to university.

5.4.7. Green School

Green School in Bali is a usual school. It was an experiment in 2010 by John and Cynthia Hardy. Their idea was to make a school that was totally environmentally friendly. Everything in this school is "green" – that means it's good for the environment, the classrooms are made of bamboo wood the light is from the sun. The school uses solar power water from their river.

The Hardy's experiment was successful and there are now 160 students from more than twenty-five countries - and it goes from kindergarten up to age eighteen. The students at Green School don't only learn subjects such as English and Maths; they also learn to grow organic vegetables and other food such as rice in the huge school gardens. They look after the plants and learn to cook them. The school also has a cow, some pigs and a buffalo. The students also study building, making furniture and traditional art and dance.

The Hardys want the local community to be a part of Green School. They have a rule that twenty percent of the students must be from Bali because they want local children to learn about protecting the environment. The children are often poor, so people from all over the world pay for them to go to the school. The idea of green living is becoming more popular and now people are building green houses near the school so their children can walk to school. The Hardys' dream is that one day all the schools in the world will be green.

5.4.8. Unusual Schools

Every school has a timetable so students know what they are doing. Every school has classrooms so students know where to go. Every school gives the students homeworks and tests. Every school makes rules for its students. True or false? False!

Some schools are very different.

1. Byron Court School

Many schools have students of different nationalities. In the playground at one school of London you can hear not five languages, not fifteen, not thirty but forty-two! Byron Court is a primary school with 600 children from five to eleven years old. They are from Somalia, Iraq, Poland, Romania, Nepal, the Philippines and many more. And, oh yes, of course, from England! This part of London has families from all over the world. They come to live and work in London.

Many children don't speak English when they start. It can be a problem. But with good teachers and friends they learn fast. Soon their English is good and their school work is good too. The children at this school get to know children from different countries. They are laughing and talking together. It's great for them have friends from different countries.

At Byron Court the children don't only do school work. They learn about different cultures. They also learn to work together. It is a good example for everyone.

2. Waldorf Schools

There are primary and secondary Waldorf schools all over the world. These schools can decide about some of the things they teach, but they all teach art, social skills and critical thinking. Students do all sorts of creative play and practical activities, for example, painting, weaving and woodwork. Waldorf schools even have a special subject, Eurythmy. It is a very interesting drama and dance class. There are no tests in primary school, and secondary students take exams only if it is important for university. And there are no grades before students are fourteen or fifteen.

3. Vittra Telefonplan School, Stockholm

The Vittra Telefonplan School in Sweden wants children to learn languages, to learn to work together and to be creative.

So in this school there are classrooms and spaces for different group, project and individual activity. The rooms are amazing, colourful places with wonderful furniture. And every student has a tablet or computer! Learning is fun here.

4. The Brit School

Do you know about the Brit School? It's one of the most famous schools in the UK. It is not famous for its exam results and you don't study subjects like Maths and Science there. It's a school for actors, singers, musicians, dancers and artists. I am sure you know some of its old students. Do you like Adele's or Amy Winehouse's music? They went to the Brit School!

The school started in 1991. It's in Croydon, London. In 1991 it was small but now it's bigger than it was then. It's also unusual because students don't have to pay for lessons there. It's free.

Every year there are the famous Brit Awards. People from lots of countries watch them on television. Money from these awards helps the students.

Vocabulary

Eurythmy [ju:'rɪpmi] ритмічність; евритмія, рівномірність ритму (музики, танцю, мови); злагодженість (рухів)

tablet ['tæblɪt] планшет

5.5. Rules of Etiquette

5.5.1. Table Manners in Great Britain

Although rules regarding table manners are not very strict in Britain, it is considered rude to eat and drink noisily. At formal meals, the cutlery is placed in the order in which it will be used, starting from the outside and working in. The dessert spoon and fork are usually laid at the top of your place setting, not at the side.

After each course the knife and fork should be laid side by side in the middle of the plate. This shows that you have finished and the plate can be removed. If you leave the knife and fork apart you will show that you have not yet finished eating.

It is considered impolite to smoke between courses unless your hosts say otherwise. It is polite to ask permission before you smoke in people's home.

In Britain smoking is now forbidden in many public places, for example, on the underground, on stations, in shops, in theatres and in cinemas.

5.5.2. Attributes of Formal Parties

By the key moments of blameless style for business-lady more frequent than all there are faultlessly neat accessories.

Any woman will say you: "Without a bag I am as without hands". But if in everyday life, choosing a "carry-on baggage", it is possible to show the most unbridled fantasy, a dress-code insists on restraint and demands the certain rules.

- Material which a bag is executed from must correspond to material of your shoes. In color they can coincide not just, and on a texture - necessarily.

- If the colour division in a business suit takes place on a horizontal line, it is better to pick up a bag to overhead part (to the blouse, coat), and shoes - to lower.

- If you use in the clothing of color of different saturation, shoes must be dark, and bag - light.

- A work-bag must be capacious, but not bulky, rectangular, but only to such degree, that the document of format of A-4 was included in her (a rectangle at unconscious level is associated with prestige status). In this sense a small lady portfolio differs advantageously.

- A business bag not must be cheap, from substitute of leather.

Memorize, a "business" bag is accepted to put on the floor near a chair or on a table (but not dinner, but a table for negotiation). But nowise it is not needed to hang her on the back of the chair!

A business person does not often give gifts to clients or business acquaintances. An employee who is retiring, getting married or having a child will usually receive a gift from his colleagues. An employee sometimes brings back inexpensive gifts for colleagues after a vacation. When receiving a gift, Americans often say, "Can I open it now?" This shows that they are pleased at being offered a gift. When visiting someone's home for dinner, the guest usually brings a gift such as flowers or a bottle of wine. Business acquaintances do not often exchange gifts at Christmas, but usually send each other Christmas cards. Americans appreciate small gifts but gift-giving is not as common as in Ukraine.

When you are at the restaurant unwrap a napkin and put it on your knees. On the official party you should wait until the hostess does that and then follow her example. If you finish your meal or going to leave put a napkin to the left (if the plates were taken away - before yourself). Don't put together or crumple it. At the dinner-party the hostess put her napkin on the table as a sign of dinner finishing, after this all guests do the same.

If a dish or spices stand far from you it is naturally to ask your neighbour to pass them to you. If it is uncomfortable to keep the plate in your hand you can put it on the table. Having taken a portion pass a dish to the other guest.

Dishes with hands or jugs for cream one can pass with the hand directing to a man who takes for his comfort.

If you want to correspond to all norms of correct behaviour you should lean only on the edge of the table and only with the wrist. For women – one can allow to lean on the table with the elbow for a short time.

On the official dinner you can put your elbows on the table only in the case if noise disturbs you to say some words to a man which sits opposite you.

You should hold a cup for the ear but run a forefinger through it or set aside the little finger – is a mistake.

A teaspoon is only for stirring sugar with. After that one can put a teaspoon on the saucer. Wait drink to get cool. One can't take a saucer you can only lift a cup. A slice of lemon you can put accurately on the plate.

You can talk at the table, but whispering at the table – impolite.

- don't touch a communicator with the aim to attract his attention;
- speaking to one neighbour try not to turn a back to other one;
- if you (on some reason) refuse some dish, don't tell about the reason of refusal (for example, allergy).

If you want to give a dinner speech or toast it is better to wait for a break or a pause between dishes. A man who wants to say, stands up and gently taps on his wine-glass to attract the guests' attention and begins to speak. Dinner speech, as a rule, is finished by a toast.

- Before the beginning of the speech one can ask to fill wine-glasses;
- Don't speak for a long time and too brightly coloured;
- It's impolite to eat and talk when somebody is giving a dinner speech.

When you stand in a cloak-room in front of the mirror you can only tidy your hair. But if you want to comb your hair, touch up your make-up you should go to the lavatory. This also concerns the case if you have a bout of coughing or cold.

Vocabulary

cold collation [kə'leɪʃ(ə)n] холодна закуска

covers прибори

faultlessly ['fɔ:ltlɪsli] бездоганно; безпомилково crumple [krʌmp(ə)l] м'ятися, морщитися; жмакати, м'яти в руках

5.5.3. Handshakes

In Spain, let a handshake last 5 to 7 strokes; pulling away too soon may be interpreted as a sign of rejection.

In France, however, the preferred handshake is a single stroke.

In Ukraine, the length of the strokes depends on the feeling you want to express: a short casual stroke is good for business and the longer the handshake, the warmer the welcome.

In Canada, a weak, “fishy” handshake is disliked. A strong firm handshake is most desirable.

In England, never stick pens or pencils or other subjects in your front suit pocket. Doing so is considered gauche (socially awkward, tactless).

Stress the longevity of your company when dealing with Germans, Dutch, and Swiss. If possible, print the founding date on your business card.

Vocabulary

rejection відмова

gauche [gəʊʃ] незграбний, безтактний longevity [lɒn'dʒeviti] довге життя, довголіття; довговічність; стаж роботи

5.5.4. Culture Shock

When you travel, you know about the cultural rules in the countries you visit. For example, in China you have to take a present with two hands, but in the USA you don't have to use two hands to accept a present – one is fine. In Spain, in the summer, you mustn't be noisy after lunch. You don't have to sleep a siesta, but you have to be quiet. And in Britain you have to wait in a queue for everything and you mustn't jump the queue.

In Japan you have to take off your shoes when you visit someone's home. But in France you don't have to take off your shoes – you can keep them on. Austrians are very punctual, so you don't have to be late for a meeting in Vienna. In Germany you have to wait for the green light to walk across the street, but in Egypt you don't have to wait – you can cross any time! And in Singapore you mustn't chew gum in public.

5.5.5. Rules of Etiquette in the United Kingdom

There are no strict etiquette rules that you have to stick to when in the UK. It is advisable, however, to demonstrate decent manners and respect to the local culture and traditions. Let's start from Greetings and meetings - When first meeting a Brit, he or she may seem reserved and cold, but that is just an impression. In reality, they are very friendly and helpful to foreigners. A handshake is the common form of greeting, but try to avoid prolonged eye contact, as it may make people feel ill at ease. Use last names and appropriate titles until specifically invited to use first names. It is proper to shake hands with everyone to whom you are introduced, both men and women; the appropriate response to an introduction is “Pleased to meet you”.

Time and punctuality - British people are very strict when it comes to punctuality. In Britain people make a great effort to arrive on time, so it is considered impolite to be late, even with by few minutes. If you are delayed, be sure to inform the person you are meeting. Here are some situations when you are obliged to be on time, as well as some situations when it is advisable: for formal dinners, lunches, or appointments you always come at the exact time appointed; for public meetings, plays, concerts, movies, sporting events, classes, church services, and weddings, it's best to arrive a few minutes early; you can arrive any time during the hours specified for teas, receptions and cocktail parties.

The British often use expressions such as “drop in anytime” and “come see me soon”. However, do not take these literally. To be on the safe side, always telephone before visiting someone at home. If you receive a written invitation to an event that says “RSVP”, you should respond to the sender as soon as possible, whether you are going to attend or not.

Body language and dress-code - British people are not very keen on displaying affection in public. Hugging, kissing and touching are usually reserved for family members and very close friends. You should also avoid talking loudly in public or going to extremes with hand gestures during the course of communication. The British like a certain amount of personal space. Do not stand too close to another person or put your arm around someone’s shoulder.

When it comes to clothes, there are no limits and restrictions on how to dress. Just make sure that you respect the general rules when in formal situations. Observation will reveal that people in larger cities dress more formally, especially in London. Men and women wear wools and tweeds for casual occasions. Slacks, sweaters and jackets are appropriate for men and women. Do not wear a blazer to work - it is country or weekend wear. On formal occasions, always select an outfit that fits the dress code. When attending a holiday dinner or cultural event, such as a concert or theatre performance, it is best to dress formally.

General advice - Men should open doors for women and stand when a woman enters a room, although it is generally accepted for men and women both to hold the door open for each other, depending on who goes through the door first.

It is important to respect the British desire for privacy. Don’t ask personal questions about family background and origin, profession, marital status, political preferences or money issues. It is considered extremely impolite to violate a queue, so never push ahead in a line. It is also considered very rude to try to sound British or mimic their accent.

Remember that humour is ever-present in English life. It is often self-deprecating, ribbing, sarcastic, sexist or racist. Try not to take offence.

Cultural etiquette dictates that when invited to someone’s home, you should bring a small gift for the hostess. Give flowers, chocolates, wine, champagne or books. Feel free to express your gratitude and delight with the visit on the next day with a note or a telephone call.

Women rules - Women in Britain are entitled to equal respect and status as men, both at work and daily life. The British have the habit to use ‘affectionate’ names when addressing someone, so do not take any offense if they call you love, dearie, or darling. These are commonly used and not considered rude.

It is acceptable, but may be misconstrued, for a foreign woman to invite an English man to dinner. It is best to stick with lunch. Also, if you would like to pay for your meal, you should state it at the outset. Remember that when in public, it is proper to cross your legs at the ankles, instead at the knees.

5.5.6. Rules of Etiquette in Germany

Every culture has its own particular traditions and customs, as well as social etiquette – that set of unspoken rules about how to behave. The rules differ from culture to culture, yet most reflect the fact that, as humans, we are a species comprised of infallibly social creatures. Learning about a country's etiquette can help us navigate awkwardness, establish personal boundaries, and determine the appropriate ways to express and conduct ourselves in social situations. Here's what you need to know if you find yourself in Germany.

Say "Hallo!" - In German etiquette one thing is for sure: extending greetings to those you encounter is critical. When entering a room, at restaurants and shops, at the gym or doctor's office – it is expected that one say hallo (hello) in greeting and tschüss (bye) on the way out, even if you don't know anyone there. It's not limited to interactions in person either. On the phone, for instance, don't forget to extend greetings to housemates and relatives of the person you're speaking with, even if you don't know any of them personally. In German, they are known as the unbekannterweise, or the "unbeknownst".

Prost! and other drinking etiquette - In German culture it is important that people make eye contact with one another when clinking glasses. This rule is bolstered by the belief that failing to do so will condemn you to seven years of bad luck... more specifically in the form of bad sex. Also, while in some cultures refusing a beverage when offered might be a sign of politeness that prompts the host to insist, in Germany it's best to back off when someone declines a drink. Overall though, Germans have an admirably lax attitude towards consuming alcohol – the legal drinking age for beer and wine is low, at merely 16 – and it is acceptable to drink outside, so don't be surprised by open containers in parks and on public transport.

Eating politely - No list of cultural etiquette practices would be complete without a rundown of proper comportment at the table. For starters, it's important to eat as quietly as possible. Making slurping sounds, snorts, or other noises as a result of eating is quite inappropriate. Furthermore, it is polite to keep your hands visible on the table. Lastly, when eating out, don't be surprised if a waiter seats others at the empty spaces at your table. While this is common mainly at more casual eateries, it does happen, so be forewarned.

Squeeze past others facing them - We are all familiar with the awkwardness of having to squeeze by people who are sitting in the same row as us, in an effort to reach our seats at the theater or cinema. One might consider winging it, but in Germany order tends to prevail. Crossing people front-wise is the law of the land. Should you slide to your chair with your backside to the people seated, you are likely to offend with each successive step.

Speaking by formal "Sie" - Many languages have both formal and informal means of addressing others and, if you plan on practicing you German during your visit, it's good to differentiate between the two. "Sie" (you) is the formal way of addressing others, and it is often used with elders, acquaintances, and in professional settings. Feel free to interchange "Sie" with the person's name, as Germans tend to make a particular point of doing this. However, leave it up to the older or higher ranking person to decide when it's time to switch to the friendlier, more informal "du" (you).

Reduce and reuse, but always recycle - Germans make concerted efforts to minimize their carbon footprint and generate less waste, and take recycling very seriously. Most garbage zones consist of bins for landfill waste, paper and glass, which is often further divided into “brown”, “green” and “white” categories. Take the time to separate your waste or you might risk a reprimanding. Pro tip: Return your plastic and glass bottles and get a portion of their price returned. Or, leave glass bottles beneath garbage cans for those in need to collect them and get back the pfand.

Nudity - Speaking of birthdays, Germans are exceptionally at ease in their birthday suits. From naked conversations between acquaintances in locker rooms and saunas, to commercials on basic cable with people bearing all, the human body undressed is not necessarily met with shock or horror. At beaches, parks and even nightclubs, public nudity can be a commonly accepted aspect of life. It is important to note, however, that this culture of nudity does not carry sexual connotations.

Behind closed doors - Despite public nudity and extending greetings to strangers, Germans are still fairly private people. Such is evident by a common practice to keep doors closed, even when the rooms are unoccupied or when visitors are welcome into them. If you need to enter a room with a closed door, at the office or the home of a friend, simply knock before entering. It's not necessary to wait for a reply and chances are you won't be disturbing anyone.

Don't go out in public with wet hair - Most people would agree that leaving the house with wet hair on a winter day isn't very comfortable, while attending a business meeting with wet hair certainly isn't very professional. However, Germans take this matter to another level, and it is in fact quite frowned upon to leave the house with wet hair. The same applies to the gym after a shower, or after using the swimming pool, so be sure to pack a hairdryer if necessary. You're welcome.

5.5.7. Chinese Etiquette - Do's and Don'ts in China

As one of the oldest living civilizations on Earth, China has been developing its culture over millennia and during your visit you might notice that Chinese culture isn't exactly what you're used to. What might be culturally acceptable in the West might be taboo in China (and vice versa!) so it's only natural to feel a bit overwhelmed when visiting China for the first time.

To help keep the culture shock to a minimum, we've compiled this handy list of cultural do's and don'ts, as well as a general etiquette guide that'll help you blend right in when visiting this fascinating country.

Some Must-Know Etiquette Rules for Your Next Trip to China

<https://www.vogue.com/article/non-touristy-ways-to-see-great-wall-china> Travelling to China presents several challenges. Yes, there's the jet lag and the language barrier, but the thing that gets to most first-timers is the culture shock. From the moment your plane lifts off, you may start to feel like things are a bit upside-down. For example, if you're flying a Chinese airline, you'll be likely told to turn off your phone the moment you lift off the tarmac. No, not airplane mode - Chinese regulation requires phones to be off in-flight, so flight attendants might aggressively tell you to turn your phone off. That makes for one long flight if you were planning on listening to music on your phone.

The culture shock continues once you touch down, too. Many of the etiquette taboos with which Americans are indoctrinated seem to go out the window, like: Don't slurp your soup! Don't ask personal questions to strangers! And whatever you do, don't invade someone's personal space.

Here, some quick and easy do's and dont's for your next trip to China, to help temper that inevitable dose of "where am I?"

Greetings - handshakes as greetings in China are as common as they are in the West.

Do greet others by using a handshake or a nod. Bows are best saved for your visit to Japan or Korea. Give an appropriate greeting. If you are meeting someone in a business context, shake hands and smile. If it is someone older than you with some sort of rank, you may do a very slight bow from the shoulders (as opposed to a full-fledged bow from the waist) as a sign of respect. Address seniority by an honorific title (family relationship or e.g. "teacher": laoshi) or by the family name plus Mr., Ms. Address the eldest or most senior person first. This is done as a sign of respect to those in a more senior position.

Do- take your shoes off before entering someone's home. Most homes will have guest slippers - slip those on instead.

Do- accept business cards with two hands. It's a sign of respect. Glance at it for a few seconds as if reading it over - even if you aren't - and put it away in a chest pocket or a card holder, never in your back pocket.

Do- let elders take the lead at dinner. They sit first and get served first, and pour is always poured for them first. Do not start eating before they take their first bite.

Do- slurp your soup. It's a sign of appreciation for the chef's cooking. It is also not uncommon to let out a (gentle) burp.

Do- be a good sport. If you visit China and look like a foreigner, it is quite common for people on the street to express their interest in you. Chances are they will even ask to take a picture with you. Regardless of whether you agree you look like Jennifer Lawrence or not, say, thank you; smile; and enjoy your trip.

Do join in on toasts. It's considered polite to join in on each toast and even to stand up during formal gatherings.

Do sample all dishes at banquets or formal occasions. It's considered polite, and at the end of the meal be sure to leave a little on the plate to honor your host's generosity.

Do tap the table when someone refills your tea. The gesture of using two fingers to tap the dining table is used to show thanks toward whoever refilled your tea.

Do present and receive things with both hands. This is considered polite in Chinese culture.

Do refuse a gift a number of times before accepting it. Politely refusing a gift before accepting it is the norm in Chinese culture, so don't be discouraged when someone initially refuses your gift.

Do gift small items like books, music CDs, perfumes, cigarettes and candies from your home country (or a well-known Chinese brand). These are always appreciated and are always well received.

Do walk in a clockwise direction when touring a temple or monastery.

Do take off your hat when entering temples. This is done as a sign of respect.

Do donate a few yuan to religious beggars. This is considered an act of merit in Tibetan culture.

Do cover your head with a scarf. Women are required to wear headscarves when visiting mosques.

Don't offer too firm of a handshake. A firm handshake could be construed as a sign of aggression.

Don't go straight for a hug. Especially when meeting someone for the first time. Any body contact, apart from a simple handshake, may make your new Chinese friends feel uncomfortable.

Don't address elders using 'ni hao' (/nee haow/). Instead, use 'Nin hao' (/neen-haow/ "you good"). This is more polite, formal and respectful.

Don't put bones, seeds or other inedibles into in your rice bowl. Use a tissue or your hand to place them in the small plate provided - or observe how others deal with them.

Don't tap your chopsticks. Tapping your bowl or the table with your chopsticks is considered rude and impolite.

Don't use your own chopsticks to pick food from the central dishes. This is typically considered unhygienic. Use the serving spoons or serving chopsticks provided.

Don't be too eager to unwrap your gift. Unless the person offering the gift insists. It's considered polite in Chinese culture to open gifts after you or your guests leave.

Don't wrap gifts using black or white wrapping paper. Choose festive colors, such as red, instead.

Don't photograph old folk without permission. It's often assumed that a request to photograph them is an offer to pay – the same in some places on the Silk Road.

Don't touch a Tibetan on the head. Tibetans believe that God resides in your head and may be offended by this gesture.

Don't dip your fingers in the yak butter lamps in temples. You may be tempted to taste the butter but this is highly offensive, not to mention unhygienic and a health risk.

Don't ask sensitive questions. Sensitive topics such as relations between the various ethnic groups and the governments should be avoided.

Don't assume that alcohol and cigarettes are permitted. This is usually not the case. It's best to ask first if you're unsure.

Don't bring non-halal items into a Muslim restaurant/home (our guide can help if you're unsure).

Don't- give someone white flowers. They are for funerals. No exceptions.

Don't- give clocks as gifts. Especially to the elderly. It's the functional equivalent of telling someone that their days are numbered.

Don't- split the bill at dinner. It is very rare to split the bill in China. More often, one person will pay - usually the most senior person or whoever extended the dinner invitation. And whereas in America it might be polite to do the obligatory fight-over-the-bill scramble, this is unacceptable in China. If it is clear who the host is, don't try to pay - it's offensive. (However, if you are in a group of friends your own age, splitting may be acceptable.)

Don't- tip for everything. Tipping is usually not necessary in China - except for exceptional service at fine restaurants, to tour guides, and to bellboys handling luggage in hotels. Otherwise, skip the tip. If eating at a fine restaurant, a few dollars couldn't hurt but is by no means expected the way it is stateside.

Don't - stick your chopsticks upright into your food while pausing during a meal. This resembles incense, which is what many people use to pray for the dead. Bad juju.

Don't - point at people. Especially when talking or gesturing, and definitely do not point your finger at someone. It's considered hostile and extremely rude.

Don't- talk business too soon. It is the norm to start all business meetings with a healthy dose of chitchat - the weather, your jet lag, what you had for breakfast and so forth.

Don't- use first names unless someone tells you to. Always use "Mrs." or "Mr."

Don't- be late. Punctuality is a sign of respect, and don't expect to get away with blaming your tardiness on subway traffic the way you can in New York. Just be on time.

Don't- whistle. Whistling at home feels charming and all-American. In China it's considered a nuisance. At nighttime, it's said to attract spirits. During the day, it is considered mischievous.

5.5.8. Rules of Etiquette Important in Arab Culture

While Arabs are some of the friendliest and warmest people in the world, there are still a few things to remember when meeting Arabs for the first time or when travelling to an Arab country. Within their colourful and diverse culture, there are social rules that are considered basic etiquette. Learn these and you'll be welcomed with open arms!

Standing when someone enters a room

Arabs are all about respect, and one way of showing this is to stand up when someone enters a room to greet them. This way, you are showing that the person entering is important enough for you to take the time and effort to really say “hello”.

Greeting everyone individually

This is another way of showing respect, by greeting each and every person individually. If it gets too tiring to say “hello” over and over again, a nod with eye contact and a warm smile is usually enough!

The host escorts their guest to the door

To show that they really did enjoy the company of their guests, Arab hosts will walk their guest to their car or to the outside of the house to make sure they leave safely. The “goodbyes” and “thankyous” won't finish either until the guest is finally out of earshot!

Never open a gift in front of the giver

Arabs are all about showing the upmost respect towards others, and this manifests in the idea that gifts should not be opened in the presence of the giver, in order to avoid any possible embarrassment either of the giver or the receiver. Don't be offended if an Arab rushes to put your gift out of sight; they're doing this out of respect for you!

Put elderly people first

Elderly people are always given the best of everything, and Arabs will do everything from opening doors for them, serving them food first, and greeting them first. If you're an older person among Arabs, get ready to feel pampered!

Men should always offer their seat to a woman or elderly person

For those who believe in chivalry, you should hang out with Arabs! Arab men will always offer their seat either in public or in private settings to a woman or older person if there is nowhere else for them to sit.

Give attention to the correct person

Arabs will consider it rude if you, as a man, are meeting a couple for the first time, and end up speaking to the wife more than the husband (and vice versa if you are a woman). Both the husband and the wife will be offended and notice this detail, so try to remember to speak to them equally!

Don't show the soles of your feet

To show someone the bottom of your feet, which are considered dirty and only for the floor, is considered very rude. Be careful when sitting or lounging about, and try to always face the bottom of your feet away from your Arab friends, especially the elders.

Take off shoes before entering someone's home

Similar to the soles of the feet, shoes are considered dirty and just for the outdoors, and should always be taken off before entering the home of an Arab person. Arab homes will almost always be adorned with richly designed carpets, and to dirty these with your outside shoes would be a tragedy!

When serving tea, fill the cup to the top

If serving tea to Arab guests, make sure to remember to always fill the cup up to the brim with tea, as anything else will be considered an insult. If you do make this mistake however, don't fret too much – Arabs love their tea, so any tea is good tea – as long as it has sugar in it!

Arabs love food, and they are generous with it and love to share it. When eating out with your Arab friends, try to ditch the only-order-for-yourself mentality, and indulge in sharing large plates of delicious food.

Vocabulary

earshot [iəʃɒt] межа чутності

embarrassment [im'bærəsmənt] зніяковілість, замішання, сум'яття offend [ə'fend] кривдити, ображати, порушувати (що-небудь)

pampered ['pæmpəd] розпещений, зніжений

chivalry ['ʃiv(ə)lri] лицарство, шляхетність sole [səʊl] 1) підошва, ступня lounge [laundʒ] відпочивати; сидіти відкинувшись у кріслі, на дивані adorn [ə'dɔ:n] прикрашати; служити прикрасою fret [fret] дратуватися; турбуватися, хвилюватися indulge [ɪndʌldʒ] зробити собі приємність, не відмовити собі (у задоволенні; дозволити собі)

5.6. Advertising and Advertisement

5.6.1. Advertising Strategies

Three strategies that have been especially popular with advertisers can be classified as slogans, rational appeals and emotional appeals.

Slogans - Advertisers often use slogans that sound great but mean little or nothing.

“See Charley Prinz for Your Printing Needs Remember, Charley is the Prince of Printers”

Charley is not fooling anybody; people know that he is not really a prince. Yet, advertisers seem to feel that such slogans, when repeated often enough, do increase sales.

Rational appeals rely upon logic or reason to convince the consumer to buy a product.

“Our cookies contain 25% Fewer Calories than Others”, “Suave Skin Lotion Enriched with Vitamin E to Heal and Protect Dry Skin”. There are examples for advertisements that appeal to reason. Ad for health foods, pain relievers and home remedies tend to use this technique.

Emotional appeals. Emotional appeals rely upon the use of psychology. The following is a sampling of such strategies:

*Testimonials. These are advertisements in which famous people claim they use and enjoy a particular product. Ads for sports equipment frequently rely on this strategy.

*The Bandwagon. The bandwagon derives from the practice, during nineteenth century circus or political parades of jumping on or following behind the wagon carrying the band. Soft drink and automobile ads use this appeal.

*Popularity. Some advertisements suggest that simply by using the advertised product you will be popular or find romance. Toothpaste ads showing moments of romance between handsome young men and women are typical of these kinds of campaigns.

Vocabulary

rational appeals раціональне звернення emotional appeals емоційне звернення testimonial [ˌtestiˈmɒniəl] рекомендація, характеристика, рекомендаційний лист

5.6.2. Advertisers Perform a Useful Service to the Community

The poor old consumer! He'd have to pay a great deal more if advertising didn't create mass markets for products. It is precisely because of the heavy advertising that consumer goods are so cheap. But we get the wrong idea if we think the only purpose of advertising is to sell goods. Another equally important function is to inform. A great deal of the knowledge we have about household goods derives largely from advertisements we read. Advertisements introduce us to new products or remind us of the existence of ones we already know about. Supposing you wanted to buy a washing machine, it is more than likely you would obtain details regarding performance, price, etc., from an advertisement.

Lots of people pretend that they never read advertisements, but this claim may be seriously doubted. It is hardly possible to read advertisements these days. And what fun they often are, too! Just think what a railway stations or newspapers would be like without advertisements. Would you enjoy gazing at a blank wall or reading railway by-laws while waiting for a train? Would you like to read only closely-printed columns of news in your gardening performance, price, etc., from an advertisement?

what fun they often are, too! Just think what a railway station or a newspaper would be like without advertisements. Would you enjoy gazing at a blank wall or reading railway by-laws while waiting for a train? Would you like to read only closely-printed columns of news in your daily paper? A cheerful, witty advertisement makes such a difference to a drap wall or a newspaper, full of dayly ration of calamities.

We must not forget, either, that advertising makes a positive contribution to our pockets. Newspapers, commercial radio and television companies could not subsist without this source of revenue. The fact that we pay so little for our daily paper, or can enjoy so many broadcast programmes is due entirely to the money spent by the advertisers. Just think what a newspaper would cost if we had to pay its full price!

Another thing we musn't forget about is "small ads" whiare virtually in every newspaper and magazine. What a tremendously useful service they perform for the community! Just about anything can be accomplished through these columns. For instance, you can find a job, buy or sell a house, announce a birth, marriage or death in what used to be called the "hatch, match and dispatch" columns;but by far the most fascinating section is a personal of "agony" column. No other item in a newspaper provedes such entertainingreading or offers such a deep insight into human nature. It's the best advertisement for advertising there is!

5.7. Let's Speak a Little About Some Holidays Abroad

5.7.1. Christmas Customs

Many Christmas customs are based on the birth of Christ. Such as giving presents because of the Wise Men, who brought presents to the baby Jesus. Christmas carols based on Christ's birth and scenes of the birth with figures of shepherds, the Wise Men, and animals surrounding the baby Jesus. But some of the ways people celebrate Christmas have nothing to do with Christ's birthday. Many bits of older holidays have crept into Christmas!

As time went on, new customs crept into Christmas. One was the Christmas tree, which was started in Germany. As the Germans settled in new lands they brought with them this tradition. Last but not least is Saint Nick. A long time ago, a bishop named Nicholas lived in what is now the country of Turkey.

No one knows much about him. There are stories that he often helped children in need. Many years after his death, Nicholas was made a saint. In time, he became the patron saint of children.

Vocabulary

Christmas carols різдвяні колядки

bishop ['bɪʃəp] Єпископ

5.7.2. Trees around the World

Canada - German settlers migrated to Canada from the United States in the 1700s. They brought with them many of the things associated with Christmas we cherish today - Advent calendars, gingerbread houses, cookies - and Christmas trees. When Queen Victoria's German husband, Prince Albert, put up a Christmas tree at Windsor Castle in 1848, the Christmas tree became a tradition throughout England, the United States, and Canada.

Mexico - In most Mexican homes the principal holiday adornment is el Nacimiento (Nativity scene). However, a decorated Christmas tree may be incorporated in the Nacimiento or set up elsewhere in the home. As purchase of a natural pine represents a luxury commodity to most Mexican families, the typical arbolito (little tree) is often an artificial one, a bare branch cut from a copal tree (Bursera microphylla) or some type of shrub collected from the countryside.

Britain - The Norway spruce is the traditional species used to decorate homes in Britain. The Norway spruce was a native species in the British Isles before the last Ice Age, and was reintroduced here before the 1500s.

Greenland - Christmas trees are imported, as no trees live this far north. They are decorated with candles and bright ornaments.

Guatemala - The Christmas tree has joined the “Nacimiento” (Nativity scene) as a popular ornament because of the large German population in Guatemala. Gifts are left under the tree on Christmas morning for the children. Parents and adults do not exchange gifts until New Year's Day.

Brazil - Although Christmas falls during the summer in Brazil, sometimes pine trees are decorated with little pieces of cotton that represent falling snow.

Ireland - Christmas trees are bought anytime in December and decorated with coloured lights, tinsel, and baubles. Some people favour the angel on top of the tree, others the star. The house is decorated with garlands, candles, holly, and ivy. Wreaths and mistletoe are hung on the door.

Sweden - Most people buy Christmas trees well before Christmas Eve, but it's not common to take the tree inside and decorate it until just a few days before. Evergreen trees are decorated with stars, sunbursts, and snowflakes made from straw. Other decorations include colourful wooden animals and straw centrepieces.

Norway - Nowadays Norwegians often take a trip to the woods to select a Christmas tree, a trip that their grandfathers probably did not make. The Christmas tree was not introduced into Norway from Germany until the latter half of the 19th century; to the country districts it came even later. When Christmas Eve arrives, there is the decorating of the tree, usually done by the parents behind the closed doors of the living room, while the children wait with excitement outside.

A Norwegian ritual known as “circling the Christmas tree” follows, where everyone joins hands to form a ring around the tree and then walk around it singing carols. Afterwards, gifts are distributed.

Ukraine - Celebrated on December 25th by Catholics and on January 7th by Orthodox Christians, Christmas is the most popular holiday in the Ukraine. During the Christmas season, which also includes New Year's Day, people decorate fir trees and have parties.

Spain - A popular Christmas custom is Catalonia, a lucky strike game. A tree trunk is filled with goodies and children hit at the trunk trying to knock out the hazel nuts, almonds, toffee, and other treats.

Italy - In Italy, the presepio (manger or crib) represents in miniature the Holy Family in the stable and is the centre of Christmas for families. Guests kneel before it and musicians sing before it. The presepio figures are usually hand-carved and very detailed in features and dress. The scene is often set out in the shape of a triangle. It provides the base of a pyramid-like structure called the ceppo. This is a wooden frame arranged to make a pyramid several feet high. Several tiers of thin shelves are supported by this frame. It is entirely decorated with coloured paper, gilt pine cones, and miniature coloured pennants. Small candles are fastened to the tapering sides. A star or small doll is hung at the apex of the triangular sides. The shelves above the manger scene have small gifts of fruit, candy, and presents. The ceppo is in the old Tree of Light tradition which became the Christmas tree in other countries. Some houses even have a ceppo for each child in the family.

Germany - Many Christmas traditions practised around the world today started in Germany. It has been long thought that Martin Luther began the tradition of bringing a fir tree into the home. According to one legend, late one evening Martin Luther was walking home through the woods and noticed how beautifully the stars shone through the trees. He wanted to share the beauty with his wife so he cut down a fir tree and took it home.

Once inside he placed small lighted candles on the branches and said that it would be a symbol of the beautiful Christmas sky. Hence, the Christmas tree. Another legend says that in the early 16th century, people in Germany combined two customs that had been practiced in different countries around the globe. The Paradise tree (a fir tree decorated with apples) represented the Tree of Knowledge in the Garden of Eden. The Christmas Light, a small, pyramid-like frame, usually decorated with glass balls, tinsel, and a candle on top, was a symbol of the birth of Christ as the Light of the World.

Changing the tree's apples to tinsel balls and cookies; and combining this new tree with the Light placed on top, the Germans created the tree that many of us know now. Today, the Tannenbaum (Christmas tree) is traditionally decorated in secret with lights, tinsel, and ornaments by the mother and is lit and revealed on Christmas Eve with cookies, nuts, and gifts under its branches.

South Africa - Christmas is a summer holiday in South Africa. Although Christmas trees are not common, windows are often draped with sparkling cotton wool and tinsel.

Saudi Arabia - Christian Americans, Europeans, Indians, Filipinos, and others living here have to celebrate Christmas privately in their homes. Christmas lights are generally not tolerated. Most families place their Christmas trees somewhere inconspicuous.

Philippines - Fresh pine trees are too expensive for many Filipinos, so handmade trees in an array of colours and sizes are often used. Star lanterns, or parole, appear everywhere in December. They are made from bamboo sticks, covered with brightly coloured rice paper or cellophane, and usually feature a tassel on each point. There is usually one in every window, each representing the Star of Bethlehem.

China - Of the small percentage of Chinese who do celebrate Christmas, most erect artificial trees decorated with spangles and paper chains, flowers, and lanterns. Christmas trees are called “trees of light”.

Japan - For most of the Japanese who celebrate Christmas, it's purely a secular holiday devoted to the love of their children. Christmas trees are decorated with small toys, dolls, paper ornaments, gold paper fans and lanterns, and wind chimes. Miniature candles are also put among the tree branches. One of the most popular ornaments is the origami swan. Japanese children have exchanged thousands of folded paper “birds of peace” with young people all over the world as a pledge that war must not happen again.

5.7.3. Valentine's Day

Valentine's Day is celebrated on February 14th as a festival of romance and affection. People send greeting cards called "valentines" to their sweethearts, friends and members of their families.

Many valentines have romantic poems; others are humorous. But almost all valentines ask "Be My Valentine." This may mean be my friend or be my love or be my companion. Valentines often show a cupid with an arrow. Cupid, also called Eros, was the ancient Roman god of love Valentine's Day is not a legal holiday; schools and banks are open as usual. Merchants sell valentines and decorations for Valentine's Day parties and dances. All the decorations are bright red, and the most popular ones are heart shaped.

School children decorate their classrooms with bright red paper hearts and celebrate the day in their classroom. They also make valentine cards for their friends and parents.

Stores advertise heavily for this holiday since it is traditional for sweethearts, spouses, and members of the family to exchange gifts on Valentine's Day. Heart shaped boxes of candy; jewellery and flowers are some of the popular gifts given on this day.

Many newspapers carry advertisements or messages placed by people in love. Both men and women want to let their sweethearts know how much they love them. On Valentine's Day, many radio stations play romantic music all day long. One very famous song is called "My Funny Valentine."

Valentine's Day is a day to share loving feelings with friends and family. It has become traditional for many couples to become engaged on this day. Also, famous couples are remembered. Some of them are Romeo and Juliet, Caesar and Cleopatra, among others. This is a happy day because it is especially dedicated to celebrate love, affection and friendship.

Background

Valentine's Day comes on the feast of two different Christian saints named Valentine. But the way that Valentine's Day is celebrated is nothing to do with the lives of the saints.

This celebration comes from an ancient Roman festival called "Lupercalia" which took place every February 15th. This festival honoured Juno, the Roman goddess of women and marriage, and Pan the god of nature. It was also believed that birds choose their mates on this date. Valentine's Day became very popular in the United States in the 1800th.

February 14th is the day on which young lovers send each other anonymous Valentines - bright, lacy, colourful cards, with loving emblems and amorous doggerel. The shops are full of these cards. The message the Valentine conveys is simple. Love's message has always been so. Here are some examples:

*Though absent, still within my heart
Thy memory holds its place
Too firmly fixed for time or change
To ever it efface.*

*February the fourteenth day
It's Valentine, they say,
I choose you from among the rest,
The reason was I loved you best.*

*Round is the ring that has no end,
So is my love for you, my friend,
Again to take this in good part,
Along with it you have my heart.
But if you do the same refuse,
Pray burn this paper and me excuse.*

*Sure as the grape grows on the vine,
So sure you are my Valentine.
The rose is red, the violet blue,
Lilies are fair and so are you.*

*I am like a cabbage Divided into two;
The leaves I give to others
But the heart I give to you.*

5.7.4. The Valentine's Card

Saint Valentine's Day is February 14th, and for a long time young English people have been sending Valentine's cards to each other every year. The idea is to tell other people that you love them, but you never put your name on the card

One day last February Jillian went into the card shop near the house which sells many different cards. There were cards for birthdays, cards saying Congratulations for people who have passed an examination and Valentine's cards

The assistant went across the shop to the cashier. "I have been selling Valentine's cards all day", she said. "People have been coming in and taking two or three. I do not know who they have been buying them for, but the cards have been going very quickly. But that young lady over there", she said pointing to Jillian, "has not been spending much money. She can not decide what she wants. She's been looking at the cards for half an hour. She's been reading them two or three times; she's been picking them up and putting them down again. And most of the best cards have gone now".

Jillian thought: "I've been trying to find a good one for Martin for half an hour. But I can't decide". She looked down at the Valentine's card in her hand. It said: "Roses are red, violets are blue. Grass is green and I love you!"

"Bah", said Jillian and threw the cards down again into the counter. "I think, I'll better take the card without any words at all".

Making Valentines

I'm making a pretty card
To give to my love.
I'll neatly write: "I love you!"
Or "Won't you be mine?"

Do you know that ...

... traditionally men propose to women. In Britain, men often choose Valentine's Day to make their marriage proposal. But on Valentine's Day in a leap year women can propose marriage to their lovers!

For My Friends

To every little friend of mine,
I'll send a pretty Valentine.
This one is like a little book;
You'll find a message if you look.

I'll send you one Valentine

I'll send you one Valentine, that's what I'll do.
I'll send you one Valentine, and maybe two!
I'll send you two Valentines wait and see.
I'll send you two Valentines, and maybe three!
I'll send you three Valentines from the best store.

I'll use an envelope for this. I'll send you three Valentines, and maybe four!
 I'll write my name, then seal a kiss. I'll send you four Valentines, that's what I'll do,
 But on each one, I will write: "I love you!"
 What colour shall I give to you?
 Orange, purple, green or blue?
 Yellow or pink? White or red?
 Or maybe a lacy one instead.

5.7.5. Hallowe'en

Hallowe'en (abbreviated from "All Hallows Eve", an ancient pagan holiday when spirits of the dead came back) is the holiday of religious origin. It is celebrated on October 31st. It is an old custom and an occasion for children to get dressed up as witches, goblins, and ghosts and go "trick or treating". They make a round of visits around a neighbourhood dressed in costume and knocking on doors. They offer adults an alternative: a "trick" or a "treat". People give the children candies (the treats). This old custom comes from the Celts in ancient Britain who feared the coming of winter and dressed in frightening costumes. They supposed the demons of winter would think they were one of them and did them no harm. Nowadays people give out the children treats so that the children would not play tricks on them. And the custom represents a devil coming to the home in costume whom one can placate with a treatio Celtic priests called Druids first celebrated Halloween many centuries ago in Ireland and Scotland. They observed the end of autumn and the beginning of winter.

The Druids thought that Halloween was the night when the witches came out. As they were afraid of the witches they put on different clothes and painted their faces to deceive the evil spirits. The also placed food and small gifts near the door of their houses for the witches. This was, as they say now, the beginning of the expression “trick or treat” (meaning “give me something or I’ll play a trick on you”).

It is considered that the immigrants brought Halloween to America from Ireland and Scotland. In the 19th century they celebrated Halloween according to their odd traditions (the integral part of the festival was a lantern made of a pumpkin with holes in the form of eyes, a nose and a mouth, and people believed that during the celebration all pumpkins were leaving their vegetable gardens to dance in the streets). As time and it was celebrated almost entirely by children. Dressed very strangely, children held festivals. During their carnival and after it, groups of children visited nearly houses and asked for candies. “Trick or treat, Trick or treat” was heard everywhere.

In recent years, grown-up people have begun taking part in Halloween’s. In New York, for examples, young and old take part in parades together. On the 31st of October, long before the time when the carnival procession begins to move, a great number of people get together in one of the street. They dressed as witches, demons, and other evil spirits. There are hundreds of large orange “pumpkins” in their bands. After the parade the festival lasts almost till early morning. This is how the Americans celebrate Halloween.

5.7.6. April Fool’s Day – April 1

For many centuries the first of April was a day of laughing and jokes. This day is kept in many countries not only in Britain and the USA. This is a day to play jokes and make people laugh. Nobody knows when the beginning of this custom was. Some people connect it with the end of winter and the return of spring which made people merry and ready to play jokes.

In Scotland young people were sent for hen’s teeth or bird’s milk and everybody laughed when they could not to find such things. In the USA and Britain someone could place a sign on a person’s back with the words “push me!”. Children often tell a grown-up that his sock is torn or he had something black on his face, and then shout “April Fool!” There is also the old purse trick. A purse is left lying in the street, but when someone wants to take it, it is quickly pulled back by a string which the hidden joker holds in his hand.

Or the purse may be filled with stones, sometimes invitations are sent to people asking them to come and visit somebody but when they come they see that nobody expected them. Some people like to telephone to the Zoo on that day and ask for Mr. Fish, Miss Fox or Mrs. Cat.

All these jokes are very old but still they make people laugh. In some places tricks are played only in the morning of April 1. Then, if anyone tries to fool someone later that day, or on the next, he is met with these words:

“April Fool is past,
And you are the biggest fool at last!”

Task: Find the sentences about the April Fool tricks. There must be seven tricks.

April Fool's Day

The doorbell is ringing,
Better hurry and see!
It might be a postman
With a present for me.
It might be a spaceman
Coming in for a call,
But – today's April Fool's Day –
There is no one at all!
It might be a farmer
With a bag of hay,
Or a clown from the circus
Who just wants to play

5.7.7. The Story of Easter

Easter is a time of springtime festivals. In Christian countries Easter is celebrated as the religious holiday commemorating the resurrection of Jesus Christ, the son of God. But the celebrations of Easter have many customs and legends that are pagan in origin and have nothing to do with Christianity.

Traditions associated with the festival survive in the Easter rabbit, a symbol of fertility, and in coloured Easter eggs, originally painted with bright colours to represent the sunlight of spring, and used in Easter-egg rolling contests or given as gifts.

Easter is observed by the churches of the West on the first Sunday following the fool moon that occurs on or following the spring equinox (March 21). So Easter became a “movable” feast which can occur as early as March 22 or as late as April 28.

Easter is at the end of the Lenten season, which covers a forty-six-day period that begins on Ash Wednesday and ends with Easter.

Holy Thursday commemorates the Last Supper, which was held the evening before the Crucifixion.

Friday in Holy Week is the anniversary of the Crucifixion; the day that Christ was crucified and died on the cross.

Holy Week and the Lenten season end with Easter Sunday, the day of resurrection of Jesus Christ.

5.7.8. Traditional British Wedding

In Britain people get married either in church or in a registry office. In the US people often get married in a house, a garden, a park, a hotel, or in the wedding chapel as well as in church. Most people, when they think of wedding, think of people getting married in church and the many customs that go with this type of wedding, called a white wedding.

If a couple decides to get married, the two become engaged and the bride to be often receives a ring from her bride / bridegroom / fiancé.

Permission from the parents used to be necessary; today it is a courtesy to tell the parents first and ask for their blessing or good wishes. Engagements vary in length depending on the circumstances and the couple's preference.

There are special names of some of the people in the wedding ceremony. The woman who is getting married is called the bride and the man is called the bridegroom or groom. The man has a male friend with him called the best man and the bride has some female friends called the bridesmaids. It is traditional for the bride to wear a long white dress/gown and a white veil as a traditional sign of purity and to carry flowers in a bouquet. It is considered bad luck for the groom to see the bride before the ceremony on the day of wedding.

She is also supposed to wear "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue" because this will bring her luck. The groom often wears a formal suit or sometimes a morning suit or a tuxedo. Everyone else wears their best clothes and the woman often buys hats specially.

5.7.9. Wedding Cakes

The symbolic nature of superstition regularly leads to everyday items taking on extra connotations, and it is therefore no surprise that various parts of the wedding procedure, such as the cake and the ring, have taken on love-divinatory roles. A number of procedures existed, for example, which involved placing pieces of wedding cake under the pillow, in the promise that the sleeper would dream of their future spouse.

Most girls have had pieces of wedding cakes given them to “dream on”, which they put under their pillows before going to bed, but at Northleigh a girl went through quite a ceremony when doing so. She took a piece of wedding cake, which must consist of both cake and icing, the cake representing the man and the icing the girl, and got into bed backwards, repeating the following lines:

*I put the wedding cake under my head
To dream of the living and not of the dead,
To dream of the man that I am to wed,
Not in his best or Sunday array
But in clothes he wears every day.*

On no account must the girl speak after repeating this rhyme, as if she said a word, it would prevent her from dreaming of her future husband.

Vocabulary

5.7.10. The Weird Food Festivals That Sound Fake (but aren't)

Festivals are a great way to bring people together to celebrate almost any occasion. While there are lots of festival types including music festivals, food festivals are some of the most popular. They take place all over the world and there are festivals for just about any type of food including pizza, seafood, bacon, chocolate, and even fruits.

Many food festivals feature foods local to the region such as the Poutine Fest in Ottawa or the Taste of Chicago festival. While some festivals are all about the foods in that area, other festivals focus on one type of food and you'll find several different ways to enjoy it.

Alcoholic beverages such as beer and wine are often heavily featured at food festivals as well. Some even include those beverages in the name of the festivals such as the San Diego Bay Wine and Food Festival. Other staples you'll likely find at food festivals include cooking demonstrations, workshops, contests, music, and things to entertain the kids.

There are lots of annual food festivals that take place in the United States, but there are also a good number of them that take place across the world. There are probably hundreds if not thousands of food festivals that take place but many of them are small regional events that most people wouldn't consider traveling to get to.

The food festivals on this list include some of the bigger and more well known festivals that you would want to consider when making your travel plans. Many of them are in great locations that feature lots of things to do so the festival makes for a great reason to check them out.

Herring Festival. If you travel to Hvide Sande, Denmark you can attend the annual Herring Festival. This festival celebrates schools of herring which migrate to the Ringkobing fjord and includes the herring fishing world championship. Whether you like your herring fried, filleted, pickled, or fish-caked you're in luck. There are workshops that teach you how to pickle fried herring or you can leave it to the professionals and watch them do it. You can even enter the Herring Recipe of the Year contest and children can attend the Herring fishing school or join the Junior Fishing Contest. If you don't like fish you may want to head somewhere else.

Chinchilla Melon Festival. At first you may be put off by the name of this festival, but you won't find any dishes with rodents in them. The festival is held in Chinchilla, Australia and only happens every other year. All things melon are celebrated including plenty of dishes, a melon chariot race, a celebrity melon eating contest, and even melon skiing. One of the most interesting aspects is the melon weigh-in to find out which local farmer can grow the biggest melon. You can even take part in a free melon feast, beach part, concerts, and street parade. This is a great experience you won't want to miss.

La Tomatina. If you like having fun and aren't afraid to get dirty, the La Tomatina festival may be the place for you. This even takes place in Bunol, Spain and is one of the country's most popular festivals. You'll find plenty of tomato dishes to try but the highlight of the event is the world's biggest food fight which features more than 100 hundred metric tons of tomatoes which are over-ripe. You'll be able to throw tomatoes at random strangers while ducking and trying to avoid getting hit yourself, almost like you're playing a massive game of dodge ball but only with bright red fruits.

Boston Local Food Fest. Boston, Massachusetts is a great place to visit, especially if you want to enjoy some local food. The Boston Local Food Fest takes place in September and takes a closer look at how your food ends up on your table. The event features local farmers and gives you the chances to interact with them because most of us never actually meet the people who grow our food. There are lots of local vendors and food trucks to choose from and the festival focuses on health and sustainable local foods. This festival has a bit of a different vibe than the other more party-like atmospheres, but it may become more popular as time goes on.

Street Eats Food Truck Festival. Food trucks are more popular than ever before, but usually you just have to go with whichever one or two are at a location near you. The Street Eats Food Truck Festival in Scottsdale, Arizona brings them all together. Imagine more than 50 food trucks lined up for you and parked there all weekend. You'll find food trucks for all types of foods including entrees, desserts, and drinks. There are cooking demonstrations and other festivities and music as well. You'll see long lines at some trucks while others are a lot shorter. Try as many food trucks as you can without having to track them down.

Taste of Charlotte. If you haven't been to Charlotte, North Carolina you might not think of it as a great culinary city. This festival takes place on six city blocks and is free. There are more than 100 vendors and this is a coin style event where you buy your tokens up front. The event includes the Best of the Taste Awards and all types of foods including steak, barbecue, and much more. There are cooking demonstrations and lots to see and do as well even for the kids. The weather in June is great in Charlotte and you'll certainly enjoy sampling everything.

Baltimore Seafood Fest. Most people think of Baltimore for crab cakes, but the truth is that all types of seafood are popular there. At the Baltimore Seafood Fest in September you can sample everything from crab to oysters and even shrimp. The event takes place at Canton Waterfront Park and overlooks the Northwest Harbor. You can buy special entry passes that will come with treats like a bucket of crabs. There are more than 30 local vendors as well as food trucks so you can have fish tacos, lobster rolls, and everything else in between. There are also the standard cooking demonstrations and live entertainment.

Sacramento Bacon Fest. Almost everyone loves bacon, so attending a whole festival dedicated to the cured meat seems reasonable. This is a week long event that takes bacon to a whole new level. You can enjoy almost everything with bacon including bacon salad, bacon pizza, bacon ramen, bacon tater tots, and even a bacon milkshake. Bacon goes well with craft beer and more than 100 restaurants participate in this festival with their own bacon dishes. There's also live music and the humorous Kevin Bacon Soundtrack Tribute Show has become a favorite among festival goers over the years. Sacramento is a good place to visit anyway so scheduling your trip during Bacon Fest is a good way to go.

Ottawa Poutine Fest. Poutine has become quite trendy in recent years and if you enjoy it you'll want to travel to Ottawa, Canada for this festival. It takes place annually in May in its home country and thousands celebrate the delicious dish which features french fries, gravy, and cheese curds. You'll be able to visit several local restaurants which offer their unique takes on poutine such as churro poutine, butter chicken poutine, or Pad Thai poutine. If you can't get enough you can enter a poutine eating contest or learn how to make your own in a workshop. The event is family friendly and has activities for kids like face painting.

San Diego Bay Wine and Food Festival. At most food festivals alcohol is everywhere, so some of them don't try to hide that fact. Each November in San Diego the Bay Wine and Food Festival takes place. San Diego is a great place to visit in the first place but you'll want a jacket because it can be a bit cool later in the year. This festival is very popular and attracts chefs from all over the country as well as winemakers and brew masters. There are plenty of delicious things to eat and drink and the weather during the day should be delightful as well with plenty of sunshine.

Epcot International Food and Wine Festival. What makes this food festival extra special is its location in Orlando, Florida. This festival spans six weeks so chances are you won't be able to experience the whole thing unless you live there or can afford to take a lot of time off. You'll be able to enjoy food and wine from more than 25 countries. There is lots of entertainment and plenty of interactive experiences such as cooking demonstrations, wine tastings, and mixology classes. Don't forget to spend some time at Disney World and all the other fun attractions in the area. There's plenty of food to be enjoyed inside the theme park if you don't get enough at the festival.

Nugget Rib Cook-off. This festival takes place toward the end of summer and happens in Sparks, Nevada. If you love barbecue and ribs this is the place for you. Almost a quarter of a million pounds of ribs will be cooked to be enjoyed for hundreds of thousands of attendees. This festival bills itself as the biggest and best free-entry barbecue festival in America. While there might be some chicken nuggets, the name comes from the location which is the Nugget Casino Resort. There's also plenty to do including a concert series which have included national acts such as 10,000 Maniacs and Mark McGrath.

Taste of Dallas. Dallas, Texas is a great city for food lovers. The annual Taste of Dallas festival has been going on for more than 30 years. Make sure you find the Backyard Bites section to try some delicious barbecue as well as craft beer and burgers with lawn games to keep you entertained. Don't forget the Taste Curbside area with food trucks and if you prefer to eat healthy check out the Fuel area. For some extra dough you can attend the Foodie Experience which features an unlimited tasting of more than 30 chefs and restaurants and that also includes drinks so get your ticket early.

Hawaii All Food And Wine Festival. Most people don't need a good excuse to take a vacation to Hawaii, but if you're looking for one the Hawaii Food and Wine Festival could be it. This event takes place in Honolulu in September. It was founded by chefs Roy Yamaguchi and Alan Wong who are both James Beard Award winners. It spans four days and features several leading chefs, wine and spirit producers, and culinary personalities. You can attend the festival and enjoy delicious foods and drinks and still enjoy all the natural beauty Hawaii has to offer. Many people aren't familiar with Hawaiian foods and this is a great way to try various dishes.

New Orleans Wine and Food Experience. New Orleans, Louisiana is a great place to visit to experience local culture and festivals. One of the most popular festivals is the Wine and Food Experience which celebrated its 26th year in 2018. This festival is a great time and delicious but it also helps out various nonprofit organizations in New Orleans and has raised more than $1 million over the years. There are some great local chefs and some amazing national and international wines featured as well. You certainly won't get bored in New Orleans where you can take in all that the famous and historic city has to offer.

Taste of Vail. Vail, Colorado is a great place to visit and travelers enjoy the small town feel paired with the great locations to ski and snowboard. This festival happens each year and has many of the best local chefs. Winemakers and vineyard owners from all around the country gather in Vail for this festival every year. You may run into some celebrities trying to fit in with the crowd so keep an eye out. Find a quaint lodge to stay in and enjoy the crisp and cool air while having some great local food and some delicious wine. This festival typically takes place around the first day of fall.

NYC Wine and Food Festival. New York City is another great location to have a food festival because there is plenty to see and do in addition to enjoying the festivities. This festival benefits the NYC Food Bank and the nonprofit Share Out Strength so it's for a good cause. It happens every year and you'll have a chance to see some celebrity chefs as well as known personalities in the culinary field. You'll want to plan on spending some time here but make sure you have plenty of time to enjoy the rest of the city so nice they named it twice while you're there.

Taste of Chicago. Cuisine from Chicago has made its way all across America, but the best place to enjoy it is where it actually came from. This event is billed as the world's largest food festival and spans five days each year with more than two million people visiting. You'll find all the foods you would expect including Chicago dogs, Chicago-style pizza, and other regional foods you might not know about. Make sure to save room for dessert from the famous Eli's Cheesecake. This festival takes place each year in July which is a great time to be in the Windy City. Be sure to check out some of the Chicago area attractions if you've never been before.

Pizzafest. Pizza is one of the most popular foods in the world and comes in all types and flavors. This annual food festival takes place in Naples, Italy in September and goes for a whole week. If you travel to Italy to celebrate pizza you'll be in for a real treat if all you know is American pies. There will be plenty of pizza to eat but the entertainment and education makes it worthwhile. The World Pizza-Making Championship takes place and you can also take a pizza-making workshop. Try a slice of several different types of pizza including Neapolitan, marinara, and margherita.

Salon du Chokolat. When it comes to food festivals, any festival celebrating chocolate is going to be very popular. This festival is actually a trade fair for the international chocolate industry. More than 500 participants take part in the annual event and come from more than 60 countries. You can sample chocolates from five continents and attend workshops. This festival has plenty of entertainment in addition to satisfying your sweet tooth. It has a chocolate sculpture contest and an interesting chocolate fashion show. If you love chocolate this is certainly a festival you'll want to visit and you'll actually be encouraged to overindulge.

5.8. Do You Know English Words?

5.8.1. Euro-English

The most popular second language in Europe today is English. Perhaps you already knew that (after all, you speak it yourself).

But did you also know that English has borrowed thousands of words from other European languages? Here are some examples.

Language	Words
Czech	robot / pistol
Dutch	yacht / wagon / boss / landscape
French	prison / parliament / soup / cigarette / garage
German	kindergarten / hamburger / waltz / delicatessen / seminar
Hungarian	coach / paprika
Italian	violin / umbrella / cartoon / carnival / solo
Spanish	mosquito / cargo / patio / potato / guerrilla

Vocabulary

pistol [pɪst(ə)l] пістолет delicatessen[delɪkə'tesn] 1) холодні закуски 2) магазин, гастрономічний магазин coach [kəʊʃ] 1) карета, екіпаж; 2) пасажирський вагон, розділений на купе; 3) (туристичний) міжміський автобус; 4) тренер, інструктор; 5) репетитор; учитель, викладач patio['pætiəʊ] внутрішній дворик; патіо guerrilla[gə'rɪlə] 1) партизан; боєць; 2) партизанська війна

5.8.2. Origin of Some Words

The name “tattoo” has an interesting origin. Traditionally the soldiers were told to return to the living quarters each night by a beat of the drum which sounded like “tat-too”.

The word “holiday” literally means “holy day”. In the United States, the word “holiday” is synonymous with “celebration”.

The word “clan” means “family” and the great clans of the 16th and 17th centuries were really like big families, ruled by powerful chiefs. Sometimes there were battles between different clans but nowadays the McDonalds, the McKenzies and the Campbells all live in piece with each other.

Many people in Scotland have the name McDonald or McKenzie. “Mac” means “son of” and people with this name usually feel they belong to the same family or clan. Common boys’ names are Donald or Duncan, and girls’ names are Fiona or Jean. Many Scottish people still use some Scottish words when they speak English.

For example, “wee” means small as in “wee laddie” - small boy. A “bonnie lass” is a pretty girl and a “bairn” is a young child. If someone answers your questions with “aye” [ai] they are agreeing with you, because “aye” means “yes”. Finally, if you are offered a “wee dram” be careful: you’ll be given some whisky to drink and you will probably have to drink it all in one go.

Although not many Welsh words are well-known in England, the word “eisteddfod” is understood by almost everybody. This is the Welsh name for an annual competition where people meet to dance, sing and read poems. Usually, only Welsh is spoken and in recent years they have attracted people who wish to protest against the influence of English on the Welsh language and culture. Years ago, all Irish people spoke Gaelic, and this language is still spoken in some parts of Ireland, although today all Irish people speak English also. Evidence of Gaelic is still found in place names, for example “bally” - town, “slieve” - mountain, “loughs” - lake, “inis” - island, “drum” - mountain top, “glen” - valley.

The Scots prefer the adjective Scottish, but other people often use the word Scotch. Scotch is used for whisky. British people do not usually use the words Briton or Britisher themselves. Briton appears mostly in newspaper headlines - for example TWO BRITONS KILLED IN AIR CRASH. Britisher is used mainly by Americans, Australians etc.

Vocabulary

origin['ɔrɪdʒɪn] 1) джерело; початок; вихідна точка; 2) походження tattoo [tæ'tu:] 1) сигналвечірньоїзорі; часвечірньоїзорі; 2) показовівиступи, демонстраціярушничнихприйомів; 3) барабаннийдріб; 4) стукіт literally [lit(ə)rəli] буквально, дослівно

holy ['həʊli] святий; священний

Gaelic ['geilik, 'gælik] гельська мова

5.8.3. Hooligan

Do you know the word “Hooligan”? Yes, you know the word and you don’t like hooligans, of course.

But do you know that Hooligan was an English surname? In 1890 there lived in London a man whose surname was Hooligan. He was a very bad man and he behaved so badly, that soon everybody in London knew him and talked about him. When somebody began to behave badly, people said, “Oh, he behaves like Hooligan”, and a new word was born.

You can find this word not only in English but in some other languages too.

Vocabulary

hooligan ['hu:liɡən] хуліган

5.8.4. Mackintosh

Do you know what a mackintosh is? Of course, you do. But do you know that the word “Mackintosh” is a surname?

In 1823, in Scotland lived a man whose name was Charles Mackintosh. It often rained in Great Britain, and Charles Mackintosh got wet quite often.

One day he rubberized his coat and it became waterproof. Many of his friends liked his coat and asked him to rubberize their coats too. Soon many people began to rubberize their coats and they called those coats “mackintoshes”.

Vocabulary

mackintosh ['mækiŋtəʃ] макінтош, плащ, непромокальне пальто

rubberize ['rʌbə,raɪz] додати гуму до тканини

waterproof ['wɔ:təpru:f] водонепроникний, непромокальний; водовідштовхуючий

5.8.5. What is It “Boycott”?

At the end of the XIX century an English lord hired for his estate in Ireland the bailiff also an Englishman, captain Boycott. Being strict and ruthless Boycott in a short period of time was so hated by all farmers and peasants that all of them refused to deal with him in any business neither big nor small. Since that time “boycott” has acquired the significance of person’s isolation from the society and refusal to communicate with him. This is a very punishment. The Captain Boycott after these events had to escape from Ireland.

Vocabulary

estate [i'steit] маєток; земельне володіння; майно, статок

bailiff ['beɪlɪf] управляючий маєтком

significance [sig'nɪfɪkəns] значення, зміст

punishment ['pʌnɪʃmənt] покарання

5.8.6. Was the First Computer “BUG” a Real Insect?

The story goes that one of the early electromechanical computers suffered a failure because an insect had crawled into the machine and been squashed between the moving parts of a relay switch, thereby jamming it. The incident was written up in the logbook and spread from there throughout the whole of the infant computer industry. However, although the account seems to be genuine, the word is older: the event was recorded as an amusement for posterity precisely because the term “a bug” was already in use.

The term in fact originates not with computer pioneers, but with engineers of a much earlier generation. The first example cited in the 20-volume historical Oxford English Dictionary is from the Pall Mall Gazette of 11 March 1889:

Mr. Edison, I was informed, had been up the two previous nights discovering “a bug” in his phonograph- an expression for solving a difficulty, and implying that some imaginary insect has secreted itself inside and is causing all the trouble.

It seems clear from this that the original “bug”, though it was indeed an insect, was in fact imaginary.

Vocabulary

failure ['feiljə] аварія, ушкодження; перебій; відмова в роботі; вихід з ладу; збій phonograph ['fəʊnəgrɔ:f] фонограф imaginary [ɪ'mædʒ(ə)n(ə)rɪ] уявний; нереальний

5.8.7. What is the Origin of the Following Phrases?

“Dressed to the Nines” - One theory is that it comes from the name of the 99th Wiltshire Regiment, known as the Nines, which was renowned for its smart appearance. There are a couple of problems with this suggestion, though. To begin with, the regiment’s sartorial reputation seems to have dated from the 1850s, while the first recorded use of the phrase is from 1837. Secondly, dressed to the nines developed as an extension of the much earlier phrase to the nines, meaning “to perfection, to the greatest degree”: the 20-volume Oxford English Dictionary’s first example of this earlier form dates back to 1719.

Why it should have been to the nines rather than to the eights, to the sevens, etc. remains unclear.

Vocabulary

Wiltshire Regiment ['wɪltʃɪə] ['rɛdʒɪmənt] Уїлтширський полк renown [ri'naʊnd] прославлений, відомий; знаменитий smart appearance парадний вигляд suggestion [sə'dʒesʃ(ə)n] 1) пропозиція, порада; 2) натяк, вказування; 3) імовірна або можлива обставина; припущення sartorial [sɑ:'tɔ:riəl] кравецький dressed to the nines вдягнений с иголки

“Sleep Tights” - It seems that tight in this expression is the equivalent of the only surviving use of the adverb tightly meaning “soundly, properly, well, effectively”. The 20-volume historical Oxford English Dictionary labels this adverb “now dialectal”.

Vocabulary

tight [taɪt] 1) щільний, непроникний; компактний; 2) міцний; 3) важкий, складний; 4) строгий, твердий survive [sə'vaɪv] 1) пережити (сучасників, славу); 2) залишитися в живих, вижити, виціліти; продовжувати існувати, зберігатися dialectal [daɪə'lektl] діалектальний, діалектний

“the Bee’s Knees” - The phrase was first recorded in the late 18th century, when it was used to mean “something very small and insignificant”. Its current meaning dates from the 1920s, at which time a whole collection of American slang expressions were coined with the meaning “an outstanding person or thing”. Examples included the flea’s eyebrows, the canary’s tusks, and one that still survives - the cat’s whiskers. The switch in meaning for the bee’s knees probably emerged because it was so similar in structure and pattern to these other phrases.

Vocabulary

it was used to mean колись означало insignificant [ɪnsɪg'nɪfɪkənt] незначний, несуттєвий, маловажний; незначний, невеликий; беззмістовний, порожній, який нічого не виражає slang expressions жаргонні вирази coin [kɔɪn] 1) карбувати (монету); вибивати (медаль); 2) фабрикувати, вигадувати; 3) створювати нові слова, вирази

flea [fli:] блоха

canary канарка

tusk [tʌsk] ікло, бивень (слона, моржа, кабана) whisker [wɪskə] 1) волос бороди; борода; 2) бакенбарди, баки; 3) вуса, вусики (у тварин)

5.8.8. What is the Origin of the Terms?

“Brass Monkey” - The story goes that cannonballs used to be stored aboard ship in piles, on a brass frame or tray called a “monkey”. In very cold weather the brass would contract, spilling the cannonballs: hence very cold weather is “cold enough to freeze the balls off a brass monkey”. There are several problems with this story, as follows:

- the term “monkey” is not otherwise recorded as the name for such an object;
- the rate of contraction of brass in cold temperatures is unlikely to be fast enough to cause the reputed effect;
- the phrase is actually first recorded as “freeze the tail off a brass monkey”, which removes any essential connection with balls.

It therefore seems most likely that the phrase is simply a humorous reference to the fact that metal figures will become very cold to the touch in cold weather.

Vocabulary

cannonball ['kænənɒ:l] (сферичне) гарматне ядро pile [paɪl] 1) купа; штабель; (метал.) пакет brass [brɑ:s, bræs] латунь, жовта мідь

spil розсипати; розсипатися

hence [hens] 1) від цього часу, віднині; 2) отже; в результаті; 3) звідси brass monkey дуже холодний reputed [ri'pju:tɪd] 1) який має добру славу, гарну репутацію; відомий 2) гаданий, ймовірний, який вважається (ким-небудь)

“Flea Market” comes from the French marché aux puces, a name originally given to a market in Paris which specialized in shabby second-hand goods of the kind that might contain fleas. The earliest English use that the 20-volume Oxford English Dictionary has found dates from 1922.

Vocabulary

shabby ['ʃæbi] поношений, порваний, потертий, старий (про одяг, речі)

The phrase “pros and cons” is an abbreviation of the Latin phrase pro et contra, “for and against”, and has been in use in the abbreviated form since the 16th century, according to the Oxford English Dictionary.

“Pros and cons” is a well-established standard usage; Oxford’s larger dictionaries do not mark it as “informal” or in any way restricted in use. The much longer alternative is the phrase “arguments for and against”.

The word “UFO” is an abbreviation which comes from the initial letters of the words “unidentified flying object”. A UFO is a mysterious object in the sky which can’t be explained by current scientific theories. UFOs are often associated with extraterrestrial beings: they’re believed to be the spaceships of the “little green men” of science-fiction movies and stories.

According to the Oxford English Dictionary, the term “unidentified flying object” goes back at least to the 1950s: it is recorded in 1953, in a book by the US aviator and writer Donald Keyhoe. The OED also gives a citation in 1956 by Edward Ruppelt, an officer in the USAF, stating that he'd invented the term as a more general one to replace the earlier description for such objects, flying saucer.

Strange objects in the sky were first named flying saucers in the 1940s: the first OED citation is from The Times, in 1947. They were so called because of an account by a US pilot, Kenneth Arnold, who stated in various newspaper and radio interviews of that year that he'd seen "saucer-like" objects in the sky while he was flying past Mount Rainier. The media seemed to have quickly changed this to the snappier "flying saucer" and so the term was born. By the time Ruppelt and his USAF colleagues were investigating reports of these sightings in the 1950s, it was clear that "saucer" was too limited a description, since the objects in question were said to be of many different shapes: hence Ruppelt's invention of "UFO".

UFOs captured the public's imagination and it wasn't long before sightings were reported from all over the world. The study of UFOs became known as ufology (recorded in The Times Literary Supplement in 1959) and experts in the field were named ufologists about four years later, even though research in this area isn't generally regarded as an academic discipline.

Vocabulary

unidentified flying object [ˌʌnaɪ'dentɪ faɪd] невстановлений літаючий об'єкт mysterious [mi'sti(ə)riəs] таємничий; незбагнений extraterrestrial being [ekstrətə'restriəl] позаземна істота spaceship ['speɪʃɪp] космічний літальний апарат, космічний корабель science-fiction наукова фантастика flying saucer "літаюча тарілка" snappy ['snæpi] швидкий, енергійний; моментальний, миттєвий ufology [ju:'fɒlədʒi] вивчення неопізнаних літаючих об'єктів ("літаючих тарілок), уфологія

The word "Berserk" came into English in the early 19th century, as a noun used to describe an ancient Norse warrior who fought with uncontrolled ferocity (also known as aberserker).

The English word derives from the Old Norse berserkr (noun), itself probably from combining bjorn (bear) and serkr (coat). It could also possibly come from berr "bare" (i.e. without armour) and serkr.

It is now mostly used in the expression "to go berserk".

Vocabulary

berserk [bɜr'zɜrk, -'sɜrk] 1) нестямний, безстрашний, невразливий давньоскандинавський воїн; 2) знівільний; шалений, лютий

ferocity [fɜ'rɒsɪti] жорстокість, лютість; дикість

5.8.9. The Fascinating Origins of 15 Common English Words?

Below are just 15 words. From these 15 words, you'll learn the meanings of more than 30 other words! Once you know each word's origin, you'll begin to notice it in other words.

A majority of English word roots come from Latin and Greek. Even English words that come from other languages like French or German are sometimes originally Latin anyway - so they were Latin first, then became French or German and then they became English.

Many words on this list have gone through a few languages before getting to English, but in this post we'll focus on just one main origin.

The “related words” sections give a sample of the other words you can learn using these origins, but there are many, many more out there. Most related words are broken down into their own origins, which are defined and then pointed out in parentheses (like these).

For example, if you see the words “together(sym),” you'll know that the root sym means together. Simple!

And now, the words!

Vocabulary

fascinating ['fæsineitiŋ] 1) чарівний 2) захоплюючий, зачаровуючий related words споріднені слова sample ['sampəl] 1) зразок; проба; приклад 2) шаблон, модель parentheses [pə'reneɪsɪz] круглі, прості дужки

Greek

1. Phone

Meaning: Aphone is a device that's used to communicate with people from a distance (you might be using a phone to read this!).

Origin: The English word phone is actually short for telephone, which comes from the Greek words for sound (phon) and far away (tele).

Related words: Homophones are words that sound (phon) the same (homo) but are spelled differently, like hear and here. If you like hearing nice things you might enjoy asymphony, which is when many instruments play together (sym) to make a beautiful sound (phon)... usually.

Vocabulary

homophones ['hɒmɒfəʊn] співпадаючий, однаковий (про звук); який має однакове звучання (про слово) symphony ['sɪmfəni] симфонія; гармонія (квітів); гармонічне сполучення

2. Hyper

Meaning: Someone who is hyper is very energetic and lively.

Origin: Hyper is actually a shortening of the word hyperactive, which combines the Greek word meaning “over, beyond” (hyper) and the Latin word for something that's done (act).

Related words: When someone tells you they're so hungry they could eat a horse, you know they're just exaggerating by using hyperbole - stretching the truth, like throwing (bole) something too far (hyper). No matter how exciting someone's hyperbole is, try not to hyperventilate! That means to breathe or blow out air (ventilate) too much (hyper) in a way that makes you dizzy.

Vocabulary

hyper ['haɪpə]

hyperactive [haɪpə'ræktɪv] надактивний exaggerate [ig'zædzəreit] 1) перебільшувати 2) збільшувати, розширювати hyperbole [hai'pɜ:bəli] гіпербола, перебільшення hyperventilate [haipə'ventileit] 1) глибоко дихати 2) перенасичувати легені киснем (за допомогою глибокого дихання) dizzy ['dizi] 1) який відчуває запаморочення, нудоту; спантеличений; 2) запаморочливий; 3) викликати запаморочення, нудоту; паморочити; приголомшувати

3. Sync

Meaning: When a few things happen at the same time or in the same way, they're insync. This word is a shortening of the word synchronize, but it's used alone nowadays as a verb (your phone apps might even sync to make sure your files are up to date).

Origin: Sync comes from a Greek word that means to be together (sym or syn).

Related words: Asynopsis is a summary of something like a movie or a play. It's a way for everyone to see (opsis) the meaning together (syn). Synopsis and summary are actually synonyms, which are words that share the same (syn) meaning but have a different sound or name (onym).

Stay away from a play if the synopsis says the actors lip-sync. That means they move their lips (lip) together (syn) with the music without actually creating the sounds themselves.

Vocabulary

Sync ['sɪk] 1) синхронізацією звуку є зображення; синхронізація; 2) погодженість, відповідність; 3) синхронізувати up to date [ˌɜptə'deɪt] до теперішнього часу, до цього часу synopsis ['sɪnəpsɪs] 1) резюме; конспект; стислий огляд; синопсис lip-sync співати під фонограму

4. Air

Meaning: Air is all around us. It's the invisible gas that creates our atmosphere. Without air, we wouldn't be able to breathe!

Origin: The word air has gone through a few languages before ending up in English, but it probably comes from the Greek word aer, which means to blow or breathe. You can actually find words that use both aer and air.

Related words: In airplane is a relatively flat object (plane) that flies in the air (air). Airplanes are aerodynamic, which means they use the air (aer) to power (dynamic) their flight. Don't forget to look down when you're in that plane, since aerial (of the air) views are pretty amazing!

Vocabulary

invisible [ɪn'vɪzəb(ə)l] невидимий

Latin

5. Dense

Meaning: Something dense is packed tightly or very thick. For example, a fog can be so dense, or thick, that you can't see much through it.

Origin: Dense comes from the Latin for "thick" (densus).

Related words: You can see condensation when evaporated water molecules join together (con) and becomes thick (dens) enough to form droplets. Density is the measure of how thickly packed (dens) something is, like people or things in one space.

6. Finish

Meaning: To finish something means to be done with it. In a few seconds you'll be finished reading this sentence.

Origin: Finish comes from the Latin word finis which means "end." In many words, this is shortened to fin.

Related words: You've probably defined a lot of vocabulary words in your English learning, which means you've looked up what the words mean. You could say that you've brought an end (both dandfin), to your lack of understanding! Don't worry, there's a finite number of words in English, which is a noun (ite) that means something that has a limit or end (fin). If English were infinite, or without (in) a limit, we would be learning it forever!

Vocabulary

dense [dens] 1) густий; щільний, компактний 2) посил. глибокий, крайній, цілковитий densus ['densəs] = dense evaporate [i'væpəreit] випаровувати, перетворювати в пару; випаровуватися, перетворюватися в пару

droplet ['drɒplɪt] крапелька

lack [læk] нестача, брак; (повна) відсутність

finite ['fainait] обмежений, який має межу

7. Form

Meaning: The form of something is its shape. As a verb, the word to form means to create something in a specific shape.

Origin: The word form comes from the Latin words for a mold (forma) and the Latin verb to form or to create (formare).

Related words: Many jobs and schools require people to wear a uniform, which is clothing that all looks the same or has one (uni) style (form). When places don't have strict rules about what clothes to wear, they're informal, or without (in) a specific shape (form).

Vocabulary

mold [məʊld] = mould 1) форма; лекало, шаблон

8. Letter

Meaning: A letter is a symbol that represents a sound in a language, like a, b, c, or the rest of the alphabet. A letter is also a message you write and send to someone. E-mails are digital letters!

Origin: In Latin, a letter was called alittera, and the lit and liter parts of this word appear in many English words that are related to letters.

Related words: If you're reading this, you're literate - you know how to read (liter). You probably read literature (books) and hopefully don't take fiction too literally (seriously and exactly). All these words are forms of the stem liter, but their suffixes turn them into someone who reads (literate), something that exists (literature), and someone who does things to the letter (literally).

Vocabulary

literate ['lit(ə)rit] 1) грамотна людина; широко освічена людина; 2) грамотний; освічений literally [lit(ə)rəli] 1) буквально, дослівно; 2) точно; без перебільшень; відповідно до фактів; 3) без перебільшення; буквально stem [stem] основа

9. Part

Meaning: Apart is a piece of a whole, something that isn't complete. In verb form, the word to part means to divide or remove something.

Origin: This word comes from the Latin partire or partiri, which means to divide or share among others.

Related words: Somebody impartial has no (im) opinion about something (they take no part in the debate). You can be impartial about whether you live in a house or in an apartment. An apartment is the result (ment) of dividing a building into smaller spaces (part). Wherever you live, make sure it's safe - you wouldn't want to put your family in jeopardy, which is a dangerous situation or, according to the original definition, an evenly divided (part) game (jeo).

Vocabulary

impartial [im'pɔ:ʃ(ə)l] безсторонній, неупереджений, справедливий jeopardy ['dʒɛpədi] 1) небезпека, ризик; 2) підсудність

10. Voice

Meaning: Your voice is the sound you use to speak. You can also voice, or state, an opinion.

Origin: The Latin word for voice is vox, and the word for "to call" is vocare. These two related words are the origin of a number of English words related to speech or voices. They usually include the root voc or vok.

Related words: In advocate is someone who calls (voc) others to help him (ate) support a cause or a person. Even someone who means well might end up provoking someone who doesn't agree with them. To provoke someone means to call someone (vok) forward (pro) and challenge them in a way that usually makes them angry.

Vocabulary

provoke [prə'vəʊk] 1) викликати, спричиняти, збуджувати 2) провокувати 3) сердити, дратувати 4) спонукувати 5) викликати до суду

Old Norse

11. Loft

Meaning: A loft is a room right under the roof or very high up in a building. The loft in a house is usually used for storage, but building lofts are rented out as (usually smaller) living spaces.

Origin: The Old Norse word for air or sky was lopt, which is written as loft in English.

Related words: Something aloft is up in (a) the air (loft). If something is very tall, you would say it's lofty, which is the adjective form of loft. In the same way, someone lofty has a very high (loft) opinion of themselves, which makes them act proud or snobbish.

Vocabulary

Old Norse північна германська мова loft [lɔft] горище; сінник aloft [ə'lɔft] 1) нагорі; у височині; у повітрі; угору, нагору, наверх; 2) на небесах; на небеса; 3) на марсі, на рях; 4) у польоті, у повітрі lofty ['lɔfti] 1) дуже високий; 2) піднесений, високий; 3) зарозумілий, пихатий snobbish ['snɒbiʃ] снобістський; чванливий, пихатий

French

12. Question

Meaning: Asking a question means trying to get information about something. Questions end in question marks (?).

Origin: Originally from Latin, English borrowed the Old French word question and never gave it back. The word means “to ask” or “to seek,” and it shows up in a number of ways in other words, from quire to quest. This one can be tough to spot since it switches between using the French and Latin versions of the word.

Related words: Some fantasy books have the main characters going on a quest, or a long and difficult search (quest) for something. Maybe you're more interested in murder mystery books, which often have inquest, or an official investigation (quest) into (in) someone's suspicious death. If these types of books sound interesting, you can inquire, or ask (quest) about (in) them at your local library.

Vocabulary

quest [kwest] 1) пошуки; 2) предмет пошуків; 3) пошуки пригод inquest ['ɪnkwest] слідство; розслідування; дізнання; висновки слідства; журі, склад присяжних appease [ə'pi:z] 1) заспокоювати; умиряють; 2) угамувати (голод); задовольняти (цікавість); 3) полегшувати, заспокоювати (горе, біль)

13. Liberty

Meaning: Liberty is the state of being free. The Statue of Liberty in New York is a symbol of freedom.

Origin: Another originally Latin word, liberty found its way into English through the Old French liberete, usually shortened to lib.

Related words: A liberator is a person (ator) who sets others free (lib) from a situation like slavery, jail or a bad leader. Becoming free means being open to changes, so it helps if you're liberal - someone with a personality (al) that's open to (lib) new ideas or ways of thinking.

Vocabulary

liberator ['lɪbərəɪtə] визволитель; рятівник

Italian

14. Gusto

Meaning: Doing something with gusto means really enjoying it and being enthusiastic about it.

Origin: The Italian word gusto actually means taste, and comes from the Latin for taste, gustus.

Related words: You won't do something with gusto if you find it disgusting. That's the negative feeling you get about something you think is unpleasant - literally, without (dis) taste (gust).

Vocabulary

gusto ['gestəʊ] 1) задоволення, смак; пристрасть (з якою виконується робота); інтерес, любов, схильність (дочого-небудь); 2) висока оцінка; розуміння, смак disgusting [dis'gestɪŋ] огидний, противний, паскудний

Arabic

15. Check

Meaning: To check means to take a close look at something, or to make sure of something (verify it). For example, before you leave for work in the morning you might check that you have everything you need. Check can also be used as a verb that means to stop or slow something down.

Origin: The word check has an interesting history, moving from language to language and changing its meaning a little with each one. The word is originally from Persian and then Arabic, where it meant "king." Over time, the word started being used in the game of chess and was defined as "to control." Eventually the word's meaning changed to what it is today. So much history in such a small word!

Related words: Leaving something unchecked means leaving something without (un) limits or control (check). If you leave weeds to grow unchecked in your yard, for example, they'll take over and destroy your other plants. The word check on its own also refers to a piece of paper worth a certain amount of money (you write checks to pay bills). A raincheck used to be a ticket given to people attending outdoor events that had to be stopped because of rain. Today a raincheck is just a promise to do something another time.

Vocabulary

verify ['venfaɪ] перевіряти, контролювати unchecked [ʌn'tʃekt] 1) незатриманий; 2) нестриманий, неприборканий; недисциплінований; 3) неперевірений (про рахунок)

raincheck корінець квитка на стадіон, що дає право прийти на гру, перенесену з нагоди дощу; прохання або обіцянка прийняти запрошення іншим разом

5.8.10. Foreign Placenames

The names of countries, and of the world's most important cities and natural features, have always been translated into various languages.

Just as the French language calls London Londres and the United States the États-Unis, so English uses Italy for the country which its inhabitants call Italia, and both English and French call its capital Rome rather than Roma.

Even if we do not change the spelling of foreign placenames, we often modify their pronunciation for our own comfort, pronouncing Paris, for instance, to rhyme with the English surname Harris.

But all of this seems to be changing. The English language anglicizes the pronunciation of placenames less than it did even a generation ago. Whether because of increased foreign travel or from a becoming increase in national modesty, we now try to pronounce Marseilles and Rheims more or less as their citizens do, whereas our forebears made them rhyme with Wales and Dreams. We also have to learn the names of many towns in their own languages, if only to catch the right plane to Geneva or Florence when the airport departure board announces flights to Genf or Firenze.

Here are a few foreign placenames and their English versions:

own language	English
Bruxelles	Brussels ['brʌs(ə)lz]
Firenze	Florence ['flɒrəns]
Gdansk	Danzig ['dænsɪg]
Genève, Genf, Gunevra	Geneva [dʒɪ'ni:və]
Livorno	Leghorn ['lɛghɔ:n]
München	Munich ['mju:nɪk]
Reims	Rheims [ri:mz]

Vocabulary

modify [mə'dɪfaɪ] 1) модифікувати, видозмінювати; 2) пом'якшувати; знижувати rhyme [raɪm] 1) рима; 2) римований вірш; 3) римувати anglicize ['æŋglɪsaɪz] англізувати, надавати англійські риси modesty ['mɒdɪsti] 1) скромність; стриманість; 2) сором'язливість forebear ['fɔ:beə] 1) предок; 2) попередник

5.8.11. How London's Streets were Named?

Let's start from Piccadilly Circus, as many visitors do. Why "Piccadilly"? Nobody is quite sure. Some think that the name comes from a house, in what is now Great Windmill Street, owned by a 17th century tailor. The tailor grew rich by making the high collars called "peckadills" or "picadills". His home was nicknamed "Piccadilly Hall".

Why "Soho"? No one, however, can explain "Soho" convincingly. It may have been a hunting call, like "Tally-ho" or "So-ho!" One thing that is known for certain: Duke of Mornmouth, who owned a mansion in Soho Square (when the square was brand new), chose "Soho" as a watchword for his troops at the battle of Sedgemoor in 1685, when he rebelled against James II.

Haymarket was just what its name suggests: the site of the National Gallery was occupied by royal stables. In 1685 thousands of French Protestants came to England and settled in London and its outskirts. During the French Revolution of 1793 great numbers of the French constitutes the second wave of emigrants.

Pall Mall and the Mall are said to be named after a game, called "paille-maille" in French, and introduced into England in the 17th century.

Charing Cross is one of the oldest spots in London. There was a small village here once. The villagers used to char wood, making charcoal of it. That is why the village was called Charing. In the 13th century when the English Queen Eleanor died, her husband wanted her body be taken to Westminster Abbey, to be buried there.

At every place where the funeral procession stopped a wooden cross was put. The last place where they stopped was Charing, and since then the place is called Charing Cross.

Mayfair is a symbol of wealth, of elegance, of style and of quality. The best and the most expensive shops, restaurants and theatres are located here. Up to the 18th century this was all country land. The biggest fair was held here every year in May, and that is why this district was called Mayfair.

All London's long-past history is told by its streets and district names.

5.8.14. The Days of the Week

It is interesting to know how the names of the week came to have such names. These names are very old: people choose them long, long ago in the days when they worshipped a different god each day.

Sunday was the Sun's day and the next day was the Moon's day, or Monday. Tuesday was called after Tieu, the god of war. Wednesday was Woden's day, one highest god of the Teutonic peoples. Thor was the thunder god; his day was called Thor's day, or Thursday.

His wife insisted on having a special day of her own. Her name was Freya, so her day came to be called Friday. Saturn was the Roman god of the fields; his day was Saturn's day, or Saturday.

Vocabulary

worship ['wɔ:ʃɪp] 1) поклонятися, схилитися; шанувати; 2) обожнювати, боготворити

Tieu [tju:] бог війни

Woden ['wɒd(ə)n] один з трьох скандинавських богів великої магічної сили та мудрості

Teutonic [tju:'tonɪk] тевтонський

Thor [θɔ:] Тор, бог грому insist [ɪn'sɪst] наполягати; настійно вимагати

Freya ['freɪə] богиня плодючості, любові та краси

Saturn ['sætən] Сатурн (бог землеробства)

5.8.15. Happy Birthday

Do you know the story of the song "Happy Birthday"?

In English going for a song means something is for sale at a very low price. But what do real songs cost? They aren't cheap.

Let's look at the most famous English song of all – "Happy Birthday to You". People have been singing it at birthday parties for more than one hundred years. Two American sisters called Patty Smith Hill and Mildred Hill wrote the song. Its first title was "Good Morning to All". The sisters taught at a kindergarten in Louisville, Kentucky.

Their song was in a little book called Song Stories for Sunday School. They sold their song to the Sengstack family of Princeton, New Jersey. The Sengstack family earned one million dollars every year for the song. How? The answer is royalties.

People must pay royalties when they sing "Happy Birthday" in public, for example, at the theatre, on television or in a film.

Then the Sengstack family sold "Happy Birthday" to an American company called Warner Chappell. Did they sell it for a song? Absolutely not. Warner Chappell paid twenty-five million dollars for it.

Vocabulary

going for a song іти за безцінь

royalties [ˈrɔɪəltɪs] гонорар (автору книги тощо)

inpublic відкрито, гласно, публічно

5.8.16. What was in Pandora's box?

A gift is described as a "Pandora's box" if it seems attractive but is really a curse.

In ancient Greek mythology, Zeus was the father of the gods. When he created mankind, he asked Prometheus the Titan to make them out of clay. Later, Prometheus asked Zeus to give man fire which was reserved for the gods alone. Zeus refused, but Prometheus stole fire from Olympus, the gods' home, and smuggled it down to man on earth. To punish Prometheus, Zeus fashioned Pandora, the first woman, full of beauty and charm - and curiosity. He sent Pandora to Prometheus' simple brother, Epimetheus, together with a box which he warned them not to open. Despite this, the couple opened the box and out flew all the evils that have since afflicted mankind. Only hope remained in the box to help man through his troubles.

Vocabulary

curse [kɜ:s] прокляття; бич, лихо, нещастя smuggle [smʌg(ə)l] провозити контрабандою; таємно проносити fashion [ˈfæʃ(ə)n] надавати вигляду, форми; моделювати

simplebrother рідний брат

afflict [əˈflɪkt] засмучувати, турбувати; доводити до відчаю; уражати

5.8.17. Who were the Argonauts?

They were the heroes of one of the oldest adventure stories in the world, the Quest of the Golden Fleece. Jason was a young Greek prince who was set the task of bringing back the skin of a magic ram, the golden fleece, which was kept in Colchis on the shores of the Black Sea and guarded by a dragon that never slept. Jason commissioned the finest shipbuilder of the time, Argus, to build for him the first longship, the Argo. He gathered together, as crew, the Argonauts, fifty great heroes including Hercules, Orpheus and Theseus. After many adventures, the Golden Fleece was captured and brought back to Greece in triumph.

The legend was known to Homer around 700 BG and is possibly based on a real exploit of the prehistoric Minyae people from Boeotia, a region of ancient Greece.

Vocabulary

commissioned [kə'mɪʃ(ə)nd] якому надані повноваження; який отримав або має доручення

5.8.18. What does the Name Christopher Mean?

In Greek, Christophoros means "the one who carries Christ". According to the legend, Christopher was a very big man, almost a giant. His ambition was to serve the mightiest of kings, but he could not find the one he sought. He earned his living beside a river, carrying travellers across to the other side. One night, a child asked Christopher to carry him across. When they were but halfway over, the child became so heavy that, it took all the great Christopher's strength to reach the riverbank. He told the child that he had never carried such a weight before. The child replied: "Do not be surprised. You have tonight carried on your back the whole world and its sins. I am Jesus Christ, the mighty king you seek." Then Christopher abandoned everything to follow Christ and in due course was put to death for his faith.

5.8.19. Do you know that ...

Gatwick the capital city's second major airport, serving about 21 million passengers a year. A field here was first licensed for recreational use by light aircraft in 1930. It was developed as a commercial airport in 1934-1935, and was the first in the world to have its own rail link; the Southern Railway opened a station in 1935, joined to the terminal building by a subway. Gatwick subsequently became the world's busiest single-runway airport, but there are now controversial plans for a second runway.

Ploughman' lunch a light meal often served in pubs and usually eaten in the middle of the day. It consists of cheese (or sometimes cold cooked meat), bread and butter, salad and pickles (= a mixture of fruit and vegetables preserved in vinegar). Its name was invented in the early 1970s to suggest the sort of food traditionally eaten by people working the fields: I'll have a Cheddar ploughman's please.

Consequences a game in which each player writes the first line of a story on a piece of paper and then passes it to the next player who writes the second line, and so on. Each player folds the paper so that the next player cannot see what is already written. The result is a number of crazy and often funny stories, the stories follow a pattern that always begins with the names of two people and ends with the sentence "And the consequence was ..."

Fish and chips a traditional British dish. It consists of fish which is covered in batter (= a mixture of flour and milk) and fried in deep fat. This is served with chips (= long thin pieces of fried potato). It is quite a cheap meal, which people usually buy at a fish and chip shop and take away wrapped in paper.

Pancake race a race in which people carry pancakes in frying pans and repeatedly toss them (= throw them into the air so that they land the other way up in the pan) as they run. Tossing pancakes is the traditional way of cooking them on both sides. Pancake races take place in many parts of Britain on Shrove Tuesday.

Ploughman's lunch - A plate of bread, cheese, salad, pickle and pickled onion often served in pubs at lunchtime.

Public Schools - Private, fee-paying schools, despite the name.

Reddouble-deckerbus - The Routemaster bus characteristic of London

Simnel cake - A rich fruit cake associated with Lent and Mothering Sunday which falls in that period. In some areas simnel cakes are made for Easter, like акуліч.

Tartare sauce - A sauce made from mayonnaise and very finely chopped capers, gherkins and other proprietary ingredients.

Toadin the Hole - British sausages baked in a Yorkshire pudding-style batter, a London dish often served with onion gravy.

Union Flag - The correct name for the flag of the United Kingdom and Northern Ireland. A "jack" and hence "Union Jack" is strictly the name only for a flag hung from a ship's mast.

West End - The theatre district of London, second only to Broadway, New York, in importance.

Yorkshire pudding - A baked dish from pancake batter, usually bowl shaped.

Yule cake or Christmas cake - Rich fruit cake, often with added brandy, eaten at Xmas.

Yule log - Traditionally a log burned in a grate at Xmas but today most likely to be a chocolate cake on the shape of a log, again to be eaten at Xmas.

5.9. Have You Ever Heard About ... ?

5.9.1. What can the Sea Levels Tell about the Past Climates?

There are many methods used to find out about past climates. One of them is to study sea and lake levels. When the climate warms, the sea level rises for two reasons. Most obvious is the melting of the ice locked up in the ice caps of Atlantic and Greenland. Less obvious is the expansion of the ocean waters as they warm.

Around much of the world there are signs that lakes were considerably larger during the warm phase of 6 000 to 2 000 BC than their remnants are today. Fish remains and old-lines provide the evidence. Lake Chad on the southern edge of the Sahara is a good example. The Caspian Sea was also immense. Many Californian lakes were larger than they are now.

When the sea levels were rising between 8 000 and 5 000 BC, and the rate of rise perhaps 1 to 2m (3 to 6 ft) per century.

Vocabulary

obvious ['ɒbvɪəs] 1) явний, очевидний; помітний, видимий; 2) ясний, зрозумілий; банальний; 3) занадто очевидний remnants ['remnənts] залишки, сліди immense [ɪ'mens] 1) величезний, колосальний; 2) неосяжний, безкрайній, безмежний, нескінченний

5.9.2. The Weather

There are lots of different kinds of weather. In some parts of the world the weather does not change much from day to day. In others, it can be hard to tell what is going to happen next.

Whatever the weather, it is always made up of the same things: wind, water and heat from the Sun.

- A cloud is formed of billions of tiny droplets of water or ice.
- Cumulonimbus clouds can be as high as a mountain. They usually bring rain.
- Lightning is a spark of electricity jumping between a cloud and the ground.
- Weather vanes point into the wind. They show us where it is coming from.
- Some people believe that windy weather makes everyone bad-tempered.
- From an aeroplane you can see that rainbows actually form a complete circle.
- In some parts of the world, there are periods when it rains at the same time every day.
- Snowdrifts have been known to cover three-storey buildings.
- The South Pole is the coldest place on Earth. It is colder than a home freezer.
- A day on Earth has twenty-four hours, but how long is a day on other planets? On Pluto one day lasts six Earth days and nine hours. On Venus one day is longer than a year on our planet! Jupiter is the biggest planet, but it has the shortest day. It lasts only nine hours and fifteen minutes!

Vocabulary

cumulonimbus [ˈkju:mjʊləs] clouds дощові/купчасті хмари vane [veɪn] флюгер, вертушка bad-tempered злий, дратівливий funnel [ˈfʌn(ə)l] лійка; розтруб; димохід, труба snowdrift [ˈsnəʊdrɪft] сніговий завал; замет

Pluto [ˈplu:təʊ] Плутон

5.9.3. Moon

The Moon is the brightest object in the night sky. On some nights, the moon looks like a shining circle of light. On others, it looks like a thin, silver fingernail. However, the moon does not make its own light. The light we see comes from the sun and bounces off the moon.

If the moon and Earth were side by side, the moon would look like a tennis ball next to a basketball. It looks bigger than the stars and as large as the sun because it is closer to Earth than any other object in space. But the moon is about 400 times smaller than the sun, and it is not all that close to Earth. A rocket journey from Earth to the moon and back takes about six days.

A day on Earth has twenty-four hours, but how long is a day on other planets? On Pluto one day lasts six Earth days and nine hours. On Venus one day is longer than a year on our planet! Jupiter is the biggest planet, but it has the shortest day. It lasts only nine hours and fifteen minutes.

The moon is a huge rock that travels around Earth. Nothing lives on the moon. The moon has no air and no wind. Its surface is dry. Its sky is always black, even in the daytime, and the stars are always visible. At night, the moon's rocky surface is colder than any place on Earth. During the day, the rocks are hotter than boiling water.

Astronauts who visit the moon carry air with them to breathe. They talk to each other by radio because there is no air to carry sounds. Space suits protect astronauts from the heat and the cold.

Astronauts can walk easily on the moon, even though they wear heavy equipment. The equipment feels light because the force of gravity on the moon is weaker than gravity on Earth. Gravity on Earth keeps us from floating away in space.

Earth is not the only planet with a moon. Some of the other planets have moons, too. Jupiter has at least 16 moons. There are so many craters on the moon that the moon has craters within craters. Some craters have hills or mountains in them or around them. Some are surrounded by light gray streaks. The largest crater has a floor covered by dark lava. It forms one eye of the “man in the moon”. The face of the “man in the moon” is made by light and dark patches of gray in the moon's surface. The dark patches are flat areas of rock covered by a thin layer of rocky soil. The rocky soil of the moon has tiny round bits of glass in it. Some of the rocks are made of hardened lava. Most of the light gray parts are filled with mountains and valleys. The moon also has many big, bowl-shaped holes called craters.

Many small craters were formed when meteoroids hit the moon. Meteoroids are rocks or other objects that travel through space. Many large craters probably formed when larger objects, such as comets or asteroids, hit the moon. A few craters look like the tops of volcanoes. We cannot see all sides of the moon from Earth. The part of the moon we cannot see from Earth is called the far side. Pictures from spaceships have shown us what it looks like.

Vocabulary

force of gravity земне тяжіння crater ['kreɪtə] жерло, кратер (вулкана); кратер, чашоподібне заглиблення; воронка (від метеорита, снаряда)

gray [greɪ] = grey сірий streak [stri:k] смужка (нерівна, вигнута); жилка, прожилка patch [pætʃ] 1) латка; 2) клаптик, клапоть; шматок meteoroid ['mi:tɪə, rɔɪd] метеороїд, метеор asteroid ['æstərɔɪd] астероїд, мала планета

volcano [vɒl'keɪnəu] вулкан; вогняна гора; сопка

5.9.4. Where is the Longest River in the World?

The longest river in the world is the Nile in Africa. It is 4,145 miles long and provides water for many parts of Africa that are usually hot and dry. Many crocodiles swim in the Nile. As they work each day, farmers and fishermen living along the river banks must watch out for these creatures. The Nile starts in the centre of Africa in a country called Burundi. Then it flows north and empties into the Mediterranean Sea by Egypt.

Vocabulary

Nile [naɪl] Ніл

Burundi [bʊ'ru:ndi] Бурунді (країна у центральній Африці) empty ['empti] впадати (про ріку)

5.9.5. Why is it Cold in Winter and Hot in Summer?

The sun is a giant star in the middle of the solar system, which is our family of planets. The earth travels around the sun in a circle called an orbit. The earth is tipped at an angle as it speeds through space, and the sun heats the earth as it travels around the sun. When the part of the earth where we live is tipped nearer to the sun, our weather gets hotter, because we are closer to the sun's hot rays. Then we have summer.

But when our part of the earth is tipped farther away from the sun and its warming rays, our weather gets colder. Then it is winter.

Hot and cold weather, summer and winter - all of these changes are caused by how far away we are from the sun.

Vocabulary

solar system сонячна система orbit ['ɔ:bit] орбіта

tip [tip] нахилити

angle ['æŋg(ə)l] кут

5.9.6. Fruits & Vegetables

- that the orange, the lemon and the peach originated in China?

- that the orange tree is twenty feet high, and it gives from 3 to 4 oranges a year?

The orange trees give better fruit than the younger ones.

- that the grape is one of the oldest plants?

- that there are more than five thousand different kinds of the pear?

- that the apple-tree is one of the oldest fruit-trees? It is more than four thousand years old.

- that the banana plant grows only where there is plenty of heat and rain? Banana plants grow high. Some of them are thirty feet high, with leaves which are often ten feet long. Bananas have many uses. The ripe fruit is very nice food. Very good flour is made from dry bananas. In hot countries people make roofs for houses from the leaves of the plant.

- that the water-melon is the berry?

- that until about a century ago people thought that the tomato, though beautiful, was a poisonous fruit? People grew it in flower gardens for decoration, and called it the love apple. Then one day, nobody knows exactly how or when, some brave person took a bite, and that was not harmful. The tomato is a native of South America, but today people grow the tomato in many parts of the world.

- the biggest flower in the world is called rafflesia. It is one metre wide and it is not very pretty. But this is not the only strange thing about this flower. Rafflesia flowers have the worst smell of all!

Vocabulary

rafflesia [ræ'fli:ziə] раффлезія

5.9.7. Melons without Seeds

How do seedless watermelons grow when the watermelons come from the seeds?

Scientists have done a neat trick. They have grown watermelon vines that produce watermelons with no seeds.

To understand how this is done, you first have to know some basic ideas about how a normal seed works. Each seed contains a complete set of coding – a blueprint – for making a new plant. That coding is in a set of long, chain-like molecules. All together, that set of molecules is called the plants DNA.

When one watermelon flower is fertilized by pollen from a different watermelon plant, that flower makes new seeds. In each seed, half of the blueprint comes from one plant, and the other half comes from the other plant. That’s what happens in most plants.

To make seedless watermelons, scientists use a trick. They use a special chemical to give each seed twice as much DNA as a normal seed has. These seeds can grow into watermelon vines and make watermelons that contain seeds.

But after one of these double-DNA seeds grows into a vine and that vine is fertilized by a normal plant, the new seeds will grow into an unusual vine. The vine is healthy, but because it has one and a half sets of DNA, seeds will not form. So the vine gives seedless watermelons.

Vocabulary

vine [vaɪn] повзуча рослина або борослина, яка в’ється; лоза

blueprint [ˈbluːprɪnt] план, проект, програма; намітки

molecule [ˈmɒlɪkjʊːl] молекула pollen [ˈpɒlən] 1) квітковий пилок; 2) запилювати

5.9.8. The Unhappy Potato

People didn’t like it at first. It came to Europe from South America. A sailor brought it to Spain in 1533. But people did not want to grow it. It was not easy to make them do it. A king threatened to cut off the noses of those peasants who did not want to grow potatoes.

Other kings tried different ways. King Louis XVI of France wore potato flowers in his buttonhole, and his wife wore them on her hat. But the French peasants said that potatoes made them ill and again they did not want to grow them. The king talked with a scientist about the potato. The scientist thought that the potato could become good and cheap food.

Then the king thought of a plan. He asked the scientist to grow potato in his garden and sent the soldiers to guard it day and night. If somebody came near the garden, the soldiers shouted and told them to go away. The people became interested. “This is new potato plant!” they said. “It must be good if the king looks after it!”

In autumn the soldiers dug the potatoes and left them in the garden. When the hungry peasants took some of the potatoes they did not seem to notice it.

Soon the peasants took all the potatoes. After it people began to grow potatoes and French women learned to cook them.

Vocabulary

threaten [θret(ə)n] загрожувати; грозити buttonhole [bʌt(ə)nhooɪl] 1) петля; петелька; петлиця; 2) бутонарька

5.9.9. Big Tree, Little Tree

Why Two Maple Trees were Planted at the Same Time now Different Sizes?

There are several possible reasons why these two trees have grown to different heights. First, each tree may have inherited different characteristics from the parent trees, causing one to grow faster than the other. In many kinds of living things, including humans, sisters and brothers can be very different from one another, even though they have the same parents. Second, one tree may be in a spot where it gets more sunlight, water, or nutrients than the other. And third, the shorter tree may have insects, fungi, or other pests living off it, which would make it sick and slow to grow.

Vocabulary

maple ['meɪp(ə)l] клен А nutrients ['nju:triənts] живильні, поживні речовини

fungi ['fʌŋɡaɪ, 'fʌndʒaɪ, 'fʌndʒɪ] гриби; грибки; пліснява

5.9.10. Why is it that Women Don't Go Bald & Men Do?

In fact, about 18 per cent of women do experience hair loss under the age of 40, although it is more noticeable in men.

Like height, weight and other characteristics, baldness is genetic and can be inherited from either side of the family.

The male hormones, testosterone and dihydrotestosterone, make the hair follicle sensitive – so gradually over time the hair begins to change, becoming shorter and thinner until the follicle eventually dies.

Contrary to popular belief, baldness is irreversible, although it is possible to slow down the process.

Vocabulary

baldness облисіння

hormone ['hɔ:məʊn] гормон

testosterone [te'stəʊstərəʊn] тестостерон

dihydrotestosterone [dɪˌhaɪdrəʊtəs'tɒstərəʊn] дігідротестостерон

hairfollicle ['fɛlɪk(ə)l] волосяний фолікул, волосяна сумка

5.9.11. Amazing Water Facts

Water is the most important resource in the world. Here are interesting facts about water.

- 68.7% of the fresh water on Earth is trapped in glaciers;
- 30% of fresh water is in the ground;
- 1.7% of the world's water is frozen and therefore unusable;
- water can dissolve more substances than any other liquid including sulfuric acid;
- the freezing point of water lowers as the amount of salt dissolved in it increases.

With average levels of salt, seawater freezes at -2 °C (28.4 °F);

- about 6,800 gallons of water is required to grow a day's food for a family of four;
- to create one pint of beer it takes 20 gallons of water;
- 780 million people lack access to an improved water source;
- 1/3 what the world spends on bottled water in one year could pay for projects providing water to everyone in need;
- unsafe water kills 200 children every hour;
- water weighs about 8 pounds a gallon;
- it takes 120 gallons of water for one egg;
- a jellyfish and a cucumber are each 95% water;
- 70% of the human brain is water;
- 80% of all illness in the developing world is water related;
- up to 50% of water is lost through leaks in cities in the developing world;
- in Nairobi urban poor pay 10 times more for water than in New York;
- in some countries, less than half the population has access to clean water;
- $260 billion is the estimated annual economic loss from poor water and sanitation in developing countries;
- a person can live about a month without food, but only about a week without water;
- water expands by 9% when it freezes;
- there is about the same amount of water on Earth now as there was millions of years ago;
- the length of the side of a cube which could hold the Earth's estimated total volume of water in km = 1150;
- 85% of the world population lives in the driest half of the planet;
- agriculture accounts for ~70% of global freshwater withdrawals (up to 90% in some fast-growing economies);
- 300 tons of water are required to manufacture 1 ton of steel;
- refilling a half-liter water bottle 1,740 times with tap water is the equivalent cost of a 99 cent water bottle at a convenience store;
- it takes about 12 gallons per day to sustain a human (this figure takes into account all uses for water, like drinking, sanitation and food production);
- each day, we also lose a little more than a cup of water (237 ml) when we exhale it;
- by 2025, water withdrawals are predicted to increase by 50% in developing countries and 18% in developed countries;
- by 2025 half the world's people will live in countries with high water stress;
- the average family of four uses 180 gallons of water per day outdoors. It is estimated that over 50% is wasted from evaporation, wind, or overwatering;
- it takes more than twice the amount of water to produce coffee than it does tea;
- chicken and goat are the least water intensive meats to consume;
- hot water can freeze faster than cold water under some conditions (commonly known as the Mpemba effect);
- if the entire world's water were fit into a 4 liter jug, the fresh water available for us would equal only about one tablespoon;
- over 90% of the world's supply of fresh water is located in Antarctica;

- water regulates the Earth's temperature;
- water use has grown at more than twice the rate of population increase in the last century;
- only 0.007% of the planet's water is available to fuel and feed its 6.8 billion people;
- three quarters of all Americans live within 10 miles of polluted water;
- producing a gallon (3.79 liters) of corn ethanol consumes 170 gallons (644 liters) of water in total, from irrigation to final processing. On the other hand, the water requirement to make a gallon of regular gasoline is just five gallons (19 liters);
- over 42,000 gallons of water (enough to fill a 30×50 foot swimming pool) are needed to grow and prepare food for a typical Thanksgiving dinner for eight;
- an acre of corn will give off 4,000 gallons of water per day in evaporation;
- in a 100-year period, a water molecule spends 98 years in the ocean, 20 months as ice, about 2 weeks in lakes and rivers, and less than a week in the atmosphere;
- water is the most common substance found on earth;
- water makes up about 66% of the human body;
- there are no scientific studies that support the recommendation to drink 8 glasses of water per day;
- drinking too much water can be fatal (known as water intoxication);
- there is more fresh water in the atmosphere than in all of the rivers on the planet combined;
- if all of the water vapor in the Earth's atmosphere fell at once, distributed evenly, it would only cover the earth with about an inch of water;
- of the estimated 1.4 billion hectares of crop land worldwide, around 80% is rainfed and accounts for about 60% of global agricultural output (the other 40% of output is from irrigated crop land);
- household leaks can waste more than 1 trillion gallons annually nationwide. That's equal to the annual household water use of more than 11 million homes;
- 10% of homes have leaks that waste 90 gallons or more per day;
- a leaky faucet that drips at the rate of one drip per second can waste more than 3,000 gallons per year;
- each cubic foot of Martian soil contains around two pints of liquid water, though the molecules are not freely accessible, but rather bound to other minerals in the soil;
- there is an estimated 326 million trillion gallons of water on earth;
- NASA has discovered water in the form of ice on the moon;
- a 2.6 billion year old pocket of water was discovered in a mine, 2 miles below the earth's surface;
- two-thirds of the world's population is projected to face water scarcity by 2025, according to the United Nations;
- 1 apple requires 18 gallons of water;
- 1 pound of chocolate requires 3,170 gallons of water;
- 500 sheets of paper requires 1,321 gallons of water;

- ground water occurs almost everywhere beneath the land surface. The widespread occurrence of potable ground water is the reason that it is used as a source of water supply by about one-half the population of the United States;
- the High Plains Aquifer covers eight states and 175,000 miles.

Vocabulary

sulfuric acid сірчана кислота

5.9.12. Why is it that Some People are Left-Handed?

Some believe that it is for genetic reasons or pathological damage at birth or a young child may copy left-handed parents.

The brain is divided into two halves, with the left hemisphere, which is dominant in right-handed people, controlling the right side of the body and directing speech writing and abstract thinking.

The right, dominant in left-handed people, controls the left side of the body, and directs the non-verbal memory, emotions and concrete thinking.

As a result, left-handers are sometimes considered to be better at lateral thinking and problem solving and to be more artistic.

Vocabulary

pathological [,pæθə'lɒdʒɪk(ə)l] патологічний hemisphere ['hemisfiə] півкуля головного мозку lateral thinking нестандартне мислення

5.9.13. Cultural Differences in Body Language

Oxford University research psychologist, Dr Peter Collett, examined some of the differences in the “body language” among Europeans. Dr. Collett says that if we compare the way different European nations use gestures, they fall into three major groups.

The Nordic nations belong to the first group. These are the Swedes, Finns, Norwegians, and Danes.

They use gestures very little. The second group, which includes the British, Germans, Dutch, Belgians, and Russians, use some gestures when they are excited, or want to communicate over long distances, or insult each other.

The third group use gestures a lot, to emphasize what they are saying, or to hold the other person’s attention. They are the Italians, Greeks, French, Spanish, and Portuguese.

The distance that separates one person from another – “personal space” - also varies between people of different nationalities. What is right for one nationality may be uncomfortable for another. People stand close enough to touch each other easily in such countries as France, Spain, Greece, and Italy. British zoologist, Desmond Morris calls this the “elbow zone”. In the countries of East Europe such as Hungary, Poland, and Romania, people stand a “wrist zone”, that is a little more distant. They are close enough to touch wrists. But in the Scandinavian countries, in Britain, Holland, Belgium, and Germany, people stand further away from each other - the “fingertips zone”.

Vocabulary

Danes [deɪn] датчани

Dutch [dʌtʃ] голландці insult [ɪn'sʌlt] ображати; кривдити emphasize [emfəsaɪz] підкреслювати, надавати особливого значення, виділяти; наголошувати (на чомусь) personalspace особистий простір

elbowzone зона ліктя

wristzone зона зап'ястка

fingertipszone зона кінчика пальця

5.9.14. The Magic of Dreams

Did you know that fever, withdrawal from medication, lack of sleep, indigestion and allergies can all Cause Nightmares?

Drinking - Being thirsty in a dream means that you're a very ambitious person. For the future: drinking wine means that you will experience happiness and make new friends, whereas drinking beer means that you will be very disappointed by something soon.

Sea - In general, dreaming about the sea means that you re not satisfied with your life at the moment and need to make some changes. If you dream about a calm sea, you might begin a new relationship or business venture soon. On the other hand, a dream about a stormy sea means that you will have problems at work or at home in the near future.

Dreams of Flying are common and are very positive. Flying symbolises ambition, achievement and freedom, and dreams of flying are often enjoyed by successful people who have a high profile. Flying dreams are associated with feelings of great happiness and power. Dreaming about flying suggests that you want to escape from something in your life at the moment. If you fall while flying, you may have an accident in the future, but if you wake up before hitting the ground, you will recover.

Dreams can often warn us of forthcoming Health Problems. These often persistent dreams feature powerful symbols and leave the dreamer with a strong physical sense of foreboding upon awakening.

If you dream that your Teeth are falling out, you're going to experience big changes in your life. Dreaming that your teeth are loose means that you'll receive bad news soon. Cleaning your teeth in a dream suggests that you'll have to deal with a big struggle or conflict with your family.

Running in a dream shows that you fear something in your life at the moment. It might be a situation you don't feel ready for or something you are deeply afraid of.

As far as the future is concerned, running alone means that you'll do better in your career than your friends and running from danger means that something bad may happen to someone you love.

If you dream about finding Money, you'll have some worries in the near future, but after that you'll be very happy. If you dream about swallowing money, you're becoming selfish.

Dreaming of People You Know is your mind's way of making you aware of qualities and feelings that you desire. The qualities and feelings expressed in your dream interaction with the person you know will be those you are becoming aware of in real life ...

Dreaming of People You don't Know is a way of confronting hidden aspects of yourself. Ask yourself what this person in your dream means to you. Do you like this person? What, then, does this say about these hidden aspects of yourself?

Real physical sensations experienced by your body as you dream can influence the content of your dreams. For example, a Cold Wind Blowing Through the Window can transform itself into dreams of sailing and storms.

As Red is the colour of passion, heat, fire and anger, dreams that feature the colour red can symbolise any one of these things. It could also point to your energy levels: are you directing your energies in the most efficient way?

Finding Keys in your dream represents confidence and domestic bliss, while dreaming of broken keys symbolises jealousy or separation. Unlocking a door with a key points to the existence of new friends or even lovers!

Dreams of Pearls represent pleasure and purity, particularly if you find yourself admiring them. Discovering pearls in an oyster symbolises an uncovering of secrets.

Driving a Car in your dreams symbolises the way in which you "drive" through life. Pay attention to your driving dreams. Are you the driver or the passenger? Are you in reverse or unable to start your car? Is your foot on the brake but the car won't stop?

The Feelings you have upon awakening from a dream are the key to your understanding of the dream. You may have dreamt of being chased but woke up laughing. This dream will mean something quite different from the same dream after which you have awoken in fear.

It can be a frightening experience to Look into a Mirror in your dream and have a strange face stare back at you. This situation represents an identity crisis of some sort. Look carefully at the face in the mirror. Is this face familiar? How do you feel about the reflection?

When a Man Dreams of Babies he is usually questioning the feminine aspect of his being. Such dreams are also strongly associated with the birth of creativity in waking life. On a more literal level, men with pregnant partners are likely to have dreams that they, too, are pregnant.

Snow symbolises purification and transformation. It can also refer to icy emotions. If your dreams involve snow, you may need to look closely at your emotions. Are you 'cold' and lacking warmth?

Some people have been known to dream the names of Race Winners. While this is not terribly common, some such dreamers claim to have various strategies that could help others do the same!

Have you ever dreamt that you Missed Your Bus or misplaced your keys or were unable to make an emergency telephone call? Such dreams suggest frustration and anxiety in your waking life, and are reminders of the stresses under which you may be putting your body.

Dreams that feature a general Blackness or Black Objects are usually reflecting a feeling of depression in the waking life of the dreamer. Being a negative colour, black can also symbolise our unknown or hidden side.

Food dreams symbolise nourishment and can point to greedy behaviour or feelings of neglect in your waking life. It is also often connected with sexuality and sensuality. If you dream of food, take note of your feelings in your dream. Do you feel guilty as you eat? Are you ravenous and eat to excess?

As in real life, a Rainbow in your dreams symbolises hope, healing and new beginnings?

5.9.15. Bullfighting

Bullfighting is one of Spain's most famous spectacles. Although some Spaniards consider them to be cruel, bullfights or corridas to use the Spanish term remain popular and there are more than 400 bullrings in Spain - the largest of which has room for 20,000 spectators. During a typical bullfight, three matadors each fight two bulls. The crowd judge the matadors on their courage and elegance in the ring - and if they like what they see, they show their approval by shouting Olé!

5.9.16. The Candymaker's Witness

A candymaker in Indiana wanted to make a candy that would be a witness, so he made the famous throughout America Christmas Candy Cane on which he incorporated several symbols. He began with a hard candy stick of pure white, which symbolizes the Virgin Birth and the sinless nature of Jesus; and hard to symbolize the Solid Rock, the foundation of the Church, and the firmness of the promises of God.

This candy cane was made in the form of the letter "J" to represent the name of Jesus, who came to earth as our Savior. It could also represent the staff of the "Good Shepherd" with which he reaches down into the ditches of the world to lift out the fallen lambs who, like all sheep, have gone astray. for the birth, ministry and death of Jesus Christ. Thinking that the only white candy was somewhat plain, thecandymaker stained it with red stripes. He used three small stripes to show the stripes of the scourging Jesus and the large red stripe was for the blood that was shed by Christ on the cross so that we could have the promise of eternal life. Unfortunately, in America the candy became known only as a sweet Candy Cane - a meaningless decoration seen at Christmas time. But the meaning is still there for those who "have eyes to see and ears to hear".

5.9.17. Facts and Myths about your Health

- Garlic prevents heart disease.
- Apricot is good for your skin.
- Green tea protects your teeth.
- Brown eggs are more nutritious than white eggs.
- Onion is good for your nerves.
- Eating raw goldfish helps to gain strength.
- Milk strengthens your bones.
- Cutting out certain foods is the fastest way to a healthy diet.
- Banana is good for your muscles.
- Cabbage may help prevent the development of cancer.
- Cranberry helps soothe your tired eyes.
- Eating only one type of food, such as grapefruit, helps to lose weight.
- Eating healthy means trying to consume a little less than you'd like to.
- Carrots are good for your eyesight.
- Milk is very good for children.

5.9.18. Headaches

Beat that headache. Most of us suffer from a headache at some time or another. Take simple steps to help prevent, treat and alleviate this common, painful problem. Tension causes the vast majority of headaches. Severe headaches that recur are called cluster headaches. A migraine is a disabling headache with throbbing pain that usually begins on one side of the head. An attack can last for hours or days, is accompanied by other symptoms such as nausea and vomiting, and may be preceded by warning signs.

First Steps to Help - Identify and eliminate headache or migraine triggers. Drink 6 to 8 glasses of water a day and exercise regularly. Practise deep breathing which increases oxygen supply to the brain.

Tension Headaches - Check your work station layout. Poor posture is a major culprit. Take regular breaks, including a proper lunch break. Replace biscuits and chocolates with healthier nibbles such as dried apricots. To relieve headaches, massage essential oil of lavender on temples. Unwind at the end of the day. Plan your evening meal around a protein-rich main course, such as a simple grilled lean pork chop.

Migraine Facts and Tips - Certain foods and drinks, especially those containing compounds known as amines, are notorious migraine triggers. Avoid mature cheeses, onions, pickles, nuts, cured meats, red wine, beer, sour cream, freshly baked yeast products, citrus fruits, tomatoes, caffeinated drinks, eggs. Do eat fish rich in omega-3 fatty acids, such as salmon and tuna.

Soothing Supplements - Feverfew can reduce intensity and frequency of headaches and migraines when taken over several months. Drink chamomile tea as a general nerve tonic, to relieve pain and ease stress. Magnesium and calcium taken long-term help to maintain healthy blood vessels and reduce muscular tension.

Vocabulary

5.9.19. Ithaa Undersea Restaurant (Rangali Island, Maldives)

Ithaa is the world's first undersea restaurant. It's about five metres below the sea and has fantastic views because it has glass walls. You can sometimes see sharks! Visitors go to a small building and climb down some stairs to the restaurant. It's a really cool place to eat for up to fourteen people. The restaurant serves six courses at lunch time. It's great for really fresh fish and seafood, but they also serve meat dishes. And the desserts are delicious too. A meal costs from $90 to $200, but it worth it!

Dinner in the Sky (any city in the world)

Dinner in the Sky organizes meals in forty countries and the food is different in each place. In Hungary, for example, you can have traditional dishes like halászlé (fish soup) or pancakes with meat. In Spain, you can have paella, a traditional dish of rice with seafood. You choose a city and a menu and then Dinner in the Sky takes you fifty metres up in the sky for your meal! It's very expensive – about $30,000 for twenty-two people – but it's a wonderful experience. It doesn't matter how old you are, but you need to be at least 150 centimetres tall if you want to eat there.

's Baggers (Nuremberg, Germany)

There are twelve chefs at this restaurant, but there aren't any waiters! You order your food from touch screen computers at the table. The kitchens are upstairs. The food comes to the along long metal tracks! The food is very healthy because the chefs use only fresh local ingredients and very little fat. There are vegetarian dishes if you don't eat meat. Main courses are around $10-20 and desserts $5-7. Try the grilled pork with mushroom sauce or the spicy sausage (it has a hot strong taste!). And after your meal, you can rate the food and the experience from your touch screen!

5.9.20. Eat Out for Less

“How much is it?” In some restaurants, the answer is: “What you want to pay?” Here are some of the “Pay-what-you-want” restaurants around the world.

Der Wiener Deewan – Vienna, Austria – This is a Pakistan restaurant but it is in Vienna. You always go down the stairs to a small, cosy room but the restaurant is on three floors altogether. There are no menus and waiters don't come to ask you what you want - the food is in large, hot containers on a table and the menu changes every few hours but always with three vegetarian and two meat options. The meal then costs what you want to pay. The traditional Pakistani food is delicious but, be careful, some of it is very spicy! Try the Alu Methi Gajar – spicy but sweet vegetables - and, of course, some Pakistani rice. The restaurant “Pay-what-you-want” restaurant but also a “Play what you want” restaurant. In the evenings, you can take a djembe, an African drum, and play music with others. It's a really cool place to spend some time.

Soul Kitchen – Red Bank, New Jersey, USA – Soul Kitchen is a great place to for lunch. The menu has choices of starters, main course – fish, meat or vegetarian – and dessert. But, it doesn't have any prices. That's because you can pay what you want. The restaurant asks for $10 or more but people who haven't got $10 can eat there and work for an hour to pay for their meal. The food is healthy and local. The restaurant even has a garden and grows a lot of the vegetables that they use in their meals.

Lentil as Anything – Melbourne, Australia – This is a vegetarian restaurant in Australia's second city. In fact, there are four Lentil as Anything restaurants in the city. Nine hundred eat in the restaurant in the Abbotsford district of the city every day. The restaurants are open all day and you can eat breakfast, lunch and dinner there. They are friendly places where you can chat to other customers, listen to good music and, when you leave, you put some money in a box. The food is healthy and delicious. They don't serve meat but you can find great food with other ingredients like pumpkins. Their pumpkin curry is amazing.

Vocabulary

lentil ['lentl] сочевиця

spicy ['spaisi] приправлений спеціями, змішаний зі спеціями; пряний, ароматний

5.9.21. Are Museums Boring? We Don't Think So!

Museums are often very boring places to visit, but a few years ago some big museums started to get more visitors, especially young people. Why? There was a series of three very funny Hollywood films called Night in Museum. In the film the exhibits at the museums come alive at night! People started to get more interested in history. They wanted to visit the museums from the films.

1. American Museum of Natural History, New York

This is where they made the first film. The year after the film, twenty percent people visited the museum. There were more than five million visitors. They wanted to see exhibits like the statue of Theodore Roosevelt, the US president of the film. The museum first opened in 1896. Roosevelt's father started it. It's a wonderful place. They have got the skeleton of a very old woman – she is over three million years old! And there are very big African elephants, lots of dinosaurs and a blue whale that is more than twenty-eight metres long!

2. British museum, London

The filmed the third film in London. This museum opened in 1759. It was the first free museum in the UK and it's still free today. It's got more than seven million things to see. There are sculptures from Egypt and Italy, like in the film, and the oldest exhibit is nearly two million years old. It's a stone – one of the first human tools. More than six million people visit this museum every year. Because of the film, they are hoping to get more and more visitors.

Maybe the exhibits don't come alive, but they are certainly not boring!

3. The Black Museum

Everyone knows the New Scotland Yard. It's the home of the London Police. It's also the home of a special museum called The Crime Museum. People also called it The Black Museum. There are things in here from the most terrible crimes of the last 150 years. A policeman called Percy Neame started this strange museum in 1875. He wanted new policemen to learn from the exhibits. The Crime Museum is usually only for policemen, but today people can see 600 exhibits from The Crime Museum here at the Museum of London. There are lots of guns. But there are also some unusual things. Here are the gloves of terrible murderer. And this champagne is very old. The police found it in 1963 after the Great Train Robbery. There are some horrible weapons. And this is how some murderers died. Many exhibits are very old, but some are more modern. There is a police car from 1996. This is not a mobile phone – it's a stun gun. It stops people with electricity. The laptop is from a fire an airport in 2007. And look at this diamond – cost: about 200 million pounds! The police stopped the robbery in 2000. They changed the real diamond with this one. It's a fake. These exhibits are certainly not boring.

5.9.22. Secrets of Memory

Researchers scanned the brains of memorizers as they practiced tried-and-true memory techniques to see how their brains changed in response to their training. In five minutes, 32-year-old Boris Konrad can memorize more than 100 random dates and events. After 30 seconds, he can tell you the order of an entire deck of cards. During the 2009 German Memory Championships, Konrad memorized 195 names and faces in 15 minutes - a feat that won him a gold medal. What's it like to be born with a brain capable of such incredible feats? He says he wouldn't know.

That's because Konrad's remarkable talent wasn't innate; it was learned. "I started with a normal memory and just trained myself," he recalls. Konrad credits his subsequent success in the world of competitive memory sports to years of practice and employing memorization strategies like the ancient “Memory Palace” technique. In fact, Konrad says, any average forgetful Joe can use these same strategies to train their brains like a memory champion.

The idea that simple memory techniques can result in significant, lasting gains in the ability to memorize faces and lists may at first sound hard to believe. But a new brain imaging study that Konrad co-authored lends scientific support to the claim. Konrad, a world-ranked memory champ who has trained many memories himself over the years, teamed up with Martin Dresler, a cognitive neuroscientist at Radboud University Medical Center in The Netherlands, to delve deeper into the neuroscience behind these tried-and-true memory-boosting techniques.

For the first time, the researchers used brain imaging to reveal that practicing these kinds of mnemonic techniques can actually alter crucial connections to make memorizers’ brains more resemble those of the world’s memory champions. The results, published March 8 in the journal Neuron, shed some light on why these techniques have such a strong track record.

In the study, 23 participants who spent 30 minutes a day training their memories more than doubled their abilities to remember lists in just 40 days. (For example, those who could remember an average of 26 words from a list were able to recall 62.) Perhaps best of all, it appears that these gains aren’t short-lived and don’t require continued training: Researchers invited the group back after four months and found that their memory performance was still high, even though they hadn’t been training at all.

In recent years, Dresler and colleagues investigated 35 of those memory champions and found they share something surprising in common. “Without exception, all of them tell us that they had a pretty normal memory before they learned of mnemonic strategies and started training in them”, he says. “Also, without exception, they say the method of loci is the most important strategy”.

The “method of loci” - sometimes called the Memory Palace - is a systematic memory technique that dates back to the days of ancient Greece. The system remained prevalent through the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. Educators used it as did orators, the better to remember aspects of long speeches of a more attentive age.

In the 2011 UK Open Memory Championships held at MWB Business Exchange, competitors were tasked with remembering a 2,000 digit number and the running order of 12 packs of cards.

How does it work? Users create a visual map in the mind, like a familiar house or walking route, and then connect memorable, multisensory images to each location to retrieve them later. To remember a string of unrelated words, for example, Konrad might map the body starting with the feet, then moving to the knees, and so on. He then “places” two words at each location to memorize a list of unconnected terms.

For example, if the words for feet are “moss” and “cow”, he might picture walking on a mossy field, getting bits of moss stuck on his socks and watching a smelly cow grazing on that moss. If the next location, the knees, is assigned the words “queen and bell” Konrad then imagines walking off the moss to sit on a stump. Suddenly the Queen of England promptly appears to sit on his knee. She then pulls from her pocket a bell which she begins to ring loudly.

Absurd? Of course. But memorable, Konrad, stresses. And that's the point. The system takes advantage of the memory's strong ability to store spatial locations and make associations.

Konrad wasn't surprised that the study results showed dramatic improvements for all the subjects who put in the training time. "As it was my training paradigm we used, and I have trained many groups with it before, I at least knew it does work - and work well", he says. "So I also had the hypothesis it would have a comparable effect in the brain as within the athletes". Moreover, previous studies have chronicled the success of these kinds of memory techniques.

But until now, researchers didn't understand how they worked in the brain. So for this study, researchers decided to scan the brains of memorizers as they practiced tried-and-true memory techniques, to see how their brains changed in response to their training. They used fMRI scans to look at the brains of 23 memory competitors and 51 people who resembled them in age, health and intelligence but had only typical memory.

As far as brain structure and anatomy were concerned, the brains all looked basically the same, offering no clue to the memory mojo that some of them enjoyed. But when the average memory people divided into three groups and began to train their memories, something changed.

The control group that received no memory training, unsurprisingly, showed little to no gain in memory performance. The second group practiced memorizing challenges similar to the way one might when playing concentration, finding and remembering locations of matching cards from a deck spread across a table. They'd recalled 26 to 30 words, on average, before training. After 40 days, they'd upped that by an average of 11 words.

But those who trained using the method of loci received the real boost. That third group used a public platform called Memocamp, which Dresler chose because it's used by many champion memorizers. They more than doubled their initial memorizing ability during the 40 days.

Not only had the group's memory abilities changed - so had their brains. The FMRI images mapped blood flow and brain activity for some 2,500 different connections, including 25 that stood out as most linked with the greater memory skills displayed by the competitors. Post-training scans showed that this group's patterns of connectivity had begun to rearrange themselves in a way that the memory champions functioned, but the others groups did not.

"I think the most interesting part of our study is the comparison of these behavioral memory increases with what happens on the neurobiological level", he says. "By training this method that all the memory champions use, your changeable brain connectivity patterns develop in the direction of the world's best memory champions".

That result also says something about the origins of the champions' memorizing talent, says Umeå University neuroscientist Lars Nyberg, who wasn't involved in the study. "The finding that training can shape the brain in a similar way in non-experts supports the view that expert performance is really the result of training - not any particular abilities”, he says.

Being able to memorize long lists of names and faces might seem like a novelty, but it can have some real world applications. Users might memorize grocery lists, for example, or learn to match faces and names, which is an event at memory competitions. But those hoping that practice will help them never miss an appointment should think twice.

Monica Melby-Lervåg, at the University of Oslo, has explored how working memory training might help the cognitive development of children and adults. So far, she notes, this kind of training hasn't been shown to impact more general cognitive or memory function. “The more critical thing here is how this transfer to tasks relevant for daily life (i.e. beyond a technical memory test), and the prospects for this do not look very good based on many previous studies”, she notes.

Indeed, even the superstars of memory sport admit to having the same day-to-day brain cramps as the rest of us, from forgetting their car keys to leaving their wallet at a restaurant. So far, it appears that if memory trainers like the method of loci are valuable tools, they only work for memorizing lists and only when people actively use them.

“You do have to apply this for it to work”, says Dresler. “Your memory doesn't just get better in general. So when you don't apply this strategy, probably your memory is only as good as it was before”.

5.10. Corner of Science & Techniques

5.10.1. Some Scientific Discoveries & Names

The great pioneer of the Industrial Revolution in the 18th century was James Watt, the inventor of the steam engine. He made vast improvements to the steam engine, making it practical for large-scale industrial use. In 1764 Watt was given a Newcomer steam engine to repair. While working on the engine, he realized that it wasted energy. He eventually introduced a variety of modifications, including a separate cooling chamber for the steam that made the engine much more efficient. W. Th. Lord Kelvin, Professor of Natural Philosophy in the University of Glasgow with Professor M. Rankine founded present-day thermodynamics. He formulated the two laws of thermodynamics – “potential” and “kinetic” energy were his terms. To mention a few of his inventions - the mirror galvanometer, deep-sea sounding apparatus. He calculated that molecular motion stops at - 273°C. He called this temperature “absolute zero”, the lowest possible temperature.

Equally brilliant was the Edinburgh scholar James Clerk Maxwell, whose kinetic theory of gases and theory of the Electro-magnetic field put the way for future investigations. The results of Maxwell’s comprehensive theory of electricity and light are wireless telegraphy and the modern doctrine of relativity. The modern telephone was invented in 1876 by A. G. Bell, the vacuum flask by James Dewar.

To the same period belongs Daniel Rutherford’s discovery of nitrogen. In medicine the famous name is J. V. Simpson, who first used chloroform for the relief of pain in operations.

5.10.2. Great American Inventions

The creative genius of early American inventors laid the foundations for the modern world, as we know it. Nineteenth-century inventor Thomas Edison was one of the greatest inventors of his time - the ideas just kept coming!

Great Ideas

1807 - steamboat: Robert Fulton

1837 - telegraph: Samuel Morse

1867 - typewriter: Christopher Sholes

1876 - telephone: Alexander Graham Bell

1877 - phonograph: Thomas Edison

1879 - light bulb: Thomas Edison

1888 - roll-film camera: George Eastman

1893 - motion picture camera: Thomas Edison

1903 - airplane: Wilbur and Orville Wright

The American inventor Thomas Edison was an enterprising experimenter from an early age. Well-known for developing the first practical electric light bulb, electric generating system, sound-recording device, and motion picture projector, he patented more than 1000 inventions during his lifetime.

The best known for inventing the telegraph and the Morse Code is Samuel F.B.Morse. In 1837, the first electrical telegraph instruments were invented by Samuel Morse in the United States and by Sir Charles Whetstone and Sir William F.Cooke in Britain. Morse sent the first public telegraph message in 1844.

Einstein, Albert (1879-1955), German-born American physicist and Nobel laureate, is best known as the creator of the special and general theories of relativity.

In the 1950s, American virologist Albert Sabin developed an oral poliomyelitis vaccine containing attenuated, live viruses.

In 1909, pioneers of the growing psychoanalytic movement assembled at dark University in Worcester, Massachusetts, to hear lectures by Sigmund Freud, the founder of psychoanalysis. Freud's visit, the only one he made to the United States, broadened the influence and popularity of psychoanalysis.

5.10.3. Isaac Newton

Newton was born in Lincolnshire, England, in 1642. As a boy, he enjoyed making machines more than studying. He invented a small windmill for grinding wheat, a water clock, and a sundial. Newton became a student at Cambridge University, though he showed no particular promise. However, in just 18 months between 1665 and 1667, Isaac Newton made discoveries which changed the way we see the world.

Newton left Cambridge during an outbreak of plague and went to live in the country. During this time, he suddenly realized that the same force that pulls an object to earth also keep the moon in its orbit. This force of universal gravitation makes bodies in the universe attract each other. Newton proved that many types of motion are due to that one kind of force. He showed that the gravitational force of the sun keeps the planets in their orbits.

When Newton was 23, the sight of an apple falling from a tree caused him to question how far the force of gravity reaches. He realized that the same force that pulled the apple from the tree holds the moon in its orbit around the earth. One version of this story says the apple hit Newton on the head as he sat beneath the tree.

Newton also discovered the secrets of light and colour. And he invented a branch of mathematics called calculus, which was also devised independently by Gottfried Leibniz, a German mathematician.

Although Newton finished his first investigations on gravity and motion by 1666, nothing more was heard of them for nearly 20 years. Meanwhile, he continued to teach mathematics at Cambridge, where he was a professor.

Then one day, astronomer Edmond Halley, scientist Robert Hooke, and architect Christopher Wren were discussing the force that makes the planets move around the sun. What is it? The three men could not solve this problem. Halley went to see Newton, and found that the Cambridge professor had a complete proof of the law of gravity. Halley persuaded Newton to publish his findings, and they appeared in 1687 in Philosophiae Naturalis Principia Mathematica (Mathematical Principles of Natural Philosophy). This book was the first to present a unified system of scientific principles explaining what happens on earth and in the heavens. Modern physics would not have been possible without Newton's discoveries.

5.10.4. Edison's First Invention

When Edison was a boy of fifteen, he worked as a telegraph operator. He had to be on duty at night, from seven o'clock in the evening till seven o'clock in the morning. But at night there was never much work and the telegraph operators usually slept. So the boss ordered each operator to give a signal every hour to show that he was awake.

Edison's signals always came at the same time, at the beginning of each new hour. That surprised the boss. When the inspector opened the door, he saw Edison sleeping in his chair. The inspector was going to shake the boy when he saw a clock with a mechanism on the table near the telegraph apparatus. He waited to see what would happen. When the hand of the clock pointed to the hour, the mechanism began to work and sent a signal.

The inspector went up to the boy and shook him. Edison awoke. He was told that he had lost his job.

This story explains why the first of Edison's many inventions was never patented.

5.10.5. Micheal Faraday

One of the most prominent scientists of the 19th century, Michael Faraday made significant contribution to both physics and chemistry. He discovered the phenomenon known as electromagnetic induction by observing that a current flows in a wire that is moves through a magnetic field. His discovery of electromagnetic induction led to the invention of the electric generator.

5.10.6. George Stephenson

George Stephenson, a 19th-century English engineer and inventor, was a key figure in the development of the steam railroad in England. He was the first man who put a steam engine on wheels. The English call him the “father of railways”.

Stephenson was born in the family of a poor worker near the city of Newcastle, one of the industrial centers of England. The boy's father could not send him to school, so George helped his mother to look after the younger children in the family. His duty was to see that his little brothers and sisters did not get under the horses that pulled coal-cars on the wooden rails near his father’s house. The boy looked at those rails every day and knew how often they were repaired. He decided then that iron rails could be better.

At eight Stephenson began to work as a horse-driver in a coal-mine. The boy could not read and write but he did not forget about the iron rails. Now he thought of a steam engine which could do the work of twenty horses. He built a model in clay of such an engine. At nineteen he was put to work on a steam engine. Now he had time to learn reading and writing.

Soon he made a design of a locomotive, which moved on iron rails. But Stephenson could not build it as he had no money.

Stephenson was fifty years old when some businessman decided to build an iron railway and see how Stephenson’s locomotive worked. The first railway was built between Stockton and Darlington.

On the day when it was opened a man on a horse went in front of the engine and shouted that the train was coming. People on horses and in carriages were driving near the train. When they had gone for some time, Stephenson, who was running his locomotive, asked the horseman to go away. He put the steam on and ran his locomotive as fast as 12 miles an hour (about 20 km).

The Parliament didn't want to build railways. They said locomotive could not run against a strong wind. Then Stephenson built a new locomotive and called it The Rocket. This locomotive was faster and stronger than the first one, it could pull thirteen tons and run twenty-nine miles (46 km) an hour. This time the railway company agreed to use Stephenson's locomotive.

5.10.7. Charles Darwin

Charles Darwin's theory of natural selection became the foundation concept supporting the theory of evolution. Darwin's theory holds that environmental effects lead to varying degrees of reproductive success in individuals and groups of organisms. Natural selection tends to promote adaptation in organisms when necessary for survival. This revolutionary theory was published in 1859 in Darwin's famous treatise On the Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection.

5.10.8. Volodymyr Zvorykin & Isaac Schoenberg

Volodymyr Zvorykin and Isaac Schoenberg work to perfect all-electronic television.

Saturday 30 January, 1937, was a sad day for Scottish television pioneer John Logie Baird. That was when the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) finally abandoned his mechanical television system, with its whirring wheels and messy chemicals. He had come a long way since his first experiments with television in 1923, but it wasn't far enough. His dream was over. The future was electronic.

Three months earlier, on 2 November, 1936, the BBC had started the world's first regular, high-definition, public television broadcasting service. In alternate weeks it used two different sets of equipment. The idea was to test two rival systems. One was Baird's; the other had been created by a team at Electrical and Musical Industries (EMI) led by Russian-born engineer Isaac Schoenberg. The all-electronic EMI system won easily. Its pictures were sharper, its cameras were more mobile, it was more reliable, and it cost less. In all but detail, it was the system we use today.

Shoenberg's team had been formed five years earlier. They had worked with remarkable speed, but they weren't the first to research into all-electronic television. On the other side of the Atlantic, a lone pioneer. Philo T. Farnsworth, had started work on his electronic "image dissector" in 1926. He gave the first demonstration of all-electronic television in 1934. Unfortunately, his cameras needed too much light, and his work came to a dead end.

Modern television owes far more to another US engineer, Russian-born Volodymyr Zworykin. He was the first to take up the suggestion, made in 1908 by Scottish engineer Alan Campbell Swinton, that a cathode ray tube could create as well as display pictures. In 1929, Zworykin took charge of television development at the Radio Corporation of America.

By 1931, he and his team had created the first successful electronic camera tube, the Iconoscope. Schoenberg's team later used Zworykin's basic idea to develop their own Emitron tube, which formed the heart of the cameras they designed for the BBC.

On 1 September, 1939, as war gripped Europe, the BBC television service was closed down. Just four months earlier, the USA's first regular television service had started, when the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) broadcast the opening of the New York World's Fair. Zworykin, Schoenberg, and a host of other engineers and enthusiasts had finally made the dream of television come true.

The two main pioneers of all-electronic television were both born in Russia. Schoenberg was born in 1880, and Zworykin in 1889. Schoenberg emigrated to Britain in 1914 and Zworykin to the USA in 1919. It was Zworykin who developed the first successful camera tube. It scanned the image with a beam of electrons. Tubes of this type were highly sensitive and could show fine detail.

Regular television broadcasts began later in the USA than in Britain, but the system there expanded more quickly. This National Broadcasting Company studio, equipped by the Radio Corporation of America, is seen in 1939, carrying on where war had forced the BBC to stop.

5.10.9. Christopher Columbus

Christopher Columbus was looking for a new way of reaching countries in the East, such as India and China. Many people of the time believed that the world was flat. Columbus thought it was round. He believed that if he sailed west and kept going, he would eventually come to India! He was right, but he did not realize that North and South America were in the way. He accidentally discovered that they were there. Columbus made a further three voyages to the West Indies and South America. However the continents he found do not bear his name. They are named after Amerigo Vespucci, another Italian sailor.

5.10.10. Explorers and Discoverers

Explorers help us to learn about our world. They go to new places, open up new routes for trade, meet new people and study unknown plants and animals. In the past, some people travelled looking for wealth; others were looking for glory for themselves or for their countries. Others went in search of adventure and interesting discoveries.

- six hundred years ago European sailors would not go past the equator for fear of monsters and boiling seas;
- in 1611, Henry Hudson and his son were cast adrift in a small boat by his crew. They were never seen again;
- in the 14th century Ibn Battuta crossed the dangerous Sahara desert. He went with traders, so that he would be safe from bandits;
- Christopher Columbus was lost when he discovered the West Indies in 1492. He thought he had reached the East and was in India;
- in 1835 the naturalist, Charles Darwin, saw birds and animals on the Galapagos Island that did not exist anywhere else in the world;
- in 1871, a fisherman found a hut in the Arctic built by the Dutch explorer Willem Barents 274 years earlier. His ship had become trapped by ice, as he tried to travel east to China;
- in 692 AD a Chinese monk named Hsuan-tang went travelling. He returned 16 years later in a chariot pulled by 20 horses and piled high with books;
- Marco Polo left Italy for China in 1271 when he was 17. He was away from home for 24 years. On his return to Italy in 1295, he wrote a fascinating book about his travels;
- underwater explorers have visited the deepest part of the Pacific Ocean. It is about 11 kilometres down;
- the explorer Richard Burton spoke more than 30 languages. In 1853, he travelled to Mecca disguised as an Afghan pilgrim;
- Captain James Cook's famous voyage (1769 - 1771) was a scientific expedition to Tahiti, New Zealand and Australia. Over 700 species of plants were collected;
- Mary Kingsley travelled alone in West Africa in the 19th century. She met African tribes and brought home many animals for others to study;
- in 1911, Roald Amundsen and Robert Scott raced each other to the South Pole. Amundsen's Norwegian team won by five weeks.

5.10.11. “Audible Alibis” for Phone Cheats

For liars and cheats, mobile phones are already an invaluable tool.

Now, a Romanian firm is making them even more useful, by providing a host of “audible alibis” to help users persuade their bosses, lovers, friends and foes that they are where they say they are.

If you oversleep, you can phone into work from home and claim to be stuck in a traffic jam; the Sound Cover software will provide all the necessary hooting and engine noise to make the lie convincing. Other background sounds include “storm”, “at the park”, “at the dentist” and “circus parade”.

There is also a “phone ring” facility, which programmes a telephone to start ringing incessantly in the background 15 seconds into the call, providing the perfect excuse to cut short, or get rid of a talkative friend. Such skullduggery costs £9.95 and can be downloaded from the internet.

Vocabulary

5.10.12. What Do People Use Computers for?

A word processor is a computer use to prepare documents or letters, or the software that is used for this purpose. Many people use their computers for word processing, e.g. writing letters and reports. A lot of business people use spreadsheets - a program used to enter and arrange numbers and financial information and databases - programs which allow you to store, look at and or change a large amount of information quickly and easily. Some people also use graphics - the pictures and symbols a computer program can produce.

More and more people are becoming computer-literate – they have experience of working with computers and know how to use them, as many programs and machines are so user-friendly - easy to use.

You can now connect your computer to computers all over the world using the Internet - a system that allows computers to connect using telephone lines. People send each other e-mail - electronic mail messages using this system of network.

If your computer is slow it may need more memory. It may crash - stop working if there is not enough memory or of it has a bug - a software problem; also a virus. Make sure you make a back-up copy of your work (or an extra copy on a floppy disk).

There were two interesting items in the paper some time ago. One was about a man who received a bill from the telephone company for $999,999,00 for three months! The other was about a man who received $2,000 a month - for doing nothing.

The connection between the two news items is simple: computers - the worst invention of the 20th century. The telephone bill came from a computer which made a horrifying mistake: the man's real bill was only $21,36. The other item was not so amusing. A man walked into the unguarded computer room of a large packaged food company and expertly programmed the computer to pay him $2,000 a month for raw meat which he “supplied” to the company. The computer wrote out a cheque, and even “signed” it. It was only a random check that uncovered the trick. It could be happening in thousands of other companies all over the world.

Computers are not the miracle-workers that some people say they are. They make mistakes, they're often slower than humans, and they're easily fooled. The US army used to conscript people with the help of a computer. The army sent out a card, which had to be filled in and sent back. It was easy to avoid being called up, simply by dripping candle-wax on the card. The computer couldn't read the card, and did nothing with it.

5.10.13. The Ball-Point Pen

A Hungarian Laszlo Biro made the first ball-point pen in 1323. But only in 1944 the British Army bought thirty thousand pens because soldiers could write with them outside in the rain. At the end of the war “Biros” this kind of pen became quickly very popular all over the world. In 1948 a shop in New York sold ten thousand of pens per day.

5.10.14. Inventions That Changed the World

From ancient tools to the latest digital advances, human inventions that changed the world and transformed life on the Earth.

Human inventions and technologies have shaped civilizations and transformed life on the Earth. As expectations and capabilities evolve, each new generation possesses its own set of innovative thinkers.

Right from the invention of the wheel to the development of Mars rover, several inventions are revolutionary.

Most major inventions don't have one inventor. Throughout the years, many innovative inventors have had their hand in both the elevation and evolution of an invention.

Here is a list of the top picks of revolutionary inventions that change the world:

Wheel - The wheel stands out as the OG of engineering marvels and one of the most famous inventions that influenced numerous other things. This primitive technology made it easier for all of us to travel. From the archeological excavations, the oldest known wheel is from Mesopotamia, around 3500 B.C.

As a result of advancement in the new and innovative design of wheels, industrialization could take root.

The wheel serves a vital purpose in our lives, and we couldn't imagine the world without them.

Compass - Created for spiritual and navigational purposes, the earliest compasses were most likely invented by the Chinese in around 1050 BC. It was made of lodestones, which is a naturally magnetized iron ore.

The invention of the electromagnet in 1825 led to the development of the modern compass.

The invention of the compass certainly helped modern navigation more than our GPS-needing culture could understand.

Automobile - Although the foundation to the modern car year was laid in 1886 by German inventor Karl Benz, Cars did not become widely available until the early 20th century. Henry Ford innovated mass-production techniques that became standard, with Ford, General Motors, and Chrysler. However, he certainly wasn't the only person to develop the horseless carriage.

The history of the automobile reflects a worldwide evolution. Dozens of spin-off industries blossomed creating thousands of new jobs. Oil and steel became two well-established industries.

Vehicle production and sales are one of the major indicators of economic status. Moreover, it influenced the technological advances in petroleum refining, steel making, paint and plate-glass manufacturing, and other industrial processes.

Steam Engine - Thomas Savery patented the first practical steam engine in 1698. It was one of the greatest inventions made by a man making him one of the people who has changed the world.

Later in 1781, James Watt patented an improved steam engine and went on to fuel one of the most momentous technological leaps in human history during the Industrial Revolution.

During the 1800s these engines lead to an improvement in transportation, agriculture, and manufacturing industries.

Later, the steam engine's basic principle set the stage for innovations like internal combustion engines and jet turbines, which prompted the rise of cars and aircraft during the 20th century.

Concrete- Concrete is one of the most widely used man-made materials. It's a composite material composed of rough composite bonded together with a fluid cement which hardens over time.

Most concretes used are lime-based, asphalt concrete, and polymer concretes. Earlier, Limestone was used as a crude cement. As the materials and combinations improved, modern concrete was invented.

One of the key ingredients of concrete is cement. The foundation to cement was laid in 1300 BC.

Middle eastern builders coated the outside of their clay fortresses with a thin, and moist burned limestone, which chemically reacted with gasses in the air to form a hard, protective surface.

Around 6500 DC, the first concrete-like structures were built by the Nabataea traders or Bedouins in the southern Syria and northern Jordan regions.

By 700 BC, the significance of hydraulic lime was known, which led to the development of mortar supply kilns for the construction of rubble-wall houses, concrete floors, and underground waterproof cisterns.

By 3000 BC, the Egyptians were using early forms of concrete to build pyramids.

In 1824, the most used Portland cement was invented by Joseph Aspdin of England. George Bartholomew had laid down the first concrete street in the US during 1891, which still exists.

By the end of the 19th century, the use of steel-reinforced concrete was developed. In 1902, using steel-reinforced concrete, August Perret designed and built an apartment building in Paris. This building a wide admiration and popularity to concrete and also influenced the development of reinforced concrete.

In 1921, Eugène Freyssinet pioneered the use of reinforced-concrete construction by building two colossal parabolic-arched airship hangars at Orly Airport in Paris.

Petrol - Without gas, there wouldn't be the first industrial revolution in the automobile industry.

Gasoline is a fuel derivative of oil, which is shortly called “gas” in the United States and “petrol,” in other places around the world.

To be more specific, petrol is a transparent, petroleum-derived liquid that is used as an essential fuel in internal combustion engines.

Petrol is the natural by-product and the invention here we are talking about is the numerous processes to improve the quality.

Do you know, gas was initially discarded?

During 1859, in Pennsylvania, Edwin Drake dug the first oil well and refined the oil to produce kerosene. Although the distillation produced gas, he discarded it as he was unaware of it. Until 1892, the prominence of gas wasn't recognized. The first gas pump was manufactured by Sylvanus Bowser on September 5, 1885.

The year 1970 gained attention towards environmental protection.

Railways- Railways is a mode of transport which can carry a large number of passengers with ease of comfort and/or heavy loads to long distances.

Modern trains history is around 200 years old, which revolutionized the way we travel. Distant lands become possible, industries are powered with an infinite amount of raw materials. Earlier mode of transport was carts pulled by animals.

During 1500 -1800, wagonways were common in Europe, which was used in mining. After the invention of the Steam engine, more researchers were carried out throughout the world for a better design.

The commercial appearance of train networks came in the late 1820s, and the pioneer in that field was inventor George Stephenson, with his design 'Rocket', the most famous early railway locomotive. This gained rapid expansion across newly acquired lands. In 1821, Stephenson was appointed as an engineer for the construction of the Stockton and Darlington railway, which was opened as the first public railway in 1825.

The grand success of “Rocket” and opening of the Stockton to Darlington railway line energized railway industry. Railways reached another important chapter in the history, with the invention of Diesel Engine.

Airplane - On December 17, 1903, Wilbur and Orville Wright achieved the first powered, sustained and controlled airplane.

While flying machines had been dreamt up since da Vinci's time, the Wright Brothers became the biggest successes. Beginning with gliders, the duo laid the foundation for modern aeronautical engineering.

Additionally, new business boomed along with a number of people being trained to fly planes. The possibility to fly over thousands of miles in less time would not have been made possible if the aircraft were not invented.

Fire - Though fire is a natural phenomenon, its discovery marked a revolution in the pages of history.

All thanks to our ancestors for leading us to the controlled use of fire which helps us from colorful lighting to delicious cooking. In addition, the biography of various landscapes was altered by fire.

Ancient people might have become acquainted with fire derived from natural sources. Later came the processes of making fire artificially.

This remarkable control of fire happened during Early Stone Age by Homo erectus. The earliest evidence comes from Kenya region. Although fire could have been used about 1 million years ago, evidence of cooked food is found from 1.9 million years.

From the past to the present Fire has been in rituals, agriculture, cooking, generating heat and light, signaling, various industrial processes, cremation, and as a weapon or medium of destruction.

Nail - The sophisticated human life would not have been possible without the invention of a small nail. They provide one of the best clues in determining the age of historic buildings.

Prior to the invention of nails, wood structures were built by geometrically interlocking adjacent boards. The invention of nails goes back to several thousand years and was possible only after the development of casting and shaping a metal.

Around 34000 BC, Bronze nails were found in Egypt. According to the University of Vermont, the hand-wrought nails were a norm until the 1790s and early 1800s. By 1913, 90 percent of nails produced in the U.S. were steel wire nails.

Other types of nails include pins, tacks, brads, and spikes with wire nails being popular.

Tools - The usage of tools started 2.6 million years back in Ethiopia.

Anthropologists believe the use of tools became an important step in the evolution of mankind. Earlier materials such as sticks and stones made tools.

The invention of machine tools advanced the industrial revolution.

Imagine how would we build or maintain previous innovations without a handy hammer.

Light Bulb - The energy we use today at home and office is a bright idea from more than 150 years ago.

Pioneered in the early 19th century by Humphry Davy, electric lights developed throughout the 1800s and was one of the most influential, great inventions of all times.

Edison and Swan patented the first light bulb in 1879 and 1880. In the mid-1980s, CFLs hit the market. But the drawbacks such as high cost, bulky, low light output, and inconsistent performance made them less prominent. Currently, LEDs offer the best energy savings on the market.

However, the invention of the bulb electrified new businesses. It also led to new energy breakthroughs such as power plants, electric transmission lines, home appliances etc.

Electricity- Electricity has become the basic need for day to day life. It's been there around all along but the practical applications to effectively use it was invented. Although many use electricity, how many of you know the evolution of electricity?

Alessandro Volta discovered the first practical method of generating electricity.

1831 is marked the year of major breakthrough for electricity. A British scientist Michael Faraday discovered the basic principles of electricity generation.

The electromagnetic induction discovery revolutionized the energy usage.

Street lights were some of the earliest attention gaining equipment. With the rise in electricity usability, now it stands as a backbone of modern industrial society.

With increased mobility, human life has become dependent on electricity.

Battery- The prehistoric battery dates back to the Parthian empire, which might be 2,000 years old.

The old battery consisted of a clay jar filled with a vinegar solution, into which a copper cylinder surrounded iron rod was inserted.

These batteries might have been used to electroplate silver.

The inventor of the first electric battery is Alessandro Volta. He also laid the foundation of Electrochemistry.

The mass production of the first electric battery began in 1802 by William Cruickshank.

The history of batteries marked a remarkable date in 1859, with the invention of the first rechargeable battery based on lead acid by the French physician Gaston Planté. The Nickel-Cadmium (NiCd) battery was introduced in 1899 by Waldemar Jungner.

Printing press- Before the Internet's ability to spread information, the printing press helped information travel around the globe.

Developed around 1440 in Mainz, Germany, Johannes Gutenberg's machine improved on already existing presses.

By 1500 Gutenberg presses were operating throughout Western Europe with a production of 20 million copies.

By 1600, they had created over 200 million new books.

Morse Code and Telegraph- The telegraph was developed around 1830 - 1840 by Samuel Morse and other inventors, which revolutionized long-distance communication.

The electrical signals were transmitted by a wire laid between stations. In addition, Samuel Morse developed a code, called Morse code, for the simple transmission of messages across telegraph lines. Based on the frequency of usage, the code assigned a set of dots (short marks) and dashes (long marks) to English alphabet and numbers.

The telegraph laid major foundations for modern conveniences like telephones and (some scholars argue) coding for the Internet.

Steel - While the early ages used stone, bronze, and iron, it was steel that fired the industrial revolution. As per archaeological excavations, the earliest known production of the metal dates back to 4,000 years.

The invention of the Bessemer Process (a technique for creating steel using molten pig iron) paved the way for the mass production of steel, making it one of the biggest industries on the planet. Now steel is used in the creation of everything from bridges to skyscrapers.

Transistors - The transistor is an essential component in nearly every modern electronic gadget.

In 1926, Julius Lilienfeld patented a field-effect transistor, but the working device was not feasible.

In 1947 John Bardeen, Walter Brattain, and William Shockley developed the first practical device at Bell Laboratories.

It then won the trio 1956 Nobel Prize in physics.

Transistors have become a fundamental piece of the circuitry in countless electronic devices including televisions, cell phones, and computers making a remarkable impact on technology.

Antibiotics- Antibiotics saved millions of lives by killing and inhibiting the growth of harmful bacteria.

Louis Pasteur and Robert Koch first described the Antibiosis (phenomena of antibiotic drug) in 1877.

In 1928, Alexander Fleming set the first leap in antibiotics by identifying penicillin, the chemical compound with antibiotic properties.

Throughout the 20th century, antibiotics spread rapidly and proved to be a major living improvement, fighting nearly every known form of infection and protecting peoples' health.

Films - Almost everyone loves to watch movies of various sorts like a love story, comedy, drama, horror, suspense, action, fiction, biography etc. A film is also called a movie, motion picture, theatrical film, photoplay, flick. The name "film" originates from the fact that a photographic film has been the medium for recording and displaying motion pictures.

An Early inspiration for movies were the plays and dance, which had elements common to film: scripts, sets, costumes, production, direction, actors, audiences, and storyboards.

Later in the 17th century, the lanterns were used to project animation, which was achieved by various types of mechanical slides.

Much later in 1839, Henry Fox Talbot makes an important advancement in photography production.

The year 1846 was important for the development of motion pictures. The first movie ever made is the horse in motion. In March 1895, the first film with a Cinématographe camera was shot on La Sortie de leucine Lumière a Lyon (Workers leaving the Lumière factory at Lyon).

With time, the movies evolved with sound, music, color, and advanced technology.

X-rays- Of course, x-rays are a phenomenon of the natural world, and thus can't be invented. But they were discovered accidentally.

The invisible was made visible in 1895. X-ray is undoubtedly one of the epoch-making advancement in the field of medicine.

All credits to physicist Wilhelm Conrad Rontgen. While testing whether cathode rays could pass through glass, he noticed a glow coming from a nearby chemically coated screen. Because of their unknown nature, he named it as X-rays. Through his observation, he learned that X-rays can be photographed when they penetrate into human flesh.

In 1897, during the Balkan war, X-rays were first used to find bullets and broken bones inside patients. In 1901, he received the Nobel prize in physics for his work.

Refrigerator - Over the last 150 years, refrigeration offered us ways to preserve food, medicines, and other perishable substances. Before its conception, people cooled their food with ice and snow.

James Harrison built the first practical vapor compression refrigeration system. However, the first widespread refrigerator was the General Electric "Monitor-Top" refrigerator of 1927. While it helped to rev up industrial processes, it became an industry itself.

Television - Television! A small box with enormous information that changed entertainment and communications forever.

The invention of the television was the work of many individuals. Although TV plays an important part in our everyday lives, it rapidly developed during the 19th and the 20th century.

The first television camera was invented by two men without knowing that they both are working on the same one (No TV to communicate them the news); Vladimir Zvorykin and Philo Taylor. In 1884, Paul Gottlieb Nipkow created and patented the first television which he called the electromechanical television system.

Though Color TV was not a new idea, in 1925 Zvorykin filed a patent for an electronic color television system. Over time, television will gain political importance as every country started to share their political agenda through it.

TV also became a good way of preserving peace and order.

Camera - The camera is undoubtedly one of the most cherished creations.

Cameras have witnessed many phases of evolution – camera obscura, daguerreotypes, dry plates, callotypes, film to SLRs and DSLRs. In 1826, Joseph Nicéphore Niépce used a sliding wooden box camera made by Charles and Vincent Chevalier to click the first permanent photograph.

With the technological advancements, digital cameras were introduced to save pictures on the memory cards rather than using films.

The history of the digital camera began with Eugene F. Lally idea to take pictures of the planets and stars while traveling through space.

Later, Steven Sasson a Kodak engineer invented and built the first digital camera in 1975. Though the digital camera ruled over the traditional camera, the most revolutionary aspect has been the advent of the camera phone.

Now, every smartphone has an inbuilt camera and is able to take images. With the growing demand, video recording was also made a part of it.

At present, the camera comes with inbuilt GPS system and real-time geotagging options. Freeze the great moments from your life in the form of photographs with better quality and superior handling digital camera. One doesn't have to look much further than a photo album to see that cameras are one of the great inventions that changed the world.

Computer - Major shoutout to the mechanical engineer Charles Babbage for laying the foundation to this remarkable and most reliable invention. In the early 19th century, the “father of the computer” conceptualized and invented the first mechanical computer. Although there's no single inventor of the modern computer, the principle was proposed by Alan Turing in his seminal 1936 paper.

Today, computers stand as the symbolic representation of the modern world.

E-mail - During 1969, shortly after the creation of ARPANET, experimental email transfers between separate computer systems began.

Before email, sending an important document overseas involves a chaotic process. Now communication is one click away. The first substantial use of email began in the 1960s. By mid-1970s, it had taken the recognized form. The present-day most of the official business communication depends on email.

Now, email is available on plenty of friendly web interfaces by providers such as Gmail, Outlook, Yahoo, Hotmail, etc. This excellent medium of communication is well adopted by millions of people.

Internet- Unlike the bulb or the telephone, the Internet has no single “inventor”. Instead, it has evolved over time. It started in the United States around the 1950s, along with the development of computers.

Since the mid-1990s, the Internet has had a revolutionary impact on technology, including the rise of electronic mail, instant messaging, voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) telephone calls, and two-way interactive video calls.

World Wide Web – The Internet is a networking infrastructure. Whereas the World Wide Web is a way to access information over the medium of the Internet.

The father of the World Wide Web is a British Computer Scientist, Tim Berners-Lee. While working as a software engineer at CERN in Geneva, Switzerland, Tim noticed that the difficulty in sharing information.

In 1989, this leads to a proposal “Information Management: A Proposal”. However, it was not immediately accepted.

By October 1990, three Tim laid the foundation to the web through HTML, URL, and HTTP technologies.

April 1993, marked an important step in the history of Web. The decision to use the web for free was announced.

To this day, the Web gleamed an encyclopedic wave of inventiveness. The web rapidly changed the traditional way and influenced the development of various industries. For example, it led to the development of online education and economy; the best way to promote your company in 2017 is through Google search.

People can read or watch any types of content online whether through a site or social media such as Facebook and Twitter.

Banknote - From materials like livestock to precious metals and coins, currency took various forms throughout history. Due to frequent shortages of coins, banks issued paper notes as a promise against payment of precious metals in the future.

The idea of using a light-weight substance as money originated in China during the Han Dynasty in 118 BC. Through travelers, Europe was introduced to this system in the 13th century.

The switch to paper money relieved governments during crisis time. Thus, it changed the face of the global economy with a vital step in a new monetary system.

Credit Cards - During the dawn of the 20th century, people paid for everything with cash.

The idea of credit cards started around 1950 by Ralph Schneider and Frank McNamara, founders of Diners Club, to consolidate multiple cards.

While technology continues to advance, the idea of paying for daily purchases with a card has now become the norm.

ATM (Automated Teller Machine) - The invention of ATM is amongst the most important inventions ever made.

In the present world, ATMs steered the banking into a new concept of self-service. According to the ATM Industry Association (ATMIA), there are now over 2.2 million ATM machines installed worldwide.

Using ATM, customers make a variety of transactions such as cash withdrawals, check balances, or credit mobile phones. Many experts believe that the first ATM was the creation of Luther Simjian, called Bankograph.

In 1967, John Shepherd-Barron came up with a bright idea of money vending machine, which was implemented a London bank called Barclays. Earlier machines used paper vouchers instead of plastic cards.

The customer entered an identification code and can draw a maximum of £10 at a time. Dallas Engineer Donald Wetzel devised the first automated banking machine in the U.S.

Telephone and Mobile Phones - "Mr. Watson, come here, I want you." On March 10, 1876, these were the first words spoken by telephone inventor.

Alexander Graham Bell through his device to his assistant Thomas Watson. Telephone history conceivably started with the human desire to communicate far and wide. With the arrival of the mobile phone in the 1980s, communications were no longer restrained.

The clever invention of cellular network supported the revolution of the telephone industry. Starting from bulky mobiles phones to ultrathin handsets, mobiles phones have covered a long way so far.

John F. Mitchell and Martin Cooper of Motorola demonstrated the first handheld device in 1973.

Scientists continue to create new ideas that will further help users.

Robot- Robotic devices often perform complicated, repetitive, and sometimes dangerous tasks. The word Robot evokes various devices ranging from a cooking device to the Rover.

The word "robot" first appeared in R.U.R. (Rossum's Universal Robots), a play was written by Czech playwright Karl Capek in 1921. Coincidentally, the word “robotics” was also coined by a science-fiction writer Isaac Asimov in his short story “Runabout”, published in 1942.

Around 3000 B.C, human figurines were used to strike the hour bells in the Egyptian water clocks. This marked the first mechanical design. As the time flew, more designs and devices were evolved. But Robotics advanced scientifically in the 20th century.

The foundation to modern robots was laid in the 1950s by George C. Devol, who invented and patented a reprogrammable manipulator called “Unimate”, from “Universal Automation”.

In the late 1960s, Joseph Engleberger acquired the patent and modified them into Industrial robots. This effort made him “the Father of Robotics”. Who knows! Someday robots might outsmart us and make us completely technology dependents. They are truly inventions that changed the world!

Guns- For some guns might be a sensational invention while for others it might be a dreadful invention.

Weapons have been the primary tools since ancient age. But, it is an undeniable fact that the Guns have revolutionized the world.

The earliest usage of a firearm might have been in China during the 13th century CE. In earlier days, guns were fired by holding a burning wick to a “touch hole” in the barrel igniting the powder inside.

The first machine gun is the matchlock, which dates to 1400s. By the 12th century, the technology started spreading to Asia, followed by Europe. The problem of loading and reliability was solved by the invention of a hand-driven machine gun called Gatling gun. It was invented by Richard J. Gatling during the American Civil War. As the tech continued to evolve, each following model became more deadly.

5.11. Prove It Yourself

5.11.1. Watermarks

Here is an interesting way to write a secret letter.

You do it with the help of watermarks. If you collect stamps, you know what a watermark is. On every stamp there is a mark, which you cannot see. You can see it only when you put the stamp in water. This mark is called "watermark". The watermark proves that you have a real stamp. People make watermarks on stamps by applying pressure reflect light in a different way when they are wet.

It is easy to make watermarks and use them to write a secret letter. You put a sheet of paper in water, then take it out quickly and put it on a sheet of glass or a mirror.

Put a dry sheet of paper on top of it. Now you may write on the dry sheet. You must use a hard pencil to apply pressure. When you raise the dry sheet you will find that you can see everything you have written on the wet sheet. When your wet paper becomes dry, you will not see anything, but the text will appear again if you put a sheet of paper in water and take it out quickly. Try it and see how it works!

5.11.2. "Subjective Colour"

To show this interesting phenomenon which scientists call "subjective colour" Copy the circle, which you see in the picture and put it on cardboard. Push a pin through the centre and turn it quickly. You will see many circles of different colours. Now change the direction and the order of colours will also change.

A few years ago a television operator turned a large wheel of this sort, and people who were watching this programme saw the colours quite clearly on their black-and-white television screens.

Scientists have not agreed on what makes these colours appear.

5.11.3. The Turnaround Card

You need: Three court cards from a pack; a volunteer from the audience.

No magic act is complete without some card tricks. Here is the simplest trick of all.

You place three court cards (kings / queens / jacks) face upwards in a row. You ask a member of the audience to reverse one of the cards while your back is turned. To everyone's amazement you are able to tell which one.

The secret of this trick is very simple. If you look carefully at the court cards in a pack, you will see that the white margin is often wider on one side than the other. Choose three cards like this and, when you put them down in a row, just make sure that all the narrow sides are towards the right. Then when the card has been turned, that card will have its narrow margin on the left.

Vocabulary

turnaround перевернутий

court cards фігурна карта в колоді reverse[ri'vz:s]міняти (на протилежний); повністю змінювати; перевертати

5.11.4. A Strange Fact about Paper

How many times do you think you can fold a piece of paper? It may make fewer folds than you think.

Give somebody a small piece of paper and ask him to fold it eight times. He will be able to fold it six or seven times, because the paper simply won't fold any more.

"Yes," your friend says, "this is a small peace of paper."

Well, and then give him a newspaper of two full pages. He will think he can do better. But no matter how big a piece of paper is, he will not be able to fold it more than seven times.

Why? Because on the eighth fold paper will come to 128 thicknesses. But paper cannot be folded so many thicknesses.

Vocabulary

but no matter how big незалежно яког розміру

5.11.5. The Disappearing Rabbit

To make this rabbit in the picture disappear you mustn't be a magician. You must make the following simple experiment and the rabbit will disappear at once.

For the experiment you need a glass, a saucer and the picture of the rabbit.

Now put this book on the table. Fill the glass with water and put the saucer on the glass.

Then put the glass on the circle with the rabbit's picture. At once the rabbit will disappear. You can look into the glass again and again but you will not see the rabbit.

Why? The rays from the rabbit's picture pass through the sides of the glass and are bent upward when they come into the air.

So you can see the rabbit (or it is better to say the rays from the rabbit's picture) only if you look down from above, but the saucer does not let do that.

There is no place from which you can see these rays, and so you can not see the rabbit.

5.11.6. Do your fingers always obey you?

You can have a lot of fun with this experiment.

Ask someone to put his hands together as you see at the first picture. Tell him to separate his hands, which he will do easily.

Picture 1.

Picture 2.

Then ask him to put out the middle finger of each hand and put his hands together again as in the second picture. Tell him to separate the two fingers without separating his hands.

He will try to do this, but will not be able to do so. The more he tries to separate the fingers the more they will stay together.

5.11.7. The Amazing Educated Arm

You need: a volunteer from the audience.

This trick is very effective. It really looks as if your victim's arm is obeying your commands. Stand your victim very close to a wall, with his/her right side next to the wall and his/her right wrist actually touching the wall. Your victim must push outwards as hard as possible with the arm, but not the body, as if trying very hard to push the wall away.

Make sure your victim really is pushing. Say: "Push! Press really hard!" Then ask him / her to step away from the wall and let the arm hang by his/her side. At once say: "Arm up! Float away!" Your victim must not try to stop it; he/she must just relax. To everyone's amazement the arm will rise away from your victim's body. Try it yourself. It is a strange feeling. It is a good idea to try this several times yourself, to see how hard you need to press against the wall, and to experience the floating feeling.

Vocabulary

obey[ə(u)'beɪ] слухатися, коритися, підкорятися; керуватися; слідувати educated тренований

experience[ɪk'spi(ə)riəns] випробувати, зазнавати, пережити, відчувати float away плавно опускати

5.12. From the History of Some Toys

5.12.1. LEGO Toys

It may be hard to imagine today, but the entire LEGO company started very small. Ole Kirk Christiansen was a carpenter in Billund, Denmark who opened a woodworking shop in 1916. He and his team of apprentices built furniture for people in the area. In 1924, a fire burned down his woodworking shop, because his two young sons had lit a small fire. Christiansen, seeing the good side of this, replaced his old woodworking shop with a bigger one and expanded his business.

The Great Depression hit many companies, and Christiansen's was no exception. To lower prices, he made small models of his products as design aids. These would go on to inspire him to make toys later on. His shop made small wooden toys, such as piggy banks and trucks, and he had modest success. However, he still had to make furniture to stay in business.

In 1934, Christiansen coined the company name LEGO from the Danish words leg godt, meaning play well. He also said it meant "I assemble" in Latin, though the translation is more similar to "I read" or "I gather". At this time, his son Godtfred started to take an active role in his father's company.

When plastic came into widespread use, LEGO stayed with the times and made plastic toys. One of the first was a plastic truck that could be taken apart and reassembled, similar to the basis behind modern LEGO bricks.

In 1953, these bricks were renamed LEGO Bricks. In that time, plastic toys were viewed as inferior to wooden ones. As a result, LEGO Bricks had poor sales. Still, Christiansen persevered and continued selling his product. In 1954, his son Godtfred became the junior managing director of LEGO group. His conversations with overseas buyers was where the idea for a toy system first came about. Godtfred saw the potential in LEGO bricks being a source of creative play for children. In 1958, the modern LEGO bricks design with the hollow tubes underneath was invented. This added to the stability and better locking.

The LEGO Group became much larger in the coming years. In 1959, a team was created to design new sets. Another fire struck in 1960, destroying most of the wooden toys. Fortunately, the company decided that the LEGO bricks were successful enough to discontinue the wooden toy line. 1961 and 1962 saw the introduction of the LEGO wheels, so kids could finally mobilize their cars and trucks. LEGO Group expanded their business into Canada. The LEGO Group released the highly successful train line in 1966 with a 4.5 volt motor. The first LEGOLAND Park was opened in Godtfred's hometown of Billund, Denmark. More than 18 million LEGO sets were sold in 1968 alone. In fact, the 1960s were so successful for LEGO Group that the biggest question was how to manage the expanding market.

Since then, LEGO group has made many leaps forward. The LEGO minifigures with moving arms and legs have been made and perfected. LEGO bricks have been cited as a way to encourage child creativity. The "Technic" series has been made as a variation of LEGO bricks for older children. Manufacturing plants have been opened around the world.

LEGO bricks have a very strict manufacturing process. Tens of thousands of dollars are spent on molds that can sense an imperfection. If a piece is off by .002 millimeters, it is thrown out. Worn out molds are hidden away so competitors will never get access to the technology. The molds are so accurate that only 18 out of 1 million LEGO bricks are thrown out. Only quality like this could make the LEGO bricks such a vital part of childhood memories.

5.12.2. Barbie History

Believe it or not, Barbie originally was a real person. Her name was Barbara (Barbie) Handler and her mother and father were Ruth and Elliot. In the early 1950's, Barbie's mother watched her and her girlfriends play with adult female dolls more than they did the baby dolls. Her mother knew it was just as important for young girls to imagine what it would be like to be grown up.

Since most of the adult dolls available at that time were paper or cardboard, Barbie's mother decided to make a three-dimensional female adult doll. One that was lifelike enough to serve as an inspiration for little girl's dreams of the future. She took her ideas to the ad executives at the Mattel Corp., the company that she and Barbie's father had founded in the garage many years prior. The all male committee rejected the idea saying it would be too expensive and with little market appeal to the mass. She had gone on a trip to Europe and returned with a Lillie doll, modeled after a character in a German comic strip. She then spent lots of time designing a doll (Barbie) to resemble Lillie and even hired a clothing designer to make realistic clothes. The result was the Barbie Doll.

Mattel finally agreed to back her efforts and Barbie debuted at the American Toy Fair in New York City in 1959. Girls went wild over her and set a new sales record for Mattel the very first year at 351,000 sold at $3.00 each. Since then the Barbie Doll's popularity has rarely waivered and today, with over one billion of her lookalikes sold, the product line is one of the most successful in the history of the toy industry.

As you can see, Barbie was blonde with a pony tail, zebra-striped swimsuit, open toed shoes, sun-glasses and earrings.

Barbie had lots of accessories available. The silly buyers at the industry's annual Toy Fair in New York were not impressed but the little girls sure were! That's all it took to take the retailers by storm! Mattel was so swamped with orders that it took several years for supply to catch up with demand! And now you know the rest of the Barbie History.

5.12.3. The History of Making Tilda Dolls

Tilda is a fabric brand founded by the Swedish artist and Norwegian designer Tony Finnanger, best known for its whimsical and naive characters in the form of animals and dolls. There is a certain attitude to life in Tilda's world, whimsical and romantic, like a ball gown worn with wellies – perfectly imperfect!

The Tilda range consists of products such as fabrics, kits, ribbons, buttons, accessories and books.

Tilda products are produced and distributed by Tilda Fabrics and are available in most of Europe as well as USA, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, China, Japan, Singapore, South Africa, South Korea, Taiwan and Thailand. Book titles are published by Sewandso – an imprint of F&W Media International. Tilda books have been translated into more than 18 languages.

Primitivism, homespun and unbearable fascination- it is these three words that can describe a toy tilda. A rag doll was invented in the late nineties, and thus, forever entered her name in the history of the world's hand-made. The history has continued, and today the tilda is a registered brand, a trademark that, of course, brings profit to the talented woman and at the same time pleases the needlewomen of the whole world.

Inspiration creator drew in those times, when Scandinavian women created rude, primitive amulets for their homes, in the image and likeness of fairy-tale creatures and animals, listening to ancient stories and legends. The name "tilda" is also the wish of Tony herself. In her family, it was customary to call everyone sonorous, short names for the letter "T", and this name seemed to the artist the most suitable for the pupa. Tilda is a printed doll sewn from scraps or whole pieces of flax, it is quite recognizable and at the same time time conditional silhouette, which is created with the help of cotton wool or holofaybera. Usually tilda has long legs, pretty plump body, its face is long. It has eyes-beads, blush and quite impressive nose. Tilda can be a girl, a cat, a postman, a milkmaid and even Santa Claus.

With all the diversity of faces, it preserves unique style, recognizable sewing technology and indescribable charm. In addition, the tildes in the performance of their creator Tony Finnanger always had a very pleasant colour of face and body - light brown, reminiscent of ginger cake, shortbread cookie or coffee with cream. This colour must have a real doll tilde, consider her admirers from all over the world.

The doll tilda angelis the most common variant of the tilde. Lovely young lady of angelic guise, with curls, behind her back - wings. Usually wears a linen light dress of lavender or pink hue. In the hands often holds a wand, of course, magical. Such tilde can be in the form of some animal. For example, the doll's tilde cat. In this form, the tilde does not lose charm at all - on the contrary, every needlewoman will wish to have such an animal. The tilde cat usually wears a dress too, she has a pretty slender body, long paws and a tail, a funny face with black eyes and tight curls of mustaches.

The main thing that unites millions of homemade tilde dolls around the world is the sewing technology. It is very, very simple and at the same time quite painstaking. The artist herself believed that the charm of the real tilde lies precisely in the fact that she draws the image of the master who created it with each of her dashes, and there are simply two identical dolls. The materials for sewing are very simple and affordable: pruning flax, cotton, cotton or holofayber, thick threads or cosmetics (for whiskers). Buttons, beads, wire, beads - for the decoration of the doll it will fit literally everything.

Tilde sewing technology

In general, for sewing any tilde, there are several steps:

- translation patterns on paper (schemes are on the Internet, their great variety);
- Cutting out parts of the doll from the fabric;
- stitching parts;
- stuffing doll pieces with cotton or holofayber;
- assembling dolls;
- coloring or embroidery a face of a doll or a muzzle of an animal;
- tailoring for dolls.

The history of tilde is a record of success. Today the profit from this trademark is estimated at millions of dollars. Their favorite tilde is considered and housewives, and "vanilla" girls, and hipsters, and, of course, ordinary children - from toddlers to teenagers. The fact is that the tilde managed to become a real embodiment of time, which required simplicity, beauty and charm. Such a doll will decorate any interior and create a festive mood. The more that you can sew it yourself, and it's really simple. It takes only a little patience and the feeling that you are back in childhood.

5.12.4. Toy Soldier

A toy soldier is a miniature figurine that represents a soldier. The term applies to depictions of uniformed military personnel from all eras, and includes knights, cowboys, pirates, samurai, and other subjects that involve combat-related themes. Toy soldiers vary from simple playthings to highly realistic and detailed models. The latter are of more recent development and are sometimes called model figures to distinguish them from traditional toy soldiers. Larger scale toys such as dolls and action figures may come in military uniforms, but they are not generally considered toy soldiers.

Toy soldiers are made from all types of material, but the most common mass-produced varieties are metal and plastic. There are many different kinds of toy soldiers, including tin soldiers or flats, hollow cast metal figures, composition figures, and plastic army men. Metal toy soldiers were traditionally sold in sets; plastic figures were sold in toy shops individually in Britain and Europe and in large boxed sets in the U. S. Modern, collectable figures are often sold individually.

Military figures have been found in ancient Egyptian tombs, and have appeared in many cultures and eras. Tin soldiers were produced in Germany as early as the 1730s, by molding the metal between two pieces of slate. Toy soldiers became widespread during the 18th century, inspired by the military exploits of Frederick the Great. Miniature soldiers were also used in the 17th, 18th, and 19th centuries by military strategists to plan battle tactics by using the figures to show the locations of real soldiers. In 1893, the British toy company William Britain revolutionized the production of toy soldiers by devising the method of hollow casting, making soldiers that were cheaper and lighter than their German counterparts.

Vintage Plastic Trojan War Figure by Herald

In addition to Britains, there have been many other manufacturers of toy soldiers over the years. For example, John Hill & Company produced hollow cast leadfigures in the same style and scale. Companies such as Elastolin and Lineol were well known for their composite figures made of glue and sawdust that included both military and civilian subjects. After 1950, rising production costs and the development of plastic meant that many shop keepers liked the lighter, cheaper, and far less prone to break in transit polythene figure. This led to greater numbers of plastic toy soldiers. The first American plastic soldiers were made by Beton as early as 1937. The first plastic toy soldiers produced in Great Britain were made in 1946 by Airfix before they became known for their famous model kits range.

World War I-era Toy Soldiers

One large historical producer in plastic was Louis Marx & Company, which produced both realistic soldiers of great detail and also historical collections of plastic men and women, including the “Presidents of the United States” collection, “Warriors of the World”, “Generals of World War II”, “Jesus and the Apostles”, and figures from the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II. Marx also produced boxed playsets that featured many famous battles with armies of two sides, character figures, and terrainfeatures. Britains produced plastic figures under the brand names of Herald and Deetail. Also in England, the scale model company, Airfix produced a variety of high quality plastic sets, which were frequently painted by hobbyists. Many Airfix figures were imitated by other companies and reproduced as inexpensive, bagged plastic army men. Timpo Toys, Britains main competitor in terms of sales and quality in the 1960s and 70s developed the “Over – Moulding” system. Different coloured plastics were injected into the mould at various stages, creating a fully coloured figure without the need of paint.

During the 1990s, the production of metal toy-grade painted figures and connoisseur-gradepainted toy soldiers increased to serve the demands of the collectors’ market. The style of many of these figures shifted from the traditional gloss-coat enamel paint to the matte-finished acrylic paint, which allows for greater detail and historical accuracy. The change was largely inspired by the introduction of very high quality painted figures from St. Petersburg.

There is a substantial hobby devoted to collecting both old and new toy soldiers, with an abundance of small manufacturers, dealers, and toy soldier shows. There are even specialty magazines devoted to the hobby, such as “Toy Soldier Collector”, “Plastic Warrior” and “Toy Soldier and Model Figure”. Collectors often specialize in a particular type of soldier or historical period, though some people enjoy collecting many different kinds of figures. The most popular historical periods for collecting are Napoleonic, Victorian, American Civil War, World War I, and World War II. Many collectors modify and paint plastic figures, and some even cast and paint their own metal figures.

Actor Douglas Fairbanks Jr had a collection of 3000 toy soldiers when he sold it in 1977. Fantasy novelist George R. R. Martin has a substantial collection of toy knights and castles. The most extensive collection of toy soldiers was probably that of Malcolm Forbes, who began collecting toy soldiers in the late 1960s and amassed a collection of over 90,000 figures by the time of his death in 1990. Anne Seddon Kinsolving Brown of Providence, Rhode Island, USA, began collecting miniature toy soldiers on her honeymoon to Europe in 1930, eventually amassing a collection of over 6,000 figures; these are on display at the Anne S. K. Brown Military Collection at Brown University Library in Providence.

5.13. Some Facts of Animals' Life

5.13.1. Do Sleeping Horses Lie?

Why do Horses Sleep on their Feet?

I have seen horses standing quietly, sometimes several together. I always supposed that they were sleeping. Now I think that they were just dozing.

Scientists have studied sleep in people and in many kinds of animals, including horses. These scientists record electrical signals that can be measured right on the outside of the body, and those signals tell a little about what is going on inside the brain. When a person or animal is sleeping, the brain makes a special electrical pattern.

The scientists found that any horse's brain makes the pattern of complete sleep only when the horse is lying down on its side. The horse sleeps like this in several short periods, each often only a half-hour long.

In the wild, horses had to watch out for predators, like lions and other big cats. So it's understandable that they learned to sleep deeply only in short naps. And that may be why we seldom see horses really sleeping.

Vocabulary

doze [dɒʊz] 1) дрімота; 2) дрімати; клювати носом

1. It is a small, primitive aquatic mammal. It has thick blackish-brown fur, a flat, leathery beak like a duck, no lips, a long flat tail and webbed feet. It lays eggs but gives milk to its young. What is it?
2. It is a toothless, egg-laying mammal. It is nocturnal, burrowing animal, feeding on insects by means of a sticky, extensile tongue. What is it?
3. Animal likes a small bear which lives in trees. It is about 2 ft long, with thick grey fur, sometimes called a bear. Its claws are adapted for climbing trees, and it lives chiefly in the eucalyptus, feeding on its buds and shoots. What is it?
4. It is a fierce, wolf like wild dog, about 50 sm high and usually sandy-coloured. What is it?
5. It is a flightless grey-feathered ratite bird, about 6 ft tall, closely related to the ostrich. This large bird can run well but cannot fly. What is it?
6. The animal of a family of herbivorous, marsupial mammals. It has powerful hind legs and a long, tapering tail and short forelegs. It is an animal which jumps along on its large back legs and which carries its babies in the pocket-bag. It moves by leaping. What is it?

5.13.3. Why Do Elephants Have Trunks?

An elephant drinks by sucking water into its trunk and squirting the liquid into its mouth. And the trunk can make many different sounds, including a distinctive trumpeting noise.

The trunk is the most helpful tool for an elephant.

It can be used to pull down leaves and branches to eat. It also makes a good nose – elephants can squirt dust or water over themselves to keep cool.

An elephant's trunk is a bit like a hand. Using the tip, an elephant can pick up something as small as a button.

Elephants also say “hello” to elephant friends by shaking trunks with them.

Vocabulary

suck [sʌk] 1) ссати; смоктати, висмоктувати; 2) всмоктувати, засмоктувати

squirt [skwɜ:t] бити тонким або слабким струменем

5.13.4. Wild Animals

- that elephants are very good swimmers?
- that the elephant can pick up a coin with his trunk? The elephant can do with his trunk much of what we do with our hands. It can pick up a man and put him on his back; then it can pick up and give him a coin which fell from his pocket;
- that when an elephant grows, everything grows on it except its eyes?
- how long animals live? The animal which lives the longest life is the tortoise. It sometimes lives between 300 and 400 years. The crocodile can live for 300 years, the elephant and the eagle - for 100 years;
- that crocodiles kill more people in Africa than any other wild animal?
- elephants are the only animals that can't jump;
- that scientists think that the cleverest wild animal is the chimpanzee and the second is the orang-utan and the third is the elephant?
- that among the domestic animals the cleverest are the horse and the dog? These animals take much from the people with whom they live;
- butterflies taste with their feet;
- the ant always falls over on its right side when intoxicated;
- on average, people fear spiders more than they do death;
- a snail can sleep for three years;
- you are more likely to be killed by a Champagne cork than by a poisonous spider;
- why a dog goes round and round before it lies down? This habit goes back to the days when dogs were wild and lived in the jungle grass. If they wanted a comfortable bed, they had to go round a few times in order to level the grass. Now the dogs sleep on a mat or on the floor, but still they go round before they lie down;
- the word hippopotamus comes from the Greek words hippo and potamos. These words mean “horse” and “river”. We often say hippo because it's shorter and easier to spell than hippopotamus!
- no animal can see when it is completely dark. At night there is usually little light from the moon and stars. Then eyes of cats catch the light better and can see better than eyes of people;

- that lions are cleverer than tigers and leopards?
- cats have over one hundred vocal sounds, but dogs only have about ten;
- an ostrich's eye is bigger than its brain;
- all polar bears are left handed;
- a crocodile cannot stick its tongue out;
- pigs can be very helpful in gardens. If you scatter seeds, they can tread them in to just the right depth for planting;
- and even a medium-sized pig creates more than a ton of fertilizer each year;
- that the whales shoot water into the air? They do not really shoot water. One can see their breath just as we see our own breath on a cold day. When they come up from a dive, they let out a big breath. It comes out their blowhole, on the top of their head. Right then, the moisture in my breath gets cold and changes from a gas into a mist of water drops. And that mist can look like a water spout;
- in Somalia, there are as many camels as people. Their language has at least 46 words for camels;
- despite its hump, the backbone of a camel is perfectly straight; wild camels are found only in Australia.

Vocabulary

intoxicated [ɪntɒksɪkeɪtɪd] одурманений, інтоксикований poisonous ['pɔɪz(ə)nəs] отруйний scatter ['skætə] розсіювати; сіяти fertilizer ['fɜːtɪlaɪzə] добриво; удобрювач blowhole ['bləʊhəʊl] дихало (у кита) mist [mɪst] 1) (легкий) туман; серпанок; імла moisture ['mɔɪsʃ(ə)] вологість, вогкість; волога shoot викидати

spout [spaʊt] струмінь, стовп

hump [hʌmp] горб

backbone ['bækbəʊn] спинний хребет

5.13.5. The Big Cats

Wild species of the cat family are found all over the world, except for in Antarctica and Australia. They are all carnivores (meat eaters) and all hunt by stalking their prey and then pouncing. There are 37 species of wild cat. Larger members of the family, such as the lion, tiger and leopard, are known as the big cats. Smaller members of the family include the ocelot, the lynx and the serval.

The biggest and most powerful member of the cat family is the tiger, which lives mainly in the rich forest areas of India, southeast China and Indonesia. In the heat of midday sun, the tiger will take to the shade or rest in water to keep cool. Most members of the cat family dislike water, but tigers love it and are good swimmers.

Big cats are related to and similar in appearance to wild cats and domestic cats. The European wild cat looks very much like the domestic tabby cat, as does the rare iriomote cat, and the caffer cat.

Leopards are very agile cats that live in Africa and Asia. They climb trees well and sometimes store their dead prey in trees. The spots on a leopard are more like rosettes than spots, especially along the back, and those of the African species are smaller than those on the Asian variety. Some leopards are completely black and are known as panthers.

A relative of the leopard is the jaguar of Central America which always lives close to water and is an excellent swimmer. The rosettes on its body are quite distinctive because have a black spot in the centre.

The best known of the big cats is undoubtedly the lion, often called “the king of the jungle”. At one time lions roamed all over Europe, Africa and Asia, but now they are found only in parts of Africa and a small area of India. Lions usually hunt in a group and although it is usually the female that kills the prey, it is the male, the head of the pride (group) that gets to eat first.

The snow leopard, or ounce, of Asia is a beautiful creature. It has white spots on a whitish background. It hunts wild sheep and boar in the mountains of central Asia and Himalayas.

Do You Know?

- in prehistoric times, sabre-toothed tigers attacked prey with their enormous, long, swordlike, curved upper canine teeth;
- leopards often drag the carcass of their prey up a tree - to be eaten later!
- while a cheetah is the fastest sprinter, the pronghorn antelope of North America would outrun it over a longer distance; lions sometimes climb into trees to stop flies biting them;
- ancient kings in Asia used cheetahs to hunt other animals.

5.13.6. Jumping Spider

Jumping spiders don't weave webs. Instead, they capture prey by leaping and pouncing. Some jumping spiders can jump 40 times their own body length.

Jumping spiders use sharp eyesight to spot their prey. They have four pairs of eyes, and they can tell the difference between prey and another jumping spider as far as a foot away. They're harmless to people ear flies and other insect pests. Because they use their signs to hunt, these spiders during the day.

Many jumping spiders are colorful. Look for one in a garden or on the outside of a garage or house. If you find one, watch it for a while. Can you see any sign that it sees you?

Jumping spiders live on the leaves and bark of plants, on the ground, and on rocks and buildings. Indoors, they may lurk near windows.

Vocabulary

weave webs плести павутіння

leaping ['li:piŋ] стрибання; стрибок sharp eyesight гострий зір insect pests шкідливі комахи

bark of plants кора рослин (дерев)

lurk [lɜ:k] ховатися, приховуватися; причаїтися

5.13.7. Dolphins Dispel Depression

If life is getting you down, head for the sea: scientists have proved that swimming with dolphins is an effective treatment for mild to moderate depression. For the first controlled trial of its type, researchers recruited a number of depressed people, told them to stop taking their medicines or having therapy, and divided them into two groups. The first group swam with dolphins for an hour a day; the second swam on the same coral reef, but only with each other for company. After two weeks, the people in the dolphin group were significantly more cheerful than those in the control group. Three months after the study, participants reported a lasting improvement in their symptoms. The researchers put the effect down to the dolphins' echo-location system (the sounds they emit to navigate), and the emotional impact of interacting with the creatures.

Vocabulary

dispel [dis'pel] розганяти, розсіювати; розсіюватися, розвіюватися get down пригнічувати

head for the sea прямувати до моря

coral reef кораловий риф

trial ['traɪəl] випробувальний emit [i'mit] випромінювати, видавати (звук) emotional impact емоційний вплив

5.13.8. The Loch Ness Monster

It is a large animal which is supposed to live in the waters of Loch (Gaelic for “Lake”) Ness in Scotland. There are reports of the monster going back to the sixth century, and over the past forty years there have been a thousand sightings. Some photographs exist, although they are of poor quality. They show a large, long, snake-like animal, perhaps 75 feet long. Scientists cannot explain what kind of animal this might be. Loch Ness is too cold for a reptile and there is no known fish this large.

Although it is beautiful, Loch Ness attracts thousands of tourists each year because people are curious about the existence of this “monster”. Some say that it might be the last dinosaur in the world. Others say that it is just a trick by the Tourist Board to encourage tourists. Many people have taken photographs of something in the water but there is still no evidence that it definitely exists!

Vocabulary

loch [lɒk, lɔh] = lake озеро

5.13.9. Real Fact

The 49-year-old Australian fisherman was on the trailer during the storm. He was washed by the wave to the shark’s mouth.

By the desperate effort he hold on the folds of meat of its body, probably, muscles of its gullet. The electronic waterproof watch was showing that the fisherman sailed in the shark's stomach during 8 hours.

“Every swallowing shark’s act was deathful for me”, - told the fisherman. At last by the wincing effort the shark had thrown him outside together with the stomach’s mixture.

The detail elaboration confirmed availableness of tissues of that big shark and its stomach's acids in the fisherman’s wounds.

Vocabulary

desperate effort відчайдушне зусилля muscles of gullet ['mʌs(ə)l əv gʌlɪt] мязи стравоходу swallowing act ['swɒləʊɪŋ] ковтання

wince [wɪns] здригання (від переляку, болі, відразу)

5.13.10. Animals in the Calendar

Most people are aware of their astrological signs, and they know the characteristics associated with the twelve signs of the zodiac. Astrology is based upon your month of birth. Astrologers believe that there is a connection between our lives and the movement of the sun, the moon and the planets.

Aries (the Ram) 21st March – 20th April

You want to be important and successful. You are very positive. You say what you think. You are sometimes selfish and you are often the first to start arguing.

Good points: energetic, enthusiastic;

Bad points: jealous, bossy;

Typical job: politician, surgeon;

You like: new clothes, sport;

You dislike: waiting.

Taurus (the Bull) 21st April – 21st May

You always tell the truth. When you promise to do something you do it. You need to have things more than you need people. You often refuse to accept new ideas. You never give up without a fight. You hate to lose, in business or at tiddlywinks.

Good points: reliable, very loving;

Bad points: stubborn, easily embarrassed;

Typical job: farmer, business person;

You like: comfort, gardening;

You dislike: change, haste.

Gemini (the Twins) 22nd May – 21st June

You are charming, intelligent, creative and most people like you. But you are two-faced – you can say one thing and mean another. You don't concentrate and you get bored easily. You think you are superior to everyone. You think the whole world revolves around you.

Good points: entertaining, charming, versatile;

Bad points: quickly bored, impatient;

Typical job: journalist, artist;

You like: talking, being among people;

You dislike: being laughed at, waiting.

Cancer (the Crab) 22nd June – 23rd July

You like being at home. You always try to look after your family. You are kind and sympathetic. You enjoy eating and relaxing. You don't like working too hard.

Good points: kind, sensitive;

Bad points: too easily hurt, possessive;

Typical job: baker, nurse;

You like: being with friends, shopping;

You dislike: sharing feelings, criticism.

Leo (The Lion) 24th July – 23rd August

You always expect to be a leader. You like giving things to people, and you enjoy visiting people. You are not good at being polite. You behave like the weather in April.

Good points: brave, generous;

Bad points: stubborn, ambitious;

Typical job: lawyer, soldier;

You like: winning, children, pets;

You dislike: unhappy friends, being ignored.

Virgo (The Virgin) 24th August – 23rd September

You tell people everything about yourself. People can trust you. You like helping others. You hate quarrelling and you hate things being untidy. You dislike spending money. You lack courage. You'll do what you has told. One never knows what you're thinking.

Good points: witty, charming, sympathetic;

Bad points: untidy, irritable, nervous;

Typical job: secretary, mechanic;

You like: being punctual, systematic;

You dislike: crowds and noise, sitting still for a long time.

Libra (The Scales) 24th September – 23rd October

You enjoy being with other people. You care about other people's feelings. You don't always say what you mean. You have a high opinion of yourself. You should solve all the problems on a desert island and nothing would upset you. You should be a good judge or referee.

Good points: charming, cooperative;

Bad points: indecisive, flirtatious;

Typical job: beautician, politician;

You like: peace and quiet, being fussed over;

You dislike: ugly places, loud arguments.

Scorpio (The Scorpion) 24th October - 22nd November

You believe in yourself. You are brave. You don't stop doing something until you have finished the job. Scorpions often talk about themselves, you need to control others. You are very dangerous enemy. You have principles about hurting other people.

Good points: caring, protective;

Bad points: moody, jealous;

Typical job: scientist, detective;

You like: winning, collecting things;

You dislike: making mistakes, being asked personal questions.

Sagittarius (The Archer) 23rd November – 22nd December

You are good at doing practical things. You love playing sports. You are honest, optimistic and cheerful. You don't mind taking risks. You don't tell others what to do. You are not afraid to go mountain climbing, or to join a mountain rescue team. You want to go to wild and unexplored places. You are vivacious, like champagne bubbles. You put your heart and soul into your profession.

Good points: honest, optimistic;

Bad points: hot-headed, gambler at heart;

Typical job: teacher, writer, vet;

You like: travelling, gambling, parties;

You dislike: waiting, making promises.

Capricorn (The Goat) 23rd December – 20th January

You like being the boss. You need to have money and status. You don't mind working hard. When you decide to do something, you always do it. You don't like sitting around and doing nothing.

Good points: hard working, careful;

Bad points: unforgiving, anxious;

Typical job: banker, civil servant;

You like: home and family, privacy;

You dislike: new things and new ideas, untidiness.

Aquarius (The Water Carrier) 21st January – 19th February

You want to help the whole world and every one in it, the group is more important than the individual for you. Your temper goes up and down. You are good in concentrating, you are not good at doing practical things. You jump into the bath without testing the water. If you get an idea in your head, there's no stopping you.

Good points: loyal, caring;

Bad points: rude, self-interested;

Typical job: engineer, photographer;

You like: surprises, being with friends;

You dislike: violence, fighting, people who show off.

Pisces (The Fish) 20th February – 20th March

You believe people and you do what they tell you to do. You have a strong imagination. You like music and art. You are very sympathetic, kind and friendly. You get depressed easily. You are always the last to introduce yourself. You can see beauty in a pile of rubbish and you can then turn the pile of rubbish into a work of art.

Good points: loving, caring, creative;

Bad points: self-pitying, hot-tempered;

Typical job: actor, writer;

You like: poetry, romantic places;

You dislike: noisy, crowded places, being second.

5.13.11. Chinese Zodiac Signs

Look at the dates of the Chinese horoscope and find out more about your own and your friends' or parents' personality. Here is a rough guide to the nature of the twelve animals that are the symbols of the Chinese Zodiac:

Rat - In the legend, the Rat was the first animal to answer the call of the Buddha, and that's sa good clue to the Rat. Don't think of him as the creature we all dislike. The Rat in the Chinese calendar has ingenuity, intelligence, independence and is something of a magician. Rats like to win.

If you're a Rat, you know how to get what you want, and you're inventive and original. You'll be very friendly and generous to your friends and those you love, but your enemies should steer clear! A complicated person with quick nervous energy, you worry about tomorrow, and push yourself to your limits, yet you are quick to criticize others. You need time to be yourself, and to be on your own. You will get on very well with Oxen, Dragons, and Dogs, and probably hardly at all with Rabbits, Horses and Monkeys.

Ox / Cow- In Chinese mythology, Lao-Tse, the great philosopher, rode the Ox on his journey to the mountains to seek immortality. Oxen are stoical and patient; they can endure great hardship and will never give up. You take pride in work, and you just get on with the job without fuss, doing the best you can.

You don't rush about and get worked up, and you're laid back until provoked too far, but then watch out! The might of an enraged Ox is not to be trifled with. You save money rather than spend it, and are resolutely ambitious. You will probably be good friends with Rats, Rabbits, Dragons (especially in business), Roosters and Dogs, but, in fact, the Ox will get on well with most people.

Tiger - The King of the Jungle, the Tiger is fierce and courageous. He represents luck, power and royalty. Tigers are enthusiastic, impulsive, loyal and honourable. Just as the Tiger is both revered and feared, a Tiger can be savage or wise. You will like taking risks and thrive on danger; routine is not for you. You like the open road, freedom, and the chance of something around the corner.

You despise treachery and falsehood, and you can be very generous, but you like your authority to be acknowledged and you are not the easiest animal to live with. You get on reasonably well with most people up to a certain point, but less well with other Tigers, and not very well at all with Snakes and Roosters.

Rabbit / Hare - If you are a Rabbit, you are imaginative and sensitive, like a quiet and peaceful life and don't like change, but paradoxically, you need freedom. Security is important, and you hate arguments; if there is a quarrel in the air, you probably try to defuse it and negotiate between those involved.

You won't rush into anything, and you tread cautiously, always making sure there's a Plan B, but if backed into a corner you can be menacing and ferocious.

You're not as weak as you sometimes seem. Rabbits especially like the company of the Ox, Snake, Sheep, and Pig, but have great difficulty with the Rat and Rooster.

Dragon - The Dragon of mythology was a creature of inaccessible places, high mountains or underground caves, breathing fire and ready for battle. The Dragon has been a symbol of deep desire, of wisdom and of luck, and has often been used to ward off evil spirits. The Dragon is powerful, brave, obstinate, enthusiastic and always lucky.

If you are a Dragon, you can accomplish things that others consider impossible. Nothing is beyond you, but you're not easy to live with. You can be cranky and demanding, and upset others with your blunt way of speaking, but you're scrupulously honest, and genuinely very charming. You enjoy the company of Rats, Snakes, and Roosters, but there could be problems with Dogs, as well as other Dragons!

Snake - In Chinese mythology, from the mouth of the Snake came the first human being. Rich in symbolism, the Snake is both the instrument of temptation in the Garden of Eden, and the symbol of eternity when depicted as the snake biting his tail. If you a Snake, you have a magnetic personality with poise and elegance, no matter how you dress. You almost certainly love reading and learning, enjoy deep conversations, dislike arguments unless they are abstract and philosophical, and have an almost telepathic intuition.

You don't like making any more effort than you absolutely have to, but when you decide on a course of action you are unstoppable. You probably remember wrongs done to you for a long time, yet you are wise, and much sought after for your good advice. You will get on well with most people, especially with Dragons and Roosters, but there may be difficulties with Tigers.

Horse - The mythical centaur, half horse and half man symbolizes the bond between man and horse, and if you are a Horse you will be popular and likeable. With your sparkling wit, you love the company of your friends, and you're impulsive and enthusiastic, and can't wait to get on with the next thing.

Yet, sociable, as you are, you like to do your own thing, and deep inside you are a very private person. Above everything, you are proud and independent. You get on well with almost everybody, but especially well with Tigers, and only with difficulty with Roosters.

Sheep / Ram - All manner of creative and artistic activities will probably be what you like most, if you were born in the Year of the Sheep. You are just not bothered with the essentials of life like making money you need it, definitely, but it would be nicer if it just arrived! You are peaceable and calm, imaginative and inventive, and you never bear a grudge.

You'll do anything to avoid falling out with people, even giving up your own wishes to keep things pleasant. You may be very skilled in your profession, but will never work for the sake of it, only if you enjoy it. You can get upset at first if people insist on trying to make you do things you don't really want to, but at the end of the day you will dig in your heels. If you are a Sheep / Ram, you won't have much trouble in getting on with anyone, but you will particularly like the company of Rabbits, Monkeys and Oxen, and will have little in common with Roosters.

Monkey - Highly intelligent and ingenious, Monkeys are known as the jokers and pranksters of the Chinese Zodiac. If you are a monkey, you can do almost anything you set your mind to, for of all the signs, the Monkey is the most versatile.

You are original, independent and articulate, with a gift for persuading others to your own way of thinking. You dislike routine, love acting, and love to talk and exchange news and ideas. You can be very generous, and sensitive to the needs of others, but at times people misunderstand your waywardness and think you dishonest, which you find very hurtful. You will get on well with almost everyone, but especially well with Sheep and other Monkeys.

Rooster - Roosters know the effect they have on other people. Heads turn when you walk into a room, because you have charisma and style. Always looking your best, you have a charm that goes beyond mere clothes. You stand up for your rights, and maintain your own space like a fortress, and you never depend on anybody, but you will go out of your way to help others provided they don't intrude on your privacy.

You are forthright, honest and brave, and love to protect anyone weaker than yourself. You make an exciting friend, but keep part of yourself always private. Roosters get on well with Oxen, Dragons, Snakes and Pigs, but less well with Tigers, Rabbits, Horses and Sheep.

Dog - If you are a Dog, above all else, you worry. Whatever your circumstances, you are always anxiously trying to do better, worrying in case you have forgotten something, and doing your very best to live up to your responsibilities. Conscientious to a fault, you never abandon your duty, and you are always loyal and honest, but you do tend to see the black side of everything, and wear an air of melancholy.

You don't really enjoy social occasions, but if it is required of you, you will go to a party and put on such a good front that no one will ever know your true feelings. You like everything to be safe and secure, the way you've always known it. You will help your friends at all times. You will get on well with Rats, Oxen, Snakes, and Pigs, and may have difficulty with Dragons and Horse.

Pig - If you were born in a Year of the Pig, you probably think well of everyone. You don't worry about things, you let life take its course, and you're calm and laid back. Your philosophy is to enjoy life to the full, and you are sure that all will be well in this best of all worlds.

You'll give people the benefit of the doubt. Kind and generous, always pleased to help others, especially those in real need, but if someone pushes you beyond the limit, your temper is fearful. Pigs get on well with Tigers, Rabbits, Sheep, Monkeys, Roosters and Dogs, and may have difficulty with Dragons.

5.13.12. Hermitage Palace is Cat's Whiskers

Generations of Hermitage cats have survived dramatic events. The Hermitage Museum in St Petersburg, Russia, is famous as the palace of Empress Catherine the Great. The greatness of its cats is the less well-known side of its astonishing story. They have been here since the 18th Century. Fed up with rodents running through the palace, Empress Elizabeth sent out a decree that the best ratters in Russia should be sent to St Petersburg.

The first to respond are thought to have come from the city of Kazan - then apparently famous for the rat-catching skills of its cats. The cats survived the Napoleonic wars. They lived through the revolution of 1917. Their royal masters, Tsar Nicholas II and his family, died in a hail of Bolshevik bullets the following year. As Russia turned communist, the cats kept their regal home. They only disappeared during World War II. Hitler's armies laid siege to St Petersburg, then known by its Soviet name, Leningrad. Hundreds of thousands of people perished as for 900 days, the Nazis tried to strangle the life out of the city. The most important items in the Hermitage collection were removed to storage in the Ural mountains, far from the front line. The museum's cellars became bomb shelters. In peacetime, a new generation of cats was welcomed to the palatial surroundings their predecessors had made home. Now, two full-time employees take care of them. Cosy corners of the Hermitage's cellars are their shelter in the depths of the icy Russian winter. They are no longer chosen for their ability to catch rats. Poison has taken that job away from them. They have come here from the streets, and the Hermitage is happy for them to move on to good homes, where they can be found. Officially, there are 50 of them. Museum staff make voluntary contributions to pay for their upkeep. They are considered so important that they even have their own press secretary. Maria Khaltunen combines that role with her job as assistant to the museum's director. While we spoke, one of her charges did its best to leap from her arms. "We like them", she explained. "And all our staff decided to keep up this tradition: to have the cats, and to like them." They may have retired from rat-catching, but a trip to the Hermitage's accounts department shows the cats are still there when a mouse is around. But these days, that's a computer mouse. To be honest, the cats are more likely to be getting in the way than helping. Some have made their home with the book-keepers. They lounge across desks or curl up to snooze in open boxes of printer paper. They are not allowed in the galleries. But that does not mean they are cut off from the artistic atmosphere. Some of them appear perfectly at home among the statues in the Hermitage's gardens and courtyards - even occasionally seeming to strike poses copied from the classical- era art which surrounds them.

5.13.13. The Penguin Post Office

Antarctica is a very cold place for a holiday. It's 700 miles south of Argentina and Chile, but thousands of people come here every day. One of the most popular places to visit is Port Lockroy. They come here to see the Gentoo penguins and visit a very unusual British post office – the Penguin Post Office. There is a population of 3,000 penguins! The visitors take photos of some of them. They are very cute. Then they go inside. There is a gift shop and everything has got penguins on it. You can buy T-shirts, caps, toys and lots of other things. There are 18,000 visitors every summer. All the visitors want to tell their friends about the Penguin Post Office, so they write postcards. They write about the cold and the snow, and of course, they write about the penguins. Then they can post them in a real British post box. The postcards go all around the world. You have to put a stamp on a postcard. And what have the stamps got on them? Penguins, of course! The penguins are real stars!

5.14. Different Texts for Reading

5.14.1. The Woodcutter

A woodcutter was grinding his axe when a neighbour came along and said: "Why do you grind your axe now? You cannot do to the wood and cut trees in this storm?"

"When the weather is fine I shall not be grinding my axe, I shall be using it", - answered the woodcutter.

Vocabulary

woodcutter ['wʊd,kʌtə] дроворуб; лісоруб grind [graɪnd] точити, гострити axe [æks] сокира

5.14.2. A Greedy Dog

A dog stole a large piece of meat and run away. He had to cross a little river over which there was a little bridge. Crossing the river he looked down and saw in the water another dog with a large piece of meat. The dog did not know that it was the reflection of him. He dropped his own meat and greedily jumped to have the other, but he did not get any.

5.14.3. A Conceited Boy

Edward came home for the holidays; he thought that he was very clever, because he had been at school for a year. At dinner he said to his father: "Daddy, you think that you see two cakes on the plate. I am going to show you that there are three". Pointing to the first cake Edward said: "This is one, and that is two. If I add the one to the two, I'll give three".

"Very well", said his father, "if what you say is true, I'll take the first cake, your mother will take the second cake and you may take the third one".

5.14.4. Why was she Angry?

A young man was in love with a beautiful girl.

One day when they were walking in the park near the girl's house she said to him: "Tomorrow is my birthday; will you come to have dinner with me?"

"Of course, I shall", said the young man, "and I'll send you red roses, one rose for each year of your life".

The same evening the young man went to a florist's. As the girl was twenty years old, he paid for twenty roses and asked the florist to send them to the girl's house the next day.

He left her address and a letter full of love.

The florist knew the young man very well because he often bought flowers in his shop.

The florist thought: "The young man is a good customer, my price to roses was too high, and I'll send thirty roses instead of twenty". And he did so.

The next morning he sent thirty red roses to the girl. In the afternoon when the young man came to see her, she did not want to speak to him. He was very unhappy and went back home. But he never knew why she was so angry with him?

What do you think about it?

5.14.5. A Dumb Wife

Once there was a man whose wife was dumb and this made him very sad because he loved her very dearly. After some time he went to see a doctor and said "Can you make my wife speak?" "Perhaps, I can" said the doctor, "the operation is difficult, but if I try, I'll do my best." "Of course, you may try", said the husband, "I'll bring her tomorrow".

The next day the doctor made the operation and the dumb wife began to speak. She spoke so much and so loudly that in a few hours her husband ran back to the doctor and said "Can you make my wife dumb again?" "No", said the doctor. "There are many ways to make a dumb woman speak, but no ways to make a woman stop talking".

“What must I do?” said the man; “I shall soon die if I have to listen to her all day long”. “Well”, said the doctor, “I can’t make her dumb, but I can make you deaf and you will not have to listen to her”. “Very well”, said the man, “you may do so, It will be better than the other way”.

Vocabulary

dumb [dʌm] німий

deaf [def] глухий

5.14.6. The Old Indian is Quite Modern

One day, a small group of tourists came to a part of America where they could see neither villages nor people for many days. At last they met an old Indian. He knew everything about the forest, the animals living in it, the weather and many other things. He could speak English.

“Can you tell us what the weather will be like during the next few days?” one of the tourists asked him.

“Oh, yes”, he said. “Rain is coming. Then will be snow for a day or two, but then the sun will come again and the weather will be fine. It will be very warm.”

“These old Indians didn’t go to school but they know more than we do,” said the man to his friends, Then he turned the old Indian:

“Tell me,” he said, “How do you know all that?” The Indian answered: “I heard it on the radio.”

5.14.7. An American in London

An American tourist got on a bus in a London street and began to talk loudly to the bus conductor.

“What is the name of that nice little place there?” – “The Law Courts”, answered the conductor. “And how long did it take to build it?” asked the American. “Can’t say it, but I think it took ten years.” “Oh, in America we build very quickly. We could do it in a month.”

Then they came to St. Paul’s Cathedral. “Is that famous old St. Paul’s?” came the American’s questions. “And how long did it take to build it?” - “I have heard it took the builders six or seven years,” said the bus conductor.

“Seven years! – Six months’ work in America. We build very quickly.”

Soon they came to another famous building. “And what fine house is that, my boy?” – “It wasn’t there when I passed three hours ago.”

The American did not know what to say. He stopped asking questions. The conductor was glad.

Vocabulary

Law Courts судові органи; судоустрій

5.14.8. Mark Twain Goes to the Opera

Mark Twain, the famous American writer, was once invited by his friend to go to the opera. He agreed to go.

The friend was very rich. He and his wife had their own box at the opera.

During the opera the friend’s wife talked all the time. She also talked very loudly.

She talked so much that it was often difficult for Mark Twain to listen to the opera.

When the opera was coming to an end, the friend's wife turned to Mark Twain and said:

"Oh, my dear Mark Twain! I want you so much to be with us again next Friday at the opera. I am sure you will like it – the opera will be Carmen".

"Thank you very much," said Mark Twain. "That will be fine. I've heard you in today's opera, but I have never heard you in Carmen."

5.14.9. Mistake

Once Mark Twain was travelling in France by train. He was going to a small town near Paris. It was very late at night; he was very tired and wanted to sleep. He asked the conductor to wake him up when they got to that town and went to sleep. It was early morning when he woke up, the train was already in Paris.

Mark Twain was very angry. He ran up to the conductor and cried:

"I asked you to wake me up. Why didn't you do it? I am very angry with you."

The conductor looked at him for a moment and said:

"You may be very angry, but not as angry as the American whom I put off the train instead of you."

5.14.10. Golden Dreams

I often go to Mr Sellyer's bookshop to look through new books. One day while I was looking through the books, I watched Mr Sellyer at work. A lady came into the shop and asked for a book.

"Any book or something special?" said Mr Sellyer showing her Golden Dreams. "Mr Slush is a famous author and this is his latest book. It is rather interesting to read."

A lady in black entered the shop. Mr Sellyer also gave her Golden Dreams saying "A love story, very simple, but sad, of course. When my wife read it she cried all the time".

"Have you any good light reading for vacation?" asked the next customer. Mr Sellyer recommended Golden Dreams once more. "The most humorous book of the season," he said. "My wife began laughing the minute she sat at it."

Every customer who entered the shop went away with Golden Dreams. To one lady he described it as thereading for a holiday, to another as a book to read on a rainy day and to a fourth as the right book for a fine day.

It was four o'clock and time to go home. But before I left the shop I came up to Mr Sellyer to discuss Golden Dreams with him.

"Do you like the book yourself?" I asked.

"I have no time to read every book in my shop."

"But did your wife like the book?"

"I'm not married, sir," answered Mr Sellyer smiling.

5.14.11. An Honest Man (an English Tale)

One day a poor woodcutter is cutting a big tree near wide river. Suddenly his old axe slips from his hand and fall into the deep water. He sits on the bank. He is very unhappy. He lost his axe.

Suddenly a nice fairy appears and asks the woodcutter, "What is the matter with you?" "I have lost my only axe."

The fairy shows him a gold axe and says, "Is this yours?" "No", answers the woodcutter

Then the fairy shows him a silver axe and asks in a clear voice, "Is this yours?" "No", answered he again.

Then she shows him an old iron axe with an old wooden handle. "Yes, that's mine", says the happy man. "I know it", says the fairy.

"I only wanted to see if you told me truth. And now I give the axe, the gold axe, the silver axe. You are nice, honest man".

5.14.12. A Forgetful Tourist

An English tourist came to Paris. It was his first visit there. On the same day he sent a telegram to his wife he was in London. In the telegram he told her address of the hotel here he was going to stay. He also told her that he was quite well.

As he was in Paris for the first time, he was very eager to see the places of interest. After dinner he went for a walk and then decided to go to the theatre to see a new play. It was very late when the play was over. It was time to go home.

But at that moment he realized that he couldn't get to the hotel: he didn't remember either the name of the hotel or the address.

The Englishman was at a loss because he did not know what to do. Suddenly he remembered sending that morning a telegram to his wife. So, late at night his wife got a very strange telegram: "Please, send me my address of the hotel at once".

5.14.13. Economy Wasted Trip

An Englishman (who was in France) wanted to go back to England by sea. But he had very little money. He had so little money that he could pay only for the ticket. As he knew that the trip would last only two days, he decided not to eat during these days.

As he took a ticket and got on the ship the next morning, he tried not to hear the bell for breakfast. When dinnertime came, he was very hungry, but he did not go to the dining room. In the evening he was still hungrier, but when the waiter came to invite him to have supper, the Englishman said that he was ill.

The next day the Englishman was half-dead and could not stand the hunger any longer. "I shall go and even if they kick me out into the sea", said he to himself.

So he went to the ship dining room and had his dinner. In the evening he had supper but was very much afraid of his future because he did not pay for the meals. At last he addressed the waiter and said: "Where is my bill?" "What bill?" asked the waiter. "For the supper and dinner I had in your dining-room." "Don't trouble, sir. You paid for your meals when you bought the ticket."

5.14.14. The Philosopher & the Boatman

The philosopher wished to cross the river which was broad and deep. So he asked the boatman to ferry him across. The boatman agreed and they both got into the boat.

- Tell me, boatman, - the philosopher asked, - have you studied the stars?
- No, never, - the boatman replied.
- Then you wasted a third of your life. Have you studied history?
- I'm afraid, not. I haven't studied mathematics either.
- Then you've lost three quarters of your life.

They rode on till they reached the middle of the river. Just then a big wave hit the side of the boat and overturned it.

- Tell me, philosopher, - the boatman said, - have you learned to swim?
- No, - replied the philosopher.
- Well then, you could lose your whole life. Hold onto my shoulders.

2.15.18. A Chinese Dinner

Mr Wilson was a London businessman. He had to travel all over the world.

Once he went to China on business. It was his first time there and he did not speak Chinese. In the evening he felt hungry and decided to go to a restaurant. Soon he found a small restaurant which he liked very much, because it was nice, with very clean table cloths and white napkins on the tables.

The waiter did not understand English and so Mr Wilson tried to show with his hands that he was hungry and wanted something to eat. The waiter smiled, he understood.

After some time he brought him some soup. It was excellent. Fifteen minutes later he brought him a plate full of small pieces of meat. Mr Wilson found it very good but he did not know what he was eating. He wanted to find out what kind of meat it was. "Perhaps, it's goose or duck", he thought. Suddenly he had an idea: he took a piece of meat, showed it to the waiter and asked, "Quack, quack?" The waiter smiled and answered, "Bow-wow".

2.15.19. Who Killed the Minotaur?

Between 1600 and 1400 BC, Crete was a great sea power and the Bronze Age civilisation centred there is called Minoan, after Minos, one of the greatest legendary Cretan kings. His capital was Knossos and the nations round about, including Athens, were subject to him. According to the legend, Minos had a Labyrinth made by Daedalus, in which to hide the Minotaur, a monster, half-bull, half-man, which fed on human flesh. Athens was forced to send annually a tribute of seven youths and seven maidens to feed to the Minotaur.

Theseus, son of the King of Athens and one of the greatest of legendary Greek heroes went to Crete with a sacrificial group, determined to slay the Minotaur. There he met Ariadne, the daughter of Minos who fell in love with him. To help him, she gave him a sword and some thread. With the sword Theseus killed the Minotaur, and then followed the thread to escape from the Labyrinth.

2.15.20. Mystery of the Girl Who Just Faded Away

The night was dark and moonless, and Walter Davidson stared in disbelief through his windscreen at the scene illuminated by his car headlights. The trees overhanging the remote country road made things even blacker, but there was no mistaking what Walter Davidson had seen. A girl, naked and bleeding, lay face down by the grass verge. Davidson, an agricultural engineer in his fifties, jammed on his brakes and brought his car to a shuddering stop. It was just before 7 p.m. on a windy November night, and he was returning to his home near Brighton through the Sussex countryside.

Now he had come across something horrifying and violent. Was it an accident? Or particularly brutal murder? He was trembling as he opened his car door and started to run along the deserted road to where the girl lay. He reached the spot and stopped, bewildered. There was nothing there. He returned to the car and manoeuvred the vehicle so that its headlights illuminated the spot where the girl had lain. There was nothing to be seen, not even a mark of blood although Davidson could swear that he had seen blood dripping down the girl's arms on to the road.

With a torch, he thoroughly searched the nearby hedge and verges without success. Finally, shaken and puzzled, he returned to his car and drove thoughtfully home. Was that incident, in November 1950, purely a figment of his imagination?

"The more I thought about it, the more I was convinced it wasn't", said Walter Davidson, when I discussed the matter with him some years later. As a result, he eventually contacted a local minister, the Rev.

Ashley Wright, who had conducted numerous exorcisms, and was the local authority on the supernatural. To his surprise, Mr. Wright did not appear astonished when told about the bleeding girl. He knew all about the phenomenon already. For in the previous two years, at least four mysteries had reported seeing a naked girl lying by the roadside at the exact spot where Walter Davidson had seen the spectre.

On one occasion, the matter had been reported to the police who had searched in vain for a body. But in all four instances the drivers involved had no doubts about what they had seen.

One, Ian Nicholson, a farmworker driving home in the twilight on a September evening in 1949, told Mr. Wright:

"When I saw the girl I thought I'd stumbled across a murder. She was quite naked and lying in the grass by the road. There was blood on her back and her arms. I stopped the car and jumped out, but as I approached the body it just seemed to fade away. I stood there just looking down at the empty road. It was the most incredible thing that has ever happened to me, I searched the area thoroughly and found nothing. I wondered whether I should report it to the police, but after all there was really nothing to report. They would think I was mad or drunk, or just having them on.”

Ashley Wright heard a similar story from a salesman who also saw the phantom body in the headlights of his car. Instead of stopping, he drove frantically to the nearest house and phoned the police and the ambulance. “When the emergency services arrived, they found nothing ... and the motorist received a severe ticking off.” Mr. Wright, checking the stories of all the drivers, discovered that they were virtually identical.

None of the motorists knew each other and their reports covered a period of over two years. Their descriptions of the girl, the way she was lying and her position in the road, were always the same. “It seemed to me that it could not be mere coincidence. I decided to make further inquiries. And when I did, the phenomenon became even more remarkable.” He consulted a local historian, Dr. Arthur Beddowes, and found to his astonishment that the road in question had had a notorious reputation in past years.

Mr. Wright explained: “He told me that exactly 300 years earlier, a girl had been robbed, raped and left to die by footpads on the road at that precise spot. Later two men were hanged for the crime, but obviously that wasn't the end of the matter. Early in 1951, after obtaining permission from the Bishop of the diocese, I carried out an exorcism at the roadside. Happily, the spectre of the bleeding girl has not been seen again.

2.16. Meals

2.16.1. English Food

English cooking is heavy, substantial and plain. The ideal English breakfast consists of cereals, either porridge, or cornflakes, with milk and sugar, followed by bacon and eggs, or sausages and tomatoes, toasts and marmalade, and finally of course a cup of tea or coffee. For a change they can have a boiled egg, cold ham or fish.

Tea is part of the prose of British life, as necessary as potatoes or bread. It must be made “just like mother makes it”, one teaspoonful of tea for each person and one “for the pot”. Boiling water is added and the tea is allowed to stand, brew or draw. It is drunk with or without sugar but almost always with milk.

The midday meal is called lunch. This meal consists on weekdays, for example, of stew, fried fish, chops, liver or sausages, and some kind of vegetables, usually carrots, cabbage, peas, and potatoes.

Meat is rather expensive in Britain and the working class tends to buy the cheaper cuts and imported rather than home-produced meat. Rice and macaroni are seldom served.

Vegetables such as carrots, peas, and then cabbage are cooked for long periods in lots of water, then strained and served. The sweet, sometimes called dessert may consist of fruit and the famous steamed or boiled pudding. Another favourite sweet is rice pudding.

There are many varieties of pie. Fruit baked in a covering of pastry with a “lid” is called a pie, without a lid it is called a tart. These pies or tarts are eaten hot or cold, often with custard.

Sunday dinner is a special occasion, a weekend joint of beef or lamb being bought and eaten hot with vegetables. After this there will probably follow a large, heavy pudding with custard, a cup of tea or coffee completes the meal.

Five o'clock tea is a peculiar meal. In upper class circles it is a snack of thin bread and butter and cups of tea with small cakes. Dinner for them follows at seven o'clock and supper some time after nine. For the working class household, however, tea is a fairly substantial meal, often consisting of boiled ham and salad or a boiled egg, bread and butter and jam, and tea. On weekdays some families eat a hot meal in the evening that is at teatime. Supper is usually a snack of bread and cheese and cocoa.

Let's Have a Cup of Tea

At eight o'clock in the morning
For our breakfast we'll see Cornflakes and buttered toast –
And let's have a cup of tea!

At five o'clock in the afternoon
There'll be food for you and me:
Cream cakes and sandwiches –
And let's have a cup of tea!

At one o'clock it's lunchtime,
And for lunch there'll be Sausage and mashed potatoes –
And let's have a cup of tea!

At seven o'clock in the evening
A lovely supper we'll see:
Chips, peas and fish fingers –
And let's have a cup of tea!

At ten o'clock at night
We'll have a piece of bread,
And I'll make a cup of tea,
And then we'll go to bed!

2.16.2. Tea

Tea for health: the facts - Most people enjoy tea on a daily basis. But did you know that you also get great health benefits from drinking just 4 cups of tea a day?

A number of research studies conducted over the past few years have shown a range of health benefits from drinking everyday tea.

As well as contributing towards your daily fluid requirement, drinking tea can offer some protection against heart disease and some cancers.

Recent research has shown that tea is a good source of antioxidants. Antioxidants may help to protect against Alzheimer's and other age-related, memory impairments.

And there's no need to worry about caffeine: the amount contained in the typical daily intake of tea for an adult does not present a problem - in fact it can have benefits.

Antioxidants advice:

- Like fruit and vegetables, tea is a natural source of flavanoids that generate antioxidant activity. In fact, there is more than twice "antioxidant" power in a cup of tea, than there is in one apple.

- A large body of research indicates that antioxidants can have a protective effect against some cancers and can help prevent heart disease and strokes.

- Both green and black teas offer similar amounts of antioxidant capacity, substantially greater than that of fruit and herbal teas.

Fluid Facts - Drinking 4 cups of tea a day is rehydrating, not dehydrating. The water in tea can easily be included in your daily fluid requirements. Normal strength tea does not have a diuretic effect unless the amount of tea consumed at one sitting contains more than 250-300 mg caffeine, which is equivalent to between 5 and 6 cups of tea. In fact, due to the volume of fluid that is drunk whilst enjoying "cuppa", the British Dietetic Association advises that tea can contribute towards the daily-recommended intake of 1.5 to 2 litres.

Counting Caffeine - 4 cups of tea per day offer good health benefits without the contraindications of other caffeine-containing drinks. 4 cups of tea contain only moderate amounts of caffeine. Moderate amounts of caffeine throughout the day can increase concentration, thereby improving performance. You will take in significantly less caffeine by drinking your normal cup of tea than if you were drinking a typical instant coffee and much less than if you were drinking a “coffee-shop-coffee”.

Treat for Teeth -Tea is a natural source of fluoride and delivers 45% of your daily requirement if you drink 3 to 4 cups a day. Regular intake of fluoride protects against tooth decay and gum disease in both adults and children. A dry mouth can lead to tooth decay. A regular fluid intake, like tea, helps to prevent the mouth from becoming too dry.

The typical cup of tea contains less than half the level of caffeine of a typical coffee. One cup contains only around 50 mg.

Tea without milk has no calories. Using semi-skimmed milk adds 13 calories a cup, but you also benefit from valuable minerals like calcium.

4 cups of tea with milk provide you with 16% of your daily calcium requirement.

In hot weather tea refreshes you by raising the body temperature momentarily causing perspiration, which cools the skin.

Enjoy your tea!

- Fish is good for the brain.
- Fats and sugars - fast sources of energy.

2.16.3. A Nice Cup of Tea

It does not matter what the problem is, for the British the answer is often the same: "Let's have a nice hot cup of tea". Coffee has become very popular in Britain in recent years, but tea is still the national drink. Over 25 million cups of tea are sold every day, and many millions more are made at home.

In 1610, tea was brought from China to Europe. At first it was very expensive so not many people could buy it, but by 1750 it was widely drunk in Britain. By the late eighteenth century, Britain was at the centre of the world tea business and soon afterwards the tradition of taking afternoon tea, either at home or in a tea shop, began. Afternoon tea is a pot of tea, and a light snack (perhaps some small thin sandwiches and a piece of cake) served around four o'clock in the afternoon. A "cream tea" is tea served with scones and cream.

Tea shops became popular with women because they could go there alone, to meet friends.

Since the mid-nineteenth century, tea has been brought to Britain from India, Africa and Sri Lanka as well as China. Today there are over 1,500 different kinds, for example, Assam, Darjeeling, Oolong, Earl Grey and English breakfast. Each one has a different smell and taste.

In the past, the usual way to serve tea was to put a little cold milk in a cup, pour the tea (using a tea-strainer - like a spoon with holes in it - to keep the tea-leaves out) and then add some sugar. Tea-making has changed a lot in the last few years however. Most people now use tea-bags instead of tea-leaves because it's easier, and many use a mug instead of a cup and saucer. Tea is often made in the mug, without a pot (to save time) and many people no longer add milk and sugar.

Because tea-bags are so popular, the companies who sell them are always trying to make them better. At first tea-bags were square, then round ones were made, and now you can buy three-sided ones! Maybe the way people make tea has changed over the years but in this country of tea-drinkers, many people still use the old Chinese word for tea and like nothing better than to have a cup of cha or even just a good old cuppa.

2.16.4. Food in the USA

1. Meal Time - In the USA meals are usually served at the following times: breakfast: 6.30 - 10.00 a.m., lunch: 11.30- 2.00 p.m., dinner: 5.00 p.m. - 8.00. Breakfast meals can vary from cereal and milk to eggs and pancakes or French toast (slices of bread dipped in an egg and milk batter and fried). Lunch tends to be a lighter meal - a sandwich, yogurt or a lighter entree. Dinner includes a main course of meat, poultry or fish, accompanied by soup, salad, vegetables. Brunch, a common Sunday meal served between 10.00 a.m. and 2.00 p.m., is really a combination of breakfast and lunch.

2. Common Dishes - There are a wide variety of food, depending upon which type of restaurant you go to. Some American-style restaurants have a typical menu: appetizers, soups (French onion, chicken, vegetable soup), salads, main courses (steak, fried chicken, fish, hamburger, pasta & pizza); hot & cold sandwiches (combinations of ham, turkey, roast beef, chicken, egg salads, served between two slices of bread), beverage: coffee, tea, soft drinks, mineral water and iced tea), desserts (cakes, ice cream, frozen yogurt, fruit). Breakfast dishes are cold cereal and milk, warm cereal, toast, yogurt, egg, pancakes, French toast.

3. Pot Luck Supper - Sometimes when some families get together they have pot luck supper. This is an informal occasion. Invitations can be written or made by phone, and each person is asked to bring a dish of food: starter, main course, salad or vegetable or dessert. The hostess knows how many of each kind of dishes but not exactly what the guests will bring. That's why it is called "pot luck". Guests put their "pot" on the table & served buffet-style.

4. Restaurants

Americans eat out often. Fast food restaurants have wide popularity. There are two types of restaurants in the USA: fast food & full service restaurants. The style of fast food restaurants is much like that of cafeteria. People go up to the counter to order their meal: hamburgers, hot chicken, sandwiches, pizza. A typical dinner costs from $3.00 to $6.00. People eat 30 - 45 minutes. In full-service restaurants a waiter comes to take people's order. Dinner can cost from $10.00 to 50.00. It's expected that people will finish eating and leave restaurant within an hour.

2.16.5. Spanish Menu

It's traditional in Spain to have a siesta or nap after lunch. Particularly in rural areas, you'll find villages apparently deserted from 1 pm until about 3.30 pm while everyone has a little snooze!

When the Spanish feel pucky, they order tapas. This is a selection of light snacks served informally - and quite often eaten with your fingers. See what you think of this traditional tapas snack. Ingredients: a clove of garlic, peeled; two slices of toast; a tin of tuna; red and green pepper cut into slices; olive oil.

Pour two tablespoons of olive oil over the pepper slices and place under a grill until they are well cooked. Don't worry if they burn at the edges - this adds to the flavour! While the peppers cook, rub each slice of toast with garlic. Now mix the tuna and peppers together and pile this mixture on top of the toast. Cut each slice into quarters, drizzle with olive oil and serve.

2.16.6. Garlic: Nature's Oldest Remedy

Eat garlic and stay healthy. Garlic kills many bugs - sometimes more efficiently than commonly used drugs. It may help protect us against heart disease and may even be of use in mild forms of diabetes. There is also some evidence, they report, and that eating garlic may possibly guard against cancer.

The scientists don't say that garlic is a cure-all, far from it. They admit that it doesn't always work and that much more research is needed. They point out, too, that it may cause a burning feeling in the mouth and stomach and, in especially sensitive people, rashes, flushes, asthma, headaches and depression.

They include remedies and recipes for garlic-based dishes in the book, but warn that if your problem is serious or continues, you should see a professional herbalist.

If you're worried about the smell, herbs such as parsley can help to hide it.

2.16.7. Barbecue

Throughout the American South and Southwest the word barbecue means "meat that's been slow-cooked in pits over a cool (not flaming) fire". In Texas beef is the meat of choice. In Kentucky it's mutton. But in the Carolinas barbecue almost always means pork. And there are arguments about which cuts to use and whether the meat should be minced, chopped, sliced, or pulled off the bone. Many also have fervent beliefs about the correct barbecue sauce or marinade. Some use vinegar, mixing it with tomatoes or peppers; others swear by mustard-based sauces.

As Southerners and Southwesterners moved to the North and the West, they started barbecuing in their own backyards, using charcoal grills instead of hickory-filled pits and bottled sauces instead of homemade marinades. These days barbecue experts populate the entire country.

2.16.8. Eating Habits in UK

Food traditions and rituals play a central role in all our lives. Some of these are the particular, repeated patterns that we build into our days - hot milk before bedtime, for instance, or biting the chocolate from the edge of a Kitkat. Others are the more mundane, automatic parts of our everyday lives - mealtimes, manners, table-laying, grocery shopping - all of these are ordinary rituals that mark out our waking hours. But food traditions and rituals go beyond the everyday and the personal.

Food takes us back in time, connecting us to the recipes and customs that our families or communities have practiced for generations. Many of us will enjoy family cookery tips that have been handed down through our families by our grandparents and great-grandparents - unique recipes for jams, breads or pickles for instance. Food customs can also play an essential role in binding us together as communities.

It is impossible to imagine an Indian wedding, a Jewish Friday night, a Chinese New Year, an English birthday tea or Christmas day without the inclusion of particular foods. In all these traditions, food plays a central role in bringing people together to commemorate a special part of the year. However, it is important to remember that traditions do not stay the same forever, but change and adapt over time. For example, many people in England now consider going out for a curry on Friday night a "tradition" and see Indian food as part of the British way of life - but this is a new part of British culture that has only come about in the last few decades.

In Britain, a traditional "turkey" is eaten at Christmas, but this tradition has only existed since Victorian times. Food can also be a powerful way to break with tradition - to eat food that is taboo for your elders, or reject the food your family cooks in favour of a takeaway for instance, to put our elbows on the table while eating or to lick our knives clean.

Rebellions against tradition continue to force our cultures to evolve and adapt, helping us to try new things and to forge new habits. Over the last century, eating habits in Britain have changed dramatically. Our diets have been influenced by all kinds of factors: by the technologies in our kitchens, by the modes of transport supplying our shops, by the media and the government and by trade and migration.

The eating habits of our parents, grandparents and great-grandparents would be completely unrecognisable to many of us today. Our experiences of shopping and cooking have been transformed as have our attitudes towards health, table manners, "foreign" foods, waste and choice. The British have long been famous for having "boring" food and conservative tastes.

For many British families up until the last few decades, household eating patterns varied little from week to week. A Sunday roast would be followed by a few days of recycled leftovers - cold meat would be crafted into shepherd's pie or rissoles. Fish was traditionally served on Friday, at the point that the leftover meat had run out. Today, many of us enjoy a greater range of foods than ever before. For many of our grandparents, the idea that by 2007, raw Japanese fish would be sold in British supermarkets and widely enjoyed by people around the country would have been laughable.

Nowadays in the UK we are used to eating food from around the world. A lunchtime snack might include sandwiches, spring rolls or pizza. Supermarkets stock food from around the globe - think of tropical fruit like mangoes or passion fruit, sold side-by-side with British apples. Many of the foods we take for granted, such as curries or kebabs, have only been widely available for the last thirty years or so.

Migrants to Britain have helped introduce new flavours and recipes and the rise of affordable air travel and people travelling further for holidays has helped create an appetite for foods from other countries. Today fast food chains are a global phenomenon - fried chicken, burgers and submarine sandwiches are available on the streets of New York, Edinburgh, Paris and Shanghai.

While food shortages are still widespread in many parts of the world, for a lot of people in the West, the idea of eating only three meals a day is a thing of the past. We graze our way through the day, nibbling on crisps or chocolate to keep us going between meals. Obesity is on the rise in many developed and developing countries, including Britain. At the same time, the number of people who are vegetarians and the health and organic food markets are growing.

Where once these eating trends were regarded as alternative, now they are mainstream. From cookery programmes on television to recipes in magazines and on websites, we're bombarded with advice on what and how to cook. But who are these programmes and publications aimed at? Do you think these are an indication that people spend more or less time cooking than in the past?

CHAPTER VI

JOKES

6.1. English Humour

Lost Cake

Mummy: Where is the cake that I put on the table?

John: I gave it to a hungry little boy, mummy.

Mummy: That was very nice of you. Who was that little boy?

John: I was.

Nick is Surprised

Hick: Look at that man, mummy. He has no hair on the head.

Mother: Hush, dear! He may hear you.

Nick: And does not he know it?

What is Older?

Boy (to an old man): Why is your beard black and your hair white?

An old man: It is because my head is twenty years older than my beard.

A Chatterbox

Ann (looking in the looking-glass): What a small mouth I have! No wonder all people say I cannot hold my tongue.

A Meal for Breakfast

Teacher: Tommy, why don't you wash your face? I can see what you had for breakfast this morning.

Tommy: What was it?

Teacher: Eggs.

Tommy: Wrong, teacher, that was yesterday.

Pleasure or Mustard

Waiter: What would you like for dinner, sir?

Bob: A hamburger.

Waiter: With pleasure.

Bob: No, with mustard.

How Bobby Helped his Mother

Bobby: Mother made a short for me and I helped her.

Granny: How did you help?

Bobby: I sat still.

Who Broke the Window?

Man: Danny, did you see, who broke my window?

Danny: No, but have you seen my soccer ball?

Who Wrote “Hamlet”?

One day an inspector came to visit a small country school. Not only the children but also the teachers were very much afraid of him.

At the lesson in a loud and terrible voice the inspector asked a little boy the question: “Who wrote “Hamlet”?” “Not I, sir”, said the boy.

The inspector was not angry, he laughed at this joke.

After the lessons the inspector spoke with the schoolmaster, to whom he told the joke. The schoolmaster smiled, scratched his head and said: “I know that little rascal, may be he wrote it after all”.

The Best Time for Apples

One day in a country school the schoolmaster said to the boys:

“In a year there are four seasons: spring, summer, autumn, and winter. In spring there are many flowers, in summer it is very hot, in autumn there are all kinds of fruits, in winter it is very cold and there is much snow. Now, James, you do not listen, stand up, and tell me, please, what is the best time for apples?”

“It is when the farmer is not at home and there is no dog in the garden!”

Bobby is Busy with his Brother

Mother: Bobby, what are you doing?

Bobby: Nothing, Mummy.

Mother: And is your little brother with you?

Bobby: Yes, Mummy.

Mother: What is he doing?

Bobby: He is helping me.

Why does Bobby’s Brother Cry?

Woman: How old is your brother?

Bobby: He is two months old.

Woman: How does he behave?

Bobby: He cries all night.

Woman: Why is that, do you think?

Bobby: Perhaps he thinks he has missed something on TV.

Bobby Plays the Zoo

Bobby: Granny, please come and play with me.

Granny: And what am I doing to do?

Bobby: I'll be a bear in the Zoo, and you'll be an old lady who gives sweets to the bears.

At the Table

Mother: Bobby, darling, please do not scratch your nose with your spoon when you are eating.

Bobby: Well, Mummy, I won't. May I do that with my fork then?

Bobby's Father is a Teacher

Bobby: What's your father, Bobby?

Friend: My father's a school-teacher.

Bobby: That's a good profession. Does he like it?

Friend: He has only one thing to complain about.

Bobby: What's that?

Friend: The children.

Bobby Comes Home after his First Day at School

Bobby: I can write! I can write!

Father: What did you write?

Bobby: How can I know? I can't read.

Different Age

A young boy refused to do his homework, and his father was trying to convince him to do it. He said to his son: "When Abe Lincoln was your age, he was studying books by the light of the fireplace."

The son replied: "When Lincoln was your age, he was President!"

Wrong Number

A teenage girl had been talking on the phone for about half an hour, and then she hung up. "Wow!", said her father, "That was short. You usually talk for two hours. What happened?" "Wrong number", replied the girl.

A Working Day of Principal

Early one morning, a mother went in to wake up his son.

Mother: Wake up, son. It's time to go to school!

Son: But why, Mom? I don't want to go.

Mother: Give me two reasons why you don't want to go.

Son: Well, the kids hate me for one, and the teachers hate me, too!

Mother: Oh, that's no reason not to go to school. Come on now and get ready.

Son: Give me two reasons why I should go to school.

Mother: Well, for one, you're 52 years old. And for another, you're the Principal!

Odd Medicine

Doctor: Have you been taking the medicine I gave you for your memory loss?

Old Man: No, I forgot.

Doctor: If you don't take the medicine, you won't fix your problem.

Old Man: What problem?

Physics Law

At a physics lesson the teacher asks the children about the effects of heat and cold on the body.

"Heat makes things bigger and cold makes things smaller", answers a bright boy.

"Quite right", says the teacher, "can you give an example?"

"In summer when it is hot the days are longer, but in winter when it is cold, the days are shorter", answers the boy.

The Shorter the Better

A famous English doctor hated to hear his patients speak about their illnesses. He always asked them to be brief and to the point. Once a woman who had burnt her hand came to him and said "A burn".

"A compress", was the doctor's reply. The next day the woman came again and said "Better". "The same", replied the doctor. A week later, the woman came and asked "Your fee?" – "None", said the doctor. "I'd like all my patients to be as sensible as you are, madam"

Bad & Worse News

Doctor: I have some bad news and some even worse news.

Patient: What's the bad news?

Doctor: You have 24 hours to live.

Patient: What could be worse than that?

Doctor: I was supposed to tell you yesterday.

Importance of the Foreign Language Learning

A family of mice were surprised by a big cat. Father Mouse jumped and and said, "Bow-wow!" The cat ran away. "What was that, Father?" asked Baby Mouse. "Well, son, that's why it's important to learn a second language."

6.2. Time for Fun

Next Higher Number

(a funny trick)

You can try this funny trick on your friend.

Tell your friend a number and ask him to give you at once the correct next higher number. Then tell him that he may not always be able to do it.

Begin with an easy number, like 49, to which he will answer "Fifty". Then say "99". He will say "A hundred". Then give him "Nine thousand and ninety-nine (9 099)". It is almost certain that he will answer "Ten thousand".

In a moment he will understand that the correct answer is "Nine thousand one hundred (9 100)", of course.

Number 9

(a funny trick)

You are an artist.

You are asked to write the numbers from 1 to 100 on the doors of a hotel. How many times you will write the number 9?

Answer: 20 times (9, 19, 29, 39, 49, 59, 69, 79, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99)

Move the Coin

(a puzzle)

Put two ten-kopeck coins and one-kopeck coin on the table (one-kopeck coin must be between the ten-kopeck coins).

Tell your friend that he will not be able to put one of the ten-kopeck coins in the middle instead of the one-kopeck coin. Then tell your friend that:

a) he may move the left ten-kopeck coin, but he must not touch it;

- b) that he may move and touch the right ten-kopeck coin;
- c) that he may touch the one-kopeck coin, but he must not move it;

When your friend tells you that he is not able to solve this problem, do the following.

Put your left middle finger on the one-kopeck coin. Then put your right forefinger and middle finger on the right ten-kopeck coin and move it to the right. Then move this coin quickly to the left against the one-kopeck coin. This will make the left ten-kopeck coin move to the left, and there will be place in which you can put the right ten-kopeck coin.
